QUINQUENNIAL REPORT
EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Diocese of Wilmington was established in 1868. It consists of the State of Delaware (3 counties, 1932 sq. miles) and 9 counties of the State of Maryland (5307 sq. miles). It is located in the Delmarva Peninsula. Adjacent (Arch) Dioceses are Philadelphia, Camden, Richmond, Baltimore, Harrisburg. The diocese is divided into 7 deaneries. There are 57 parishes of which 3 are national (2 Polish, 1 Italian) and 1 personal (University of Delaware students and faculty). There are 19 missions, 2 Interparochial elementary schools, 25 parochial schools, 4 private, 2 diocesan high schools, 3 parochial high schools, 3 private high schools. Total enrollment is 15,495. There are 10,200 students in grade and high school religious education programs. Total registered Catholic population from parishes is 220,000, but there are certainly more Catholics who are simply unaffiliated with the Church. Total population is 1,215,685.

Most Rev. Michael A. Saltarelli became the diocesan bishop in January of 1996. There are two Vicars General - one for Pastoral Services and one for Administrative Concerns who also serves as a Moderator of the Curia. Thirty-four offices of the diocese are divided into six departments, i.e., Pastoral Concerns, Finance, Christian Formation, Communications, Development, and Catholic Charities. There are also councils, commissions and committees for other matters of concern to the diocese of which the College of Consultors (9 members), Priests' Council (17 members), Pastoral Council (18 members) and Finance Council (9 members) are, of course, the more important.

The diocese is a mixture of urban and rural populations. The majority are European Americans with minority populations of African-Americans and Hispanics. There are some Asians. The Spanish speaking come largely from Puerto Rico, Mexico, Guatemala and the islands of the Caribbean. Thirty-four parishes are in New Castle County with the remaining 23 in the southern two counties of Delaware and the nine counties of Maryland.

Bishop Saltarelli has personally been visible in all areas of the diocese and is concerned that diocesan services be provided to all areas even though outside of New Castle County the number of Catholics is much smaller. The challenge of spiritual care of a growing Hispanic population, evangelization of the African-American peoples in urban and rural areas is a major priority as is the concern for the faith of Catholic students on six major secular college campuses. There are no institutions of higher learning operated by the Church or religious communities.

To serve the parishes and apostolates there are 88 active diocesan priests, 86 religious priests, 8 extern priests, 76 permanent deacons, 29 brothers, 259 sisters, 1075 lay teachers in schools, colleges and religious education programs. All parishes have functioning parish councils and finance councils. The laity are quite supportive of their parishes and the diocese. Only two parishes need regular assistance from the diocese for the maintenance of the ordinary operations. National organizations like the Knights of Columbus, St. Vincent de Paul Society, Legion of Mary, Fatima Apostolate are represented by local groups.

The diocese has a shortage of priests. The number of active diocesan priests has decreased from 128 to 105 despite the rise in the Catholic population. Nineteen are retired, sick or absent. Only nine have been ordained in the quinquennium. There are 16 seminarians for the diocese. There are 76 permanent deacons at present. The recruitment of African-American and Hispanic candidates is difficult but they are critically needed.

Financially, the diocese is completing a capital campaign which has raised monies for the construction of two elementary schools and an addition to St. Thomas More Academy, one of the two diocesan high schools. The diocese and several of its large ministries i.e., Catholic Charities, Catholic Cemeteries, The Dialog, Diocese of Wilmington, Inc., along with all parishes are separately incorporated in accordance with the State law of both Delaware and Maryland.

Parishioners are faced with a higher unemployment rate with many employers downsizing. There are those looking for work who cannot find it. Those who need and deserve full time jobs are limited to part time or temporary employment and even among full time workers a substantial number fall below subsistence wages and are unable to provide for the families basic necessities. Through Catholic Charities, Ministry of Caring, Parish Outreach Centers and ecumenical relationships the diocese serves the poor in homeless shelters, in food pantries, with clothing drives and in literary centers as well as action on the legislative sphere to resolve the real causes of poverty.

The faith of the people is challenged by secularism more than by other Christian denominations and religions. However, fundamentalists do make inroads among poorer Catholics especially the Hispanics and African Americans. Spiritual values are constantly under attack. Catholic divorce statistics are little different from the national average. To assist Catholics in practicing their faith there is a priority placed on good liturgy. The diocese has produced updated religious education curriculums in accordance with the Catechism of the Catholic Church for both schools and religious education programs for those not in Catholic Schools. Confirmation is celebrated for the 8th, 9th and 10th grade students but too many students with their parental approval consider it graduation from religious education. There are preparation programs for First Penance, First Eucharist, Confirmation, Marriage. The pre-marriage program requires a one year preparation period. The diocese has a Pro Life Office, Family Life Bureau, and Public Affairs Advisory Committee (for Delaware) and a membership in the Maryland Catholic Conference to bring Catholic values before our Catholic people, the legislatures of Delaware and Maryland and the general public.

As in all dioceses, the Diocese of Wilmington has Catholics in every part of the ecclesial spectrum. There is a small group that supports Latin Masses to which diocesan approval in 2 parishes of the diocese has been given and a smaller group of parents who choose to support a private school separate from diocesan authorization and to school their children at home. By and large Catholics are supportive of the bishop and his programs which are in accord with the Magisterium and the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops. The great challenge is to satisfy the thirst for greater spirituality on the part of many, re-activate inactive Catholics, and reach out with programs of evangelization to the unchurched while respecting the beliefs of the other Christian groups and believers in other religions, i.e., the Jews and the Muslims.

PASTORAL AND ADMINISTRATIVE ORGANIZATION OF THE DIOCESE

I. PASTORAL AND ADMINISTRATIVE ORGANIZATION OF THE DIOCESE*A. Diocesan Ordinary

The Bishop of Wilmington is Most Reverend Michael A. Saltarelli, D.D. He is a native-born American. He was ordained May 28, 1960. He was appointed Titular Bishop of Mesarfelta and Auxiliary Bishop of Newark, New Jersey on June 12, 1990. He was consecrated July 30, 1990. Bishop Saltarelli was appointed Bishop of Wilmington November 21, 1995 and installed January 23, 1996. On January 17, 1998 he reached the age of 65 years. His rank in the hierarchy is 260 as of July 7, 2003. His mother tongue is English. He can speak Italian and Spanish.

B. There are no other bishops working or residing in the diocese.

C. Vicars General and Episcopal Vicars

Since February 27, 1996, there are two Vicars General. Under the previous Ordinary, Bishop Mulvee, there was only one, Rev. Msgr. Paul J. Taggart. Bishop Saltarelli for pastoral reasons (Canon 475) saw the need for two Vicars General. As the highest ranking official in the Diocese after the Bishop, the Vicar General has full jurisdiction in all matters which the Bishop has not reserved to himself or which have not been reserved to him or to others by the common law of the Church.

- Reverend Monsignor John Thomas Cini was born August 6, 1942. He was ordained May 4, 1968 and was named Vicar General for Administration on February 27, 1996 while retaining his position as Moderator of the Curia. Msgr. Cini was elevated to the ecclesial rank of monsignor in 1992. Msgr. Cini has served as Episcopal Vicar for Administration since 1977, and Treasurer since 1983.

- Reverend Monsignor Joseph F. Rebman, STL, JCL was born December 6, 1935. He was ordained December 18, 1960 and has been head of the Pastoral Services Department of the Diocese since 1974. Msgr. Rebman was elevated to the ecclesial rank of monsignor in 1975. He served as Chancellor from 1974 to 2000. He was appointed Vicar General for Pastoral Services on February 27, 1996. He retains his post as Diocesan Director of Cemeteries.

- Reverend Monsignor John O. Barres, S.T.D., J.C.L., was born September 20, 1960. He was ordained October 21, 1989 and was named Vice Chancellor in July 1999. In July 2000, he was appointed Chancellor and named a Chaplain to His Holiness.

• Reverend Monsignor Clement P. Lemon was born October 26, 1937. He was ordained May 16, 1964. He was appointed Vicar for Priests in 1987 and continues to serve in that role. Msgr. Lemon was elevated to the ecclesial rank of monsignor in 1992. Msgr. Lemon's area of responsibility is to be a delegate of the Bishop to the clergy of the Diocese by keeping the lines of communication between the Bishop and the priests.

D. Diocesan Synod
No Diocesan Synod

Were there any other diocesan assemblies?

In September of 2000, our diocesan Jubilee celebration called Sonrise 2000 attracted a crowd of 5,000 for a weekend of communal faith and celebration.

The members of the Tribunal who perform particular functions in ecclesiastical trials are listed above. It is a Tribunal of First Instance located in the Province of the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

The Dialog (Official Diocesan Weekly Newspaper) - Bishop Michael A. Saltarelli, Publisher, Mr. Jim Grant, Editor/General Manager. (Mailing address: PO Box 2208, Wilmington, DE 19899), 1925 Delaware Avenue, Wilmington, DE 19806. Telephone: 302-573-3109.

The Dialog is the official weekly newspaper of the Diocese of Wilmington published for distribution on Thursdays. It covers international, national and local Catholic news including announcements and coverage of events of parish interest. Circulation is 54,000.

Human Resources Office: - Sr. Suzanne Donovan, SC, Director. (Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899), 1626 N. Union Street, Wilmington, DE 19806. Telephone: 302-573-3126.

This office was established in August 1999 (and separated from the Episcopal Vicar for Administration Office) with responsibility for staffing, compensation and benefits, training and development and general employee relations. The office assists Department and Office Heads by strengthening both the internal and external processes needed to recruit well qualified personnel.

Legal Services - James P. Collins, Sr., Esquire, Diocesan Attorney. (Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899), 1626 N. Union Street, Wilmington, DE 19806. Telephone: 302-573-3138.

The norm is for all dioceses and archdioceses in the United States to retain private firms of attorneys and/or to employ attorneys on the diocesan staff. The Legal Services Office helps to advance the new expansion envisioned by the Diocese as well as providing representation to the Diocese in routine matters and other legal issues.

Management Information System Office (MIS) - Mrs. Nancy Moore, Director. (Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899), 1925 Delaware Avenue, Wilmington, DE 19806. Telephone: 302-573-3122.

The Management Information System Office provides maintenance of communication and data information systems for the diocesan offices.

Pastoral Services Department - Rev. Msgr. Joseph F. Rebman, V.G., S.T.L., J.C.L., Secretary

This department is responsible for guiding the religious and pastoral activities of the diocese. These include concern for religious vocations, ethnic ministries, ministering to the sick and dying, the missionary apostolate of the Church and pastoral services in health care and penal facilities.

Chancery Office - Rev. Msgr. John O. Barres, STD, JCL, Chancellor. (Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899, 1925 Delaware Avenue, Wilmington, DE 19806). Telephone 302-573-3100.

The Diocesan Curia is composed of those institutes and persons who assist the Bishop in governing the entire Diocese, especially in directing pastoral action and providing for the administration of the Diocese. The Chancery Office is an integral part of the Bishop's Curia and assists the Bishop with the administration of the Diocese. The Chancery serves as a resource to parishes, clergy and laity seeking information on matters of Canon Law, Diocesan guidelines and certain items of civil law. The Chancery also helps to coordinate various diocesan activities, reporting and projects.

The Chancellor receives delegated power from the Bishop involving a wide range of matters and responsibilities and assists the Bishop, along with other members of the Bishop's Staff, in the ecclesial governance of the Diocese. The Chancellor interprets Canon Law as it affects the canonical and pastoral life of the Diocese of Wilmington.

Archives - Mr. Donn Devine, Archivist and Notary. (Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899), 8 Old Church Road, Greenville, DE 19807. Telephone 302-655-0597. Tuesdays from 10:00 AM to 4:00 PM.

This office, under the Vicar General for Pastoral Services, contains non-current records and historical material on the diocese, its parishes and institutions. They are kept in a climate controlled area in accordance with archival standards.

Due Process Commission - Contact Very Rev. George J. Brubaker. Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899. Telephone: 302-573-3107.

2. College of Consultors

The Consultors act as official advisors of the Bishop in certain matters pertaining to the administration of the diocese and as a governing board of the diocese when the See is vacant.

The Consultors are presently ten in number according to Diocesan Statutes. However, the canonically required number are present. The Consultors meet quarterly the same day as the Priests' Council and frequently with the Council on matters of mutual concern.

College of Consultors: Rev. Msgr. John Thomas Cini, V.G., Rev. Msgr. Joseph F. Rebman, V.G.; Rev. Msgr. Paul J. Taggart; Rev. Msgr. Clement P. Lemon, Rev. Msgr. John O. Barres, Rev. John P. Hopkins, Rev. John J. Kavanaugh, Rev. Philip P. Sheekey, Rev. Joseph J. Piekarski, Rev. Barry Langley, OFM.

3. Council of Priests - Rev. John P. Hopkins, Executive Officer. Rev. Msgr. John O. Barres, Secretary. Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899.

The Priests' Council assists the Bishop in the governance of the diocese. It represents the priests of the diocese in helping the Bishop promote the pastoral welfare of the people of God.

It was established in 1983 in accordance with the New Code of Canon Law. It replaced the Senate of Priests which had existed for 15 years. Bishop Saltarelli attends every meeting as chairman.

The Priests' Council currently consists of 7 members elected by the priests. Each deanery elects one representative. There are also five ex-officio members, i.e.

Vicars General, Vicar for Priests, Chairman of Priests' Continuing Formation Committee, and anyone with Episcopal ordination in the diocese. Four members are also appointed by the Bishop. Elections are held every second and third year. Terms of elected and appointed members are staggered to provide for continuity of the group. During the quinquennium the Council met quarterly. The Executive Committee consisting of the Executive Officer, Secretary and Chairman of Standing Committees also meet quarterly with the Bishop to hear matters he wishes to consult the Council on and act on their resolutions or requests. Statutes were approved in the Spring of 1997. As needed, ad hoc committees are established to attend to research problems and suggest solutions for discussion by the full Council which will make recommendations to the Bishop.

4. Pastoral Council - Mr. Lawrence Bucci, Executive Officer; Billy Larson, Co-Executive Officer; Ms. Monica Parisi, Recording Secretary, Rev. Msgr. John O. Barres, Coordinator. Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, De 19899.

The function of this predominantly lay advisory council to the Bishop is to study all aspects of the life of the people served by the diocese, evaluate the effectiveness of the pastoral ministry and suggest possible or desirable alternatives to the Bishop. It was established in accordance with the New Code of Canon Law in 1983 replacing a previously existing Pastoral Commission.

The Pastoral Council is a body of lay persons, priests and religious appointed by the Bishop for three-year staggered terms. There is 1 pastor, 1 associate pastor, 1 permanent deacon, 1 male religious, 1 female religious, 4 laymen and 4 laywomen, 2 from the Youth Board, 1 delegate of the Ordinary. The Pastoral Council meets as a whole quarterly under the chairmanship of the Bishop.

Finance Council - Mr. Joseph P. Corsini, Secretary. PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899. Phone 302-573-3105.

Composed of laypersons skilled in financial matters and familiar with civil law and priests. The Council assists and advises the Bishop in the administration of the financial affairs of the Diocese and our plans for expansion.

Parish Priest Consultors - Vy. Rev. Stanley J. Russell, VF, Rev. Charles L. Brown, Rev. Charles C. Dillingham, Rev. Thomas E. Hanley, Rev. John J. Kavanaugh, Rev. Christopher LaBarge.

This group of clergy provides consultation to the Bishop in certain matters regarding pastors as specified in the Code of Canon Law. (C. 1742)

Priests' Continuing Formation Committee - Rev. John P. Hopkins, Chairman. Mailing address: 230 Executive Drive., Suite 8, Newark, DE 19702. Phone 302-369-8100.

To assist the Bishop in his responsibilities to provide the means and institutions needed for the continuing formation and education of priests.

Clergy Personnel Committee - Rev. John J. Mink, Director. Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899. Phone 302-328-1790.

The Personnel Committee is an Advisory Committee to the Bishop whose delegated function is to advise him on the assignments of priests to parishes and other ministries. The Diocese currently uses an "Open Listing" system where priests are invited to apply to be pastors or associate pastors to parishes where a particular pastor or associate is finishing his term. The Bishop reserves the right for pastoral reasons to make direct appointments.

Council of Religious - Sr. Celeste Crine, OSF, Chairperson. Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899. Phone 302-573-3124.

The purpose of the Council is to promote the spiritual development of religious. It serves as a means of communication for the Sisters of the diocese and acts as an advisory body to the Bishop in matters pertaining to religious.

Building Committee - Mr. Paul S. Adams, Jr., Chairman. Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899. Rev. Msgr. J. Thomas Cini, V.G., Episcopal Liaison. Phone 302-573-3118.

The purpose of this committee is to study, advise and approve all plans for any construction projects in the diocese. All members are experts in their fields.

Diocesan School Board - Brother James Malone, CFX, Secretary. Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899. Phone 302-573-3133.

This advisory body to the Bishop assists him in recommending policies for the total educational mission of the Church including all formal religious educational and academic programs for parishes and schools in the Diocese.

Diocesan Board of Religious Education - Mr. Edmund F. Gordon, Secretary. Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899. Phone: 302-573-3130.

Diocesan Liturgical Commission - Rev. Michael J. Carrier, Chairman. Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899. Phone: 302-573-3137.

This commission advises the Bishop after research concerning publications and educational programs for renewing and enriching Christian liturgical life.

Public Affairs Advisory Committee - Rev. Msgr. J. Thomas Cini, V.G., Chairman, Christopher DiPietro, Lobbyist. Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899. Phone: 302-573-3118

A group of lay persons who assist the Bishop in an advisory capacity in dealing with the Delaware Legislature and Delaware Governor's Office in areas concerning the Church's interests. (The Bishop, as a member of the Maryland Catholic Conference, is assisted in a similar way for the Maryland counties.)

Real Estate Committee - Rev. Msgr. J. Thomas Cini, VG, Chairman. Mailing address: PO Box 2030, Wilmington, DE 19899. Phone: 302-573-3118.

The purpose of this committee is to advise the Bishop regarding the purchase and sale of land by the diocese or its various parishes.

Respect Life Committee - Mr. Thomas R. Jewett, Chairman. Mailing address: PO Box 2610, Wilmington, DE 19805. Phone: 302-655-9624.

The committee is responsible for all pro-life activity in the diocese.

5. Diocesan Tribunal - The Diocesan Tribunal's constitution was listed previously with a brief description of its competence. Staffing can be summarized as follows: 4 Judges (2 priests, 1 religious, 1 lay); 2 defenders of the bond (1 religious, 1 lay); 43 advocates (2 priests, 20 permanent deacons; 3 religious, 18 lay). No canonical processes for the examination of heroic virtue were begun.

Implemented a new computer program for tracking cases through the course of the canonical process; trained 26 volunteers from parishes to act as advocates for those who are preparing to present a marriage case for annulment; conducted formation sessions in parishes on marriage and annulment.

F. The Cathedral of the Diocese

There are no Cathedral Chapters or Collegiate Chapters in the Diocese. The Diocesan Consultors fulfill these canonical duties.

G. Division of the Diocese into Deaneries

The Diocese of Wilmington is divided into seven Vicariates Forane or Deaneries. The Dean is appointed by the Bishop for a three year term. The Dean sees to the implementation of diocesan policy in his area and brings pastoral concerns to the bishop for his attention. The Dean is required to have several clergy meetings a year. The Dean also visits the parishes of his deanery every two years to check on the maintenance of parish property and church records. The Deans meet quarterly as a group with the Bishop. The deaneries vary in size with the largest being the City of Wilmington with twelve parishes to the smallest being Silver Lake Deanery which has six parishes.

H. As the Bishop of the Diocese since January 23, 1997, I have found the various offices for the most part very efficiently run. The staff members, employees and members of consultation bodies are dedicated to their work. They are cooperative. Morale seems good. The Moderator of the Curia meets with the six departmental secretaries monthly and files reports of the departmental activities for my review.

Deans were of great assistance in the development of our recent Capital Campaign, "Bringing the Vision to Life". As of this date the 50 million dollar goal has reached 46 million dollars. The Campaign was initiated to help build two new elementary schools and add a needed new wing to our newest diocesan high school. The deans helped to present the case in their respective deaneries.

STATUTES FOR COLLEGE OF CONSULTORS

I. Nature of the College of Consultors

The Diocesan Consultors are a group of priests who act as official advisors of the Bishop in certain matters pertaining to the Administration of the Diocese, and as a governing board of the Diocese when the See is vacant or impeded through inability of the Bishop to communicate with his Diocese. (c. 502)<sup>1</sup>

II. Membership and Terms of Office

- A) The membership of the Consultors for the Diocese of Wilmington shall be nine (9) in number. (C. 502:1)
- B) All shall be appointed solely by the Bishop from among the members of the Priests' Council. (C. 502:1)
- C) Two of the nine members chosen must be elected members of the Priests' Council.
- D) Consultors serve as a body for a five (5) year term. (C. 502:1)
- E) The term of a Consultor does not cease with the termination of his term on the Priests' Council for any reason. (C. 502:1)
- F) If any of the Consultors retires from office for any reasons before the expiration of his term, the Bishop shall appoint from among the members of the Priests' Council another in his place to fill the unexpired term.
- G) If the five (5) year term of the College of Consultors expires during the vacancy of the Diocese, the Consultors remain in office until the new Bishop takes possession of the Diocese and he subsequently constitutes a new College of Consultors. (C. 502:1)

III. Officers

- A) The Diocesan Bishop is the President of the College of Consultors.
(C. 502:2)
- B) During the vacancy of the Diocese, the Administrator of the Diocese is the President of the College of Consultors. (C. 502:2)
- C) There shall be a secretary of the College of Consultors who shall be appointed from the members of the College by the Bishop. His function shall be to keep the minutes of the Consultors' meetings.
- D) If during vacancy of the Diocese the Secretary must be replaced, the Administrator shall appoint another member of the College.

IV. Meetings

- A) The College of Consultors meets on call of the Bishop.
- B) During the vacancy of the Diocese the College of Consultors meets on call of the Administrator.
- C) For an election of an Administrator, the norms of Canon 119:1 and Canon 164-179 are to be followed.
- D) For consent and consultation, the norms of Canon 119:2 and Canon 127 are to be followed.

V. Competence

- A) As advisors to the Bishop they are to be consulted and give consent for:
  - 1. Acts of extraordinary administration (along with consent of Finance Council). (C. 1277)
  - 2. Alienation of diocesan property (with consent of Finance Council) within limits set by the Episcopal Conference. (C. 1292)
- B) They are to be consulted along with the Finance Council for the hiring and firing of the finance officer. (C. 494)

C) As a governing board when the See is vacant, their duties are:

1. To notify Holy See of vacancy. (C. 422)
2. To elect an Administrator within eight days of vacancy. (C. 421)
3. To choose an Administrator when See is impeded through inability of the Bishop to communicate with his Diocese. (C. 413)

5. To give consent for Administrator to remove Chancellor or other Notaries. (C. 485)
6. To fulfill role of Priests' Council when the See is vacant. (C501:2)
7. To receive with the Chancellor the Apostolic Letters of appointment of a Coadjutor Bishop. (C. 404:1)

VI. Amendments to Statutes

These Guidelines shall be subject to such amendments as the Diocesan Bishop shall from time to time decide are necessary for the smooth functioning of the Collegiate Body.

10/28/83

Diocesan Consultors
Themes of Meetings

The College members are all simultaneously members of the Priests' Council. If their terms on Council are finished, they are continued on Council as a Bishop's appointee or invited to participate in Council meetings where their presence is canonically required. The Bishop will call them into session as needed.

During the Quinquennium the Consultors did meet on September 9, 2002 to consult on the splitting of St. Jude The Apostle Church from St. Edmond's Church. There was also consultation on the reconfiguration of the Deaneries.

On April 25, 2002 the Consultors met as the Bishop presented the issues for consultation: 1) The need to pursue a tax exempt bond issue to finance Christ the Teacher Catholic Interparochial Elementary School, 2) St. Thomas More Academy, and 3) Most Blessed Sacrament Interparochial Elementary School.

The Statutes of the Priests' Council

Preamble

The Bishop and the Priests of the Diocese of Wilmington share in the one Priesthood of Jesus Christ by their Baptism and, in a special way, by their call to Holy Orders. While all members of the church belong to the one Body of Christ, priests, by their ordination, are called to a unique ministry in the church. The Bishops and Priests are called to the same purpose: To proclaim the kingdom of God and to build the Body of Christ.

As a sign of unity in ministry, the Priests' Council enables the Bishop and his priests to work collaboratively in proclaiming the gospel of Jesus Christ to the faithful of the Diocese of Wilmington.

Article I: Name

The name of this body shall be "The Priests' Council of the Diocese of Wilmington".

Article II: Purpose

The purpose of this Priests' Council shall be:

1. To serve as a consultative body, representative of both diocesan and religious priests of the diocese.
2. To assist the Bishop in the governance of the diocese.
3. To provide a forum for the full and free discussion of issues of pastoral concern in the diocese.
4. To research, deliberate and advise the Bishop on those matters pertaining to the pastoral mission and well being of the entire diocese.
5. To search for and propose ways and means for effective pastoral ministry.

Article III: Membership

Section 1

The Bishop of the Diocese of Wilmington is the President of the Priests' Council and presides at all meetings.

Section 2

Other members shall be the Vicars General, the Moderator of the Curia, the Chancellor, the Vicar for the Clergy and the Chairperson of the Priests' Continuing Education Committee. These members serve in an ex-officio capacity.

Section 3

One priest shall be elected from each of the eight Deaneries of the diocese.

Section 4

The Bishop may choose as many as four appointed members. However, it is recommended that at all times at least two associate pastors should be on the Council.

Article IV: Terms of Office

Section 1

The term of office of elected and appointed members is three years. Elected members may serve a second term. Appointed members may be re-appointed by the Bishop for a second term. A member whether elected or appointed shall not serve more than two successive terms in the same category of membership.

Article V: Officers

Section 1

The officers of the Priests' Council shall be the President, the Executive Officer and the Secretary.

Section 2

The President of the Council shall be the Diocesan Bishop. He shall preside at all meetings of the Council.

Section 3

The Executive Officer coordinates the work of the Council in seeking the opinions and views of the presbyterate. The Executive Officer assists the Bishop in preparing for meetings and implementing the proposals of the Council accepted by the Bishop.

He is elected annually by the Council membership.

Section 4

The Chancellor of the Diocese of Wilmington is the Secretary of the Priests' Council ex officio with responsibility for the Minutes of the Council. The Secretary shall record the acts of the Council. It is the Secretary's responsibility to prepare and forward the minutes to the presbyterate. He also shall assist the Bishop and the Executive Officer in preparing for meetings.

Article VI: Elections

Section 1

All priests comprising the presbyterate of the Diocese of Wilmington, retired priests and those religious engaged in parish or diocesan ministries, are eligible to vote, to be nominated and elected.

Vacancies due to death, resignations or transfers shall be handled by a special election to complete the unexpired term unless the Bishop decides this is impractical in a particular case.

Ex-officio members serve on the Council as long as they hold office in virtue of which they are members of the Council.

Those members who were chosen as Consultors and whose term on the Council expires during their tenure as Consultors remain as Consultors but cease to be members of the Council unless the Bishop freely appoints them to a vacant appointed seat or, if qualified, they are elected to a Council seat.

No one may decline service on the Council unless excused by the Diocesan Bishop.

Section 2 - Election Process

The process for nominating and electing members to the Priests' Council respects the principle that each deanery be represented on the Council at all times.

To this end, nominations and elections occur within each deanery. Only members of a particular deanery are eligible to vote, be nominated, and elected.

If a vacancy on the Council occurs by reason of a transfer from one deanery to another or by resignation or death, the seat is automatically vacated.

The Secretary of the Priests' Council shall inform the deans when an election within their deanery is warranted.

Normally, elections will occur in September. Using the resources of the Chancery, the dean for his deanery will conduct the nomination and election process which shall be by mail.

- a) Two priests are nominated from the deanery.
- b) From these nominations one is elected to serve on the Priests' Council.
- c) The results of this deanery election are forwarded by the dean to the Secretary of the Priests' Council. The Secretary in turn advises the Bishop and members of the Priests' Council.
- d) The newly elected member takes his seat on the Priests' Council at the next regularly scheduled meeting.

Article VII: Meetings

Section 1 - Time

The Council shall meet at least four times a year.

A majority of the members exclusive of the Diocesan Bishop (who must also be present) is a quorum for purposes of a meeting. At any time the Bishop may make exceptions to the above.

Section 2 - Ad Hoc Committees

Encouragement is given to all members of Council to participate fully. This participation includes submission of topics for the agenda, open and frank discussion, respect for all opinions, and the attempt to adopt a consensus approach to deliberations.

The Priests' Council does not have any standing committees. If warranted the Bishop may form an "ad hoc" committee with a Council member as the convener. Such committees will serve to assist the Bishop and Council in studying, evaluating and making proposals concerning those matter assigned to it. The convener will be urged to choose committee members from among the Presbyterate. Special attention should be given to those who may have a particular interest or expertise in the said topic.

The ad hoc committee will meet and make its report and recommendations to the Bishop and Priests' Council. Normally at that time the work of the ad hoc committee will cease.

Should the term of the convener end before the work of the ad hoc committee is finished, and he is not re-elected or appointed to another term, he will stay on Council as a non-voting member until the work of the committee is finished.

Section 3 - Executive Committee

The Executive Committee consists of the Bishop, the Executive Officer, the Secretary, a representative of the Deans, and two elected members chosen by the Council. Others may be invited by the Bishop as the need arises. Its function shall be to assist in the preparation of the agenda prior to each meeting and to carry on the business of the Priests' Council between regular meetings.

All members of the presbyterate are encouraged to submit agenda items through their deanery representative or through any elected or ex-officio member or by submitting the agenda item to the Bishop.

Article VIII: Competence

The Canonical responsibilities of the Council as listed in the Code of Canon Law are the following:

- a) To give counsel to the Bishop on the diocesan assessment (c. 1263).
- b) To give counsel to the Bishop on the permanent use of a Church for other purposes besides divine worship (c.1222:2).

- c) To select those who serve on the group which deals with issues related to the removal of pastors (c.1742:1), and the transfer of pastors (c.1750).
- d) To give counsel to the Bishop on whether a pastoral council is to be established in each parish (c. 536).
- e) To give counsel to the Bishop in the erection, suppression, or notable alteration of parishes (c. 525:2).
- f) To give counsel to the Bishop in his decision on whether to convoke a diocesan synod (c. 461:1).
- g) To give counsel to the Bishop on "matters of greater moment" concerning the governance of the Diocese (c. 500:2).
- h) To give counsel to the Bishop on the allocation of the fund to be established among the parish accounts for offerings of the faithful given for parochial functions done by persons other than the pastor of the parish (c. 531).

GUIDELINES FOR THE PASTORAL COUNCIL

The Pastoral Council of the Diocese of Wilmington is established according to the norms of Canons 511 and 514 to advise the bishop in those matters which concern the pastoral works of the Diocese. Composed of clergy, religious and laity, the Pastoral Council is a consultative body. The Council's task is to study all aspects of the life of the people of God in the Diocese of Wilmington and to make recommendations to the Bishop concerning them.

Purposes

The purposes of the Diocesan Pastoral Council are:

- 1) To advise the Bishop in his responsibility for the total mission of the Church in the Diocese of Wilmington;
- 2) To recommend to the Bishop positive actions for the common good of the Church in the Diocese;
- 3) To provide a forum for dialogue and communication regarding pastoral matters in the Diocese;
- 4) To act as representatives of the people of God in the Diocese—lay persons, religious and clergy;
- 5) To be a sign of unity of the people of God.

Functions

The Diocesan Pastoral Council shall:

- 1) Listen to and gather information from parishes, deaneries, institutions, and other ecclesial groups with the Diocese and present that information to the Bishop in a systematic and formal fashion;
- 2) Identify needs and priorities of parishes, deaneries, institutions, and other groups for diocesan action;
- 3) Present to the Bishop information and recommendations on its own initiative;
- 4) Review and evaluate periodically, in the light of Diocesan policy, programs of all agencies and departments of the Diocese and to submit conclusions to the Bishop;
- 5) Propose to the Bishop goals and objectives for achieving the mission of the Diocese.

Membership

- 1) The Diocesan Pastoral Council shall be composed of fifteen (15) members:
  - 3 diocesan clergy – 1 pastor, 1 associate, 1 deacon
  - 2 members of religious communities – 1 man, 1 woman
  - 8 laypersons – 4 men, 4 women
  - 1 Delegate of the Ordinary
- 2) All members shall be appointed by the Bishop;
- 3) As prescribed by Canon Law, laypersons appointed to the Diocesan Pastoral Council must be in full communion with the Catholic Church. Only those members of Christ's faithful who are outstanding in faith, high moral standards and prudence shall be appointed to the Council;
- 4) Members of the Diocesan Pastoral Council shall be selected in such way as to truly reflect the people of God in the Diocese taking into account the different regions of the diocese, social conditions and professions.

Terms of Office

- 1) Members of the Diocesan Pastoral Council shall serve for a three year term and may be reappointed for a successive three year term. In the initial appointment of the Pastoral Council some members will be appointed for one and two year terms in order to allow for a staggering of terms.
- 2) When the See is vacant, the Council ceases to exist.

Officers

- 1) The Bishop shall convoke and preside over the Pastoral Council.
- 2) An executive office may be appointed by the Bishop from the Council to assist him in coordinating the work of the Pastoral Council.
- 3) A recording secretary shall be chosen from among the Council and shall keep the minutes and the records of the Council.

Committees

- 1) There shall be an executive committee consisting of the Bishop, the executive officer and the delegate of the Bishop. Others may be invited as the need arises. Its function shall be to assist in the preparation of agenda and to carry on the business of the Pastoral Council between regular meetings.

- 2) The Pastoral Council shall establish other committees as necessary.
- 3) Committees shall make recommendations to the full Pastoral Council.
- 4) Committee chairpersons shall be appointed by the Bishop.

Meetings

- 1) The Diocesan Pastoral Council shall hold regular meetings four times a year.
- 2) Special meetings may be called by the Bishop.

Canons are cited from the Code of Canon Law promulgated by John Paul II on January 25, 1983.

GUIDELINES FOR THE DIOCESAN FINANCE COUNCIL

The Finance Council for the Diocese of Wilmington shall be composed of clergy and laypersons skilled in financial matters and familiar with civil law, appointed by the Bishop for the purpose of assisting and advising the Bishop in the administration of the financial affairs of the Diocese. (C.492) The Council shall work closely with the Financial Officer of the Diocese in his duties regarding the daily administration and supervision of diocesan financial matters.

Competence

As prescribed by Canon Law, the following are the specific duties of the Finance Council:

- 1) Prepare the annual budget for the Diocese in accord with the directives of the Bishop. (C.493)
- 2) Approve the annual report of income and expenses at the close of the fiscal year. (C.493)
- 3) Advise the Bishop in the appointment of the Finance Officer. Should the Finance Officer be relieved of his position before completing his term of office, the Bishop shall first seek the advice of the Finance Council (and the advice of the Consultors). (C.494§1,2)
- 4) Establish the general guidelines within which the Finance Officer shall function. (C.494§3)
- 5) Receive and approve the Finance Officer's annual report of income and expenses. (C.494§4)
- 6) Choose a new Finance Officer if the Finance Officer should be elected diocesan administrator if the See is vacant. (C.423§2)
- 7) Advise the Bishop on the imposition of assessments on physical and juridic persons. (C.1263)
- 8) Advise the Bishop on proposed significant acts of administration. (C.1277) The Bishop must have the consent of the Finance Council regarding extraordinary acts of administration (and the consent of the Consultors). (C.1277).
- 9) Advise the Bishop what shall constitute extraordinary acts of administration for juridic persons subject to him in the absence of any statute of the institute of specifying same. (C.1281§2)
- 10) Review the annual financial report of the administrators of ecclesiastical goods (who have not been specifically exempted by the Bishop). (C.1287§1)

11) Give advice and consent to the Bishop on proposed alienation of goods within the minimal and maximal ranges determined by the Episcopal Conference (must also have consent of Consultors). (C. 1292§1)

12) Advise the Bishop on the safe keeping and investing of Church goods. (C.1305)

13) Advise the Bishop on any proposed reduction of burdens resulting from a will if those burdens cannot be fulfilled. (C.1310§2)

Other duties may be specified by the Diocesan Bishop from time to time as circumstances and events require.

Membership

1) The Finance Council shall consist of seven (7) persons, members of the Christian faithful. Two (2) of the members shall be priests of the Diocese of Wilmington; one of whom shall be the Episcopal Vicar for Administration. Five of the members shall be laypersons.

2) All members of the Finance Council shall be appointed by the Bishop.

3) Persons appointed to the Council must have good skills in financial matters and must also be familiar with appropriate civil law affecting matters of finance. (C.492§1)

4) Persons related to the Bishop up to the fourth degree of consanguinity or affinity are excluded from the Finance Council. (C.492§3)

Terms of Office

1) Members of the Council shall serve for five (5) years and may be reappointed for further five (5) year terms. (C.492§3)

2) In case of death, resignation or inability to act by any of the members, his or her successor shall be named by the Bishop.

3) Should the term of all or any of the members expire during the vacancy of the Diocese, the term(s) shall be extended until a new bishop takes possession of the Diocese and appoints new member(s).

Officers

1) The Bishop shall preside over the Council or he may delegate one of the members as presider. (C.493§1)

2) The Financial Officer of the Diocese shall be appointed the Executive Secretary to the Finance Council. He shall not be a member of the Council but shall be permitted to participate fully in the proceedings of the Council. The Executive Secretary shall keep the minutes of the Council's meetings and shall, at the discretion of the Council, execute its decisions and perform other such tasks as shall be determined by the Council.

Meetings

- 1) There shall be a minimum of four (4) regular meetings of the Finance Council annually. Meetings shall be held at a time and place determined in advance and for which ample notice shall be given in writing.
- 2) Special or additional meetings shall be called by the Bishop as circumstances require.
- 3) Agenda for the meetings shall be set ahead of time, prepared by the Executive Secretary and approved by the Bishop.

Committees

The Finance Council shall establish five (5) standing committees to assist in its work. Except for the Assessment Committee, these committees shall be made up of at least one member of the Finance Council and other persons, lay and/or clergy having the required knowledge and expertise, who need to be members of the Finance Council. The chairman of each of the committees shall be a member of the Finance Council. In the case of the Assessment Committee, all shall be members of the Finance Council. Committee membership should number at least five (5). The five (5) standing committees shall be named:

1. The Budget and Accounting Committee
2. The Investment Committee
3. The Assessment Committee
4. The Project Feasibility Committee
5. Audit Committee

The Budget and Accounting Committee

It shall be the duty of the Budget and Accounting Committee to assist in the development of the annual budget for the Diocese. The committee shall determine the appropriate means to obtain the necessary data from all agencies, offices and department funded by the annual budget in order to make its recommendation to the Finance Council. The committee shall at the end of each quarter provide a report to the Finance Council and the Bishop on the status of the budget, comparing budget with actual performance. It shall also be the duty of the Budget and Accounting Committee to assure that appropriate and accurate accounting methods and procedures are employed at the diocese, parishes, schools and other diocesan institutions.

The Investment Committee

It shall be the duty of the Investment Committee to make wise and prudent recommendations to the Bishop and the Finance Council on the safe keeping and the investment of diocesan property and funds.

The Investment Committee shall develop a set of objectives and procedures in line with the requirements and guidelines of Canon Law and the Episcopal Conference which shall outline investment policy and activity.

It shall be the duty of the committee to monitor the activity of all investments of the diocese and shall make periodic reports during the year to the Bishop and the Finance Council.

The Investment Committee shall draw up specific and detailed guidelines for the direction of any investment advisor/manager which may be employed. The Investment Committee shall also review and approve the investment plans and policies of all parishes, schools and other diocesan organizations prior to their implementation.

Project Feasibility Committee

It shall be the duty of the Project Feasibility Committee to study and make recommendations on the financial soundness of proposals by the diocese, parishes and other institutions in the diocese to construct new facilities, renovate, expand or engage in major repairs to existing buildings and structures.

The Project Feasibility Committee shall review any major fund raising programs proposed by parishes and other diocesan institutions prior to their implementation.

Assessment Committee

The Assessment Committee shall be composed of members of the Finance Council and shall annually recommend to the Bishop and the Finance Council the annual assessment to be imposed on each of the parishes in the diocese. The committee shall make its recommendations after having taken into consideration each parish's annual income, debt obligations and other such pertinent data.

Audit Committee

The primary goal of the committee will be to assist the Finance Council and the Finance Officer in fulfilling their fiduciary responsibilities relating to the accounting and reporting practices of the diocese. To fulfill its responsibility it will:

- Oversee and appraise the quality of the audit effort of the diocese's internal audit function and that of its independent account;
- By way of regularly scheduled meetings, maintain open lines of communication between the Finance Council, independent accountant, internal auditor, and financial management to exchange views and information as well as confirm their respective authority and responsibilities; and
- Determine the adequacy of the diocese's administrative, operating and internal accounting controls and evaluate adherence.

Canons are cited from the Code of Canon Law promulgated by Pope John Paul II on January 25, 1983.

2. The Diocese of Wilmington in the ecclesiastical Province of Baltimore was established in 1868. Diocesan patron is St. Francis de Sales. The Diocese of Wilmington consists of the State of Delaware with its three counties of New Castle, Kent and Sussex, and nine counties of the State of Maryland, i.e. Caroline, Cecil, Dorchester, Kent, Queen Anne, Somerset, Talbot, Wicomico and Worcester. Comprising 5,300 square miles it is located along the Eastern seaboard of the United States on what has come to be called the Delmarva Peninsula. The two states that comprise the diocese were among the 13 original colonies. It is one of the few dioceses that includes two sizable civil jurisdictions on a state level.

New Castle County in Delaware is heavily commercialized and industrial while the other counties of Delaware and Maryland are more agricultural and interspersed with towns and small cities. There is also a fairly large turnover in population as the degreed and management personnel (especially in large chemical firms and new banks in the Wilmington area) are transferred in and out. There is also significant growth in Sussex County, Delaware and Talbot, Queen Anne, Kent and Worcester counties in Maryland as people from urbanized areas seek homes for retirement and recreation.

The educational system is quite good in both political jurisdictions that make up the diocese. The Delaware portion would rank above the Maryland portion. Compulsory schooling goes to age 16. There are two state universities plus a number of state and private colleges and community colleges-the so called vocational-technical high schools and two year junior colleges. Adults are encouraged to continue their education in both job-related and leisure-time courses. The Maryland section has two state colleges also and several private colleges.

There are three television stations within the geographical boundaries of the Diocese of Wilmington. In addition, television signals two neighboring archdioceses are available to viewers in the Diocese of Wilmington. It is estimated that 75% of television viewers in the diocese subscribe to cable or direct-to-home satellite television service.

Approximately 60 AM, FM and Low Power radio stations are licensed to communities within the boundaries of the diocese. Diocese of Wilmington residents can also listen to several hundred additional radio stations from neighboring dioceses.

Six daily and 38 weekly and bi-weekly newspapers are published in the Diocese of Wilmington as well as approximately 10 monthly publications.

It is estimated that over 60% of Diocese of Wilmington residents have access to the Internet."

The Diocese of Wilmington is geographically located in an area covered by the public media of the large metropolitan areas of Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. The archdioceses located in these cities do sponsor Catholic programming which is available to our people depending on their closeness to these cities. Also, these archdioceses do have Catholic colleges and universities of which our people can take advantage for higher education of a religious and secular nature.

The Catholic population in 2003 is estimated to be 220,000 out of a total population of 1,215,685. In 2002 approximately 60 percent of the Catholics in the diocese reside in New Castle County, Delaware; 15 percent reside in Kent and Sussex Counties, Delaware; 25 percent resided in the nine counties of Maryland (the Eastern Shore).

In general, the population of the diocese is getting older and will continue to do so in the next decade. The school age population has continued to decline reflecting national trends, although in selected areas there is a noticeable impact of increasing students because of sale of farms and construction of new housing developments

Approximately 24 percent (291,764) of the total population are members of minority groups; 56 percent (680,783) being African American (Wilmington, the See City is half African American). The percentage of African Americans in the population ranges from a low of 3.9 percent (3,465) in Cecil County to a high of 41 percent (10,249) in Somerset County, Maryland. There has been an increase in the Hispanic population of 9.7 percent in the entire. 80,000 Hispanics (largely Puerto Rican, with some Guatemalans, Cubans and Mexicans) live in Delaware; 60 percent (48,000) in New Castle County. Each summer about 4,000 migrant workers-Spanish speaking and French speaking (Haitians) and some blacks - pass through the diocese to find temporary employment on farms in the rural areas.

In the general population of the diocese approximately one-third has had less than a full high school education; one-third has done college or graduate studies.

Of the 57 parishes in the diocese, 52 are territorial. Two (St. Hedwig and St. Stanislaus) are national parishes for people of Polish extraction; one (St. Anthony) serves the Italian population. These parishes are in Wilmington. One territorial parish, St. Paul's, has a special ministry to the Hispanics because many live within the territorial boundary while others come to the parish from further away. One parish, St. Joseph, that was originally a parish just for black Catholics now combines to serve the needs of those who choose to go there instead of to their territorial parish. A personal parish (St. Thomas More) serves the faculty and students of the University of Delaware in Newark, a city adjacent to Wilmington. No parishes are subject to the right of patronage or to popular election. A number of parishes have mission churches to serve the people in outlying districts. Two churches and one historical site are designated as shrines in the diocese. St. Francis Xavier Church (Old Bohemia) is the oldest church now existing in the diocese-it dates from 1704. Masses are held the third Sunday of April and May, September and October. The bishop traditionally celebrates the September Mass. Coffee Run is an historical site (1772) marked by church ruins and a cemetery in New Castle County. An Annual Field Mass on July 4 honors the location as the foundation stone on the church in the Wilmington area. St. Mary of the Immaculate Conception - a parish church - has been designated a place of special devotion to St. John Neumann since it was he as Bishop of Philadelphia who dedicated the church in the last century.

3. The Bishop of Wilmington meets with the Archbishops of Baltimore and Washington and selected staff members of the archdioceses and diocese as needed to deal with items of a civil and religious nature which affect the Catholic Church in Maryland. This body schedules meetings annually with the Governor of Maryland and representatives of the legislature of that state. The Maryland Catholic Conference has an Executive Director and staff to lobby with the legislature.

The Diocese of Wilmington as the only diocese in the State of Delaware monitors the Delaware legislature. Bishop Saltarelli arranged annual meetings with the Governor and legislators with his staff and theirs to discuss matters of concern. The Bishop is assisted by a legislative advisory committee of Catholics prominent for their practice of the faith and political connections.

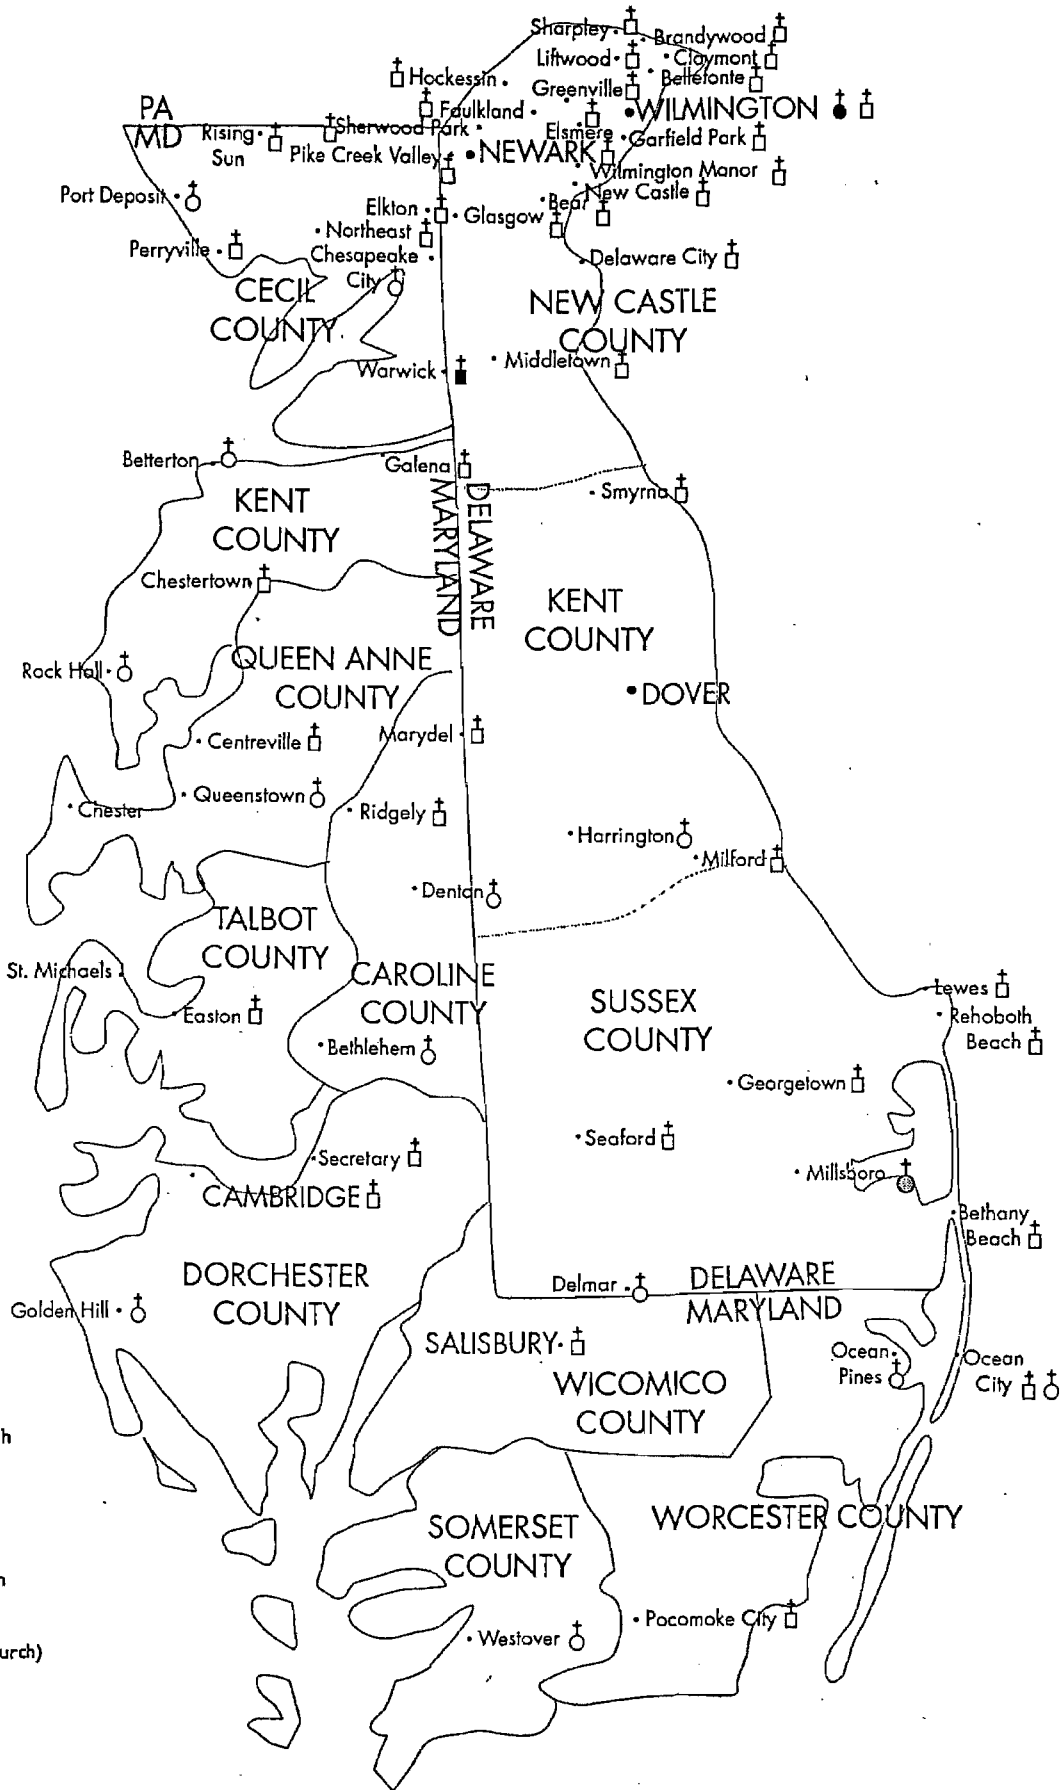

Economically, New Castle County Delaware where the majority of the Catholics live is dominated by banking, chemical and automotive industries. Family incomes in Delaware are quite high by national standards. The number of firms incorporated in Delaware include half of the Fortune 500 companies. Unemployment in Delaware is slightly less than 5% despite mergers and downsizing of some companies. Delaware is ranked as one of the best states economically in the Middle Atlantic Region. The unemployed are largely the urban unskilled and adequate programs are not available to help them break the level of poverty. Welfare reform is placing greater burden on the private sector of which the Church is a part to assist them.

The nine counties of the Eastern Shore of Maryland are less affluent as a whole, but there are pockets of people of substance in various sections. The poor and disadvantaged here are found in the rural areas.

Where there have been special needs of justice and charity, the Church has responded through the work of Catholic Charities, parish senior centers, parish outreach organizations, and well known soup kitchens run by the Capuchin Fathers and Brothers. Local Catholics have helped support these efforts through the Bishop's Annual Appeal. Of particular concern in the rural areas and to some extent in the urban areas is the presence of a growing immigrant population.

Recent legislation has curtailed government programs that assist these people with the Church and other private agencies being asked to assist their people who have no one else to turn to.

As regards education, because of the principle of separation of church and state, direct support of schools is not permitted. Arguing for what might be considered rights of citizens to access education and basic health needs, the Church has been able through legislative lobby to obtain a measure of financial assistance for school business and payment for school nurses. However, the amount is not really adequate to serve the people who require it so services in their areas must be limited. There are also some federal programs to help younger students with basic skill deficiencies to be upgraded. However, as the federal money must be distributed through the states to the schools through school district administrators, there is a bureaucratic reluctance to make the programs available in a timely way. In the State of Maryland, only one of the nine counties provides busing at public expense to schools. The Church must also be alert to the installation of wellness centers in schools. While these facilities are meant to provide needed health care to students, the Church must be vigilant to see that contraceptive devices and abortion counseling is not also provided.

THE MINISTRY OF THE DIOCESAN BISHOP

III. THE MINISTRY OF THE DIOCESAN BISHOP

1. Teaching - As shepherd and Bishop for the Diocese of Wilmington, I have a serious obligation to join with the Holy Father in proclaiming the Good News of Jesus Christ and teaching with fidelity the truths of the Catholic Church. In addition to the preaching and teaching I do in our parishes, I have issued pastoral statements to raise the consciousness of the Catholic faithful in our diocese on contemporary issues.

In May of 1997, I issued marriage preparation guidelines that stress the need for quality one-year marriage preparation that helps couples to live Christ's teaching on permanence, fidelity and openness to children in the sacrament of marriage.

On Nov. 2, 1999, I issued a pastoral entitled "On the Need for a Consistent Use of the Funeral Rites," which emphasizes that the traditional wake service, funeral Mass and graveside services are an indispensable source of spiritual strength and comfort for families mourning the death of a loved one.

On Jan. 13, 2000, I issued "How to Reach Out to Inactive Catholics," which stresses the need for active Catholics to reach out to inactive Catholics. This statement had more influence than I ever anticipated. It was the lead contribution in the Jan. 27, 2000, edition of Origins (Catholic News Service) and was used by bishops, diocesan newspapers and magazines across the country. This outreach to inactive Catholics in the Diocese of Wilmington remains one of my most pressing concerns and priorities.

On Sept. 28, 2000, I issued "The Respect Life Legacy of John Cardinal O'Connor and the Obligation of Catholics to Promote the Culture of Life." This statement recognized the inspirational pro-life leadership of Cardinal O'Connor and urged Roman Catholics to realize that without recognition and civic support of the right to human life, all other rights erode. Catholics, along with their ecumenical and inter-religious brothers and sisters, are called to promote the culture of life prayerfully and assertively in every sector of society.

In October 2000, I issued "Through Mary to Jesus: the Spiritual Value of the Rosary." This statement - which was included on my rosary CD and cassette tapes distributed throughout the Diocese - was designed to deepen Marian devotion and a love for the rosary in our diocese. It blends traditional Marian piety with contemporary social justice concerns.

On January 18, 2001, I issued "The State of the Diocese 2001" on the occasion of my fifth anniversary as Bishop of the Diocese of Wilmington. In this report to the people of the Diocese, I gave a progress report on the seven major priorities for the Diocese of Wilmington which were established with extensive consultation when I came to Wilmington in 1996-1997. Those seven priorities include:

- 1) Conduct an aggressive campaign throughout the Diocese to promote vocations to the priesthood and religious life.
- 2) Develop and implement a comprehensive pastoral plan for ministry to Hispanic people.
- 3) Assess Diocesan offices and ministries to assure efficiency and effectiveness.
- 4) Establish new parishes and schools.
- 5) Explore models of parish ministry, closely examining the role of the clergy and the laity in these models.
- 6) Evangelize the unchurched and alienated African American community.
- 7) Develop and implement a comprehensive plan for ministry on college campuses.

On August 30, 2001, I issued "Holiness in the World of Work" which appeared in both our diocesan newspaper and Origins (Catholic News Service). This pastoral letter stresses that "Work is most powerfully and most essentially an apostolate of the lay faithful." Justin M. Carisio, Jr., the Manager of Executive Communications for the DuPont Company and a theologically astute Third Order Franciscan, assisted me along with the lay people of the Diocesan Pastoral Council with this very readable and practical contribution.

On January 24, 2002, I issued "Catholic Schools: A Gift of the Church". This pastoral letter explores the history, contribution and vibrant future of Catholic education in the Diocese of Wilmington and the United States.

Finally, On September 5, 2002, I issued "The Spiritual Lessons of September 11". This pastoral letter commemorated the one year anniversary of 9/11 and reflected on the experience of 9/11 in the inspiring light of Roman Catholic theology and spirituality. Enclosed are copies of the pastoral statements.

I take the Bishop's duty to teach, to shepherd, to sanctify seriously. I continue as did my predecessors to use The Dialog, the diocesan paper, with circulation into every Catholic home to teach personally or see to it that articles in conformity with Catholic teaching are printed.

1a. The Crisis in the Church and the Diocese of Wilmington

I would first like to thank the Holy Father and the members of the Roman Curia who provided such encouragement, counsel and guidance during the difficult times of the crisis.

Generally, the Diocese of Wilmington has navigated well through the crisis. It was my intention from the outset to act prudently, to follow the 1983 Code of Canon Law (and later the Essential Norms) and to protect the rights of victims, accused priests as well as the general public ecclesial good.

We have established a very positive and trusting relationship with the Attorney General of the State of Delaware as well as the various State's Attorneys who have jurisdiction on the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

We had publicly announced that 15 priests [many of whom were deceased] from the past 50 years had been guilty of sexual abuse. We did not announce the names of the clergy.

In the summer of 2002, we formed a Diocesan Review Board which included prestigious judges, doctors, a sexual abuse specialist, a human resources specialist and a communications professional. In January of 2003, the Diocesan Review Board found that there was credible evidence that an additional three priests had committed the sexual abuse of a minor. As Bishop I have accepted the Review Board's conclusions.

Two of the priests resigned. One priest was relieved from his duties. We are at this time currently processing the necessary documentation with the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith. Msgr. Scicluna's seminar at the Pope John Paul II Center in Washington, DC August 11-12, 2003 was helpful to our Chancellor and canonical consultant. We are carefully following civil and criminal law developments such as the recent ruling of the United States Supreme Court in regard to statute of limitations.

Another priest who had been working in an office of the USCCB in Washington, DC left active ministry in the diocese after credible allegations of sexual abuse of a minor committed when he was a lay teacher in the Archdiocese of Baltimore in the 1970s surfaced. With consultation from the Promoter of Justice for the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, the Diocese of Wilmington is in the process of taking further steps in this delicate situation.

We have proactively implemented the guidelines from the Charter which include policies and procedures that provide safe environments for Church youth ministry activities as well as criminal background checks for clergy and diocesan and parish employees who work closely with youth.

In an audit conducted October 13, 2003—October 17, 2003, The Gavin Group, Inc. (representing the National Review Board) stated in its October 22, 2003 report to me: "This audit finds the Diocese of Wilmington to be in compliance with the Charter...The diocese was commended for its safe environment program." No recommendations for improvement were made. Here are some highlights of the report:

*"The diocesan policy provides protocols for receiving reports of incidents and notifying civil authorities. The diocese has published its policy on its internet site and in the diocesan newspaper, and has furnished hard copies to all priests and school officials. Procedures for reporting incidents are clearly laid out and easy to follow. The Bishop or his representative has met with all victims or families who have been willing to accept them."

*"The Bishop has met with the Delaware Attorney General (AG) and the diocesan attorney has contacted most of the Maryland State's Attorneys. A protocol was agreed to for reporting all allegations. In the meeting with the AG, the bishop disclosed all information requested on all known cases for the past 40 years. An editorial in the News Journal, dated January 29, 2003, praised the diocese for its swift and open handling of the three abuse cases. Wilmington's policy provided for a prompt and thorough investigation in accord with canon law and due process."

*"A written communications policy exists which incorporates concern for law enforcement, parishes, public, and sex abuse prevention, and outreach programs. The diocese has demonstrated a very open and transparent relationship with the media."

*"In July 2002, a committee of 14 was established to implement all aspects of the background check system including a 5 year cyclical review. As of September 2003, over 6,000 individuals have undergone background checks. They anticipate an additional 4,000 will have checks completed by the end of the year. A stringent screening and evaluation process is used for prospective seminarians prior to acceptance using an 11 point program."

*"In January 2003 a blue ribbon task force drafted priestly standards regarding celibacy and sexuality. The Bishop maintains a consistent focus on health, balanced priestly celibacy, sexuality and ministerial ethics."

Please see the enclosed October 22, 2003 communication from The Gavin Group, Inc. for more detail.

1b. Diocesan Summits and Sonrise 2000

In addition to the pastoral statements, diocesan summits on vocation awareness, lay ministry and collaborative ministry have had a lasting impact on the direction of the diocese. Our diocesan summit on vocation awareness helped us realize that everyone is responsible for cultivating vocations to the priesthood and religious life. Our diocesan summit on lay ministry helped us to explore and appreciate the gifts of the laity in the ministry and mission of the church. Our diocesan summit on collaborative ministry helped us to review and study models and approaches that could better integrate the ministry of the clergy with the many talents, skills and ministries our lay people bring to the church. Deanery-based reconciliation services brought many Catholics to the sacrament of reconciliation.

In September of 2000, our diocesan Jubilee celebration "Sonrise 2000" attracted a crowd of 5,000 for a weekend of communal faith and celebration. We celebrated a Parade of Parishes. To the singing of "The Church's One Foundation," representatives of every parish, one by one, in chronological order, brought forth a 15-pound stone bearing a nameplate engraved with the church's name and date of its founding. The foundation stone of our newest parish, St. Margaret of Scotland in Glasgow, DE, was the last stone brought up.

These symbols of history, of the spread of the faith throughout Delaware and Maryland, were laid on top of one another in front of the hall's stage to form a symbolic cornerstone of the diocese. They are not only a reminder that we stand on the shoulders and sacrifices of our fathers and mothers in the faith, but a challenge that we have to spread the faith with the same fire that they did.

1c. Catechetical Renewal in the Diocese of Wilmington

For the last few years, I have been talking with my fellow Bishops about the need for a bold new direction in our catechetical efforts in this country.

Within the current crisis of the Church are opportunities for renewal and reform. Periods of renewal in the Church always involve intense and effective catechesis (Catholic Catechism #8).

In his April 23, 2003 McGinley lecture entitled True and False Reform, Avery Cardinal Dulles writes: "Religious illiteracy has sunk to a new low. We urgently need an effective program of catechesis and religious education on all levels." Bishop Donald Wuerl speaks of such terminology as the "lost generation" and the "undercatechized" as not pejorative but descriptive terms that accurately describe the challenges we face today.

The controversies in this country over the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith's document Dominus Iesus - which was a compelling summary of Church teaching - illustrated how much Redeemer relativism, ecclesial relativism and moral relativism exist among Catholics and non-Catholics alike (see our diocesan Chancellor's enclosed explanation of the document "John Paul II's 'Ecumenical Passion': A Clear-Eyed Look at Dominus Iesus" in the January 2001 This Rock).

To refocus and reintensify our commitment to quality catechetics, the Priests' Council at its September 8, 2003 meeting and the Diocesan Pastoral Council at its September 22, 2003 meeting endorsed a process called Faith for Tomorrow: On Good Soil which gathers laity, parents, catechists, DREs and clergy to engage in focused discussions about catechesis in parishes in our Diocese. Kits have been made available to parishes with specific instructions on how to implement the process.

A synthesis of the insights generated by these discussions will be presented at a Diocesan Convocation at St. Mark's High School in March 2004. Bishop Donald Wuerl, one of the leading voices for catechetical renewal in our country, will speak.

Our Diocesan Steering Committee will be making specific recommendations about how best to improve catechesis in the Diocese of Wilmington. We intend to do a thorough audit of all religious education materials in our schools and religious education programs to ensure that the texts have been approved by the USCCB's Office for the Catechism and that the texts are in conformity with "The Protocol for Assessing the Conformity of Catechetical Materials with the Catechism of the Catholic Church."

In addition to processing the insights and suggestions of the people of our Diocese, I will ask this Steering Committee to "retrieve" our Catholic tradition by studying the insights of classic texts on catechesis such as Pope Paul VI's Evangelii Nuntiandi, Pope John Paul II's Catechesi Tradendae, the Catechism of the Catholic Church, the General Directory for Catechesis, our own National Directory for Catechesis, the proposed National Adult Catechism and other catechetical sources.

A return to the sources of liturgy and theology is what produced the documents and direction of the Second Vatican Council. This same process will provide the foundation for our own local catechetical renewal.

It is my hope that our efforts will help us especially to reach the minds and hearts of our young people so that they will reach their potential to be committed, theologically informed and articulate Catholics in every sector of our local Church and society.

2. Pastoral Visits

I have visited our 57 parishes and 19 missions consistently. The Holy Father has been my model. His efforts to be among his people in various continents and countries express his desire to be a missionary pope. My own efforts to be present in our parishes and to share the faith with our people reflects my own desire to be a missionary bishop.

What do I see when I visit our parishes and missions? I see pastors and priests on fire with the love of Jesus Christ bringing that love and care to their people. I love to sit with pastors, priests and their staffs and to listen how they strategize to spread the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

Ongoing formation of the clergy, the continuing development of lay ministry, the thirst for a deeper knowledge of our Roman Catholic faith and deeper spiritual lives, the efforts of our parish staffs and pastoral councils to be more authentically collaborative, bold new approaches to Catholic Youth Ministry, new permanent deacons taking their place on our parish staffs, efforts to nourish families spiritually as the foundation of our communities, RCIA teams that help to create an evangelizing synergy – these are just a few of the signs that show how our parishes are thoroughly contemporary while being solidly anchored in our Roman Catholic tradition.

We can never rest on our laurels. We root ourselves in the Scriptures, the teaching of the magisterium, the contemplative spiritual tradition of our church and the apostolic fire of the saints while discovering new ways to evangelize Generation X and now Generation Y by using the Internet, the satellite dish, television and radio.

Our Catholic schools are an integral part of this effort. They are about much more than an extra dash of discipline and respect. Our schools are meant to be agents of evangelization – with pastors, principals, teachers and staffs completely committed to integrating the Catholic vision of life into their teaching, their curriculum and their relationships with students and parents. What a difference a vibrant Catholic school makes to a parish community! Our new regional grade schools in Glasgow, DE, and Ocean Pines, MD, as well as the expansion of St. Thomas More Academy expand our formational and educational mission even further.

Our Catholic schools are dedicated to forming students who not only can articulate their Catholic beliefs and attitudes but who live them. For instance, St. Thomas More, the patron of statesman and politicians, is held up as a model of moral integrity expressed in public life to the students of St. Thomas More Academy. These types of customs and practices are at the heart of forming vibrant young Catholics.

I am proud of the progress our Catholic schools have made in promoting an authentic Catholic identity. But we must continue to strive. We need to find new ways of inspiring the hearts and minds of our young people in the context of the culture in which they actually live and with the truths of Christ and the Church which set them free.

3. Bishop and Clergy - The Diocese is of such size that the bishop can know all priests both secular and religious. The number of permanent deacons is 76 at present so I can interact with them with relative ease. A new class of men is currently in formation. I meet with them for religious and social affairs. I contact priests in hospitals and nursing homes by visits or phone calls to show pastoral concern. I summon priests to private meetings to discuss matters of mutual concern. I seem able to resolve conflicts amicably.

4. Rapport with Other Pastoral Organizations - The diocese has one large air base which is headquarters for the Military Air Transport Command on the East Coast. It is served regularly by a chaplain. There are also two Veteran's Hospitals (Perry Point & Elsmere) that are staffed by chaplains assigned by the Military Ordinariate. Relation with chaplains are cordial. They are invited to diocesan priests meetings and sent correspondence from the Chancery. The Diocese has two priests in the military full time and four part-time chaplains to the National Guard.

There are no personal prelatures headquartered in the diocese. Opus Dei priests from the District of Columbia do conduct retreats periodically in the diocese in rented facilities. They always advise the bishop of their presence and seek the appropriate permissions for reservation of the Blessed Sacrament in the temporary chapels established.

I have been visible to people of all ages in the diocese in both the northern and southern sections. All parishes are visited annually for confirmation. As often as possible confirmation is scheduled at weekend Masses so I see not only the candidates and their families but also the parishioners who regularly attend the Mass at which confirmation is celebrated. I am available for a social hour with candidates and parishioners afterward. Before or after the ceremony and reception I have a meal with the parish clergy. Parishes invite me to be present for groundbreaking and dedication of churches, significant anniversary celebrations of parishes and institutions, conventions of diocesan organizations, i.e., Youth Ministry, Charismatic Renewal, Knights of Columbus. I have visited parishes occasionally for parish council meetings, and meetings of RCIA.

I have visited the diocesan high schools and parishes and private high schools, addressing both students and faculty separately and together. I have visited the Newman Center of the University of Delaware for Mass and engage in conversation with students. A number of elementary schools both parochial and private have been visited.

I have visited the offices and agencies of the diocesan curia. I visit charitable agencies separate from the diocese, i.e., Little Sisters of the Poor Jeanne Jugan Home for the Elderly, Benedictine School for the Mentally Challenged, Ministry of Caring, St. Francis Hospital. Through these visits I not only learn about the diocese but exercise my role as teacher, sanctifier and administrator. I generally celebrate the Eucharist and deliver the homily on the occasion of these visits. I will not hesitate to correct any liturgical practices not in keeping with the norms of the liturgy.

5. Catholics of Other Rites - The largest group of Catholics of another rite are Ukrainian who are responsible to Archeparchy of Philadelphia. Catholics of other rites would be small in number. Because of lack of their own clergy, they practice as Roman Catholics. When they show up for sacraments, norms of Canon Law are observed.

6. Rapport with Civil Authorities - I have been well received by the civil officials. Certainly, they are not sympathetic to all requests made of them in regard to issues specific to the Church or public morality. Nevertheless, they seem open to listen. The Diocese has a paid lobbyist to facilitate getting its issues before the State (DE & MD) Legislatures.

The Bishop of Wilmington is a member of the Maryland Catholic Conference. I join the Cardinal Archbishops and Bishops of Baltimore and Washington in periodic meetings together with the Governor of Maryland. Like them, I host an annual gathering for the representatives from the Delaware State Legislature of the diocese in which issues of concern to the Catholics are presented.

As far as the Federal Government is concerned because Delaware is the second smallest State, its two Senators and one House of Representative member are approachable with regard to selected issues of concern to the Church. The Representative to the House is a non-practicing Catholic. One Senator is a Catholic who professes to practice but does not totally express the Church's pro life stand. The other Senator is a Protestant.

7. Collaboration with Bishops of Other Rites - Most Rev. Stefan Soroka, D.D., Archbishop of the Metropolitan Archdiocese of Philadelphia for Ukrainians, is the only Ordinary of another rite with jurisdiction of his faithful within the territory of the Diocese of Wilmington. There are two churches of that Rite - one in Wilmington (St. Nicholas) and one in Chesapeake City (St. Rose). They are served by one priest who lives in Wilmington. He is kept advised of diocesan matters and invited to clergy gatherings. I have been invited to one or the other church on special occasions.

8. Association with Other Ecclesial Communities - I have a good relationship with the Oblate Apostles of the Two Hearts; Neo-Catechumenal Way; Charismatic Movement; Cursillo Movement; Legion of Mary; Blue Army and the Military Ordinariate.

9. Collaboration with other Bishops Wilmington is a suffragan of the Archdiocese of Baltimore. The Bishops of the Province meet annually to discuss matters of church related concern as required by Canon Law. The Bishop of Wilmington also meets with the Cardinal Archbishops of Baltimore and Washington in the Maryland Catholic Conference to discuss matters relating to the church in the civil sphere. The dioceses in the Maryland Catholic Conference share the expense of maintaining an office in Annapolis, the State capitol of MD.

The Diocese of Wilmington is in Region IV of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

I attend the two annual meetings of the USCCB. I have served on the following Committees: Catechetical Sub-Committee of the Education Committee; Advisory Board of the National Religious Retirement Office for the USCCB in 1998; Committee on Laity of the USCCB in 1999 and re-appointed in 2002; Board of Trustees Catholic Relief Services and Chairman of the Finance Committee for Catholic Relief Service in 2000; in 2002, appointed to the Board of St. Mary's Seminary; Board of Overseers of Immaculate Conception Seminary at Seton Hall University; and Nominating Committee of the USCCB, Committee on African-American Catholics and the Communications Committee.

There are no retired bishops living in the Diocese.

10. Absence of Bishop from Diocese - Canon 395 speaks of the bishop being bound by the law of residence. During the quinquennium I have kept to the norm of this canon. I have never been absent for longer than two weeks. Most absences even for vacation have been for short periods and I have always been available to the Vicar General by the modern means of communication for pressing matters of diocesan finances or pastoral concern.

"THE NEED TO PROMOTE THE CONSISTENT USE OF CATHOLIC FUNERAL RITES"

Most Reverend Michael A. Saltarelli

October 28, 1999

The Catholic Church has a long history and experience of helping people to prepare spiritually for death and assisting families to deal with the sickness, death, burial and bereavement of a loved one.

Gathering the wisdom of the Church's long experience, I offer these words to our pastors and priests, funeral directors, grieving Catholic families, those involved in Catholic bereavement ministry and all Catholics in the Diocese of Wilmington.

There is a trend among some of our Catholic people to omit the traditional Catholic funeral rites when they experience the death of their loved ones in favor of a small prayer service at the funeral home or a private graveside service.

While our dedicated priests will minister to people in their time of need regardless of a family's decisions, I want to encourage Catholic priests, funeral directors, grieving Catholic families and those involved in Catholic bereavement ministry to promote together the use of the Catholic funeral ritual.<sup>1</sup>

Three separate and sequential rites are proposed as the most fitting way to celebrate this pilgrimage of the deceased Christian: The Vigil for the Deceased (often referred to as the Wake), the Funeral Liturgy (or Mass of Christian Burial), and the Rite of Committal. The physical movement or procession from one place to another for the celebration of these rites can add to the sense of journey or pilgrimage and contribute to the experience of separation through which mourners must pass before they are able to re-center their lives after the death of a family member or friend.<sup>2</sup>

No economic consideration, no time management concern should prevent us from working together to give our Catholic faithful the necessary spiritual and emotional support derived from a full and active participation in the Catholic funeral ritual.

I appeal to Catholic family members making decisions about funeral arrangements for their relatives. Please consider the deepest hopes and desires of your loved ones in their best days and make the right choice to celebrate our Catholic funeral liturgies. The Eucharist helps to heal the sorrow that comes from the loss of a loved one. This may very well be a special moment of grace for you and your family.

1. Christ's faithful who have died are to be given a Church funeral according to the norms of law.
2. Church funerals are to be celebrated according to the norms of the liturgical books. In these funeral rites the Church prays for the spiritual support of the dead, it honors their bodies, and at the same time it brings to the living the comfort of hope.

The Church celebrates the funeral rites:

+To offer worship, praise, and thanksgiving to God for the gift of a life which has now been returned to God (Order of Christian Funerals, #5)<sup>3</sup>

+To affirm the Church's belief in the sacredness of the human body and the resurrection of the dead (RBCCF)

+To commend the dead to God's merciful love and to plead for the forgiveness of their sins (OCF, #6)

+To bring hope and consolation to the living (OCF, #7)

+To renew our awareness of God's mercy and judgment and to meet the human need to turn always to God in times of crisis (OCF, #7)

+To support the Church's emphasis on the indispensable role of the wider community in the dying and death of a Christian (RBCCF)

+To affirm and express the union of the Church on earth with the Church in heaven in the one great communion of saints (OCF, #6)

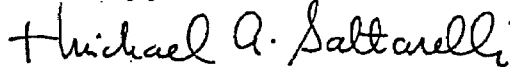

The celebration of the Catholic funeral rites promotes a healthy grieving process that can lead to deep levels of personal conversion and spiritual growth. In contrast, the avoidance of these funeral rites may short-circuit grief and healing.

Our Catholic tradition urges the Church today to face death with honest rituals that preserve its Christian and human values. Since, in rising to new life, Christ won victory over death for His followers, faith impels the Church to celebrate that victory in its funeral liturgies.<sup>4</sup>

I also commend to you the use of our Catholic cemeteries which are a visible sign of our Catholic beliefs about death, eternal life and the communion of saints.

I thank you all in advance for your cooperation and zeal in promoting the consistent use of our Catholic funeral rites.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Most Reverend Michael A. Saltarelli
Bishop of Wilmington

How to Reach Inactive Catholics

Active Catholics have an "obligation to be signs of hope and gentle invitation to our inactive brothers and sisters," Bishop Michael Saltarelli of Wilmington, Del., wrote in a Jan. 13 statement. Utilizing research conducted by the U.S. bishops' Committee on Evangelization, Saltarelli presented nine reasons why 17 million U.S. Catholics "no longer practice their faith." Then, examining each of these reasons, he suggested "ways that you and I together might address the situation." Saltarelli said, "My hope is to stimulate your concern and creativity, and to persuade you to approach your friends who are not practicing their faith." Saltarelli said, for example, that some inactive Catholics "were hurt in some way by Catholics" and simply need "a practicing Catholic to listen attentively and empathetically." Others, he said, have married outside the church, disagree with church teaching or "simply got lazy and stopped going." Saltarelli quoted Paulist Father John Hurley, director of the U.S. bishops' evangelization office, who said: "Many drop away with the hope that someone will notice, and with large congregations in many parishes, often no one does. Would you want to join a church that doesn't care when you fall away?" In a special message to parents of inactive Catholics, Saltarelli said, "Often the issue of Catholic practice may be tied up with delicate emotional issues between you and your children." Talking with adult children who are inactive, he said, "requires a great deal of emotional calm, a supernatural spirit and an intuitive sense of diplomacy and timing!" Saltarelli's statement follows.

The most numerous body of Christian believers in America today is the Roman Catholic Church, numbering some 45 million believers. Recent research shows that the second largest body, some 17 million, consists of those Catholics who no longer practice their faith. These are our sons and daughters, our spouses, our extended families, our neighbors and friends, the woman or man who works at the desk across from us — each of them a brother or sister in Christ.

During this year of jubilee, we have been invited to seek a deeper level of personal conversion in our own lives. At the same time we recall our obligation to be signs of hope and gentle invitation to our inactive brothers and sisters.

Like many of you, I and my brother bishops, the shepherds of the church in America, have wondered why Catholics become inactive. Recently the U.S. bishops' evangelization committee conducted research to find an answer to this question. I would like to share with you the results of this research. Based on this information I would also like to suggest ways you and I together might address the situation. My hope is to stimulate your own concern and creativity, and to persuade you to approach your friends who are not practicing their faith. Like St. Peter near the gate of the temple, we might learn to say, "What I do have I give you ... Jesus Christ" (Acts 3:6).

Avery Dulles writes: "The church has become too introverted. If Catholics today are sometimes weak in their faith, this is partly because of their reluctance to share it."<sup>1</sup> Each of us needs to discern with the light and fire of the Holy Spirit how we are to share our faith. Our faith inevitably grows and deepens when we do share it.

The U.S. bishops' evangelization committee diagnosed in their research reasons why Catholics become inactive. I have selected nine of the reasons; I then reflect on how the church can respond.

Why Catholics Become Inactive

Reason 1: "Some did not experience the power or presence of God in Catholicism or in the Catholic community of which they were a part."

People are hungry and thirsty for signs of intimacy with Jesus Christ. They want to see evidence that people know and love Jesus Christ personally. They want to see a Catholic faith that reaches every part of a person's being and that is manifested in one's words, actions, manner, smile and friendships.

Avery Dulles issues this challenge: "Too many Catholics of our day seem never to have encountered Christ. They know a certain amount about him from the teaching of the church, but they lack direct personal familiarity. The hearing of the Gospel, personal prayer and the reception of the sacraments should establish and deepen that saving relationship."<sup>2</sup>

Each year time itself is made holy by our celebration of the liturgical year, that rhythm of prayers, feasts and celebrations that make present to us on a continuing basis the life, death and resurrection of our Savior. Each year we are invited to enter into the spirit of these moments to experience on an ever deepening level the significance of the saving actions of Jesus Christ for us personally. Perhaps in the past year we have experienced the birth of a child, the death of a loved one or a broken relationship. These experiences change us in subtle ways and open us to a new awareness of the ways in which the experience of Jesus can give new meaning to our own. Our experiences are the soil in which our Christianity, watered by faith, grows. But Catholic faith that only goes through the motions year after year does not grow. This lack of growth is obvious. It often reveals a faith that has not been fully internalized. Our lives need to reflect the love of Jesus growing in us. Our lives need to raise "irresistible questions"<sup>3</sup> in the hearts and minds of those who are searching for the way home to Catholic truth and authenticity.

Fundamental to our faith is the reality that Jesus Christ is "the same yesterday, today and forever." He is the mystery that invites us to eucharistic faith. He is the one who awaits us in our neighbor, the sacraments and the poor. He is the redeemer who has made his church the sign of God's universal love and welcoming.

"These experiences change us in subtle ways and open us to a new awareness of the ways in which the experience of Jesus can give new meaning to our own. Our experiences are the soil in which our Christianity, watered by faith, grows. But Catholic faith that only goes through the motions year after year does not grow. This lack of growth is obvious."

Reason 2: "Some did not experience warm, personal, caring relationships in their encounters with Catholics. To them the people seemed cold, the services boring."

The primary point of contact between God and ourselves, and between ourselves and our neighbors in faith, is when we gather for the celebration of the eucharist. Yet our eucharistic celebrations follow a certain pattern. There is an order to our worship that brings familiarity but can also produce the deadening effects of routine. We know the importance of order and routine in everyday life. They are necessary to a good, productive life. And we have all experienced using the same words or phrases over and over even in our most intimate relationships. How often have we spoken or heard an I love you or a thank you in conversation with a spouse or a child. Yet, at times, we recognize that we or they are merely going through the motions, that the words are being used from habit.<sup>4</sup>

The same may become true of our participation in worship. Each of us has to take seriously our baptismal commitment to participate fully, actively and consciously in our Catholic liturgies with attentive minds and hearts. Our authentic participation in the Mass, the Liturgy of the Hours and our traditional Catholic devotions will extend to our attitude as a community that lives the faith it celebrates. Our public worship nourishes our private prayer; our private prayer leads us back to Christ, who always leads us to our brothers and sisters. We need to reach out to new parishioners, visitors and those who are taking another look at the church.

Paulist Father John Hurley recently said: "Many drop away with the hope that someone will notice, and with large congregations in many parishes, often no one does. Would you want to join a church that doesn't care when you fall away?"<sup>5</sup>

We need to ensure that our local parishes are welcoming communities for all of God's people. Our communal worship must lead to apostolic works of mercy and love, especially on behalf of the marginalized.

QUOTE FROM A PAST TEXT OF CURRENT INTEREST:

"Before we even think about reaching out to those who have not had contact with the church, we need to first ask ourselves if we are ministering effectively to the marginal Catholics who do come to our parish occasionally. Perhaps they are arranging a funeral, a wedding or a baptism. What sort of reception do they find when they come to us? Is it easy for them to find the parish office? Is there a sign indicating where the offices are? Are the grounds and buildings clean and well-taken care of?"

"What is the environment that marginal Catholics encounter when they come to us? Does our parish office look less inviting than a teller's window in a bank? Everything should be inviting and hospitable when they enter the parish office, and our attitude should be a positive attitude, not one of looking for an excuse to say no to what they want..."

"Let's look at registration. We should always encourage people to register, but do we give them the opportunity to register in the parish outside of normal working hours? It is very helpful to contact newly registered parishioners by a letter from the pastor. A brochure giving information about the parish could be included. Surely, it's a terrible thing if the first contact that the newly registered parishioners have is the monthly mailing of the parish envelopes!"

"Let us look at the sacraments. We should have a positive attitude when someone comes for sacraments. If they have had a baby, we should congratulate them. If they have just gotten engaged, we should rejoice with them. If they have come to arrange a funeral, we should first of all express our sympathy to them. Our attitude should be positive.

"The Code of Canon Law does not require registration as a prerequisite for receiving sacraments. We are doing a terrible thing to people if we require them to be registered for six months before they can baptize their baby. We should also remember that we cannot require prior attendance at Mass, use of envelopes or a certain level of donations for the sacraments either. To mention these requirements to inactive Catholics will only turn them further away from the faith.

"Certainly we must give suitable preparation for the sacraments, but the preparation should not be burdensome, and we should also be flexible so that we assist them in receiving the sacraments. Remember that we should challenge people to be fully Catholic, but we must never crush them....

"Parish regulations should be few in number, and there should be a healthy flexibility in meeting the requests of people of good will. When a marginalized Catholic sees a little self-sacrifice on the part of their priest or deacon, it creates a great deal of good will. Obviously some people can take advantage of this and treat the parish priest and leaders rudely. There is no reason that we should put up with rude and un-Christian behavior, but most people do not approach us in this way. Those parishes that have stole fees should handle the subject with the greatest tact. Nothing creates more ill will toward the church than giving the appearance that we are 'selling the sacraments.'

"Sometimes people who have fallen away from the church have their first contact when a loved one is dying. When the priest responds quickly and compassionately, not only do we become

Reason 3: "Others did experience the complex religious system that seemed to lack relatedness to their lives and, for many, a lack of ministers appreciating their language and culture."

Each week as we worship we pray together the creed crafted by the fathers of the church at Nicea. We say, "I believe in one, holy, Catholic and apostolic church." These four descriptive words — one, holy, Catholic, apostolic — are sometimes referred to as marks of the church. The word catholic comes from two Greek words meaning worldwide or universal. The Catholic Church is the one worldwide or universal family of God.

When you see the Holy Father celebrating Mass outside St. Peter's Basilica, you notice the Bernini columns on St. Peter's Square which symbolize the arms of the church reaching out to the whole world. All of us need to support the church in all its cultural and linguistic contexts, always realizing that our experience of distinct cultural expressions of the faith — when rooted and balanced — helps to expand and enrich our own faith.

Reason 4: "Some were hurt in some way by Catholics — clergy or laity — and have not been reconciled."

Sometimes an inactive Catholic simply needs a practicing Catholic to listen attentively and empathetically to the hurt in his or her past. It may be a difficult Catholic school experience. It may be a story of a priest who was insensitive to them at the funeral of their mother or father. It may be a story about disillusionment with the behavior of a Catholic layperson. Whatever the story — and we know there are many — we need to listen well. Your simple listening, your gentle apology on behalf of the church, is part of the reconciling ministry of Christ. You become an instrument of grace. Such a moment can result in the person going to the sacrament of reconciliation the following Saturday night and returning to Mass and receiving communion on Sunday for the first time in many years.

The National Conference of Catholic Bishops' 1992 statement "Go and Make Disciples: A National Plan and Strategy for Catholic Evangelization in the United States" described the refined sensitivity that is necessary: "We want to let our inactive brothers and sisters know that they always have a place in the church and that we are hurt by their absence as they are. We want to show our regret for any misunderstandings or mistreatment. And we want to help them see that, however they feel about the church, we want to talk with them, share with them and accept them as brothers and sisters. Every Catholic can be a minister of welcome, reconciliation and understanding to those who have stopped practicing their faith."<sup>6</sup>

Reason 5: "Some are in conflict with the teachings of the church on ... matters of faith and morality."

We mentioned above that the church is one, holy, Catholic and apostolic. Being apostolic means that the belief of the Catholic Church is founded upon the words and witness Jesus Christ left with his apostles. It is his teachings that we profess. We call this the deposit of faith, which makes up the moral and doctrinal teaching of the Catholic Church. We cannot "spin" these truths to satisfy polls or the contemporary American cultural myopia. But what we can do is improve the way we communicate the truth of our church's teaching. Catholic truth will always find a home in a heart that is sincerely searching for the truth.

As a church, we still need to absorb the teachings of our Holy Father's "The Splendor of Truth" and "On the Relationship Between Faith and Reason," which not only diagnose the destructive influence of moral relativism and the culture of death but show beautifully the consistent Catholic belief that faith and reason are designed to work in harmony. Each of us needs to work on understanding the faith and being able to give a reason for the faith that is within us.

Often faith is effectively shared over a cup of coffee or during a long walk with a good friend. That's the way friendship works. We discuss our experiences. We reveal our deepest convictions about life. We influence the choices and life direction of others.

Witnessing to Christ to our friends and neighbors in a way that is bold and natural is like any skill. We need to develop it.

We not only live our Catholic faith vibrantly, we also reflect on our personal faith experiences so that we can verbally share them with others. We study the marvelous logic and reasoning behind our Catholic teachings so that we can communicate the truth that will set people free.

"Often faith is effectively shared over a cup of coffee or during a long walk with a good friend. That's the way friendship works. We discuss our experiences. We reveal our deepest convictions about life."

---

Cardinal Newman put it well more than a century ago: "I want a laity ... who know their faith, who enter into it, who know just where they stand, who know what they hold and what they do not, who know their creed so well that they can give an account of it and who know enough of history to defend it. I want an intelligent, well-instructed laity."<sup>7</sup>

Reason 6: "Others never knew their faith well and were ignorant of basics. They were easily misled in their lack of understanding, exploited by those who attack Catholic beliefs and practices for their own purposes."

Often there is a lack of formation in the Catholic philosophy of life. The connections between the word of God, Catholic worship and a Catholic way of life have not been made. The joy of discovering the way each mystery of Catholic faith is grounded in Scripture, centered in Christ and proclaimed in the liturgy has never been experienced. This lack of integral faith formation leaves a vacuum.

An obvious sign of a vacuum is our culture's obsession with television programming which appeals to the cruel and violent side of human nature. Talk shows that encourage a public confession of sins and indiscretions in a crazed Roman Colosseum-type atmosphere only leave the vulnerable victims more wounded.

In contrast, the sacrament of reconciliation allows Christ's peace to enter our hearts. We verbalize our sins and come to grips with them in private with the complete assurance of confidentiality through the seal of the confessional. Whereas the talk-show confession falsely confirms that we are "all right" in our sinfulness, the sacramental reconciliation reminds us that our sinfulness is a wound — but that we are made whole in Christ Jesus. We are liberated from our sins and renew our confidence and hope in God's mercy and strength.

Another sign of a vacuum is vulnerability in faith. Often our secular education far surpasses our Catholic faith education. A typical example of this is when first-year Catholic college students in secular universities are shaken by their Philosophy 101 course. We need to remember that we have access to the richest intellectual tradition in the world with minds as brilliant and diverse as St. Augustine, St. Thomas Aquinas, St. Catherine of Siena, St. Teresa of Avila, Avery Dulles and Pope John Paul II. We cannot forget or neglect this intellectual tradition. We need to learn it. We need to teach it.

We need to support parents, the primary catechists in the family, and catechetical programs so that our Catholic children can grow in the faith from an early age. We need to prune what might not be authentic from our catechetical programs and nurture those things that promote and serve a Catholic way of life and belief. We need to continue to promote effective adult-education experiences. Adult education needs to become a primary ministry in our parishes, not an afterthought.<sup>8</sup>

We need to be attentive to the opportunity to reach out to inactive Catholics in our sacramental programs and in every sacramental moment, whether it be a wedding, a funeral,<sup>9</sup> midnight Mass on Christmas, Palm Sunday, Ash Wednesday or Easter Sunday. We want "ashes and palm" Catholics to become "eucharistic" Catholics. As in all education, we need to stress the fundamentals of our faith.

Reason 7: "Some have been kept from full communion with the church because of a marriage outside the church."

One of the doctrinal treasures of the church is the doctrine of the indissolubility of marriage. When Catholic couples reverence God and each other through fidelity to their wedding vows, they discover what authentic Christian freedom in the Holy Spirit actually is.

We do need to be sensitive to those who have had difficulties in their marriages. Very often we may know a friend who may have had no personal responsibility for the breakup of a marriage. In some cases it is possible to seek a declaration of nullity (annulment). Contact your priests, lay advocates or our marriage tribunal. In situations where Catholics have been married outside the church after the breakup of the initial marriage, we encourage them to come to Mass even if they cannot receive communion. We encourage them to pray, to seek spiritual direction and to be open to God's grace.

Reason 8: "A significant number of the inactive simply got lazy and stopped going. They may have gotten busy with their jobs and families, and through their own fault didn't find the time. In a recent survey of young-adult Catholics published in America magazine, 35 percent of the inactive simply got too busy and were lazy and didn't find the time to be involved."

We may have battled this phenomenon ourselves. Faith is never static; it is growing or fading. Time is so precious these days that we can easily begin to slide. We decide there is just too much to do on a particular weekend so we miss Mass. The culture tells us we must work harder and play harder — but nowhere does it acknowledge that, for the sake of truly human development, we must also rest better and pray better. The reasoning continues to the point where church attendance is no longer an issue. Through friendship and casual conversation we can help our friends and family members to begin to practice the faith again. Invite someone to church!

"Often your adult child's inactive faith can be a difficult subject for you to broach. Defensive reactions can be quick. You may have a tendency to lecture or to nag.... Still, never give up."

Reason 9: "Others moved to new locations and never got around to finding a church in their new city or neighborhood. The America survey noted that 19 percent of the inactive young adults fell into this category."

These people work with us. We can easily work into our conversations information and enthusiasm about local parish life. Our parish welcoming committees have a special role here. So does eucharistic adoration — holding up before the real presence the physical and spiritual needs of our friends and neighbors.

A Special Word to Parents of Inactive Catholics

I know how painful it can be for you when your children stop practicing their faith. You wonder where you went wrong, what you failed to emphasize, what you failed to explain. Instead of dwelling on what went wrong, take that an occasion for the salvation of the soul, but it makes for a beautiful impression upon the family. Even if someone is already dead, it is important that the parish respond at once. Nothing turns people away from the church more than when they call out in a moment of crisis, and the priest or parish fails to respond. While due regard must be taken to preserve the privacy and sanity of the priest, we also need to make it easy to reach their priest in times of emergency....

*"Every baptized Catholic has the right to receive a Christian funeral in the parish in which he or she resides. It is not required by canon law that they be registered. Even if someone is not residing in the parish, we should try to show ourselves anxious to meet the reasonable request of people. It is often helpful for the pastor to find the time to hear confessions during the funeral wake/ro-sary or immediately before the funeral Mass. This is often the moment of conversion for people. Obviously this is more difficult if there is only one priest in the parish. I believe that bereavement committees working with the priest can do a great deal to bring pastoral care to the oftentimes marginalized Catholics who participate."
(From "New Way of Sharing Faith With Others," by Archbishop Michael Sheehan of Santa Fe, in Origins, Vol. 28, pp. 295f in the edition dated Oct. 8, 1998.)*

energy and apply it to your prayer life.

Often your adult child's inactive faith can be a difficult subject for you to broach. Defensive reactions can be quick. You may have a tendency to lecture or to nag. Often the issue of Catholic practice may be tied up with delicate emotional issues between you and your children.

Still, never give up. Pray for your inactive children and model more vibrantly your own Catholic faith for them. There can be opportunities for you to talk empathetically with your children about the benefits of returning to the church. It requires a great deal of emotional calm, a supernatural spirit, and an intuitive sense of diplomacy and timing!

Remember St. Monica, who never gave up on St. Augustine. She prayed for Augustine for over 30 years. During this period he restlessly tried a number of intellectual philosophies and engaged in self-centered, manipulative relationships. How painful it must have been for Monica to watch her talented son walk this self-destructive path.

It was through Monica's prayer that Augustine came home. We lift up our sons and daughters to the intercession of St. Monica and St. Augustine. We never give up on them.

Pray and Take Action

Having reflected with you briefly on the need of our outreach to 17 million inactive Catholics, I encourage you to continue with your own reflection. Think of your friends, your family, those in your sphere of influence in this Diocese of Wilmington and elsewhere.

Think about how you can tactfully speak with them and invite them back to the church. I will be praying for your efforts and will look forward to hearing about your experiences and benefiting from your own insights.

THE RESPECT LIFE LEGACY OF JOHN CARDINAL O'CONNOR AND THE OBLIGATION OF CATHOLICS TO PROMOTE THE CULTURE OF LIFE IN AMERICAN SOCIETY
BISHOP MICHAEL SALTARELLI
DIOCESE OF WILMINGTON
SEPTEMBER 28, 2000

On May 10, 2000, President Clinton, Vice-President Gore, Republican presidential candidate George W. Bush, other public officials, ecumenical representatives and Catholics from around the world gathered at St. Patrick's Cathedral to pay their final respects at the funeral of a man who made such a difference in the last years of the twentieth century - John Cardinal O'Connor.

During his homily, Cardinal Bernard Law stated the obvious - that Cardinal O'Connor was "unambiguously pro-life". What happened after this simple statement, I believe, is what will one day be seen as the turning point in the struggle to promote the culture of life and defeat the culture of death in American society.

the Cathedral suddenly came to life. Small bits of applause crescendoed into a deafening standing ovation that brought everyone to their feet, including the occupants of the first rows of the Cathedral. This moment, along with the presence of the Cardinal's beloved Sisters of Life, was in a sense a reminder from the good Cardinal that he would continue to be with us in our struggle to rebuild our American society on the foundation of a respect for human life.

In 1998, the U.S. Catholic Bishops issued a statement entitled Living the Gospel of Life: A Challenge to American Catholics which is particularly relevant in a year when we elect a president, a vice-president and a host of Federal, State and local representatives.

The Bishops write: "Opposition to abortion and euthanasia does not excuse indifference to those who suffer from poverty, violence and injustice. Any politics of human life must work to resist the violence of war and the scandal of capital punishment. Any politics of human dignity must seriously address issues of racism, poverty, hunger, employment, education, housing and health care. Therefore, Catholics should eagerly involve themselves as advocates for the weak and marginalized in all these areas."

"Catholic public officials are obliged to address each of these issues as they seek to build consistent policies which promote respect for the human person at all states of life. But, being 'right' in such matters can never excuse a wrong choice regarding direct attacks on innocent human life. Indeed, the failure to protect and defend life in its most vulnerable stage renders suspect any claims to the 'rightness' of positions in other matters affecting the poorest and least powerful of the human community."

"If we understand the human person as the 'temple of the Holy Spirit' - the living house of God - then these latter issues fall logically into place as the crossbeams and walls of that house. All direct attacks on innocent human life, such as abortion and euthanasia, strike at the house's foundation. These directly and immediately violate the human person's most fundamental right - the right to life. Neglect of these issues is the equivalent of building our house on sand. Such attacks cannot help but lull the social conscience in ways ultimately destructive of other human rights."(#23)

Cardinal O'Connor was not one to allow the Catholic American conscience to be lulled to sleep and inaction by the rhetoric and ploys of the culture of death. He urged Catholic Americans not to check their consciences at the door of the political process but to bring their well-formed Catholic consciences and principles to the public square in a true spirit of democracy.

I urge all citizens, especially Catholics of the Diocese of Wilmington in the states of Delaware and Maryland, to embrace their citizenship in this millennium not merely as a duty and privilege but as an opportunity to participate in building the culture of life.

MARIAN DEVOTION:

Through Mary to Jesus: the Spiritual Value of the Rosary

Most Reverend Michael A. Saltarelli

St. Ann's Church in Wilmington, Delaware has an unusual monstrance, the vessel used to display the Holy Eucharist for public veneration. The stem is the image of the Blessed Virgin Mary, her arms raised and holding aloft the traditional sunburst and luna which holds the Host. Inscribed is the Ignatian aphorism, "per Mariam ad Jesum."

"Through Mary to Jesus." These words sum up our doctrine, devotion, and art associated with the Mother of God. The devotion to Mary is first of all rooted in the Word of God and the faithful witness of Sacred Tradition. The Fathers of the Second Vatican Council recalled Mary's prophetic words, first spoken to Elizabeth and recorded in Luke's Gospel, "all nations shall call me blessed." Our Lady's place in salvation history is also confirmed time and again in countless apparitions throughout the world. It is abundantly clear that the role assigned to her by the Father is to lead the faithful ever-closer to Jesus, the Son of God and the Son of Mary.

Authentic, vibrant, and effective Marian devotion invites us ever deeper into the mystery of Jesus and the great truths of salvation history. Beautiful hymns, both traditional and contemporary, artistic images of the Virgin mother in wood, stone, paint, and stained glass, and devotions and prayers like the Litany of Loretto, the Memorare, and the Salve Regina express our love for God's Mother and His Son. The Rosary, in particular, helps us encounter and ponder the mysteries of God's grace in Christ.

We reflect on Jesus and His so-called "hidden life" prior to His public ministry, His passion, death and resurrection, His ascension to the Father and sending of the Holy Spirit, and His heavenly ministry until His return in glory. Through His holy Mother we come to know and love Him more and more, and we grow in our understanding, however imperfect and incomplete, of the sublime truth of Who and What Jesus is, for us each one of us personally and also for our Church and world.

Of all the ways we honor Mary and give glory to Her Divine Son, the most recognized, the most common, and the most powerful is the Holy Rosary. Consider its history, its simplicity, and its power.

The use of prayer beads, of course, is something we Catholics share with Muslims and Hindus. In our tradition, the Rosary developed in the 12th century as various tender devotions to Jesus and Mary coalesced. Since educated clergy and religious prayed the 150 psalms in their daily Breviary, the custom arose of having peasant folk pray the so-called "Psalter" of 150 Lord's Prayers—the beads at that time were called "Pater nosters," in English, "Our Fathers." The idea was copied for Marian devotions, and the words of the angel Gabriel were used to recall and relive the joy of the Annunciation. The words of Elizabeth, "Blessed are you among women!" were added to the "Ave" in the early 12th century.

Psalters of Our Lord and Our Lady began to apply each psalm to some aspect of the life of Jesus or Mary. At first, only the Annunciation was used for meditation while praying with beads. Later, 5, 10, 15, or 20 joys were recalled. 14th century devotion to the sorrowful Mother led to meditation on the sorrowful mysteries of Our Lady during the second "chaplet" of 50 prayers. Later, the third series of 50 Aves were devoted to the heavenly joys of the Blessed Mother.

Rosarium is a Latin term meaning a garden of roses, used to designate 50 phrases reflecting on Mary's joys, each attached to an Ave. Thus, five decades were called a Rosary, while the entire 15 decades were called a psalter. Some people prayed the Lord's Prayer and the Ave together, reflecting on 150 mysteries. To make the devotion usable both communally and by unlettered people, the mysteries were reduced to fifteen—these are the same as the ones currently in use, except that the Assumption and Coronation used to be combined and the Last Judgement was the final mystery. By the 15th century, the Rosary had developed as we know it today, along with the second half of the "Hail, Mary." (Since the apparitions at Fatima in 1917, the prayer taught by Mary to the children, "O my Jesus," has often been added at the end of each decade.)

The Carthusians contributed greatly to the development of the Rosary, but it was the Dominicans who promoted its widespread use. Saints like Peter Canisius, Philip Neri, and Louis de Montfort became great advocates of the devotion, as did the popes, who attached various indulgences to its use. Praying the Rosary was credited with the victory over the Turks at Lepanto on Oct. 7, 1571, which inspired Pius V to insert the Feast of Our Lady of the Rosary into the universal Church Calendar. Leo XIII became the "pope of the Rosary," and Pius XI granted a plenary indulgence for praying the Rosary before the Blessed Sacrament.

Like other Marian devotions, "the beads" in recent years have enjoyed a tremendous resurgence in popularity. We pray the Rosary standing at the kitchen sink, driving a car, in the waiting area of a hospital emergency room, or meditating quietly after Mass. We receive Rosaries on our First Holy Communion day, and most of us will be buried with one entwined between our fingers. It appeals to us because of its childlike simplicity, its long tradition, and its familiarity far beyond the Church as an identifying mark of a Catholic Christian.

Some grew up with the mistaken notion that this devotion is simply a monotonous chain of repetitive prayers. Today, however, Catholics who pray the Rosary frequently seem to have recovered the original sense that the prayers form a kind of background music to meditation on the mysteries of Jesus and Mary. Many pamphlets and booklets use Scriptural passages and short reflections between the beads to direct our thought and prayer to the mystery of each decade. There are Rosary meditations which are directed to expectant moms, teenagers, vocations, the elderly, and others. The Rachel Rosary is a powerful pro-life meditation.

In this Great Millennium Jubilee Year, let us use the Rosary to reflect on the Gospel call to justice, and the plea of our Holy Father to deepen our solidarity with victims of suffering, poverty, and injustice. Following are a few ideas which might stimulate your own creative thoughts about how to relate these ancient mysteries of our faith to “the joy and hope, the grief and anguish” of the people of our time. (cf. Gaudium et Spes)

The Annunciation can remind us of countless young women and girls who suddenly and unexpectedly find themselves with child. Even Mary, who conceived Jesus immaculately, was “troubled at the angel’s words.” Are we quick to condemn the welfare mother with many children? Do we reach out to help the woman with an unplanned, unexpected, perhaps unwanted pregnancy?

Mary’s visit to her cousin, Elizabeth, reflects our special duty to the sick, the homebound, those in hospitals, and nursing homes. And those in prison are people we must never forget or despise. “Lord, when did we visit you when you were sick or in prison?” And He will say to them, “I assure you as long as you did it to one of the least of my brothers and sisters, you did it to Me.”

The Nativity of our Lord, laid in a feed box, in a cave where animals were kept, is not just the romantic image of the family creche beneath our Christmas tree. The circumstances of His birth remind us of the abject poverty which Our Lord embraced, the “human condition” which He took upon Himself, becoming “like us in all things but sin.” What a special love God has for the poor! How will He judge our compassion and concern for the needy in our time and place?

The Presentation in the Temple reveals the diligence of Joseph and Mary in “fulfilling the precepts of the law.” It was most important to them to raise their Son in the traditions of their ancestors and the rituals and customs of the Jewish faith. How Catholic parents and grandparents grieve today over children and grandchildren who no longer come to Mass and the sacraments! Like St. Monica who wept and prayed for her son, Augustine, who later became a great Doctor of the Church, let this mystery inspire in us heartfelt prayer for fallen away Catholics and children whose parents neglect their spiritual and moral nourishment.

When Jesus and Mary realized their Son was missing, they were deeply upset until they found Him in the temple, talking with the elders. This mystery can recall for us the sad plight of missing children, and the anguish of parents trying to find them. It can remind us of the tragedy of runaway children, especially those trapped into a life of prostitution or selling drugs. This mystery also echoes the painful reality of families divided by hurt and unforgiveness, marriages and other relationships that desperately need reconciliation.

The Agony in the Garden was a time of intense loneliness for Our Lord. It pointed prophetically to the pain He would later experience when, rather than just falling asleep, His disciples would abandon Him, Peter would deny Him, and Judas Iscariot would betray Him. We might use this mystery to consider the lonely and forgotten of this world and those stung by the bitter wound of betrayal.

The Scourging at the Pillar is a powerful image that embodies the words of Isaiah: "It was our sufferings that He endured... by His stripes we were healed." This mystery reminds us of those who suffer unjustly—victims of religious persecution, economic exploitation, physical and sexual abuse. It can also represent people like police and fire fighters and those in the Armed Forces who place themselves in harm's way for the well being of others.

The Crowning with Thorns, like the words nailed to the cross, was a prophetic ridicule of Jesus' identity as the King of the Jews. Perhaps this mystery should confront us with sins like gossip and ridicule. Like the tiny wound made by each individual thorn, they can, together, cause great pain in the hearts of their victims.

Jesus takes up His cross. As difficult as it may be for many of us to bear life's burdens without complaining, our Lord's silent suffering reminds us of people who humbly and courageously accept their lot in life, even when it is the result of injustice or inequality. How often people work at rather menial tasks to provide for the comfort and convenience of the rest of us! The crosses of others may seem small to us, but their weight grows as they are carried, often for years and years.

It is our sins that nailed Jesus to the cross. It is tempting to focus on the betrayal of Judas, the plotting of the Jewish leaders, the false accusations of the witnesses at His trial, and the cowardice of Pilate. In the same way, we can blame all the world's ills on someone else. This mystery confronts us with our need to accept responsibility, both for the death of Jesus caused by our sins and His continuing crucifixion in the flesh of those who are victimized by our greed, suspicion, fear, gossip, indifference, and unforgiveness.

The Resurrection of Our Lord is the event that "broke the chains of death" forever. Yet there are so many people in our world today who remain captives. Some, especially nations burdened by crushing debt, are enslaved by economic exploitation. Others are shackled by poverty, ignorance, and disease. Still others are enslaved by prejudice and injustice. All of these need the transforming grace of Christ's rising from the tomb.

When Jesus ascended to the Father, His disciples were standing around looking heavenward. The Acts of the Apostles records that an angel scolded them for standing around when there was work to be done! We believers always face a temptation to escape into religiosity and to neglect the Gospel call to witness to the world by lives of service. Some will be converted by preaching, but others will be touched by, and attracted to, God when we feed the hungry, clothe the naked, shelter the homeless, and care for the sick.

Pentecost marks the birthday of the Church, when the Holy Spirit came upon the disciples and Our Lady, gathered at prayer in the Upper Room. The Scriptures tell us that the apostles began to preach in many different languages, as the Spirit inspired them. It is easy to confuse unity with uniformity, yet the "Catholic," or "universal," Church embraces many rites, Latin and eastern, and "people of every race, language, and way of life." This mystery of the Holy Spirit's descent calls us to a deeper appreciation for the unity in diversity which is the Church. As our nation and community change daily with the influx and growth of various ethnic groups and an ever-larger Muslim population, these changes challenge us to demonstrate a profound respect to those who may be quite different from us.

The Assumption of Mary, body and soul, into heaven, points to the goodness of creation, the sacredness of human sexuality, and the destiny of our physical being in a life beyond this world. This mystery reminds us of the reverent care we owe to the human body, both in life and in death. It calls us to work for an end to pornography, physical, sexual, and emotional abuse, and all forms of sexism. It also reminds us of our duty to faithfully and fully observe our Catholic funeral rites.

When Our Lady was crowned Queen of heaven and earth, she also became queen of our hearts. Because this handmaid of the Lord was humble and obedient in accepting God's will, she became His first disciple and an instrument of His Divine Grace. We honor her not only by admiring her and singing her praises but also by imitating her great virtue. Perhaps this final mystery should remind us to cling to Mary not only in our life of prayer but also in our daily struggle to live the faith given to us by her Son.

The State of the Diocese 2001

Presented by Bishop Michael Saltarelli
on the occasion of his fifth anniversary as bishop of the Diocese of Wilmington

The Capital Stewardship Campaign "Bringing the Vision to Life" and Bishop Saltarelli's Stewardship of the Diocese of Wilmington

Dear Friends in Christ

Jan. 23, 2001 marks my fifth anniversary as bishop of the Diocese of Wilmington. As our Capital Stewardship Campaign Bringing the Vision to Life gains momentum and enthusiasm, I have asked the generous people of our Diocese of Wilmington to assess and deepen their stewardship of God's gifts. Joining with you in this spirit of stewardship, I would like to share directly with you the progress we have made these past five years in promoting the Gospel and the church's saving mission in the Diocese of Wilmington.

While reviewing with you the fruits of the Holy Spirit experienced in these five years, I look forward to the future with you as we approach the throne of Christ's grace with boldness and confidence.

Michael A. Saltarelli

Bishop Michael A. Saltarelli

BISHOP'S TEACHING OFFICE

As shepherd and bishop for the Diocese of Wilmington, I have a serious obligation to join with the Holy Father in proclaiming the Good News of Jesus Christ and teaching with fidelity the truths of the Catholic Church.

In addition to the preaching and teaching I do in our parishes, I have issued pastoral statements to raise the consciousness of the Catholic faithful in our diocese on contemporary issues.

In May of 1997, I issued marriage preparation guidelines that stress the need for quality one-year marriage preparation that helps couples to live Christ's teaching on permanence, fidelity and openness to children in the sacrament of marriage.

On Nov. 2, 1999, I issued a pastoral entitled "On the Need for a Consistent Use of the Funeral Rites," which emphasizes that the traditional wake service, funeral Mass and graveside services are an indispensable source of spiritual strength and comfort for families mourning the death of a loved one.

On Jan. 13, 2000, I issued "How to Reach Inactive Catholics," which stresses the need for active Catholics to reach out to inactive Catholics. This statement had more influence than I ever anticipated. It was the lead contribution in the Jan. 27, 2000, edition of Origins (Catholic News Service) and was used by bishops, diocesan newspapers and magazines across the country. This outreach to inactive Catholics in the Diocese of Wilmington remains one of my most pressing concerns and priorities.

On Sept. 28, 2000, I issued "The Respect Life Legacy of John Cardinal O'Connor and the Obligation of Catholics to Promote the Culture of Life." This statement recognized the inspirational pro-life leadership of Cardinal O'Connor and urged Roman Catholics to realize that without recognition and civic support of the right to human life, all other rights erode. Catholics, along with their ecumenical and interreligious brothers and sisters, are called to promote the culture of life prayerfully and assertively in every sector of society.

In October 2000, I issued "Through Jesus to Mary: the Spiritual Value of the Rosary." This statement — which was included on my rosary CD and cassette tapes distributed throughout the Diocese — was designed to deepen Marian devotion and a love for the rosary in our diocese. It blends traditional Marian piety with contemporary social justice concerns.

Future pastoral statements will address holiness in the world of work, the importance of Christian coaching in the arena of athletics and the need for a vibrant Catholic faith in our college students.

DIOCESAN SUMMITS AND SONRISE 2000

In addition to these statements, diocesan summits on vocation awareness, lay ministry and collaborative ministry have had a lasting impact on the direction of the diocese. Our diocesan summit on vocation awareness helped us realize that everyone is responsible for cultivating vocations to the priesthood and religious life. Our diocesan summit on lay ministry helped us to explore and appreciate the gifts of the laity in the ministry and mission of the church. Our diocesan summit on collaborative Ministry helped us to review and study models and approaches that could better integrate the ministry of the clergy with the many talents, skills and ministries our lay people bring to the church. Deanery-based reconciliation services brought many Catholics to the sacrament of reconciliation.

In September of 2000, our diocesan Jubilee celebration Sonrise 2000 attracted a crowd of 5,000 for a weekend of communal faith and celebration. Who can forget the opening Parade of Parishes? To the singing of "The Church's One Foundation," representatives of every parish, one by one, in chronological order, brought forth a 15-pound stone bearing a nameplate engraved with the church's name and date of its founding. The foundation stone of our newest parish, St.

Margaret of Scotland in Glasgow, DE, was the last stone brought up.

These symbols of history, of the spread of the faith throughout Delaware and Maryland, were laid on top of one another in front of the hall's stage to form a symbolic cornerstone of the diocese. They are not only a reminder that we stand on the shoulders and sacrifices of our fathers and mothers in the faith, but a challenge that we have to spread the faith with the same fire that they did.

PARISHES AND SCHOOLS

As you know, I have made every effort to visit our 56 parishes and 20 missions consistently. Sometimes you see me at confirmations, a Sunday Mass or another celebration in your parish.

The Holy Father has been my model. His efforts to be among his people in various continents and countries express his desire to be a missionary pope. My own efforts to be present in our parishes and to share the faith with you reflects my own desire to be a missionary bishop.

What do I see when I visit our parishes and missions? I see pastors and priests on fire with the love of Jesus Christ bringing that love and care to their people. I love to sit with pastors, priests and their staffs and to listen how they strategize to spread the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

Ongoing formation of the clergy, the continuing development of lay ministry, the thirst for a deeper knowledge of our Roman Catholic faith and deeper spiritual lives, the efforts of our parish staffs and pastoral councils to be more authentically collaborative, bold new approaches to Catholic Youth Ministry, new permanent deacons taking their place on our parish staffs; efforts to nourish families spiritually as the foundation of our communities, RCIA teams that help to create an evangelizing synergy — these are just a few of the signs that show how our parishes are thoroughly contemporary while being solidly anchored in our Roman Catholic tradition.

We can never rest on our laurels. We have to root ourselves in the Scriptures, the teaching of the magisterium, the contemplative spiritual tradition of our church and the apostolic fire of the saints while discovering new ways to evangelize Generation X and now Generation Y by using the Internet, the satellite dish, television and radio.

Our Catholic schools are an integral part of this effort. They are about much more than an extra dash of discipline and respect. Our schools are meant to be agents of evangelization — with pastors, principals, teachers and staffs completely committed to integrating the Catholic vision of life into their teaching, their curriculum and their relationships with students and parents. What a difference a vibrant Catholic school makes to a parish community! Our new regional grade schools in Glasgow, DE, and Ocean Pines, MD, as well as the expansion of St. Thomas More Academy will expand our formational and educational mission even further.

Our Catholic schools are dedicated to forming students who not only can articulate their Catholic beliefs and attitudes but who live them. Think of the way that St. Thomas More, the new patron of statesman and politicians, is held up as a model of moral integrity expressed in public life to the students of St. Thomas More Academy. These types of customs and practices are at the heart of forming vibrant young Catholics.

I am proud of the progress our Catholic schools have made in promoting an authentic Catholic identity. But we must continue to strive. We need to find new ways of inspiring the hearts and minds of our young people in the context of the culture in which they actually live and with the truths of Christ and the church which set them free.

THE SEVEN MAJOR PRIORITIES FOR THE DIOCESE OF WILMINGTON

The seven major priorities for the Diocese of Wilmington that I established early in my time as bishop include:

- 1) Conduct an aggressive campaign throughout the diocese to promote vocations to the priesthood and religious life.
- 2) Develop and implement a comprehensive pastoral plan for ministry to Hispanic people.
- 3) Assess diocesan offices and ministries to assure efficiency and effectiveness.
- 4) Establish new parishes and schools.
- 5) Explore models of parish ministry, closely examining the role of the clergy and the laity in these models.
- 6) Evangelize the unchurched and alienated African-American community.
- 7) Develop and implement a comprehensive plan for ministry on college campuses.

Let's examine our progress in pursuing these priorities.

1 TO CONDUCT AN AGGRESSIVE CAMPAIGN THROUGHOUT THE DIOCESE TO PROMOTE VOCATIONS TO THE PRIESTHOOD AND RELIGIOUS LIFE

We continue to be committed to cultivating priests who live heroic lives of prayer, sacrifice and virtue in their consecration and mission. Our priests help to model for all young people, and especially those considering a vocation to the priesthood and religious life, a commitment to proclaim the Word of God, to celebrate the sacraments with reverence and care, and to serve the people of God with the self-emptying love of Jesus Christ. We have made significant progress in the past few years. We currently have 16 seminarians studying for the Diocese of Wilmington; at one point recently we had only four. We are working with five additional men who may enter seminary formation in the fall of 2001. Our directors of vocations have worked to develop programs that keep vocations to the priesthood in the forefront of the minds of people throughout the diocese. The director of vocations visits sixth and 11th-graders in the Catholic schools throughout the diocese. We have used billboards with the slogans “White Collar Workers Needed” and “Inquire within,” reminding people of the need to look inside oneself prayerfully to discover the call.

Attractive posters featuring our seminarians are placed in our parishes and schools. The “Pass the Word” program invites 11th-grade boys and girls to spend the day with the bishop, the vocation director, sisters and seminarians to discuss vocations and ministry in the church. Our web page — www.priests2he.org — helps to reach our audience.

Many lay people in our diocese dedicate themselves to praying for vocations. Some who suffer difficult physical crosses offer their sufferings in union with Christ crucified for more priests and religious. Some pray before the Blessed Sacrament in our chapels of perpetual eucharistic adoration. In every vocation story there are prayerful lay people who have encouraged the seminarian or priest. Please continue to pray for and encourage young people to consider the priesthood and religious life.

2 TO DEVELOP AND IMPLEMENT A COMPREHENSIVE PASTORAL PLAN FOR MINISTRY TO HISPANIC PEOPLE

After a year-long diocesan-wide needs assessment in 1997, I appointed a three-person team to implement a four-year plan to support local parish and diocesan offices in establishing and strengthening services to the Hispanic community. Our four-year plan focuses on four areas: liturgy, community, formation and social justice.

LITURGY

The number of parishes offering weekly Spanish Masses doubled from seven to 14. Mass, formation and outreach services were established at four seasonal migrant worker sites. Over 300 were trained to serve as liturgical ministers. Bi-lingual Masses were celebrated at special occasions at nine parishes. Some parishes have begun efforts to transport the faithful to Mass and religious education.

COMMUNITY

I joined over 1,600 faithful gathered in June of 1998 at Holy Cross parish for the first diocesan Encuentro, the pentecost of the Hispanic community on a diocesan level.

Bishop Ramazzini, from the Diocese of San Marcos, Guatemala, celebrated Masses and confessions and visited 2,000 of his former Guatemalteco parishioners who are migrant laborers in the central region of the diocese. We are currently considering a sister-diocese relationship with the Diocese of San Marcos. This is a direct response to Pope John Paul II's appeal for greater solidarity between dioceses in North America and South America in his 1999 apostolic exhortation The Church in America. Each parish with a Spanish Mass celebrates popular feasts such as Our Lady of Guadalupe, Our Lady of Providence, Living Stations of the Cross with outdoor processions through the neighborhood, Mexican Independence Day, Saturday night parish fiestas, dances, picnics and trips.

Neighborhood evangelization projects include home visitation and door knocking, home rosaries, posadas, Bible studies and summer children camps. At least 10 parishes have appointed Hispanics to their pastoral council. There are two Spanish Catholic weekly radio programs. The diocesan Hispanic bulletin Pueblo de Dios en Marcha was established and is published quarterly.

FORMATION

Three diocesan priests have learned Spanish. Six Hispanic men are in formation for the permanent diaconate; seven are in the inquiry stage. Six Hispanic women are inquiring about becoming religious sisters.

An estimated 500 Hispanic Catholics took part in courses entitled “Introduction to the Sacred Scripture,” “Overview of the Old Testament,” and “Fe y Exilio” offered at local parishes and home Bible studies. Over 1,000 Spanish Bibles and over 200 cassettes of the Bible in Spanish have been sold or distributed.

Eight parishes have established Hispanic Youth and Young Adult Groups (Pastoral Juvenil). Over 100 have received leadership training and over 400 have participated in Encuentros celebrated at Immaculate Conception, Marydel; St. John the Apostle in Milford; and St. Paul's in Wilmington. Over 200 youth attended Jornada weekend retreats hosted by St. Paul's.

Eleven parishes established religious education programs for children. At least 900 Hispanic children participate in faith formation programs. Over 500 Hispanic adults received the sacraments of initiation after completing RCIA processes offered at parishes and special-case migrant worker sites.

SOCIAL ACTION

Most parishes with Spanish

Masses have begun to establish outreach programs. Some parishes are beginning to form associations and community organizing groups aimed at empowering Hispanics to organize, unify their voices and seek just working environments, adequate housing and immigration reform. Immigration services have been strengthened. A religious sister has begun to offer counseling in Spanish in Wilmington.

3 TO ASSESS DIOCESAN OFFICES AND MINISTRIES TO ASSURE EFFICIENCY AND EFFECTIVENESS

The primary purpose of any diocesan office or ministry is to assist and enable the bishop, parishes, and church institutions to fulfill our common mission by providing resources, leadership, direction, service, and support. The common vision of all of our diocesan offices is to assist parishes in particular to become vibrant communities of faith, worship, education, service and evangelization. I wanted to assure you and myself that our diocesan organization indeed fulfills its purpose.

Work on this priority began in the fall of 1997 with the hiring of consultants charged with evaluating all aspects of diocesan offices and ministries that impacted in any way their mission, purpose, efficiency and effectiveness. The examination included a review of office structure, lines of authority, reporting, internal and external relationships, budgeting and cost, communications and planning.

Our assessors advised us that in the main, our diocesan offices and services did a very good job. However, the consultants did have a number of recommendations: a clear articulation of a common diocesan vision for all services; a review of departmental structure and reporting relationships; improvement of internal and external communications, particularly with the parishes; enhancement of our use of technology in the day-to-day operations; and a tighter planning and budgeting process.

The study’s implementation resulted in some changes, but most importantly it offered an opportunity for our diocesan staff to examine closely the services they provide, change what needed changing, refocus, and renew their efforts in light of our common mission.

Major diocesan councils’ and committees’ purpose and need were carefully examined and modified where required to strengthen leadership and to identify more clearly their role and function.

Our diocesan financial health is excellent. Our finances are managed and accounted for under the direction of a diocesan chief finance officer. I approved the first lay chief finance officer in late 1996 with the advice, counsel, and full involvement of our diocesan Finance Council. We use professional investment managers and advisers to carefully manage our invested assets. We diligently develop and monitor an annual budget. We are audited by Price Waterhouse Coopers. I was most pleased we were able to forgive debts owed the diocese by parishes and other institutions during the Great Jubilee celebration.

4 TO ESTABLISH NEW PARISHES AND SCHOOLS

In 1868, a 36-year-old priest named Thomas Becker was installed as the first Bishop of the Diocese of Wilmington. Only 15 small churches served the scattered Catholic community on 6,200 square miles of the Delmarva Peninsula. After his first tour of the diocese, Bishop Becker noted that he found “churches and schools, small buildings, old and poverty-stricken.” But he also found dedicated clergy and faithful lay people willing to sacrifice to support and build up the new diocesan church.

When I became the eighth bishop of Wilmington 128 years later, a very different scene greeted me. With God’s grace and the generosity and hard work of past generations of bishops, priests and laity, the Diocese of Wilmington had grown beyond what Bishop Becker could have imagined.

Catholics numbered over 185,000 in Delaware and the nine counties of Maryland’s Eastern Shore which now make up the Diocese of Wilmington. There were 56 parishes and 20 mission churches. Nearly 16,000 children of all ages, races, nationalities, and economic status were enrolled in Catholic schools, and over 30 diocesan ministries, agencies, and offices served the Catholic population and community at large.

growth. Unfortunately, development in the diocese outpaced planning. As I came to know my new diocese, I recognized that there was a need to establish at least three more parishes and that several parish churches were too small to accommodate their growing numbers. Other churches required repair, expansion, or renovation. Several schools and other parish facilities required expansion and/or repair. Additionally, I encountered near demands from literally hundreds of parents throughout the diocese for more Catholic schools. The challenge was how to address these issues in an orderly and effective manner.

We formed a Pastoral Planning Task Force composed of clergy and lay persons to guide the planning process and to make recommendations to me. Consultants were retained to assist in developing both the process as well as the plan. We identified the heaviest growth areas of the diocese and arranged for consultations with pastors and parish pastoral councils to obtain the local perspective. We studied data assembled by the diocesan schools office, state and county planning agencies, and sought the assistance of the Urban Affairs Department of the University of Delaware and its counterpart at the University of Maryland.

Over a period of eight months data was reviewed carefully by the Planning Task Force. Finally in the summer of 1998 a report was presented to me which was in turn reviewed by priests of the diocese in a special meeting held in August. The recommendations of the task force were also presented to our Diocesan Pastoral Council.

As you well know, the plan calls for the establishment of new parishes. The first among them is St. Margaret of Scotland in New Castle County, which was formally set up in May of 1998. We now look forward to the separation of St. Jude in Lewes from its mother parish, St. Edmond in Rehoboth Beach. We also look to the eventual establishment of St. John Neumann Church as an independent parish in Wicomico County near Ocean City.

While the plan strongly recommends founding new parishes, it also addresses the insufficiency of church buildings and calls for the construction of five new larger churches in existing parishes, two new regional schools to accommodate 600 students each, as well as the expansion of existing parish and school facilities.

In November of 2000 we launched a $50 million capital campaign to finance all the objectives outlined in the Strategic Plan to Expand Parishes and Schools: $30 million designated for churches and other parish facility construction, and $20 million designated for the construction of schools.

I have also directed Catholic Cemeteries to expand its services to include the founding of a new Catholic cemetery in Sussex County to service our Catholic population in the southern environs of our diocese. Our two existing Catholic Cemeteries, All Saints on Kirkwood Highway and Cathedral in Wilmington, provide the finest services and facilities to our Catholic people.

5 TO EXPLORE MODELS OF PARISH MINISTRY, CLOSELY EXAMINING THE ROLE OF THE CLERGY AND THE LAITY IN THESE MODELS

We continue to express our commitment to a renewal of our parishes and collaborative ministry in a variety of ways.

The diocesan summit on collaboration, as previously mentioned, helped to review and study models and approaches that could better integrate the ministry of the clergy with the many talents, skills and ministries our lay people bring to the church.

For many years now, we have benefited from the contributions of lay persons who work as school principals, parish business managers, directors of religious education, secretaries and accountants. Our laity helped pioneer the RCIA and new approaches to evangelization and have energized our outreach to the poor. Our new Ministry Formation Institute will provide lay ministers the spiritual formation and training necessary to enrich their parishes and the church with their leadership.

The diocese has begun to look at lay ministry formation in a more cohesive way. We are compiling a database that will allow the diocese to know who is in what ministry and where, who has earned or is earning academic credit for a ministry, and where lay ministers are needed.

In the not too distant future, this ministry will begin offering classes designed to both educate and form all new lay ministers in the diocese. Once introductory core courses are complete, the Institute will provide training, formation and certification in specific lay ministries.

The third level will be for professional ministers — religious education directors, spiritual directors or parish directors of liturgy — who are usually paid and require college or graduate school preparation.

6 TO EVANGELIZE THE UNCHURCHED AND ALIENATED AFRICAN-AMERICAN COMMUNITY.

The Black Catholic Ministry encourages increased involvement and attention to the needs of black Catholics as they seek to establish programs of outreach and evangelization.

A needs assessment and census of the black Catholic community are in progress. The Diocesan Gospel Choir and Holy Cross Gospel Choir continue to share their gifts with the diocese. The Ministry to Black Catholics newsletter, first published in 1998, shares important information to the Black Catholic community as does a live radio program on WAMS 1600-AM. St. Joseph's Parish on French Street in Wilmington has two permanent deacon candidates and a seminarian. The ministry for Black Catholics is working toward developing programs which will afford more exposure throughout the diocese like the St. Martin de Porres Mass in the fall.

7 TO DEVELOP AND IMPLEMENT A COMPREHENSIVE PLAN FOR MINISTRY ON COLLEGE CAMPUSES

The diocese is committed to developing Catholic leaders on our campuses who will one day be articulate and effective witnesses to Catholic principles in their professions, their families and the public square. To accomplish this objective, we are moving ahead on a variety of different fronts.

The diocese purchased property to house the Catholic Campus Ministry at Salisbury (MD) State University. A campus minister serves the students at that campus and connects with the University of Maryland Eastern Shore in Princess Anne.

A deacon candidate coordinates campus ministry at Washington College in Chestertown, MD. There is Sunday evening Mass for students and discussion group opportunities.

Students at Wesley College in Dover will have their own campus liturgy beginning this spring and Catholic Campus Ministry is expanding at Delaware State University in Dover.

In addition to liturgies, bible study, gatherings of students and faculty, speakers and vibrant retreats, the newest program at St. Thomas More Oratory at the University of Delaware is entitled "Conversations: Science and Religion." It helps students and faculty alike to explore the complex bioethical issues of our day from a Catholic perspective.

Many of our college students around the diocese continue to hold top leadership roles in the National Catholic Student Coalition.

OTHER SIGNS OF PROGRESS IN THE DIOCESE

Other areas of progress have positively impacted our ability to minister to the needs of our faithful people. One is the development and expansion of the Advocate Program in our Marriage Tribunal. The addition of nearly 30 advocates, lay women and lay men as well as religious, to assist persons applying for review of their marriages by the church's court has enabled us to respond more effectively in an improved pastoral and timely way to such requests.

The diocesan Women's Commission, which invites and facilitates the contributions of women at all levels of the church's life, was established in 1997.

A Catholic Physicians' Guild is being formed to help doctors witness to Catholic moral teaching in their medical practice and in our community.

Our plan to increase the number of permanent deacons who serve our parishes and diocesan ministries will help to strengthen the pastoral vitality of our diocese. After a 10-year hiatus, I authorized the commencement of a new formation class for deacons in 1997. With great joy I ordained the first eight of these new men to the diaconate on Nov. 18, 2000. These new deacons, many with graduate education in theology, pastoral ministry, liturgy, and scripture, are assigned to a variety of parishes and institutional ministries. These faith-filled servants will enrich us by their work in several pastoral fields, evangelization and adult formation.

Just this past fall, our Office for Catholic Youth Ministry reorganized itself to provide an improved and more comprehensive outreach to young people. While many of the traditional programs remain, we have refocused our outreach to youth, concentrating on developing youth leadership in parishes and broadening programs focused for youth at risk. The reorganization also brings us in line with our Holy Father's challenge to empower young people to live truly as disciples of Christ, to draw young people to responsible participation in the life, mission and work of the church, and to foster the personal and spiritual growth of each young person. It is also important to me to work with our staff to explore new and creative ways to infuse a Catholic Christian spirit in every level of our athletic programs and among our coaches, parents and young athletes.

Contributions to the Annual

Catholic Appeal continue to grow each year, enabling our diocese to respond to the needs of literally thousands of people through the social, educational and pastoral programs the Appeal supports. I am at times overwhelmed by your magnificent generosity as we ask for your support not only of our own diocesan needs but of the needs of the church in this country and around the world. Your gifts to any number of collections taken up throughout the year, be it the Campaign for Human Development, the Religious Retirement Fund or the Bishop's Overseas Appeal, far exceed on a per capita measure the donations given in many other dioceses.

Finally, I must salute the many lay women and lay men who give time and talent not only to their parishes through their participation in parish pastoral councils and parish committees, but who freely and generously give their time and talent to the diocese by serving on diocesan boards, committees, councils and commissions. I depend so much on their wise counsel and advice.

FINAL THOUGHTS AND FUTURE DIRECTIONS

As you can see from this discussion of the 2001 State of the Diocese, we have made significant progress in advancing the seven priorities and other creative initiatives these past few years. We still have a long way to go and must remain vigilant. I would like to raise some other general issues we need to be attentive to.

First, at this five-year mark, we need to recommit ourselves to a proactive spirit of evangelization in our diocese. Our parishes need to continue to go beyond a maintenance mentality to embrace an evangelizing and missionary mentality.

On Dec. 8, 2000, our church celebrated the 25th anniversary of one of the most influential documents on evangelization, issued by Pope Paul VI in 1975, On Evangelization in the Modern World (Evangelii Nuntiandi). Paul VI tells us that an authentic spirit of evangelization is only won at the foot of the Cross, with deep prayer lives, "crucifying effort" and radical conversions.

It is necessary for each of us to hear once again, with an attentive ear, the words of Christ's Gospel. But more than that is required in today's circumstances. In the United States and elsewhere in the world, society seems to have lost its sense of the meaning and the importance of the Gospel and must be "re-evangelized," renewed in its knowledge, understanding and acceptance of the Gospel. As Pope John Paul II has said: "Without a doubt a mending of the Christian fabric of society is urgently needed in all parts of the world. However, for this to come about, what is needed is first to remake the Christian fabric of the ecclesial community itself present in these countries and nations."

Re-evangelization, therefore, requires that each member of the parish respond to a personal call to renewal and holiness, for, as the Fathers of Vatican Council II declared, "all the faithful of Christ of whatever rank or status are called to the fullness of the Christian life and the perfection of charity."

Evangelization in the contemporary world means making every possible use of television and satellite dish, radio and Internet to spread the Good News of Jesus Christ and the content of our Catholic faith. A Catholic evangelizer recently told me that his appearance on a television program in a local market was the equivalent of teaching thousands of RCIA classes simultaneously. We need to draw on the expertise of our Catholic laity to explore more deeply the opportunities we can pursue.

Holistic evangelization reaches both the heart and the head. Stimulating faith experiences which reach the heart, and stimulating study experiences of the content of the Universal Catechism which are age appropriate, are both necessary and complementary. Our Holy Father reminds us that Roman Catholics have always treasured the unity that exists between faith and reason. You all know the special place that inactive Catholics have in my heart and in my prayers. Each one of us needs to continue to reach out to these Catholics with the reconciling heart of Christ.

In the fall of 2000, the document Dominus Iesus reminded us of the constant Vatican Council II teaching that the Church of Christ subsists in the Roman Catholic Church and that the church is the universal sacrament of salvation. At the same time, we remember our ecumenical and inter-religious passion and dedication in the local community. We are called to be respect for human life at all its stages. Our Catholic laity is called to be leaven in society, salt and light to the world. The conclusion of the Catholic Mass launches our lay Catholics boldly into the secular world so that they can live an authenticity of life that connects their faith, spirituality and sacramental life to their family, professional and societal lives.

Pope John Paul II has repeatedly expressed his desire to beatify and canonize a married couple. I need to ask you all this question: why shouldn't that couple come from the Diocese of Wilmington? So many of the couples of our diocese live the Gospel and the church's teaching in ways that edify and inspire me. We need to continue to point to role models of marital commitment to our young people. We need to turn the tide in our divorce culture and point to the truth that indissoluble commitment in marriage — even when facing challenges, crosses and difficulties — leads to true happiness, fulfillment and holiness.

The Diocese of Wilmington is a family of faith. We are the heirs of visionary men and women whose sacrifices built the churches, schools and other facilities we use today. These structures are concrete expressions of their faith. Our diocese continues to need to open new parishes, strengthen existing parishes and expand school facilities. Our Capital Stewardship Campaign, Bringing the Vision to Life, requires our bold investment in the church of the future. It is your faith and your commitment that gives me the courage and determination to pursue this campaign.

Each member of the diocese is joined in one faith, one Lord and one baptism. Our common faith makes us responsible for one another. We are united with all who have gone before us and all who will come after us. Our shared faith goes beyond a particular place and time. As a member of a larger family, we are all called to support the mission of the church beyond our parish boundaries.

It is our turn to bring the vision to life for generations to come.

both a missionary church that proposes the teaching of Christ and one that vigorously defends religious freedom. We continue to reach out to our ecumenical and interreligious brothers and sisters in a spirit of mutual reverence, cooperation and the hope of pursuing deeper unity.

There is a danger in church circles that we concentrate so much on the internal dimension of diocesan or parish life that we forget that our Catholic Christianity is meant to sanctify the world. The faith of our Catholic laity is meant to transform the temporal structures of our world. The U.S. bishops expressed this in Faithful Citizenship: "For Catholics, public virtue is as important as private virtue in building up the common good. In the Catholic tradition, responsible citizenship is a virtue; participation in the political process is a moral obligation. Every believer is called to faithful citizenship, to become an informed, active, and responsible participant in the political process." All Catholics have a special obligation to promote

Bishop Saltarelli/Labor Day

Holiness in the World of Work

"One common error is to believe consciously or unconsciously that we strive for holiness in spite of the world, in spite of the work we do. This is a complete misunderstanding of the lay vocation in the church," Bishop Michael Saltarelli of Wilmington, Del., said in a pastoral statement for Labor Day 2001. "It is precisely in work that we are challenged to grow in holiness and through work that we are builders of God's kingdom," he wrote. "Because I believe that connecting work and faith is a great challenge," Saltarelli wrote, "I made a special effort in the last few years to learn how people in this diocese feel about work and its connection to their faith." He said: "What I hear from throughout the diocese is that for many of you work serves to strengthen your faith, and your faith strengthens your work. In your efforts to connect faith and work, you do meet obstacles, which at times seem insurmountable.... But you draw on your faith to overcome these obstacles." Four things every Catholic can do "to make Christ's presence more of a reality at work" were examined by Saltarelli: 1) build constructive human relationships in the workplace; 2) resolve to counter cynicism; 3) uphold the dignity of all and oppose injustice in the workplace; and 4) reflect in prayer about how better to integrate work and family obligations, addressing issues such as workaholism, for example. The bishop commented that "when Gospel values such as respect and compassion are practiced at the upper level of management, respect and compassion tend to flourish throughout the workplace.... By contrast, workers find the connection between faith and work more difficult to make when they feel that management lacks integrity or does not respect the opinions and ideas of the workers." Saltarelli said that "every task, project, meeting and deadline can be made holy," and he discussed several Catholic spiritual traditions that provide guidance for integrating life in Christ with work in the world. Saltarelli's statement follows.

In his letter to the Galatians, St. Paul gives a short mission statement to all Roman Catholics striving for holiness: "It is no longer I who live, but Christ who lives in me" (Gal. 2:20). Every aspect of a Christian's life is part of our ongoing conversion in Christ. This includes our work life. Work, whether in the home or outside the home, is an opportunity for living out our call to discipleship.

Jesus was a craftsman like St. Joseph. He belonged to the working world, and his thoughts and teachings were never far from the everyday reality of people at work. In his parables Jesus constantly proclaims the kingdom of God through the lens of the human worker: the shepherd, farmer, sower, homemaker, servant, steward, fisherman, merchant and laborer. Some of the most memorable people in the Gospels are described not by name, but by the work they do: the woman at the well drawing water who proclaims the message of Jesus; the centurion, whose extraordinary faith Jesus held up as an example to all. Jesus even calls Peter, Andrew, James and John in the midst of their daily work as fishermen. Likewise, he calls Matthew, the tax collector, from his accounts.

In the contemporary world Jesus calls each of us to open our hearts to his message and to place the work we do in the service of God's kingdom. The Second Vatican Council expressed it this way: "Those who engage in human work, often of a heavy kind, should perfect themselves through it, help their fellow citizens and promote the betterment of the whole of human society and the whole of creation; indeed, with their active charity, rejoicing in hope and bearing one another's burdens, they should imitate Christ, who oilied his hands with carpenter's tools and is always working with the Father for the salvation of all; and they should rise to a higher sanctity, truly apostolic, by their everyday work itself" (Dogmatic Constitution on the Church, 41).

"In his parables Jesus constantly proclaims the kingdom of God through the lens of the human worker: the shepherd, farmer, sower, homemaker, servant, steward, fisherman, merchant and laborer. Some of the most memorable people in the Gospels are described not by name, but by the work they do."

In the secular realm, after family, work is typically the most significant activity around which we organize our lives. All work involves personal toil, requires self-discipline and sacrifice. Work often demands hard choices about how to allocate our time and energies. Work creates opportunities not only for us as workers, but for others as well. Work provides us with income and creates goods and services other people value. Work provides opportunities to develop meaningful relationships, to contribute to society and to transform the environment. Work is indeed God's gift.

When I speak of work, I refer not only to labor we perform for pay, but any activity where we make a personal decision to invest time and physical or mental energy to accomplish a goal. Thus housework, home schooling, child or adult care, volunteer work and the pursuit of an education all constitute work even though they usually go without pay and often without recognition.

Work is most powerfully and most essentially an apostolate of the lay faithful. You are on the Chrysler or Saturn assembly lines, in the offices of MBNA, Gore, DuPont or Astra-Zeneca. You work in the department stores and the shopping malls. You are the technicians, the service workers, the nurses and physicians. You are the state and local government employees, the police officers and firefighters. You are the service men and women at Dover. You are the teachers and the coaches. You are the prosecutor and the public defender. You are the social workers, the correctional officers, the child-care providers, the countless volunteers in so many programs for the needy, the elderly and the young. All are called to discover Jesus Christ in work.

Every task, project, meeting and deadline can be made holy. How do we accomplish this? First, we can draw strength from the grace and meaning of the eucharist, the source and summit of our life as Catholic Christians. Second, we can contemplate Catholic social teaching tradition on work and be edified by it. And third, we can allow the example of other holy men and women to inspire us.

Work and the Body and Blood of Christ

Catholic Christians make connections between faith and work primarily in the way they allow the eucharist to be the center of their life. At every Mass, during the preparation of the altar and the gifts, we hear these words: "Blessed are you Lord, God of all creation. Through your goodness we have this bread to offer, which earth has given and human hands have made. It will become for us the bread of life."

Human hands create the ordinary bread that is transformed into the bread of life. Human feet traditionally crushed the grapes that are transformed into the precious blood of Christ. The central mystery of our life as a liturgical community – the real presence of Jesus on the altar – presupposes human work, which prepares the elements that will be consecrated and become our life-giving sacrament.

Everything in our workaday lives is given meaning by the eucharist we share. The joy, love, compassion and forgiveness that we experience in the eucharist are meant to become part of the way we interact with family, friends and co-workers through the rest of the week.

Work done with the love of Christ is work that changes lives and brings others to Christ. Our Lord has given each of us qualities, aptitudes and interests. We need to be responsible stewards of these gifts and talents and remember that they are meant to serve God.

Our vocation in the world of work is an essential part of our baptismal vocation. Quality work requires the integration of virtues such as diligence, justice, fortitude, perseverance, prudence, friendliness, fairness and truthfulness. A deep connection exists between our daily relationship with the Lord and our daily practice of these virtues in the workplace. Jesus wants us to sanctify our work.

One common error is to believe consciously or unconsciously that we strive for holiness in spite of the world, in spite of the work we do. This is a complete misunderstanding of the lay vocation in the church. It is not in spite of work or against work that we pray and strive to be holy. It is precisely in work that we are challenged to grow in holiness and through work that we are builders of God's kingdom. The Catholic concept of living a "unity of life" means that we become holy both through prayer and sacraments and the everyday secular work we offer to Jesus Christ.

So whatever we do as work must also show forth the presence of God. We are called through work to implicate ourselves in the ministry of Jesus. We do this not only by allowing the Holy Spirit to transform us but through a daily transformation of our homes, offices and workplaces to places of justice, peace, respect and dignity. We should work in a way that reflects the attitude and the mind of Christ as expressed in the Beatitudes. And the product of our labor should be compatible with the values we profess. Our work thus contributes to human dignity and divine purpose.

I am under no illusion just how difficult this is to accomplish. Because I believe that connecting work and faith is a great challenge, I made a special effort in the last few years to learn how people in this diocese feel about work and its connection to their faith. I did this by talking with some of you individually, and through a committee of people who conducted interviews and surveys on my behalf. I also listened to the insights of our diocesan pastoral council, which is the chief consultative body I use to consult the laity in our diocese.

What I hear from throughout the diocese is that for many of you work serves to strengthen your faith, and your faith strengthens your work. In your efforts to connect faith and work, you do meet obstacles, which at times seem insurmountable and challenge you to question whether your work contributes to God's plan or even if faith has any role in work. But you draw on your faith to overcome these obstacles. I listen to you, and I learn from you. I am humbled and awed by the challenges that you encounter every day.

I know you experience difficulties and tensions. How, for example, can a mother continue to perform volunteer work with the needy, which perhaps draws her closer to God than any paying job could, when her labor is needed for the financial support of her children? How can a father plan and hope for his family's future when he works each day in an atmosphere clouded by endless rounds of cost-cutting and layoffs? The problems you face have no easy solutions. The best advice I can give you is that any problem can draw us closer to God if we trust him to help us understand it and cope with it. So long as we seek a closer relationship with God through our work, even trials and tribulations will strengthen our faith, and our faith will enhance our work.

"Everything in our workday lives is given meaning by the eucharist we share. The joy, love, compassion and forgiveness that we experience in the eucharist are meant to become part of the way we interact with family, friends and co-workers through the rest of the week."

---

Perhaps because of the challenges of many modern work situations, many of you remain unaware that your work matters on a grander scale. Does our work result in a more humane, equitable and just society? Do we work in a manner that preserves the environment and offers hope for future generations? What effect does our work have on the poor, children, family life (including our own), immigrants, the homeless, our customers, co-workers, neighbors? Reflecting on these indirect issues sheds light on our immediate circumstances in fresh and unexpected ways and can actually help us in personal decisions, actions and plans.

Holy Men and Women

There is no shortage of examples from the lives of the saints of how holy men and women throughout the history of the church have integrated their life in Christ with their work in the world. In fact, one could argue that we remember the saints precisely for that reason. We see in their joys, sufferings and labors situations that shed light on our own and encourage us to respond to grace and strive for holiness.

Several Catholic spiritual traditions give us solid guidance in how to go about this. As was noted when she was made a doctor of the church, the "Little Way" of St. Terese of Lisieux offers encouragement and hope to modern people whose work life seems to be toil and monotony and who are seeking holiness in the very ordinariness of life. She showed us how a way to God can be found in daily human interactions of the most routine kind, and she emphasized that love must always be put into action.

An aspect of the spirituality of St. Francis of Assisi involves moving from action to contemplation and then returning to action changed. This approach locates holiness not only in our private relationship with Jesus and in meditation on God's word, but also in the work we do. The Franciscan model of the active-contemplative is a way of incorporating prayer into our work life and vice versa.

Our diocesan patron, St. Francis de Sales, was a great champion of lay Christians. He devoted his life to leading people to a deeper spiritual life. He taught that each one of us, regardless of our calling, may find in our life and work a means to deepen our love of God. His admonition to "be who you are and be that well" is an affirmation of the worth of each individual and the potential for holiness in every walk of life.

There are many other examples from the lives of the saints: We have great achievers like St. Thomas More as well and men and women who did simpler work like St. Isidore the farmer or St. Zita the homemaker. Recently, the Holy Father announced that he would beatify a married couple, Luigi and Maria Beltrame Quattrocchi. Luigi, a lawyer and civil servant, died in 1951 at the age of 71. Maria, who dedicated herself to her family and to several Catholic charitable and social movements, died in 1965 at the age of 81. Like Luigi and Maria, so many couples in our diocese live the Gospel and the church's teaching heroically and dedicate both their work in the family and their work in the marketplace to the glory of God.

And do not overlook the holy men and women who may be on the assembly line with you, in the cubicle down the hall or among your customers. I believe that throughout our community men and women of many faith traditions successfully live Spirit-filled lives on and off the job. They are easy to find: By their fruits you will know them. These individuals often are very willing to share with you their journey of faith and help guide and encourage others.

Special Word to Migrants

I recently returned from a Catholic

Relief Services trip to the Diocese of San Marcos, Guatemala. I saw many of the relatives of our own people who live in Georgetown, Selbyville, Milford and Marydel and work in the poultry, agricultural, construction, service and tourist industries. To our migrant workers, whatever your immigration status may be, I want you to know that our diocese and our parishes are committed to serving your spiritual and human needs. Your lives often involve separation from loved ones, long and difficult work hours, and challenging living conditions. We want to do all in our power to ensure that through our diocese, our parishes and our people you experience the compassion and strength of Christ as you struggle to adjust to life in this country.

In this regard, I call upon the people of the Diocese of Wilmington to live the Gospel of hospitality and welcome. A century ago the church in America responded effectively to the spiritual and human needs of immigrants who came to this country seeking freedom and opportunity. Following the example of our Catholic ancestors, we must respond with open hearts to our brothers and sisters who today come from Latin America, the Caribbean, Asia and the Pacific Islands, and elsewhere. It was Pope Pius XII who said that "the émigré Holy Family of Nazareth fleeing into Egypt is the archetype of every refugee family."

What Can We Do Tomorrow?

There are certain things that every Catholic can do immediately to make Christ's presence more of a reality at work.

1. We can endeavor to build constructive human relationships in the workplace. Jesus always looked past the job or the title and into the heart of every person he encountered. With many technologies making the workplace less personal, it is all the more important that we interact with others in our workplace in a civil, genuine manner. Courtesy and caring are authentic expressions of love in action.

2. We can resolve to counter cynicism. Cynicism is a great barrier to hope in God. Once the atmosphere of the workplace has been poisoned by fear and rumors, or repeated insults and injustices, despair follows. For Jesus, trust in the Father's love and goodness was always paramount. The Christian worker is a realist who lives in hope even in the face of problems and setbacks. We defeat the tendency toward cynicism in ourselves and in others when we enter into our work every day with a determined attitude of patience, kindness and generosity.

3. We can uphold the dignity of all and oppose injustice in the workplace. Each of us must choose to treat others fairly and with respect. This is especially important for those in positions of authority, but it is the responsibility of all. Jesus gave us the ultimate example of leadership by demonstrating that the leader first and foremost serves. Servant leadership will not always be expressed the same way, but when practiced it will be unmistakable. In the workplace we must be prepared to be our brother's or our sister's keeper by standing in solidarity with those who are being taken advantage of or treated unfairly. We must be prepared to speak out against practices that hurt or injure people or which do violence to the environment.

"All of us face different challenges in our marriages, our families and our workplaces. These challenges – when faced with the love and perseverance of Christ – lead us to holiness."

4. We can reflect in prayer about how better to integrate our work and family obligations. Workaholism is a specifically American form of spiritual lukewarmness rooted in the consumerism of our culture. Seeing our careers and work life as a way to holiness prevents us from turning our work into an idol that alienates us from our faith, our spouses, our families and ourselves. Workaholism results in a damaging fall-out. Marriages fail or are strained. Children do not receive the attention and nurturing they need. Families experience little or no time together. Family meal times rarely occur. Family celebrations are few and far between.

All of us face different challenges in our marriages, our families and our workplaces. These challenges – when faced with the love and perseverance of Christ – lead us to holiness. Let us turn to the Holy Spirit to help us to discern how to love our spouses and our families more deeply and more creatively, and how to balance our work more productively and effectively.

Good News

I am encouraged that many of you have expressed that you find joy in your work and that through your work, you feel closer to God. I am also encouraged that many view work as a place to use their talents, to develop personal and professional skills, to define themselves and to leave their mark on the world.

People find evidence of God in the workplace through their relationships with others. When Gospel values such as respect and compassion are practiced at the upper level of management, respect and compassion tend to flourish throughout the workplace. In those positive environments, workers enjoy the freedom and energy to explore deeper meaning in work and relationships.

By contrast, workers find the connection between faith and work more difficult to make when they feel that management lacks integrity or does not respect the opinions and ideas of the workers. In those cases people are more apt to see work as a means of economic survival and not as God's gift.

What is most encouraging to me, however, is that an active life in the church seems to support people in their effort to make the connection between faith and work. People who pray, attend Mass regularly, and participate in parish and community activities seem to have a greater sense of meaning and possibility in their lives. Perhaps it is the support of a faith community that enables those of us who practice our faith to make the connection between faith and work. Or perhaps it is their cooperation with God's grace that empowers our sisters and brothers to identify, address and overcome the worldly obstacles we face in order that we may ultimately identify ourselves with and for God.

Whatever the reason, the message and challenge for all of us, my dear friends, is that work offers a Christian both an evangelical opportunity and an apostolic opportunity. By conducting ourselves always as disciples of Christ, even in the most challenging and unlikely of work circumstances, we bear witness to others that the good news of Jesus Christ is the ultimate source of meaning and strength in our lives. In so doing, we preach the Gospel through our very presence on the job.

By endeavoring to make our work a force for good, our work becomes part of the building of God's kingdom. It takes on a new meaning, a meaning that is rich and fruitful for the individual and for the community.

As we take time to relax with family and friends this Labor Day weekend, I encourage you to spend some quiet moments in prayer. Thank our heavenly Father for the good things that come to us through the gift of work and ask that the Lord continue to bless our labors as we offer them for the fulfillment of his plan and in the service of all God's people. ❖

Catholic Schools: A Gift of the Church

Dear Friends in Christ:

A day after the September 11 terrorist attacks, I celebrated a Mass at St. Peter's Cathedral. With the trauma and the television imagery still fresh, I faced the challenge of preaching to an assembly that included the children of St. Peter's grade school. I wondered how best to interpret the events in the light of our faith and how to discuss the devastating evil with the children in a way that was direct, honest and comforting.

It was a striking moment, not only to grieve together but to be thankful for the power of Catholic education. While our schools, like most schools, took full advantage of the expertise of counselors to help our children, we could also talk to them about the power of Jesus and His cross to rise above evil and to give us strength in the midst of these modern-day experiences of Calvary. We could talk to them about the power of Christian sacrifice exemplified by heroic firefighters and police officers who gave their lives for their brothers and sisters. We could talk about the power of their prayers and participation in the Mass for the souls of the victims and for the strength and comfort of their families. We could ask them to pray for world leaders and the crucial decisions they would make.

I have heard so many stories of how, in the days after September 11, our Catholic school teachers and staffs helped the children in our schools to turn instinctively to God and to do so in the community of their Catholic school, where they daily engage in conversation with and about our Father. This was nothing new; turning to the Lord is part of the daily rhythm and experience of life in Catholic schools.

In all my years as a priest and bishop supporting and promoting Catholic education, the events of September 11 illustrated for me in a new and dramatic way the benefit of a Catholic education. After that Mass I stood outside the cathedral and shook the hand of every child who emerged into the early autumn sun on their way back to school. St. Peter School has been serving and giving a lived experience of church since the 1830's, when the Daughters of Charity came to the parish to open a school. The Daughters are still there ministering in the heart of our city.

Out of that foundation sprang out present impressive array of schools that today educate 16,000 students. These schools stretch from Claymont to Salisbury and every one is a first-rate institution of which we all can be proud. The word "Catholic" that appears before "school" has always indicated a superior quality of academic education in the context of our faith. For generations that has been the mission of Catholic schools.

To monitor academic excellence, each of the schools in our diocese goes through a rigorous educational assessment under the auspices of the Middle States Association of Schools and Colleges. All our schools are certified through this professional educational association. A dramatic indicator of quality and excellence in education is the annual presentation of the coveted Blue Ribbon of Excellence awarded by the United States Department of Education. Our own Corpus Christi Catholic School, which is supported by the parishes of Elsmere and Hockessin in a unique partnership, was so honored this past year. This is the second time Corpus Christi has received this national recognition. St. Matthew Catholic School and Padua Academy have also been awarded the Blue Ribbon.

Catholic schools are a unique legacy from our shared past as church in this country. In many ways these institutions are unparalleled in their impact on our church and society today.

There have been critical moments in the history of Catholic schools. The bishops of the United States, meeting in Baltimore in 1884, mandated that every parish should have a school even before a church building, because the immigrants from western Europe were quickly losing the faith of their mothers and father in religious-neutral public schools, which were often blatantly anti-Catholic. Thus was born the system of Catholic schools as we know it today.

The decade of the 1970's saw a dramatic decrease of women and men religious as teachers in Catholic schools. Many people could not imagine these schools existing without these men and women, and thus predictions abounded that Catholic schools would be a thing of the past by the close of the decade. In 1972, the U.S. bishops wrote a pastoral titled "To Teach As Jesus Did", which made it clear that the schools were an educational and evangelizing mission of the church and that they existed because of this and not because of who happened to operate the schools. By 1980 the schools had successfully made the transition from mainly religious to lay staffs, and they continue to flourish nationwide to this day. Wilmington is among a number of dioceses that are opening new schools and expanding others.

I believe we are living in another critical moment for Catholic schools as we enter this new century. Good and intelligent people are wondering out loud if the age of the Catholic schools has not finally come to an end. Some see our schools as anachronistic and no longer essential to the life of the church. Others see them as not truly Catholic in the sense we understood in the 1950's. Still others see them as schools available only to those who can afford them, not open to all in our church.

Many people who hold these views rightly acknowledge the role played by Catholic schools in preserving the religion and culture of the western European immigrants who came to our shores in the 19th and early 20th centuries. They claim, however, that once those immigrants became assimilated into the American ethos after World War II, the need for the schools lessened because Catholic children were no longer being raised in a society hostile to their religious heritage and public education was no longer perceived as anti-Catholic. Why not, they argue, take advantage of an increasingly better public school system and handle religious training in the home? Besides, the argument continues, Catholic schools no longer even pretend to educate the majority of Catholic children, as was the case in the 1950's, when some dioceses could lay claim to having every Catholic child in a Catholic school.

I submit, however, that Catholic schools are not only necessary as we venture into a new century, but they are so necessary that the mission of our church would be seriously handicapped if Catholic schools ceased to exist.

Consider the bishops' compelling argument from "To Teach As Jesus Did". Observing that school programs incorporated into Christian Education are intended to "make one's faith become living, conscious and active through the light of instruction," the bishops say:

"The Catholic school is the unique setting within which this ideal can be realized in the lives of Catholic children and young people. Only in such a school can they experience learning and living fully integrated in the light of faith. The Catholic school strives to relate all human culture eventually to the news of salvation, so that the life of faith will illumine the knowledge which students gradually gain of the world, of life and of humankind. Here, therefore, students are instructed in human knowledge and skills, valued indeed for their own worth but seen simultaneously as deriving their most profound significance from God's plan for His creation. Here, too, instruction in religious truth and values is an integral part of the school program. It is not one more subject alongside the rest, but instead it is perceived and functions as the underlying reality in which the student's experiences of learning and living achieve their coherence and their deepest meaning." ("To Teach As Jesus Did", National Conference of Catholic Bishops, November 1972, pp. 28-29)

What the bishops saw in 1972 I see even more dramatically in 2002. Catholic schools are one of the last remaining formal ways in which the traditions, stories, experiences, and teachings of our Catholic community are consciously and effectively preserved, celebrated and promoted among our youth and, by extension, among the adults associated with them.

Because of this, the schools in our diocese and throughout the United States are, in truth, one of the major formal vehicles for promoting and expanding the lived faith community we call "church". Each year these schools send into the larger community men and women who are specifically trained in the message and ministry of the Catholic Church and who, according to every recent study about Catholic schools, enrich and enliven parish communities across our land. Further, as these schools continue to attract a growing number of people who are not of our faith, they are increasingly a major means of evangelization. The newly elected president of the U.S. Catholic Conference of Bishops, Wilton Gregory, for example, is an African American convert whose first experience of our church came through the Catholic school he attended.

Closer to home, this unique position of Catholic schools in the life of the church was dramatically articulated in a plan entitled "A Church Called to Serve", which resulted from a diocesan study conducted in the early 1990's. This plan, which spelled out pastoral directions for our diocese, characterized Catholic schools as bringing the community dimension of the church and the parish into "clear and particular' focus. "A Catholic school," the document went on to say, "is a community of adult men and women with students who share not only a common faith in Jesus Christ but also share the tasks of teaching and learning together." The gift of the Catholic school to the diocesan community, therefore, is that it serves as a living model of the church at large – learning, living and growing together into the vision of Jesus which He called "The Kingdom".

Today we have witnessed a diminishing and a realignment of the traditional communities of the family, the civic establishment, public education and, yes, even of Catholic parishes. This movement has been so pervasive that it is difficult to name a strong and consistent community today that steep people in powerful, vibrant traditions and that gives focus and meaning to the developing life of the you. Such communities of the past, it seems, have been partially replaced by fictional communities portrayed in the media and by life models that emphasize a rugged individualism that promotes personal development over, and sometimes to the exclusion of, vibrant human communities. Could the failure of so many marriages, for example, be laid at the doorstep of an educational process and a societal and family model that prepare the young for individualized living rather than for the building of deep communal commitments that are at the essence of a fully human life?

This concept of community is essential to our church, yet today we see precious few models of it in society. For many of our people, even the parish has become a place of weekly worship but is hardly a community force that comes into play every day of the week. The Catholic school, I believe, stands dramatically alone as not only a model of community but as a model of the church that we proclaim in so many ways but seldom see made flesh.

My decision in 1998 to embrace and continue our historic diocesan commitment to build new schools was a reflection of all I have cited here and my own lifelong commitment to Catholic school education. Further, diocesan studies of the 1990's made it abundantly clear to me that we have a new generation of young Catholic parents who live far from a Catholic school but who are strongly committed to giving their children the positive experience of education they themselves had in Catholic schools. How awesome is that commitment in light of the personal and financial sacrifices needed to make this education possible.

How equally awesome is the unselfish commitment of teachers, administrators and pastors who daily make Catholic school education possible. We as church need to make sure they are justly compensated for the service they render to the entire church. This beautiful commitment not only to educate but to do so by teaching as Jesus did is indeed a gift to our diocese, one that needs to be nurtured as much now as at any time in church history.

To make sure that we move together as good stewards of our God-given community in faith, I have commissioned a study of the commitment to education in our Catholic schools. This study will assure us that as we expand our educational commitment we do so in the context of a comprehensive diocesan plan. We grow best when we have a realistic picture of our history and our present story as it gets told in our institutions. A task force of talented people has been formed to assist in this study and to recommend to me how we best should move forward with a plan for Catholic school education in the diocese over the next few years. As we work to "Bring the Vision to Life" we need to realize that we best respect any vision when we continually shed on it the light of reality and prudence. Our study will assist us in this effort.

The mission statement of our diocese says, in part, that "in communion with the pope, who is the bishop of Rome, and guided by the pastoral care of the Roman Catholic bishop of Wilmington, we are called and commissioned: "To be a community of faith living the love poured into our hearts by the Holy Spirit; To proclaim the good news of salvation announced through Jesus Christ and confided to the church; To celebrate the liturgy, especially in Eucharist, the saving act of God in Christ; To strengthen our allegiance to the Gospel and deepen our understanding of it;" and finally, "To serve all our brothers and sisters as Jesus taught us."

Our Catholic schools actively respond to and live out each of the five calls of our diocesan mission. There are few institutions that do this so formatively and so consistently. Yes, our faith is shared in many ways and through many programs involving hundreds of dedicated people, but the schools reflect the calls of our mission in a way that is unmatched.

The strength and the unique contribution of Catholic schools lie in the amount of "quality time" in which they are present in the lives of children and adults and in how schools daily form community. The mission to education is not caught by a personal whim or left to changing fads, but is anchored in the lived faith of that evolving community. The way Catholic schools consistently address the five calls of the mission statement makes them unique and essential to the life of our diocese. They are, indeed, our strongest and most reliable model of the church at large, living and growing together into the vision of Jesus which He called the Kingdom.

My prayer is that we may never lose our sense of appreciate of the gifts that have come from the church of the past and that we will never tire in reworking them for the church of today and tomorrow. If we do that, then indeed we will always be about the common journey of "Bringing the Vision to Life".

SEPTEMBER 11TH ONE YEAR LATER

A Pastoral Statement by Bishop Michael Saltarelli

As we remember the souls of the victims of September 11th in our parishes and Catholic liturgies one year later, I would like to reflect with you on some of the spiritual lessons of that day. In these past months, we have been able to discern that even in a calamity of such magnitude, God's grace and goodness was revealed in large and small ways, in public and private moments. From these we can take heart and we can grow in hope.

We remember the Dead in our Prayers

We recollect that last September 11, there was not one but three sites of terror and destruction: The World Trade Center, The Pentagon, and the crash of an airliner in Pennsylvania. At each location there have been remembrances of the dead as families and friends, colleagues and comrades – along with countless other Americans – have sought to pay tribute to those who died.

One of the most poignant of these was a beautiful series that ran in The New York Times, in which individual portraits were created for each person who perished at the World Trade Center. There were employees of the Windows of the World restaurant, investment bankers, security guards, office workers and of course the firefighters and police officers. The people represented every religion, ethnic background and economic level. The Times portraits captured their particular humor and personality, their hopes and dreams, their relationships with their families. This series emphasized that the victims of September 11th still matter, still count and are, mysteriously, still with us.

Roman Catholics are at home with these sentiments which are deeply rooted in our theology and spirituality. In our tradition, we believe that friendship and our connection with loved ones goes beyond the chasm of death. Those of us still on pilgrimage in this life, those saints who are at the throne of God, those who are in a state of purification called purgatory -- we are all united in a bond of love with Christ at the center.

We remember the Cross of World Trade Center beams that emerged from the debris as a symbol of hope and resurrection in the midst of evil and tragedy. Our prayer for the dead connects us with the Cross of Christ and mysteriously gives us strength in carrying the Cross of our grief and trials as we stand in solidarity with those who suffered that day and with their loved ones who suffer still.

We understand more deeply the Biblical Spirituality of the Fragility of Life

The video footage of the Towers collapsing, the grainy photographs of people standing on the ledges of the upper floors of the World Trade Center in their last moments, the recorded and written transcripts of final cell phone conversations between family members served to remind us of a prominent theme of biblical spirituality that can be traced throughout the Old and New Testaments -- the fragility of human life. How eloquently, for instance, do the psalms remind us that generations come and go in a flash and that we need to keep our hearts vigilant and grounded in the love of God in the present moment.

But this deepened sense of the fragility of human life that terrorist attacks thrust upon us should not make us cower or uncertain about how to live. It is an incentive for us to reassess the direction of our lives. It is an invitation to become more humble and cooperative instruments in the hands of Jesus Christ.

St. Ignatius of Loyola, the founder of the Jesuits, invited people in his Spiritual Exercises to meditate on the scene of their own death bed. Death is a reality of life. When we meditate on what our Catholic Tradition calls "the Last Things" -- Death, Judgment, Heaven and Hell -- we are in touch with the desire for holiness and virtue, the desire to be a saint that is within each one of us. We are able to separate the essential from the non-essential in life. We understand that life is fragile, but the gift that awaits us is eternal life.

We learn from the Parables of September 11th

The Gospel parables continue to move us after two millennia because in their hearing we experience the Kingdom of God. There are numerous "parables" that have emerged from the events of September 11. Firefighters rush to the upper floors of the World Trade Center to lay down their lives for complete strangers. A young husband and father bids goodbye to his wife on a cell phone and says "Let's roll!" as he leads a selfless struggle on the already doomed jet to prevent even greater loss of life. With the elevators shut down, an able-bodied office worker stays with a wheel-chair-bound friend rather than escape down the stairs – sacrificing his life so his friend would not die alone. A dead priest is laid out in front of the altar of sacrifice by firefighters who instinctively understand the connection between priesthood and the Eucharist in the oldest Catholic Church in New York.

These parables of heroism and sacrifice are a modern commentary on the Gospel of Jesus Christ, a Gospel which is ever new. These parables inspire us to be generous, to go the extra mile, and to appreciate the treasure of our families. We should continue to tell the stories of September 11 to one another and to our children. We recognize that while the Gospel is the written Word of God, it is also the testimony of the lives of saints among us such as those who struggled, who died, and who helped to save one another that day.

We Sanctify our Work

What were people doing in the morning hours of September 11th at the Pentagon and the World Trade Center? People were going about the business of their daily work lives when their lives were turned upside down. Secretaries were at their desks making phone calls and scheduling appointments. Early morning meetings were winding down. Trades were being made and contracts signed. A young man who grew up in our Diocese was working as a naval weatherman at the Pentagon; another man from our Diocese was working as a flight attendant on a flight from Newark Airport.

One of the ways we honor the memory of the victims of September 11th is to dedicate our work to Christ and to sanctify our everyday work in many small and practical ways.

We can endeavor to build constructive human relationships in the workplace. We can resolve to counter cynicism. We can uphold the dignity of all and oppose injustice in the workplace. We can reflect in prayer about how better to integrate our work and family obligations.<sup>1</sup>

We Strive to be more intensively "Catholic" in a World of Globalization

"Globalization" refers to the modern reality that because of a variety of technological and economic advances, there is a more intimate interaction between countries and continents, governments and economies.

September 11th brought this reality home in a new and powerful way. Suddenly, there was a need to understand the culture and history of a country like Afghanistan. There was a need to understand and distinguish between various forms and practices of the religion of Islam. As always, we needed to understand more deeply the complex historical roots of modern conflict in the Middle East.

The dark side of globalization is that it implies a kind of ruthless and impersonal force: wealthy sectors of our world will simply become more wealthy at the expense of the poor who will become more destitute. We hold up to the new reality of "globalization" the timeless reality of our church which is "Catholic" or universal. Now is the time for us to rediscover what it is to be authentically "Catholic." We are called to have the universal heart and outlook of Jesus Christ as we interact more closely with cultures, regions and histories that are so different from our own.

In addition, interreligious dialogue and understanding -- so often relegated in practice to low priority status -- has taken on a new importance for our Church. In their Pastoral Message on September 11th, the American Bishops state: "People of all faiths must be united in the conviction that terrorism in the name of religion profanes religion. The most effective counter to terrorist claims of religious justification comes from within the world's rich religious traditions and form the witness of so many people of faith who have been a powerful force for non-violent human liberation around the world."<sup>2</sup>

There is a great need for Catholics who are firmly rooted in the theological and contemplative tradition of our Church to reach out in intellectual and contemplative understanding and conversation to the religions of the world.

Pope Paul VI explained this need so beautifully in On Evangelization in the Modern World: "The Church respects and esteems these non-Christian religions because they are the living expression of the soul of vast groups of people. They carry within them the echo of thousands of years of searching for God, a quest which is incomplete but often made with great sincerity and righteousness of heart. They possess an impressive patrimony of deeply religious texts. They have taught generations of people how to pray. They are all impregnated with innumerable 'seeds of the Word' and can constitute a true 'preparation for the Gospel...'"<sup>3</sup>

We remember too that one of the sad casualties of September 11th was our nation's turning away from some historic breakthroughs in immigration laws between the United States and Mexico. There is no question that our government has had valid national security concerns, but we continue to pray for deeper ecclesial bonds of solidarity between North America and South America. We seek the intercession of St. Juan Diego, the newly canonized saint of Mexico, who experienced directly and deeply the love of Our Lady of Guadalupe, the Patroness of the Americas.

We Reaffirm the Sanctity of Human Life

Massive, premeditated terrorism is one of the darkest manifestations of the Culture of Death and the ongoing spiral of violence. Our national grief and the warm comfort we received from our brothers and sisters around the world remind us powerfully of the inherent dignity of each human person and the immeasurable value of human life.

As always, our Church stands up valiantly against every form of terrorism that would violate the sanctity of human life -- terrorism conducted in the womb, terrorism that many in our society would like to conduct against the elderly, the terrorism of capital punishment, the implicit terrorism in human cloning and immoral forms of stem cell research as well as the terrorism of chemical, biological and nuclear weapons. September 11th reaffirmed dramatically for us the call to be consistent and coherent in our efforts to reassert the sanctity of human life in all its stages.

We Embrace Our Vocation of Peacemaking and the Church's Teaching on War and Peace

The best tribute we can offer the dead and their families who continue to grieve is to resolve to work for peace and social justice in our world and to invest our lives more deeply for the glory of God and the salvation of souls.

The events of September 11th and their aftermath led me back in prayer and study to the Pastoral Letters of the American Bishops on War and Peace issued in 1983 (The Challenge of Peace: God's Promise and Our Response) and 1993 (The Harvest of Justice is Sown in Peace).

I encourage all Catholics and non-Catholics alike in the Diocese of Wilmington to read and pray over these timeless documents. Their holistic approach to questions concerning biblical spirituality and Catholic moral teaching, terrorism and international conflict, the call to peacemaking and formation of conscience, their emphasis on securing human rights and assuring sustainable and equitable development make these pastoral letters as relevant today in the post-September 11th world as they were when they were first issued.

We are called to embrace our vocation to peacemaking in our families, our communities and our world. In his January 1, 2002 Message for the World Day of Peace, Pope John Paul II reminds us: "Prayer for Peace is not an afterthought to the work of peace. It is of the very essence of building the peace of order, justice, and freedom. To pray for peace is to open the human heart to the inroads of God's power to renew all things."

May the Queen of Peace comfort all who grieve the loss of loved ones from terroristic attacks on this one year anniversary of September 11th. And may we all step boldly into the future with the love of Christ as our guide.

Your Excellency:

Enclosed please find the Executive Summary of the audit of your Diocese. Any commendations, recommendations or instructions were presented to you at the termination of the audit by the auditors.

If recommendations or instructions were presented to you, a response was requested on a specific date. Needless to say, you can reply prior to the date but you are respectfully requested to reply on time.

If you have any questions concerning any aspects of the audit, please do not hesitate to call me.

Sincerely yours,

WILLIAM A. GAVIN

Executive Summary Wilmington Diocese

An audit was conducted at the Diocese of Wilmington, DE, from October 13, 2003 – October 17, 2003. This audit, performed by V. Dave Kohl and Louis E. Bracksieck, was to test the compliance with the Charter for the Protection of Children and Young People (Charter), established in June, 2002, by the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB).

The Wilmington Diocese covers a 5307 square mile region of the State of Delaware and the Eastern Shore area of Maryland. The Catholic population of the diocese is approximately 215,000. There are 208 diocesan and religious priests serving 57 parishes and 20 missions. Additionally, there are 29 religious brothers and 77 permanent deacons. More than 15,500 students attend 41 Catholic elementary schools and seven high schools. The diocese was established in 1868. The Most Reverend Michael A. Saltarelli was appointed Bishop of Wilmington November 21, 1995.

This audit consisted of file reviews of diocesan records, public documents and personal interviews to include the Bishop, Vicar General, Chancellor, Vocations Director, Vicar for Priests, Legal Counsel, Review Board Chairman, Review Board member, Human Resources Director, Communications Director, Victim Assistance Coordinator, Director Catholic Youth Ministry, Superintendent of Schools, Director of Religious Education, Attorney General for the State of Delaware, Former Chief Deputy Attorney General, two parish priests and a law enforcement detective.

Articles 1 – 3: To Promote Healing and Reconciliation with the Victims/Survivors of the Sexual Abuse of Minors

Wilmington has established a policy to address matters related to implementing the Charter entitled, "Revised Policy and Procedures Governing Allegations of Sexual Abuse of Minors, Diocese of Wilmington" October, 2003. Twenty four victims/family members have been assisted or continue to be served through this policy. Catholic Charities is the primary provider and coordinator of services. The diocesan policy provides protocols for receiving reports of incidents and notifying civil authorities. The diocese has published its policy on its internet site and in the diocesan newspaper, and has furnished hard copies to all priests and school officials. Procedures for reporting incidents are clearly laid out and easy to follow. The bishop or his representative has met with all victims or families who have been willing to accept them. A Victim Assistance Coordinator was appointed in July 2002. In August 2002, a Review Board consisting of 12 members with diverse backgrounds was established. The Review Board acts as a confidential, consultative body to assist the bishop in discharging his responsibilities. The board operates under separate guidelines.

Articles 4 – 7: To Guarantee an Effective Response to Allegations of Sexual Abuse of Minors

The bishop has met with the Delaware Attorney General (AG) and the diocesan attorney has contacted most of the Maryland State's Attorneys. A protocol was agreed to for reporting all allegations. In the meeting with the AG, the bishop disclosed all information requested on all known cases for the past 40 years. An editorial in the New Journal, dated January 29, 2003, praised the diocese for its swift and open handling of three abuse cases. Wilmington's policy provides for a prompt and thorough investigation in accord with canon law and due process. It also details the procedures for placing offenders on administrative leave and, if necessary or warranted permanent removal from ministerial duties. At the same time, offenders are offered professional assistance for their own healing and well-being. In all cases in which clerics have been found to have committed sexual abuse of a minor, they have been dismissed from ministry, laicized or have been found to be elderly and infirmed to the extent they are confined to an institution. Canonical and civil representation is encouraged for any alleged offender. Separate and specific conduct standards have been delineated for priests, permanent deacons, seminarians, religious sisters and brothers, employees, and volunteers through covenants. Each requires a signed acknowledgement of receipt/covenant. These are maintained at the Chancery or in personnel files. The standards are publicized in "For the Sake of God's Children," Part II - Ethical and Behavioral Standards for Church Personnel. They have also been the subject of media reports in the secular and diocesan press. A written communications policy exists which incorporates concern for law enforcement, parishes, public, and sex abuse prevention, and outreach programs. The diocese has demonstrated a very open and transparent relationship with the media.

Article 9: To Ensure the Accountability of Our Procedures

The archdiocese has submitted the final results of the John Jay College survey.

Articles 12 – 17: To Protect the Faithful in the Future

A "safe environment" program has been established and detailed in the booklet entitled, "For Sake of God's Children," a five part program in Wilmington, and is the subject of a separate commendation. The material contained in this document has been presented in a series of meetings held for priest, deacons, seminarians, employees and parish leadership. Parish leaders have responsibility for introducing the programs at the parish level. Training is reinforced by administrators. Catholic schools have a self esteem series and a program called Door of Hope for students. A Catechesis in Human Sexuality program for grades 1-8 is an adjunct to the CCD program. Augmenting this program are procedures for conducting background checks. In July 2002, a committee of 14 was established to implement all aspects of the background check system including a 5 year cyclical review. As of September 2003, over 6,000 individuals have undergone background checks. They anticipate an additional 4,000 will have checks completed by the end of the year. A stringent screening and evaluation process is used for prospective seminarians prior to acceptance using an 11 point program. Seminarians are continually screened and evaluated until ordination. In October 2002 the bishop met with cleric members of religious institutes and women religious to discuss the sexual abuse crisis. Bishop meets annually with major superiors of clerical institutes and the religious communities of women. The diocese established a continuing formation committee for priests that is active and effective. In January 2003 a blue ribbon task force drafted priestly standards regarding celibacy and sexuality. The bishop maintains a consistent focus on healthy, balanced priestly celibacy, sexuality and ministerial ethics.

The diocese was commended for its 'safe environment program.'

Conclusion:

This audit finds the Diocese of Wilmington to be in compliance with the Charter.

- Diocesan statistics are not kept on this subject. Hospitals and nursing homes are covered by fulltime, part time or parish priests. Homebound sick and disabled people are visited regularly by the clergy. Registers are kept in parishes and institutions of those receiving the sacrament.

7. PERCENTAGE OF SUNDAY MASS ATTENDANCE 66.5% 67% (DISTINGUISH THE FOLLOWING PERCENTAGES:

The Diocese of Wilmington has instituted the practice, as in other dioceses, of asking for a count of Mass attendees each October since that seems to be the month when attendance is normal with the difference that changes of seasons bring to cities, urban, rural and vacation areas. There are other Catholics certainly who are inactive. Parish priests are concerned that parents are not as attentive as in the past to bringing their children to church. Because of distances from church, children without parental support cannot attend Mass.

Attendance at Masses seems to be increasing on college campuses. However, young people are still reluctant to take an active interest to the same degree in Catholic activities.

B. Description

The Director of the Office of Worship assists the bishop is carrying out his functions as promoter and guardian of the liturgical life of the diocese. Thus, the Director becomes responsible for the development and coordination of the liturgical life of the diocese. The primary responsibilities of the director include: the development and direction of liturgical catechesis for the proper preparation of liturgical celebrations in the parishes and diocese; the development and direction of formation programs for liturgical ministries; the development and coordination of formation programs for the proper implementation of the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (RCIA) in the diocese; the development and direction of the formation programs for the parish liturgy committees, and the implementation of all recommendations, directives and guidelines promulgated and approved by the Ordinary.

The Director of the Office of Worship serves as the Executive Secretary of the Diocesan Liturgical Commission. The Commission assists the Director of Worship and the Ordinary by suggesting policies and guidelines for the liturgical life of the diocese and by serving in an advisory capacity to the Director of Worship as he discerns the liturgical needs and goals of the diocese. The Commission is composed of thirteen clergy and lay members who are appointed to three year terms by the Bishop. There are two standing committees of the Commission: the Music Committee and the Committee on Design and Renovation of Worship Space. The Commission meets at least six times a year. The Commission is guided by a Constitution and By-Laws which have been approved by the Ordinary.

1. Liturgy in general

a. The Sunday obligation is well kept by the people of the diocese and the norms for the proper celebration of the Eucharist are observed. The changes in the liturgy mandated by the GIRM were implemented in Advent 2003. Corrective measures are taken if any departure from approved norms are noted by the Bishop personally, by the Director of Worship, or by others. The Sacrament of Penance is celebrated weekly in parishes and more frequently as necessary throughout the diocese with increasing numbers. During Advent and Lent there are communal celebrations of the Sacrament of Penance in most parishes. The ongoing liturgical formation of the faithful is accomplished through the parish and diocesan sponsored workshops.

b. All parishes use the approved liturgical texts and valid matter and form for the celebration of the sacraments. The norms governing the use of "general absolution" are observed. Communal Penance Services are coordinated through the periodic meeting of priests of the deanery so there are enough priests at each service to provide for individual confessions. There are no occasions of which I have knowledge when general absolution has been given. Diocesan Guidelines exist for the priests to refer if there is ever a reason to warrant it.

c. The Sacred Liturgy is of the highest priority in the diocese and is celebrated with great care and dignity. The churches of the diocese are well maintained as are the vestments, vessels and furnishings. All parishes provide for congregational singing at Mass. There is also a Gospel Choir and a Gregorian Mass Choir that provide music in parishes throughout the diocese.

d. The parishes stress the importance of Advent and Lent and provide special liturgical services and programs during those seasons. The Easter Triduum is the highlight of the liturgical year and great emphasis is placed on the celebration of the Easter Vigil.

e. The Funeral Rites are celebrated according to the Order of Christian Funerals in all parishes. The Diocese of Wilmington has three diocesan cemeteries in New Castle County and one recently opened in Sussex County. The Rite of Committal may be celebrated both at graveside or in a chapel in each cemetery when the weather is adverse or interment in mausoleums or garden crypts. Approved liturgical books for the service is provided to the priests and deacons who officiate at the services. At this time there is no pastoral need for lay persons to officiate at cemetery services.

Eighteen parish cemeteries also exist in the diocese but only provision for in ground interment is provided, whereas, the diocesan cemeteries provide opportunities for interment and entombment.

Cremation is not yet widely chosen as a means of disposing of the body. About 5% of burials involve cremated remains. Christian Burial Guidelines reinforce the canonical and liturgical rules when cremation is chosen. Cemeteries make special provision for the cremated remains. The indult permitting Bishops in the USA to allow cremated remains in church for the Mass of Christian Burial was implemented by the Bishop on November 1, 1997.

The sacramentals are provided for the faithful. While Catholic religious goods stores are few in number some parishes provide religious articles stores on a small scale for the people.

f. The Rite of Election and the Chrism Mass are extremely well attended and are celebrated with great reverence and received by the faithful with much enthusiasm.

g. The Liturgy of the Hours is celebrated publicly in an increasing number of the parish churches during Advent and Lent. Public recitation, however, is not as well received by the laity as was visualized when the Divine Office was put into the vernacular.

h. Opportunities for popular piety are provided by the parishes in the diocese. Most churches have First Friday and First Saturday devotions. On First Friday in several parishes there are Eucharistic devotions with exposition and benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament accompanied by special prayers for priests and for an increase of vocations to the priesthood. In addition, some parishes also have a half day of adoration of the Blessed Sacrament on days other than First Friday as part of their ongoing Eucharistic devotion. Some parishes also have public recitation of the Rosary either (1) before Mass or (2) after Mass and especially on the First Saturday of the month, in some churches this happens on a daily basis. There are also parishes that provide novenas to Our Lady of Perpetual Help and Miraculous Medal. Most parishes have May Devotions to Our Lady that feature participation of young people. The Stations of the Cross are celebrated during Lent. Some parishes celebrate the Stations of the Cross in an ecumenical context with our separated brethren. A biennial diocesan pilgrimage is held to the Basilica Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, DC and this pilgrimage usually attracts some 1,500 people.

2. Individual Sacraments

a. The Holy Eucharist. The celebration of the Eucharist on Sunday is the major activity of each parish and the resources of the parishes provide for the full, active participation of the faithful in its celebration. The clergy prepare their homilies well and the homilies are doctrinally sound. Anticipated Masses are celebrated in all the parishes. There are no instances of a Sunday celebration in the absence of a priest. The norms for bination and trination are observed. The Ordinary of the Diocese has issued new guidelines for the proper training of the Special Ministers of the Eucharist. Viaticum is administered when needed. The Holy Eucharist is securely reserved in all parishes. The indult to use the Missale Romanum of 1962 is given in two locations in the diocese.

St. Ann's Parish and Immaculate Heart of Mary Parish in Wilmington, and Holy Cross Parish in Dover all have perpetual Eucharistic adoration. Lay people have enthusiastically volunteered to spend an hour in front of the Blessed Sacrament during the week. Some of our men in the seminary mention their consistent prayer in front of the Blessed Sacrament at these sites of perpetual adoration as one of the reasons they responded to a call to the priesthood.

The people of the Diocese have benefited from the rich teaching contained in Pope John Paul II's recent encyclical Ecclesia in Eucharistia.

b. Christian Initiation. The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (RCIA) is mandated in all parishes in the diocese. The response has been very gratifying with the numbers of people who are joining the Church. The Christian initiation of children and young people is provided through this Rite. Most infants are baptized within a reasonable period of time after birth. Every parish has a required preparation program for parents of children to be baptized. Confirmation is celebrated at age 14 and above in the diocese with the Ordinary as the celebrant. The Sacrament of Penance is duly celebrated before the reception of First Holy Communion which takes place at 7 years of age. The parishes provide training for parents to assist them in the preparation of their children in the celebration of First Penance and First Holy Communion.

c. Penance. The ongoing formation of conscience concerning the meaning of sin and conversion is part of every parish's mission. The integrity of the Sacrament is maintained. Even in penance celebration opportunities for private declaration of sinfulness to the priest is provided. Generally these penance services take place in Advent and Lent. All parishes have proper settings for the celebration of the sacrament with provision for anonymity. The observance of penitential days is well practiced with a great response to the practice of charity and the works of mercy during Lent.

d. Holy Orders. Candidates for the priesthood are normally ordained to the diaconate in their respective seminaries. Ordinations to priesthood, when candidates have received the necessary ecclesiastical approval and have been called to Holy Orders by the Ordinary, is celebrated with great dignity and solemnity in the Cathedral with the full, conscious and active participation of the faithful. During the quinquennium, nine men were ordained to the priesthood and thirty-three to the permanent diaconate for service in the Diocese.

e. Marriage. The diocese has issued new guidelines for the preparation of couples for the Sacrament of Marriage and is in the process of implementing them. The previous program had required a minimum of four months of preparation for the Sacrament of Marriage with diocesan sponsored Pre Cana, Engaged Encounter or Couple to Couple training in addition to meetings with the clergy. The revised guidelines now require a year long period of preparation which is more in keeping with the praenotanda of the revised Ordo celebrandi Matrimonium of 1991. The approved liturgical texts are used in the liturgical celebrations of marriage. The Office of Worship, with the approval of the Ordinary, has also issued music guidelines to assist both couples and musicians in selecting suitable music for the celebration of Matrimony within the sacred context.

f. Anointing of the Sick. The proper understanding of the criteria for administration and the repetition of the sacrament is had by the clergy and is implemented. The sacrament is readily available to the faithful. Full time chaplains are provided at large hospitals in the See City. Because of the number and size of some nursing homes in the Wilmington area, one priest is assigned full time to cover approximately 12 homes. In other areas of the diocese parishes take responsibility for celebrating the sacrament in hospitals and nursing homes in their territory. Some parishes have public Anointing of the Sick with proper criteria as to whom is to receive it. Priests are assisted in ministry to the sick by lay people trained according to diocesan guidelines for visiting the sick or taking communion to them in hospitals or at home. Priests are instructed to visit the homebound at least once a month, usually on First Friday, to provide opportunity for confession.

3. The Cult of the Saints

a. There are no beatified or canonized saints of the diocese.

b. There are no processes of beatification or canonization under investigation.

B. Description

1. The Promotion of Vocations

During the quinquennium, the Vocations Office continued to manage a number of programs which had been previously successful in promoting vocation awareness throughout the Diocese. Some efforts were parish-based; some were targeted at specific age ranges. Some programs were geared toward priesthood and religious life; others were more specifically focused on diocesan priesthood.

a. Parish-Based Initiatives

- i. Parishes were provided with vocation-related bulletin announcements and suggested prayers for the General Intercessions. Homily materials and bulletin inserts were sent to all parishes to coincide with the World Day of Prayer for Vocations and Vocation Awareness Week.
- ii. Parishes (and other diocesan institutions) were provided with posters that bore photographs of our seminarians as well as contact information for those interested in learning more about priesthood and religious life.
- iii. Altar Server Appreciation Days were held during which seventh and eighth grade altar servers gathered with the Bishop, clergy and local religious for prayer and fellowship with a focus on vocation awareness.

b. Vocation Program for Young People

- i. Elementary and Secondary School Visitations: This program ensured that students attending diocesan schools in the sixth and eleventh grades (approximately 11 and 16 years of age) were given exposure to local clergy and religious whose visits included presentations on the priesthood and religious life and provided opportunities for questions and answers.
- ii. Vocation Video: The Diocese produced a fifteen-minute videotape about religious vocations; the videotape featured local clergy and was used in presentations to elementary and secondary students in Catholic schools as well as to Catholic youth groups.
- iii. Pass the Word: Assisted by the faculties of Catholic secondary schools in the Diocese, the Vocations Office invited young men and women in the 11th and 12th grades (approximately 16 to 17 years of age) to spend a day in prayer and discussion centering around the issues of priesthood and religious life. The young men were taken to the major seminary of a nearby diocese; the young women were taken to a diocesan retreat house. Participants included the Bishop, the Director of Vocations, diocesan clergy and local religious.

c. The College Program: Taking place at the University of Delaware, this program offered students the opportunity to participate in a five-day retreat-like experience on campus during Lent. The gatherings included prayer, workshops and the chance for individual meetings with diocesan priests and religious men and women, giving students a chance to reflect on the journey to which God might be calling them.

d. Discernment Programs

i. Weekend Discernment Retreats: During the quinquennium, the Diocese offered single men and women the opportunity to pray and reflect on where God might be calling them in terms of vocation. The principles of spiritual discernment were presented along with presentations on the priesthood, religious life, single life and marriage.

ii. Vocation Discernment Group: In the first year of the quinquennium, men who were interested in considering a vocation to diocesan priesthood were invited to monthly evenings of prayer, fellowship and reflection at a parish rectory. Each meeting was devoted to a different topic related to priesthood (celibacy, prayer, seminary formation, et al). A team of four priests coordinated this effort.

e. Encouraging the Faithful to Accept Responsibility in Promoting Vocations

i. Use of The Dialog (Diocesan Newspaper): Throughout the quinquennium, interviews with seminarians, priests, and religious were published. These articles served the dual purpose of allowing the larger diocesan community to grow in its understanding of how people experience God's call while at the same time raising the awareness of local Catholics in terms of the need for all women and men to take seriously their part in helping others realize their vocational call. During Vocation Awareness Week, The Dialog published a vocation-themed insert which included pictures and interviews with the seminarians.

- ii. Annual Seminary Collection: In conjunction with this annual collection, priests were encouraged to promote vocations to the priesthood. Many pastors invited seminarians to share with the Catholic faithful the story of their vocation journey and their hopes and aspirations, impressing on them the Church's appreciation for their prayerful support.

f. Mass-Media Efforts

- i. Billboards: Early in the quinquennium, the Diocese sponsored billboard advertisements along a small number of heavily traveled roads. These signs were similar to those used in other dioceses throughout North America and had the secondary and welcome effect of generating news in the local press.
- ii. Website: In the last year, the Diocese sponsored a website specifically devoted to the Office of Vocations. The site included a letter of welcome from the Bishop, information on seminaries used by the Diocese, a description of the typical program of formation, answers to frequently-asked questions and contact information for those who wished to receive more information from the Office of Vocations.
- iii. CD-ROM: The Diocese produced a CD-ROM disc that contains a presentation on vocations to priesthood and religious life. The content of the disc also allows users to connect to various vocation-related sites on the World-Wide-Web.
- iv. Flying Banner: A banner attached to an airplane was flown over beaches within diocesan boundaries during one summer season when the beaches were crowded with young people. The banner contained language used in the aforementioned billboard campaign.

The Diocese of Wilmington also participated in national efforts to promote vocations. The Diocesan Director of Vocations, the Director of Seminarians, and priest-members of the Diocesan Vocations Board are all members of the National Conference of Diocesan Vocation Directors (NCDVD). This Conference has working relationships with the Bishops' Committee on Vocations, the NCEA Seminary Department, and the National Council of Religious Vocation Directors (NCRVD).

2. Major Seminaries

No major seminary exists within the Diocese of Wilmington. During the quinquennium, the Diocese sent seminarians to St. Mary's Seminary (Baltimore, Maryland), Theological College at the Catholic University of America (Washington, DC), Immaculate Conception Seminary at Seton Hall University (South Orange, New Jersey) and Blessed John XXIII National Seminary (Weston, Massachusetts). (The program offered at Blessed John XXIII National Seminary is specifically oriented to men whose decision to enter formation for priesthood has surfaced later in life.)

The concern of the Bishop, the Director of Vocations and the Director of Seminarians is the proper formation of men for the priesthood in light of the needs of the People of God in the local Church of the Diocese of Wilmington. The seminaries listed above have proven useful and helpful to that end. All formation programs are in keeping with the Program of Priestly Formation issued by the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops.

The Vocations Office also plays an integral part in the ongoing formation of candidates for priesthood. During the quinquennium, certain functions previously administered by the Director of Vocations were split off from that position and became the basis for the newly instituted position of Director of Seminarians. The Director of Vocations has responsibility for vocation awareness programs and for recruiting potential seminarians and recommending them to the Bishop for acceptance by the Diocese and placement in specific formation programs; once a man formally begins seminary studies, he falls under the purview of the Director of Seminarians, whose responsibility it is to monitor the man's academic, pastoral and spiritual formation. Both the Director of Vocations and the Director of Seminarians visit each seminary twice a year, once in the Fall and once in the Spring. The goals of these visits include the pastoral support of the seminarians, the fostering of an ongoing relationship with those charged with the proper formation of the seminarians for the Diocese of Wilmington, and the opportunity to keep the Vocations Office abreast of both the needs and concerns of the men in formation as well as developments in the various programs of formation.

Seminarians are also given the opportunity for 10-week parish placements during the summer after their second and third years of theology. Some choose to enter parish placements prior to those required times and the Vocations Office, with the support of local pastors, does all within its power to make this a reality for those who desire it. During the quinquennium, seminarians in such placements met as a group weekly with the Director of Vocations (or with the Director of Seminarians, since the creation of that position) and the Vocations Staff (four diocesan priests who are charged with assisting the Director of Vocations and the Bishop). These gatherings included time for prayer, discussion of parish pastoral incidents shared by the seminarians, and the opportunity to address concerns. At the end of each summer, evaluations were written by the seminarians and the pastoral supervisors in the parish; these were shared with the Vocations Staff, the Bishop, and the seminary.

Each summer, the Vocations Office arranged for a three-day gathering for all seminarians. These times of prayer and reflection also provided opportunities for the seminarians to get to know each other better.

A program is in place to monitor and support the transitional deacons' movement from seminary to diaconal ministry to priesthood. Transitional deacons were assigned to parishes after consultation with the Director of Vocations, the Director of Seminarians, the Vocations Staff, and the Priests Personnel Committee. Careful consideration was given to this very important first ministerial assignment and to the pastors with whom the deacons would be ministering. Group supervision occurred once a week until priestly ordination and twice a month during the first year of priesthood.

The Bishop himself remains an integral part of this entire process. During the quinquennium, the bishop met frequently with the seminarians, attended seminarian gatherings, and made contact with them whenever he was in the vicinity of one of the seminaries and his schedule allowed.

3. Formation of candidates

Candidates for the permanent diaconate undertake a four-and-a-half year process of spiritual, academic and pastoral formation, beginning with a year long aspirancy period. The academic program includes courses in Foundational Theology, Introduction to the Bible, Gospels, Church History, Old Testament, Ecclesiology, Christology, Moral Theology, Sacramental Theology, Catechetics, Applied Pastoral Theology, Liturgical Praxix, Homiletics, Spirituality, Canon Law and the Theology of Preaching. In addition, they have two years of pastoral formation that overlay their last two years of academic courses. For the fall term, 2003, there are currently 12 men in their fourth year of formation in an English language track along with three in their third year of formation in a Spanish language track. A spiritual formation team of deacon couples, religious and priests accompanies both cohorts.

4. Minor Seminaries

No minor seminary exists within the Diocese of Wilmington. During the quinquennium, the Diocese sent seminarians to St. Andrew's College Seminary, affiliated with Immaculate Conception Seminary at Seton Hall University (South Orange, New Jersey).

5. Formation of Candidates for Priesthood Who Are of a Mature Age:

As noted in the first paragraph of section 2 ("Major Seminaries"), the Diocese used Blessed John XXIII National Seminary for this purpose during the quinquennium. Everything else concerning formation in that section also applies here.

6. Ecclesiastical Faculties

Since there are no major or minor seminaries in the Diocese, there are no ecclesiastical faculties.

7. There are no Catholic colleges or universities in the territory of the diocese.

8. Pastoral Care in Universities

9. Catholic Schools

Importance of Catholic Schools

On January 24, 2002 Bishop Saltarelli issued a pastoral letter entitled "Catholic Schools: A Gift of the Church". In that document he clearly enunciates the importance of Catholic Schools in the Dioceses of Wilmington when he says:

"I submit...that Catholic Schools are not only necessary as we venture into a new century, but they are so necessary that the mission of our Church would be seriously handicapped if Catholic Schools ceased to exist."

"...the schools in our diocese and throughout the United States are, in truth, one of the major formal vehicles for promoting and expanding the lived faith community we call 'church'. Each year these schools send into the larger community men and women, who are specifically trained in the message and ministry of the Catholic Church and who, according to every recent study about Catholic Schools, enrich and enliven parish communities across our land."

Our Bishop so believes in Catholic Schools that he called upon the entire Diocese to join with him in a massive effort to "Bring the Vision to Life" and that effort has resulted in the opening of two new Catholic elementary schools and the expansion of a Diocesan high school.

Relation to Civil Authorities

Catholic Schools are independent of the civil authority in the United States. Our schools, however, take advantage of local, state and federal programs that assist us in the education of children without jeopardizing our mission to operate manifestly religious schools.

Financial State of the Schools

Our schools are mainly supported by tuition from parents who opt for these schools for their children and from subsidies provided for those schools that are a part of the mission of local parishes. For many years the Diocese has had a foundation established to assist needy families in taking advantage of a Catholic School education. Thousands of dollars are awarded annually in financial assistance. The Diocese, further, completed a study of the financing of schools in the winter of 2003 as a means of determining how to more creatively finance all our schools and to assist those institutions that are or maybe in danger of closing because of lack of financial support. Generally, most schools in the Diocese are fiscally responsible.

School Related Associations

Each of our schools has a Home and School Association which is a way that parents, teachers and administrators can work together for the benefit of the education of children. Every parish school has a board or a Christian Formation Committee which assists in an advisory way some of the governing operations of the schools. There is a Diocesan School Board and under that Board there is an association of parents who assist in promoting legislative activities on behalf of the schools.

Inclusion of the Scholastic Community in Parish/Diocese

Schools actively promote social awareness and responsibility among their students. Most schools have programs of outreach that bring the students into contact with people and causes which have specialized needs and concerns. Catholic School students continue to be actively involved in the liturgical life of the parishes and at time of the Diocese. Catholic School students compose a major part of the annual March For Life efforts every year in Washington, DC.

Future Outlook for Catholic Schools

The Diocese of Wilmington is expanding its school efforts and thus the future appears to be bright. There are challenges from other educational institutions which look very much like Catholic Schools (Charter Schools, etc.). Catholic Schools will survive and thrive to the extent that they creatively market their Catholicity and the features that make them truly unique.

Catholic Identity

There is a uniform curriculum for religious instruction on all levels of learning. The Office of Religious Education oversees that instruction in the schools and in religious education programs apart from the schools. The courses and the programs of the schools provide ample opportunities for developing the spiritual lives of the children. The teachers are encouraged to model the living of a spiritual life. The schools provide wonderful opportunities for students to become actively involved in the liturgical life of the parishes and of the internal liturgical life of the schools. Students are trained as lectors, etc.

Every teacher in our schools is required to participate each fall and spring in the Religious Formation classes conducted by the Office of Religious Education. These classes help the teachers in developing a solid religiously oriented life and in keeping current with the issues important to the Church.

Principals are required to assure the authenticity of Catholic teachings and the office of Religious Education in concert with the Office of Catholic Schools makes sure that the materials used in the instruction of children are reflective of the teachings of the Church.

Each fall every teacher new to teaching in a Catholic School attends a day sponsored by the Office of Catholic Schools during which they are exposed to the history of Catholic School Education in the United States and come to a better understanding of the role of teacher as catechist and minister. This experience is reinforced by an annual retreat required of every teacher in each school and by religious activities that permeate the school experience. These experiences move teachers to become more patently pastoral in their instruction and to become more visibly models of Christian living.

INFORMATION CONCERNING THEIR EFFECTIVENESS

The diocese has a well formed and articulate process for the formation and certification of catechists. The catechists in the Catholic Schools are given time within the school year to obtain the necessary courses required for certification. Parish catechists must achieve such certification on their own time. They are most generous in attending courses on the weekend and at night. The parish catechists experience a higher turnover rate than the school catechists. Thus, the overall level of their training is less than those in the schools. However, their enthusiasm for the faith is contagious and often makes an indelible impression on those they catechize. Our catechists are formed well to carry out their tasks.

Overall, the catechetical instruction in the schools and the parishes is good. Its effectiveness is limited by the amount of parental support and engagement with the parish community. These are essential factors in gauging any long term effectiveness. We are attempting through numerous avenues to assist parents in a more intentional effort to pass on the Catholic faith.

Youth formation is a great challenge. Many adults do not see a need for ongoing growth in their knowledge of the faith. In the last few years, parishes have increased their efforts to encourage and challenge the adults to become more active in adult faith formation. The small faith communities, prayer groups and Scripture study groups continue to be sources of vibrant faith life.

B. Description

1. The Bishop works with two boards, one for Catholic Schools and one for Religious Education. They recommend policy to him for guidance of the educational and catechetical programs. The diocese maintains a comprehensive array of policies that provide direction for the catechetical efforts. The policies are updated and revised on a regular cycle.

During the past five years, the Office of Religious Education has undertaken a major initiative to implement the US bishops pastoral plan for adult faith formation, "Our Hearts Were Burning Within Us." Ten parishes were selected to be part of a pilot program for developing the local adult formation programs. An extensive survey of the people preceded the development of the programs.

As part of the Jubilee Year effort, the diocese undertook a major initiative to rekindle a love for the Sacrament of Reconciliation among our people. Educational materials were prepared for the children, youth and adults. A series of articles by respected theologians and pastors on various aspects of the Sacrament were commissioned for our diocesan newspaper. In each deanery there was a major celebration of the Sacrament with numerous confessors available for the faithful.

There has been an increased effort to provide bilingual services for the new immigrants, especially the Spanish speaking.

In 2003, the bishop issued a call to all parishes and schools to participate in a parish based, diocesan wide process called: Faith for Tomorrow: On Good Soil. Beginning with parish discussions about important issues of faith for our children, our adolescents, our new members, our schools, our families, our catechists, our whole parishes, the process will proceed to regional gatherings. In March of 2004, there will be a diocesan convocation to reflect on the conversations and suggest directions for the future.

2. Personnel and Educational Materials

a) Catechist Formation is one of the highest priorities of the diocesan catechetical effort. There is collaboration with the Schools Office in this work. All catechists in the parish programs and Catholic schools are expected to participate in the diocesan certification and recognition program. Even teachers in the Catholic schools who do not teach religion are required to participate. They are given "recognition" rather than "certification." Catechists are certified at various levels by participating in ten hour courses. The courses include methods and theology and personal spirituality. They must continue to take courses until they reach the advanced level. With the support of the Catholic Schools Office, we have been able to certify the majority of the school catechists. The parish catechists present unique challenges. They are persons who generously give their time to the parishes as a response to a call of the Spirit. Most of them have jobs outside of the home and many are parents raising school aged children. They have limited time. We have introduced a video assisted basic formation element to our program. It has enabled many more persons to achieve a basic level of certification. One discouragement is the turnover of parish catechists. On average, they do not stay for more than three years. Thus there is a constant need for recruitment and training. Every effort is made to maintain unity and some uniformity in the presentation of material.

The diocese has initiated a program to financially assist the graduate education of those who would like to become parish Directors of Religious or religion teachers in the Catholic Schools.

b) The United States is blessed with a rich variety of catechetical materials which are of the highest quality. There are several text series for elementary and secondary children and youth. The materials have been correlated with the Catechism. New materials are reviewed by the Office to determine their conformity with the Catechism. In the diocese, we have correlated our elementary and secondary curricula guidelines with the Catechism. Our catechist formation courses have been reshaped to reflect the content of the catechism.

The publication of the General Directory for Catechesis has been extremely helpful. Since its publication we have conducted numerous workshops for diocesan and parish staffs on the document. It is also a basic text for the Catechetics course for the permanent deacons. It continues to be a guiding light for us. The diocese was very active in the consultations for the National Directory.

We continuously promote the integration of media into the learning process. The children and youth of this country are very media literate and their secular learning includes use of many forms of media. We are still attempting to find ways to incorporate computers into the learning process. On the other hand, the popular media has a pervasive, often deliterious, impact on our people. A part of our education must include helping Catholic Christians become more sophisticated in their judgment about the suitability of various media representations.

3. Forms of evangelization and of catechesis:

a) Pastors and parochial vicars are engaged in catechesis. Where there are Catholic schools, every effort is made to ensure visibility and participation in teaching on the part of the clergy. Pastors also exercise their leadership role by supervising the directors of religious education. Clergy take important leadership roles in the sacramental preparation programs and most especially in the RCIA. With the emergence of the role of the parish director of religious education as one of leadership in catechesis, it is important that we keep clergy actively engaged in this vital ministry. At the diocesan and parish levels, every effort is made to do so. Our guidelines emphasize the pastor's leadership role in catechetical and evangelization ministries.

b) The diocese sees the time when children prepare for the celebration of the sacraments for the first time as important moments for evangelization and catechesis not only of the child but of the family. Immediate preparation for First Confession and First Eucharist are done separately from the regular catechetical program. Parents must participate in the process. Overall, these programs have achieved their purpose of engaging the parents in the catechetical process and making these times special moments in the faith development of the child and family. The changing nature of the family is creating challenges for this approach. More and more of the families are ecumenical families with both parents being Christian but not Catholic. Single parent families and families where a divorce has taken place create special circumstances for the local programs.

Such programs have proven to be fertile grounds for evangelization. Parents who have been alienated from the church, when dealt with in a pastorally sensitive way, have returned to the full practice of their faith. Parents who have had irregular marriages have been invited to consider engaging in the appropriate canonical processes to regularize their unions. Thus, the fruits of such special programs have been many and diverse.

Preparation for Confirmation has posed a different challenge. Many parishes have modeled their programs on the processes established for Initiation. The preparation is spread over an extended period of time. Often there is a parish sponsor as well as the sponsor chosen by the candidate. Many of the programs are very well done and evoke a strong faith response from adolescents.

Revised Marriage preparation guidelines have been in place for the past five years. The preparation time for most couples has been extended to one year. The process includes several meetings at the local parish with a member of the clergy; a series of workshops and small group meetings with a married couple in the home parish.

Catechesis for the Disabled. The diocese sponsors several centers for children with mental challenged. Each center is staffed by specially trained catechists and aides. Christ the Teacher Elementary School has three children enrolled with Down's syndrome among its students. The curriculum developed through the Kennedy Foundation is in use. The diocese also supports a "Faith and Light" community based on the "L'Arche" method of being with the disabled. A permanent deacon has been assigned to this ministry. The Knights of Columbus have given their support to many of the efforts of this ministry. Each year the Bishop celebrates a special liturgy with the mentally challenged and their families.

A separate ministry exists to meet the needs of the hearing impaired. A chaplain fluent in sign language celebrates a monthly liturgy. He is also available for other sacramental ministry and counseling. One of our parishes has a weekly liturgy with interpreters for the deaf. There are special religious education classes for the deaf children at the parish. The diocese has a local coordinator of the ministry who is deaf.

The Rite of Christian Initiation has been restored in the diocese and the parishes. The Rites called for are celebrated in the parishes and at the diocesan level (Rite of Acceptance, Neophyte Mass). We have revised our guidelines for the RCIA to better reflect a distinction between catechumens and those being brought into full communion. Most parishes have teams established to assist in the formation and instruction of the Catechumens, Inquirers and those seeking union with the church. Many parishes have particular programs for the unbaptized and uncatechized children. The process of initiation modeled in the RCIA has been a great gift to the catechetical community. It is a model for all forms of catechesis. We are still learning how to adapt the model to different cultural and catechetical settings.

c) Since the publication of the US bishops plan for adult faith formation, "Our Hearts Were Burning Within Us" there has been a renewed emphasis on adult faith formation. This is in line with the GDC's support for the priority of adult faith formation. The diocesan office has offered numerous workshops and support services for the parishes. Overall parishes have increased their efforts to provide adult education opportunities across a wide range of topics. Parishes are attempting through surveys and other means to elicit the needs of the adult community and to provide programs that meet these needs. Programs tailored to young mothers, senior citizens, parents and single persons are meeting with some success. The diocesan office for religious education has been exploring ways to use the Internet for some forms of adult learning. While there are certain drawbacks to this approach, it allows an individual to engage in learning that meets their own schedule.

Young adult ministry (22-35) has been greatly expanded. Theology on Tap, an outreach program to young adults during Advent and Lent has been very successful in providing a gathering place for young adults to discuss significant theological and spiritual issues. There are also now three "clubs" for young adults in various parts of the diocese. The ministry on the secular college campuses has been expanded. A full time campus minister has been hired for Salisbury University/University of Maryland Eastern Shore.

d) Parishes are offering retreats and missions throughout the year, but especially in Advent and Lent. Our society makes many demands on people's time. In many families (more than 60%) both spouses work outside of the home and at some distance from the home. When they return home, they have much to attend to especially care for their children. There is a need, therefore, to introduce more spirituality into the homes. Whether it will ever be possible to regain the Sabbath rest, is questionable.

Our people are craving a deeper spirituality to counteract the shallowness of the culture. Our great challenge is to proclaim the gospel in a way that speaks to their hunger and allows the Lord to fill their longings.

There is a growing effort to support the popular religiosity of the more recent immigrants, especially the Spanish speaking. At the same time, good catechesis, especially by our Hispanic Ministry team, keeps the expressions of faith and devotion grounded in sound Catholic theology.

B. Description

1. The Diocese is currently involved in an "open-listing" process for clergy appointments. Parish openings are published, priests are interviewed by the Clergy Personnel Board and with one another, recommendations are then made to the Bishop on the basis of preference and diocesan needs.

The office of the parish priest remains stable and collaboration remains the goal of all pastoral relationships.

Pastoral/Parish Councils have been in existence in the diocese since 1968; specific guidelines for the councils were issued in 1993 and they seem to be working well depending upon priestly leadership. Most priests see the Pastoral Council as effective instruments in the direction and vision of the local parish.

The diocese has just completed its policy for retired priests. Priests may retire at age 70. At 75 they must resign from administrative office on the parish and diocesan level. Depending upon the health of the retiree, pastoral ministry is recommended to the degree the priest is able. A retired priest may live in a rectory, his own home or apartment, with relatives or in an assisted living facility provided by the diocese. The diocese has a pension and medical benefits program. Considering the number soon to be eligible for retirement and the continued longevity of the clergy, plans are being considered for additional facilities and especially accommodations for nursing care of the totally disabled. Programs are being considered to help clergy of all ages to prepare physically, mentally and spiritually for their retirement years.

Priests are provided with grave space in Catholic cemeteries of the diocese in a spot designated for them, or they may choose burial in a family plot. Opening and closing of the grave is provided free of charge and also provided is memorialization of the grave if necessary. Some priests have elected entombment which is largely at their expense. Only one priest so far has chosen cremation but it followed a Funeral Mass with the body present and was done privately in 1988.

2. The clergy is currently fairly well distributed with a significant number serving city parishes in New Castle County where our parishes are closely situated.

Thus far, we have been blessed with not having to merge parishes or place two under the leadership of one pastor. Consequently the solidarity of the faithful and their proper parish priest remains solid. No parishes as of this time have had to be given to a deacon or non-ordained person for administration.

3. The clergy of the diocese seem to be well adjusted with a good spirit and a firm life of piety founded on the Eucharist. Celibacy and life style are accepted. When problems arise there are people and systems in place to address the needs. When required proper ecclesiastical attire is worn and clergy involvement in political affairs is monitored with regular directives.

Appropriate housing and sustenance for priests is under the direction of special committees which make recommendations to the Bishop at regular intervals. The spirit of poverty and detachment is a constant source of renewal and personal growth.

Generally the attitude of the clergy regarding obedience and the acceptance of assignments is good. When difficulties arise they are addressed by the Bishop.

Presently most priests are accepting to transfers and will respond to needs. Due to our current circumstances, i.e. facing shortage in the local Church, we are reluctant to go elsewhere for ministry.

Presently there are no "Fidei Donum" priests in the diocese but we do have several retired priests from outside the diocese plus several who are on leave from outside the diocese. Care is taken to assure proper credentials for all extern priests who are welcomed into the diocese for pastoral work.

In the period 1998 to 2003, four priests have left active ministry due to credible allegations of clergy sexual abuse. These cases and the pre-1998 cases are all being handled in accord with the Charter and the Essential Norms and being referred properly to the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith (see The Crisis in the Church and the Diocese of Wilmington in section III).

One priest is presently on a leave of absence. Another priest who had been working in parishes in the Diocese of Venice, FL and the Diocese of Orlando has made a decision to seek voluntary laicization. Neither of these cases involved the sexual abuse of a minor.

4. Continuing Formation of the Clergy

Priests' Retreats - An annual retreat is provided for all diocesan priests. All priests gather for the diocesan retreat once every four years. The Bishop participates in every diocesan retreat. Themes for the past years:

D) Sabbatical Programs

The Diocese encourages priests to participate in extended sabbatical programs. Most years one or two priests have participated in the sabbatical program at the North American College in Rome. Opportunities are also available for shorter programs at the Seminary Schools of Theology in the United States. The difficulty of getting suitable coverage when a priest wants a sabbatical means that permission for extended sabbatical must be rethought.

E) Study Weeks

A Study Week is held every four years for the priests of the Diocese. The Study Week is an intensive learning experience designed to update and/or educate the priests concerning a specific issue or area of concern. The week also promotes the common celebration of the Eucharist, common celebration of the Liturgy of the Hours, and fraternity and support for priests.

The Statutes of the Priests' Council

Preamble

The Bishop and the Priests of the Diocese of Wilmington share in the one Priesthood of Jesus Christ by their Baptism and, in a special way, by their call to Holy Orders. While all members of the church belong to the one Body of Christ, priests, by their ordination, are called to a unique ministry in the church. The Bishops and Priests are called to the same purpose: To proclaim the kingdom of God and to build the Body of Christ.

As a sign of unity in ministry, the Priests' Council enables the Bishop and his priests to work collaboratively in proclaiming the gospel of Jesus Christ to the faithful of the Diocese of Wilmington.

Article I: Name

The name of this body shall be "The Priests' Council of the Diocese of Wilmington".

Article II: Purpose

The purpose of this Priests' Council shall be:

1. To serve as a consultative body, representative of both diocesan and religious priests of the diocese.
2. To assist the Bishop in the governance of the diocese.
3. To provide a forum for the full and free discussion of issues of pastoral concern in the diocese.
4. To research, deliberate and advise the Bishop on those matters pertaining to the pastoral mission and well being of the entire diocese.
5. To search for and propose ways and means for effective pastoral ministry.

Article III: Membership

Section 1

The Bishop of the Diocese of Wilmington is the President of the Priests' Council and presides at all meetings.

Section 2

Other members shall be the Vicars General, the Moderator of the Curia, the Chancellor, the Vicar for the Clergy and the Chairperson of the Priests' Continuing Education Committee. These members serve in an ex-officio capacity.

Section 3

One priest shall be elected from each of the eight Deaneries of the diocese.

Section 4

The Bishop may choose as many as four appointed members. However, it is recommended that at all times at least two associate pastors should be on the Council.

Article IV: Terms of Office

Section 1

The term of office of elected and appointed members is three years. Elected members may serve a second term. Appointed members may be re-appointed by the Bishop for a second term. A member whether elected or appointed shall not serve more than two successive terms in the same category of membership.

Article V: Officers

Section 1

The officers of the Priests' Council shall be the President, the Executive Officer and the Secretary.

Section 2

The President of the Council shall be the Diocesan Bishop. He shall preside at all meetings of the Council.

Section 3

The Executive Officer coordinates the work of the Council in seeking the opinions and views of the presbyterate. The Executive Officer assists the Bishop in preparing for meetings and implementing the proposals of the Council accepted by the Bishop.

He is elected annually by the Council membership.

Section 4

The Secretary shall record the acts of the Council and see to it that the Council minutes are given to the Chancellor for the Diocesan Archives. It is the Secretary's responsibility to prepare and forward the minutes to the presbyterate. He also shall assist the Bishop and the Executive Officer in preparing for meetings.

The Secretary is elected by the Council members for a two year term.

Article VI: Elections

Section 1

All priests comprising the presbyterate of the Diocese of Wilmington, retired priests and those religious engaged in parish or diocesan ministries, are eligible to vote, to be nominated and elected.

Vacancies due to death, resignations or transfers shall be handled by a special election to complete the unexpired term unless the Bishop decides this is impractical in a particular case.

Ex-officio members serve on the Council as long as they hold office in virtue of which they are members of the Council.

Those members who were chosen as Consultors and whose term on the Council expires during their tenure as Consultors remain as Consultors but cease to be members of the Council unless the Bishop freely appoints them to a vacant appointed seat or, if qualified, they are elected to a Council seat.

No one may decline service on the Council unless excused by the Diocesan Bishop.

Section 2 - Election Process

The process for nominating and electing members to the Priests' Council respects the principle that each deanery be represented on the Council at all times.

To this end, nominations and elections occur within each deanery. Only members of a particular deanery are eligible to vote, be nominated, and elected.

If a vacancy on the Council occurs by reason of a transfer from one deanery to another or by resignation or death, the seat is automatically vacated.

The Secretary of the Priests' Council shall inform the deans when an election within their deanery is warranted.

Normally, elections will occur in September. Using the resources of the Chancery, the dean for his deanery will conduct the nomination and election process which shall be by mail.

- a) Two priests are nominated from the deanery.
- b) From these nominations one is elected to serve on the Priests' Council.
- c) The results of this deanery election are forwarded by the dean to the Secretary of the Priests' Council. The Secretary in turn advises the Bishop and members of the Priests' Council.
- d) The newly elected member takes his seat on the Priests' Council at the next regularly scheduled meeting.

Article VII: Meetings

Section 1 - Time

The Council shall meet at least four times a year.

A majority of the members exclusive of the Diocesan Bishop (who must also be present) is a quorum for purposes of a meeting. At any time the Bishop may make exceptions to the above.

Section 2 - Ad Hoc Committees

Encouragement is given to all members of Council to participate fully. This participation includes submission of topics for the agenda, open and frank discussion, respect for all opinions, and the attempt to adopt a consensus approach to deliberations.

The Priests' Council does not have any standing committees. If warranted the Bishop may form an "ad hoc" committee with a Council member as the convener. Such committees will serve to assist the Bishop and Council in studying, evaluating and making proposals concerning those matter assigned to it. The convener will be urged to choose committee members from among the Presbyterate. Special attention should be given to those who may have a particular interest or expertise in the said topic.

The ad hoc committee will meet and make its report and recommendations to the Bishop and Priests' Council. Normally at that time the work of the ad hoc committee will cease.

Should the term of the convener end before the work of the ad hoc committee is finished, and he is not re-elected or appointed to another term, he will stay on Council as a non-voting member until the work of the committee is finished.

Section 3 - Executive Committee

The Executive Committee consists of the Bishop, the Executive Officer, the Secretary, a representative of the Deans, and two elected members chosen by the Council. Others may be invited by the Bishop as the need arises. Its function shall be to assist in the preparation of the agenda prior to each meeting and to carry on the business of the Priests' Council between regular meetings.

All members of the presbyterate are encouraged to submit agenda items through their deanery representative or through any elected or ex-officio member or by submitting the agenda item to the Bishop.

Article VIII: Competence

The Canonical responsibilities of the Council as listed in the Code of Canon Law are the following:

- a) To give counsel to the Bishop on the diocesan assessment (c. 1263).
- b) To give counsel to the Bishop on the permanent use of a Church for other purposes besides divine worship (c.1222:2).

- c) To select those who serve on the group which deals with issues related to the removal of pastors (c.1742:1), and the transfer of pastors (c.1750).
- d) To give counsel to the Bishop on whether a pastoral council is to be established in each parish (c. 536).
- e) To give counsel to the Bishop in the erection, suppression, or notable alteration of parishes (c. 525:2).
- f) To give counsel to the Bishop in his decision on whether to convoke a diocesan synod (c. 461:1).
- g) To give counsel to the Bishop on "matters of greater moment" concerning the governance of the Diocese (c. 500:2).
- h) To give counsel to the Bishop on the allocation of the fund to be established among the parish accounts for offerings of the faithful given for parochial functions done by persons other than the pastor of the parish (c. 531).

November, 1996

Approved November 18, 1996

5. Permanent Diaconate

All deacons ordained since 2000 have received copies of the "Directory for the Ministry and Life of Permanent Deacons." This document serves to guide the Diocese of Wilmington in directing the ministry of permanent deacons. Most deacons are assigned to their home parish or one near where they live. Two presently serve full-time as pastoral associates. Several are involved extensively with prison or hospital ministry. 19 deacons and many of their wives also serve as advocates for the Tribunal, in addition to their formal diaconal assignment. Apart from a handful who are in paid ministries, most work without compensation.

Increasingly, deacons have been well received by their pastors and parishes since the first permanent deacons were ordained for the Diocese of Wilmington in 1980. Over 80% of the parishes in the Diocese of Wilmington now have one or more deacons assigned to them. Deacons are evaluated in their ministries every three years although each year they must report on their continuing formation for the prior year and on their plans for the upcoming year. The Office for Deacons sponsors an annual retreat and at least one continuing formation workshop each year. The Office for Deacons is collaborating with other diocesan offices to promote jointly sponsored continuing education opportunities in order to share resources and to promote collaborative ministry with the offices of Worship, Catholic Education, Youth Ministry and Family Life.

Twelve deacons incardinated in seven other dioceses presently serve in the Diocese of Wilmington with the permission of their ordinaries. Four others were incardinated into the Diocese of Wilmington last year. The Director of the Office for Deacons interviews them individually and ensures that they are fully integrated into the local community of deacons. Pastors across the Diocese continue to identify men they believe would make good deacons. Approximately one quarter of the deacons in the Diocese are over age 70. Bishop Saltarelli has ordained 33 men to the diaconate since 2000.

B. DESCRIPTION

1. The commitment and apostolic witness of religious life is an intrinsic part of the ministry of the Church of Wilmington. Religious are visibly present in every area of the diocese, serving according to their charism in a variety of ministries, including education, parish ministry and health-related services. Nine religious serve in ministries that care for the migrant and rural poor; about thirteen serve the urban poor, the homeless and disenfranchised.

The Oblate Sisters and the OFM Caps have two/five members in formation. Over the past five years, the role of the Delegate for Religious has become a part-time position.

The Director of the Diocesan Vocation Office works primarily with the vocations to priesthood. The Director of the Office for Religious re-established a Vocation Task Force to focus on vocations to the religious life. It is in its initial stages.

2. The prayer, community life, ministries and simple lifestyle of the religious women and men who serve this diocese witnesses to the Gospel and to the fidelity of these religious to their charism. As far as can be attested, the observance of the directives of the Code of Canon Law are followed. These religious women and men proclaim the Gospel both through their consecrated life and their dedicated apostolic service and evangelical life.
3. The Council of Religious represents all women and men religious of the diocese. Their function is to advise the Bishop as needed and or when consulted by the Bishop or his representatives; to plan and carry out social, educational, and spiritual activities for religious. The Delegate for Religious communicates with religious through visits and letters. The Bishop meets yearly at gatherings to which all religious of the diocese are invited. Most recently, the topic of housing, in light of shifting numbers and parish facility needs, was discussed. These meetings are well attended and provide an opportunity for healthy on-going communication. The Bishop hosts yearly meetings with Major Superiors and diocesan leadership to engage collaboratively any topics of mutual concern. Religious serve on many Boards and Commissions in the diocese including the Catholic Board of Education, the Pastoral Council and the Women's Commission.

4. Answered above
5. Religious in this diocese know first hand the support and encouragement of the local ordinary through his visible presence both at meetings designed for them and through his presence and care for the people of the local church. Not only has he articulated his support for religious, but has personally welcomed their dialogue on matters of mutual concern, especially the pastoral care of those served. The presence of the Delegate for Religious is also a witness of the Bishop's pastoral care for religious. Religious who work with the poor express their gratitude to the Bishop for the on-going diocesan commitment to the "poor and invisible" through the financial support that enables religious to be present in these ministries.

B. Description

In the Diocese of Wilmington major education and support work is carried on by the Society for the Propagation of the Faith and the Holy Childhood Association. The Director is Rev. John P. Klevence. This position is presently a part time position for the Director.

- 1. Evangelization is recognized as the essential mission of the Church and, at the same time, the most precious gift the Church can offer to all people and nations.

In studying this theme and the missionary activity of the Church, the necessity of carrying out the work of evangelization, not only with respect to the true cultural values of the life of each nation and even of each person, but also the necessity of incarnating in them the vital and supreme values of Christian message, has been emphasized in the Diocese. Yet the consideration of these elements of enculturation of the Christian message must not detract attention from the primordial element of the content of evangelization.

World Mission Sunday is celebrated on the fourth Sunday of October each year. This Sunday is dedicated to the Missions and World Missions are stressed in the homily to the people. The outlines of the homily and suggestions are sent to all the parishes in ample time for the priests' preparation. Letters are also sent encouraging priests in their efforts for the missions. A number of schools in the Diocese, both elementary and high have a World Mission Day each year. Missionaries are invited to speak to the students concerning mission work and their own particular congregations and orders in respect to vocations. The children of the parishes are encouraged by their teachings through the Holy Childhood Association to work for the missions through prayers and sacrifices using their own original ideas in their work. There is an annual mail solicitation for the Society of St. Peter the Apostle in the month of June.

When the Holy Childhood Director or his representatives visits parishes and schools to stimulate interest in the missions among the students they speak of the missionaries from our Diocese and encourage young people to become interested in mission vocations.

A course on the theology of the missions is incorporated into the curriculum of the parochial school system. Confraternity of Christian Doctrine/Religious Education programs have not as yet incorporated a mission course in the teaching of theology. However, the Director of Religious Education, Mr. Edmund Gordon, reports that teachers use materials they receive from the Holy Childhood Association. It is felt this Holy Childhood material is based on the theology of the missions and the teachers find it very practical and helpful. Mr. Gordon has stated these materials have been among the best teaching materials that have passed through his office.

Catholic Relief Services also has an annual collection called Operation Rice Bowl to which the diocese is a participant. Seventy five percent of the amount collected goes to the foreign countries. Twenty five percent stays in the diocese to help the needy. This collection is taken up during the season of Lent. Families are urged to keep mite boxes in the home to receive daily or weekly sacrificial offerings from members. Total family offerings are turned into the parish on Palm Sunday and forwarded to the diocese. This program helps create an awareness of Third World needs which indirectly raises consciousness of mission needs.

The priests and permanent deacons of individual parishes speak on the missions and encourage membership in the Society for the Propagation of the Faith on an annual basis. The pastor chooses the weekend he deems most suitable for the appeal to be made in his parish, and the diocesan office sends out appropriate promotional appeal.

The Society for the Propagation of the Faith and Holy Childhood Association sends stipends for masses to needy missionaries in addition to voluntary contributions to missionary organizations.

2. Each year missionaries from approximately fifteen mission communities are given the opportunity to make an appeal in the parishes of the Diocese for their work. Offerings of the people they receive go directly to their Provincialate or Generalates. In the past the Mission Office has been responsible for encouraging a number of young people to volunteer for the lay apostolate. Several have gone to the Appalachians missions of our country to work for the time they would spend on the missions. Another group has gone to work among Indians in the Diocese of Gallup, New Mexico and a number have requested information on lay volunteers for the foreign missions though we do not at present have any lay missionaries serving in Third World Countries. In recent years there were two lay women who served for six months each with Mother Teresa's Missionaries of Charity in Calcutta.

3. One parish, St. Francis de Sales in Salisbury, Maryland, has twinned with a parish in Central America. Correspondence flows back and forth. The pastors and small groups of parishioners have visited each other. Periodic collections from the diocesan parish in the USA are sent to the mission parish.

The Diocesan Committee for the Millennium had a sub committee on Ecumenism and Missions which considered the diocesan sponsorship of a mission diocese as greater encouragement to parishes to involve themselves with parishes in mission lands. The sub committee favored a diocese in Central America from which the Diocese of Wilmington receives a large number of immigrants. This recently came to fruition with a covenant being signed between the Diocese of Wilmington and the Diocese of San Marcos, Guatemala. As the covenant continued to be developed all parishes of the Diocese will be asked to be working participants in the covenant.

- St. Joseph's-in-the-Hills, Malvern, PA though not in the diocese the local unit organizes an annual retreat with 300 men led by two priests of the diocese the last weekend of April.
- St. Francis Renewal Center, 1901 Prior Road, Wilmington offers weekend retreats for laymen and laywomen.
- Oblates of St. Francis de Sales, Childs, MD hosts lay people on weekends and in the evening for classes in spirituality of St. Francis de Sales, Marriage Encounter (monthly)
- Berg Center, Ridgely, MD is a facility for weekend and weekly retreats
- Jesus House Prayer and Renewal Center
- Neumann College - Spiritual Training Program

Lay persons who exercise ministries in the Church such as a lector, commentator, musicians, Ministers of Holy Communion, catechists and teachers in elementary and high schools all have required courses to be taken under diocesan auspices. The Social Ministry of Catholic Charities has "Salt and Light" workshops to assist in training for social ministry.

5. All groups listed above under #1 have priests or deacons appointed as chaplains or moderators: liaisons with the diocese by the Bishop. The various groups may make suggestions for a particular priest or deacon when a vacancy occurs, but the actual appointment is made by the Bishop. The priest or deacon is chosen based on his qualifications, interest in the apostolate, and willingness to serve. No one is appointed by the Bishop without contact in advance. About 75 priests, deacons and religious serve the spiritual needs of these groups while continuing regular service in parishes, diocesan offices, schools and other diocesan organizations. No one chaplain, moderator or deacon is full time.

B. Description

1. Laity in the parishes of the diocese are organized along lines suggested by Vatican Council II and the 1983 Code of Canon Law. The Parish Council and Finance Council are the channels by which the laity advise the pastor of their needs and implement his suggestions, their own initiated programs as well as programs directed from the diocesan or national level. The Parish Council is seen as the coordinating and unifying structure of the parish communal commitment to and maximal participation in the total life of the parish by all of its members. The Council is a body of elected and appointed representatives (by the pastor) from the whole parish community and serves as the means for communication, cooperation and spiritual growth. Although advisory in nature, the Parish Council's mission is to work with the pastor, his associate priests and deacons in planning, encouraging, guiding, advising and directing all aspects of parish life. In living out its mission, the Council is called to assist the pastor in defining parish needs, formulating appropriate policy and goals based upon identified needs and monitoring and evaluating the programs of the parish to meet those needs. All parishes have such councils.

In order to assist the Parish Council in fulfilling its role, permanent committees established within the Council include Christian Formation (Catholic School, Religious Education, Vocations, RCIA); Liturgy; Social Concerns (Ecumenical, Peace and Justice, Pro Life); Building and Maintenance; Parish and Family Life (social affairs, communications, youth activities).

The pastor presides over the Council which has a lay executive officer. Each parish is also required to have a Finance Council with a separate executive officer. The diocese has issued guidelines to promote an efficient relationship between these two councils and updated them as recently as March, 1992.

On the diocesan level, there is a Pastoral Council which advises the Bishop in much the same manner as Parish Councils advise pastors of a parish. Total membership is 15 - 3 diocesan priests, 2 religious, 8 lay members, 1 delegate of the ordinary. It is a representative body reflecting the cultural, ethnic and financial groups in the diocese. Bishop Saltarelli added a youth representative to the Council when he came to the diocese and appointed the present youth representative as co-executive officer with an adult. This appointment received national attention in the media.

2. The Catholic laity are active in politics in the cities and counties of the two states that make up the diocese, and on the national level. In the city council, depending on the areas of the city where Catholics are located there will be council members elected. Wilmington, for example, has Catholic African Americans and an Hispanic on City Council. On the county and state level the Catholics are in positions of importance whether elected or appointed. A Catholic is a judge on the Supreme Court of the State. There are Catholics sitting as judges on other levels of courts but, admittedly, in the minority. On the national level there is a Catholic in Congress. On specific issues they will support to an extent church related issues but realizing they cannot depend on a Catholic vote alone to elect them they will espouse legislation that will win the votes. The St. Thomas More Society is an organization of Catholic lawyers and judges which conducts a yearly Mass and several lectures on topics touching Church teachings for its members. We are in the process of forming a St. Luke's Society for Catholic doctors. There are no institutes of Catholics of higher learning in the diocese but Catholics, again in a minority, hold positions of significance in certain institutions.

The Catholic High Schools have quality music and art programs which produce students who do go on to college and careers in these fields.

Through the work of Catholic Charities, Ministry of Caring, Delaware Citizens Against the Death Penalty, Right to Life Organizations and The Dialog, Catholics and others are made aware of the Church's social doctrine and are solicited for assistance in lobbying legislators on all levels when issues of importance come up.

3. The Bishop also takes an active role in many other organizations that are largely lay directed even if they have their own clerical moderators. The Bishop, for example, attends meetings of the Knights of Columbus, the Third Order of St. Francis, the St. Vincent de Paul Society, Cursillo groups, Blue Army and is indeed considered a member of such groups. The Bishop has personally met and dialogued at intervals with young people through the sponsorship of the Catholic Youth Organization. He also takes an active interest in the Newman Apostolate at the University of Delaware. He encourages directly through meetings with leaders and through the Family Life Bureau the World Wide Marriage Encounter and the Engaged Encounter. The Charismatic Renewal Movement has twenty five prayer groups in the diocese with three hundred people participating. The movement is clergy directed. Through the Office for Religious Education courses in theology, both dogma and moral, holy scripture, liturgy and catechesis are conducted for catechists. Though designed mainly for training catechists, these courses are open to all persons in the diocese. Parishes, especially during Lent and Advent, sponsor renewal weeks with special informational programs and liturgical celebrations. Sacramental preparation programs for Baptism, First Communion, Reconciliation and Confirmation are also given the parents of candidates and are seen as opportunity for them to grow in the knowledge of the faith and to renew themselves spiritually.

4. For each committee of the Parish Council there is a diocesan office which can offer literature or training sessions which enables those on the parish level to take part in apostolic action, ecumenical activities, and liturgical endeavors.

The Liturgical Commission is a group of religious, laypersons and clergy (both priests and deacons) who advise the Bishop on educational programs for renewing and enriching Christian liturgical life. The Commission sponsors special formation programs annually to assist the laity in developing a deeper appreciation for the Sacred Liturgy and in providing for fuller participation in such areas as readers of Holy Scripture, leaders of song, special ministers of communion. It arranges for the liturgical rites of the RCIA on the diocesan level and provides training for those implementing rites of a parish level.

The Diocese of Wilmington is largely a diocese of parishes, elementary and secondary schools, a hospital and child care facilities. There are no institutions of higher learning sponsored by the church. Priests and religious who are assigned to the diocese basically do parochial and educational work. In more recent years, many administrative positions previously held by priests have been assumed by qualified laypersons; for example, the Director of Catholic Charities, the Director of Religious Education, the Director of the Family Life Bureau. Qualified clergymen for the full time work in the formation of the laity are difficult to come by.

The diocese does, however, possess a talented group of laypersons in a variety of professional fields who donate much time, energy, expertise and financial assistance in providing aid and advice, i.e. finance, administration, organization, the development of senior citizen facilities, the Board of Education, the Board of Catholic Cemeteries, the Board of Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, etc.

In order to make women's gifts available to the people to God of the Diocese of Wilmington, the Bishop has mandated the establishment of a Women's Commission. The group is consultative and advisory to the Bishop on issues concerning women and will facilitate the contribution of women at all levels of diocesan life.

The Diocese of Wilmington has consistently encouraged the active participation of women in all areas of parish and diocesan life in ministry currently approved by church law, i.e., lectors, commentators, Special Ministers of Communion, catechists, school teachers, social workers and visitors to the sick, etc. Several hold diocesan positions, i.e. Superintendent of Schools, Director for the Religious, Diocesan Development Director and Director of the Annual Catholic Appeal. In the Catholic Charities department the Deputy Director and Director Children's Services, Clinical Services, Community and Family Support Services, Development and Parish Social Ministry are all women. Women also serve on the Pastoral Council, Board of Education, Catholic Charities Board, parish councils. In accordance with civil laws of incorporation of parishes and institutions in Delaware and Maryland they may also be elected trustees and frequently are.

Our Department of Communications is under the capable direction of a layman whose expertise is respected in the community at large. He has been asked to serve on various community groups and his suggestions have been well received on the national level of our church. Bishop Saltarelli has asked him to lead the effort to establish a local chapter of the National Serra Club, a lay group which promotes vocation and the priesthood and religious life. Laypersons direct Catholic Charities and enjoy the high regard of the community at large. Catholic Charities fulfills certain functions of family and child care that not even the State handles in addition to specialized attention to Catholic families.

The diocese does recruit religious from other dioceses and countries for specialized ministry, i.e. Polish, Spanish speaking, Korean and migrant work. Laypersons from other diocese are recruited to work with migrant laborers during the summer in the lower part of the State of Delaware and along the Eastern Shore of the State of Maryland. An office has recently been set up with a lay paid and volunteer staff to assist in the regularization of the status of illegal aliens in the diocese many of whom are Catholics who come here first as migrant workers and then settle.

The diocese continues to promote the goals and purposes of the Black and Hispanic communities.

The Franciscans from the Holy Name Province of New York City, New York staff St. Joseph Parish, the traditional parish in the City of Wilmington for blacks. The diocese has assisted with the organization of a diocesan black gospel choir. Through an endorsement to the Campaign for Human Development the diocese has gotten a national grant to help Wilmington United Neighborhood Organization which seeks grass roots organizations in the inner city to better conditions there. It is the inner city where the large black population lives. Through grants it endorses from the Commission for Catholic Missions Among the Colored People and Indians, the diocese has received approximately $38,000 a year for the last five years to help inner city parishes with tuition assistance for school children who could not otherwise attend Catholic schools, outreach programs and crisis assistance to poor blacks in rural areas.

The diocese sponsored delegates to the Black Catholic Congress previously and sent 24 delegates to the National Black Catholic Congress in Chicago in 2002. This was the largest delegation ever to attend from Wilmington. Bishop Saltarelli personally attended the sessions and the dedication of the new chapel in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, DC to Our Lady of Africa along with numerous other American archbishops and bishops. The delegates returning from the convention plan to bring evangelization programs to the areas of the diocese where there are concentrations of black citizens. A diocesan office for black Catholics has been established with a Director and Assistant Director. Implementation of the 8 principles adopted at the Chicago Congress are underway with various sub-committees.

Diocesan interest and activity in the Hispanic community is mentioned in the section on Pastoral Care of Migrants and Immigrants.

5. Lay associations connected with the church entitled to have chaplains receive them by Episcopal appointment based on individual merit and qualifications. The organization may suggest possible names for their chaplain but the Bishop makes the appointment which is published in the diocesan newspaper. If their constitution allows, permanent deacons and lay persons judged qualified (while not officially chaplains) may be designated as diocesan liaisons to the organization. With the shortage of priests and their obligations to the parish or diocesan office assignment, it is not always possible today to provide priests as chaplains though priests are provided when the religious events require their presence.

The Diocese of Wilmington consisting of the State of Delaware (3 counties) and the Eastern Shore of Maryland (9 counties) has a total population in 2003 of 1,215,685. Catholics made up 220,000 or 18% of the total population. Those of other religions number approximately 42% or 510,588. The number of the unchurched therefore would be 486,274 or 40%.

The mainline Protestant denominations, i.e. the Methodist, Presbyterian, Lutheran and Episcopal continue to speak of fall off in church and Sunday School attendance. Indeed, while the number of Catholics continue to increase in the USA and diocese, the fidelity to weekly Mass attendance is not as strong as formerly though our attendance records remain stronger than for members of their denominations. The Baptist continues to be a growing group as does other fundamentalist groups like Pentecostal, Assembly of God, Christian Missionary Alliance, Seventh Day Adventist and Charismatic groups. These groups emphasize the Bible activity proselytizing particularly among the less affluent and are a constant concern to us because of their presence in the Hispanic community.

The Episcopal Church is experiencing tension over ordination of women, ordination of diverse bishops and now a bishop who is an active homosexual. A dissident jurisdiction of the Episcopal church continues to have a functioning bishop in Easton, Maryland who actively recruits Hispanics.

The diocese has received some inquiries from Episcopal married priests for conversion and ordination as Catholic priests but have not actively processed any. We do have a married Lutheran priest whom we have accepted for seminary training for ordination.

Our relations with the other denominations remain cordial but not much is done on the diocesan level together. An organized structure has been different for several years. On the parish level there is cooperation among individual parishes in food closets and social programs. The only prayer sharing takes place at Thanksgiving and the Unity Octave in January.

There is no active group of followers of Archbishop Lefebvre in the diocese. We do provide a weekly Mass in Latin at a downtown Wilmington church and in the State Capitol in Dover once a month in the Tridentine Rite.

B. Description

1. The Catholic Church is recognized as a significant force in the civic and religious community of the territory covered by the Diocese. This is true more in the northern part of the Diocese than in the southern part and in Delaware more than on the Eastern Shore. The Church is in fact considered to be a key participant in many social endeavors even of a non-denominational nature. The Diocese is looked to for its moral leadership, organizational expertise and financial backing.

An example of the respect with which the Church is held Bishop Mulvee upon leaving the Diocese to become coadjutor of Providence was asked to address both houses of the State Legislature and received the Order of the State of Delaware from the Governor - this is the highest award the State can give.

Bishop Saltarelli has been well received by the civil and religious community. His first public statement after installation was in opposition to the death penalty on the occasion of a local execution for which he was commended by other civic and religious leaders regardless of whether they supported his position or not.

The former and present bishops have been asked to attend installations of other denominational executives. They have been asked to pray at public functions, i.e., Chamber of Commerce Dinners.

While not directly sponsored by the Diocese, the Knights of Columbus, a Catholic organization has been able for a number of years to place a Christmas Crib in the town square of Wilmington during the Christmas Season with the approval of local church and civil authorities. Such an event has been challenged elsewhere in the country as the forces in society continually try to remove Christ from the Christmas Holiday.

In general, the cooperation between the various churches has been good. Certain issues such as abortion (Catholic), gambling (Methodist), state approval of homosexual unions (Episcopal) have not led to a consensus, but neither have they destroyed a working relationship in areas where we can agree such as on social needs. A significant recent inter-faith venture in providing housing for the needy which is a multi-million dollar effort has received diocesan support in both Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Interfaith Housing Delaware just celebrated its 17th anniversary.

2. The largest national organization to promote Christian unity is the National Conference of Community and Justice, formerly the National Conference of Christians and Jews. The Diocese has both clergy and lay representatives in the local chapter of this national organization which addresses common concerns in the areas of racial and religious prejudice and social concerns. A clergy dialogue group meets monthly. Topics of Theological Scripture and Pastoral Concerns are discussed from an ecumenical point of view.

Two awards dinners are held annually, one in the Spring and one in the Fall, to honor individuals who have made contributions in accord with the group goals. There is usually a Catholic honored periodically. On occasion the diocese has restricted its participation when one of the honorees has taken positions inconsistent with the Church.

There is an organization denominational executives of the major Christian and non-Christian bodies. It meets 4 times a year with a rotating chairman. Problems of mutual concern are discussed and where possible mutual support is given. The group is able to make statements if all agree. Bishop Saltarelli's pastoral statement against the death penalty was supported by the group.

The Vicar General for Pastoral Services serves as ecumenical officer. He maintains membership in the National Association of Ecumenical Officers-Episcopal Region IV. An annual meeting of the group is held in a different diocese of the region to exchange information on ecumenical activities committee. The Diocese has continuously maintained official and cordial relations with other churches and groups on several levels.

At the beginning of the quinquennium, Clergy for Life had monthly meetings, a newsletter and periodic worship services to educate and give moral support to clergy of all faiths as they preach and witness the pro-life message to their congregations. However, outside the Catholic Church, very few religious bodies in the USA are officially pro life. Therefore, clergy of these churches who are pro life have difficulty preaching a pro life message in the face of church leaders and members of their congregations who are pro choice. To be pro life in some denominations jeopardizes one's job as pastor. The organization now meets on call rather than regularly because it has so few members.

3. Inter-parish Ecumenical Organizations...A survey of parishes shows that 29 belong to groupings of churches in the communities where they are located. In these groupings, clergy meet separately and with laity. These groups sponsor ecumenical services, i.e., Thanksgiving, Chair of Unity Octave and Good Friday and food closets for the poor among other projects. Bishop Saltarelli has been invited to speak at churches of our separated brethren.

Covenant relationships still exist between two Catholic parishes and two Episcopal churches and between one Catholic parish and one Methodist church. These are arrangements for common prayer, (within approved ecumenical guidelines), on-going study of each other's traditional community concern and social enrichment.

4. Both Catholic and non-Christian immigrants come annually to work within the two state, twelve county Diocese of Wilmington. The Diocese reaches out in a special way to them to counteract the strong activities of small fundamental church groups. Catholics come from Puerto Rico, Mexico, Guatemala seeking work on farms, the poultry industry and landscape and janitorial services some temporarily and some permanently. Recently, we have experienced an influx of a number of Haitians whose religion is nominally Catholic.

XII

OTHER RELIGIONS

XII. OTHER RELIGIONS*A. Statistics

Throughout the quinquennium, the different religions other than Christianity in the diocese remains about the same. There are Jewish, Muslims, Hindus, Baha'i, Buddhist, Native Americans and Eckankar adherents.

Except for Judaism, non-Christian religions are not highly organized in the State of Delaware and Maryland's Eastern Shore. Indeed it is difficult to get exact figures in their number of adherents.

On Maryland's Eastern Shore there are substantial Synagogues in Salisbury and Easton.

The Muslim faith is in evidence among the people of African American descent. It has a particular attraction to those of the poorer classes.

Immigrants from India have brought Hinduism to the diocese. These people are both highly educated and are professionals in business and industry and also among shopkeepers.

Since there are a number of Chinese and Japanese people here, we must presume the existence of Buddhism and Shinto. However, these religions are not openly practiced in an organized way.

Native Americans are in evidence. The State of Delaware recognizes the Nanticoke Indian Tribe which has an annual pow-wow and a museum in the southern part of the State of Delaware.

Eckankar is a faith which has appeared in the diocese within the last 20 years. It is supposedly worldwide but has only 25 to 50 people who openly practice it since church attendance is not mandatory. It is a mixture of Eastern and Western beliefs. Its founder in the United States is Paul Twitchel, the former U.S. Chamber of Commerce public relations director. It dates from 1965. Its national headquarters are in Chanhassen, Minnesota.

B. Description

1. The Jewish presence is strongest in the greater Wilmington area. Their leaders are concerned about an aging population, a low fertility rate, a high rate of inter-marriage, high socio-economic status and lower levels of participation in the Jewish community by the Jews themselves.

There are a few parishes - not as many as formerly - who invite members of the Jewish faith in to give instructions about the Seder meal as background to young people and adults in preparation for Catholics to celebrate the Triduum.

There has been a noticeable increase in the marriage of Catholics and Jews - generally Catholic women marrying Jewish men. This is a matter of concern more to the Jews than to the Catholics. These are effected by observing proper rules for the Dispensation from Disparity of Cult and Dispensation from Canonical Form which allows the Rabbi to officiate outside a sacred place, and a priest or deacon simply to attend to offer a prayer or blessing. In these cases the Jewish spouse is usually non practicing. Indeed, he is more a cultural than a religious Jew. It is the parents and grandparents who are pleased that a Rabbi can be present.

To show the disapproval of the Jewish community, Rabbi who are active members of local synagogues refuse to officiate or participate in such ceremonies. The Rabbis who come are generally retired or not affiliated with any congregation. Although inactive, the Jewish spouses while consenting to the Catholic party raising children Catholic do not show any interest in conversion.

The Ku Klux Klan has appeared on a number of public occasions in both New Castle County and Cecil County with its doctrine of bigotry, racism and hate of Catholic, Jews and Blacks. All Christian churches and civil officials oppose the Klan. No significant support comes from the rallies.

2. The largest evidence of other religions practiced in the diocese comes at Thanksgiving time when there is an ecumenical interfaith service in Wilmington sponsored by the NCCJ (National Conference of Community and Justice). The members of various groups participate. The service is given wide publicity in the media.

There is really no official contact with other groups. Black Muslims are divided in loyalty between the followers of Elijah Mohammed and Louis Farrakhan. He is the leader of the Nation of Islam who preaches racial separation and W. Deen Mohammed who visited Wilmington during 1997 and is known for rejecting racial separatism. The latter was warmly received by Catholic and other Christian Church leaders. As the Catholic Priest Chaplains to the Apostolate to the Sea for the Port of Wilmington and the Delaware Psychiatric Center both priests have alerted the local Imam of the Muslim Center of Delaware of the occasional Muslim sailors who come to the Port and the occasional patient in the hospital for his attention of which he is most appreciative.

The Mormons though small are active in proselytism among Caucasian people including Catholics. The Black Muslims who are followers of Farrakhan would be most aggressive in the black community. The other groups listed above present no real threat to the Church.

There does not seem to be any recognizable group of non believers in the diocese though according to the Glenmary Research Center, over 43% of the people in the territory of the diocese are unchurched. It seems to be a question of apathy and total secularization.

Many in the USA today see the New Age Movement with its emphasis on a personal religious experience rather than a group and cooperative experience is a continuing challenge to the Church. However, while there may be some Catholics in the diocese who have succumbed to its influence along with those of other Christian faiths, there seems to be no local organized group that represents this movement.

Asian immigrants tend to be well educated on the one hand which assures them of jobs and if less well educated they are very industrious and become shop owners. The medical profession and engineering profession has representative numbers of Indians. Their religious practice is questionable.

Immigrants from foreign countries of these religions other than Judaism who find their way to the territory of the diocese may face prejudice because of skin color and job opportunities. The church wishes all immigrants to be welcomed and would oppose any semblance of discrimination publicly. There is no present effort to enter religious dialogue and again cooperation would be through the efforts of the NCCJ.

3. The Clergy Dialogue Group sponsored by the NCCJ would be the major source for inter-religious dialogue. The diocesan seminarians would be exposed to different faiths through the curriculum of the seminaries outside the diocese in which they are trained. All of these seminaries are in major metropolitan areas where the different faiths are representative.

4. The Hare Krishna and Moonies which we classify as sects or cults seem to be a waning attraction for people within the diocese. The Moonies do maintain an address and a somewhat visible presence in Wilmington. Their effort to join the NCCJ was repulsed by its leadership.

PASTORAL CARE OF THE FAMILY

XIII. PASTORAL CARE OF THE FAMILY

A. Statistics	1998	2003
1. Attacks on human life within the boundaries of the diocese:
Live births (Delaware and Maryland's Eastern Shore)	11,000	11,000
Abortions	3,400	4,100
In Vitro Fertilization	n/a	n/a
Euthanasia (Physician Assisted Suicide)	0	0
Physician assisted suicide/euthanasia is against the law in the State of Delaware. Efforts are presently underway that would prohibit physician assisted suicide being made into law in the State of Maryland.
Attacks on the family within the boundaries of the diocese:
Total marriages	5,425	5,300
Cohabitation	35-40%	18,000
In rural areas of the diocese the rate is higher perhaps as high as 70-80% than in the more populated urban/city areas.
Total Households	192,000	299,000
Single parent families (households)	24,000	27,000
Divorce	3,580	61,000
Homosexual unions	n/a	n/a
Birthrate	n/a	60 per 1,000 women aged 15-44
2. Marital situation of the faithful in the diocese:
Number of marriages	1,150	976
Number of separations/divorces	636	n/a
Civil marriages	n/a	n/a

Comments: The number and rate of divorces have a high correlation to: 1) age (teen marriages are far less stable than older couple marriages. Few Catholic teens marry in the Church); 2) faith-commitment (minimal liturgical practice, participation in other church related activities and sense of belonging on the part of either or both members of the couple; 3) mixed faith; and, 4) lack of adequate participation in marriage preparation programs.

3. Church sponsored pro-life organizations:

A. Diocesan Office of Pro-Life Activities - This office is involved in the following activities: Coordination of the efforts of the Diocesan Respect Life Committee and the Association of Parish Pro-Life Leaders; participation in the Diocesan Public Policy Committee; lobbying in the Delaware State General Assembly; and, chairing the Justice and Pro-Life Committee of the Maryland Catholic Conference.

B. Catholic Charities

Pregnancy Counseling

Adoption and Foster Care

Housing and support for teen moms and their children

Project Rachel (Professional counseling and support for those who have had abortions)

C. Gabriel Project - Spiritual, emotional and maternal help for women experiencing difficult, unwanted and/or problem pregnancies.

D. The Dialog - Diocesan newspaper. Though The Dialog is not a newspaper devoted exclusively to pro-life issues, it frequently contains articles and information about pro-life issues and activities.

E. Catholic Schools - Religious, theology and other classes in Catholic elementary and high schools provide students with a pro-life education.

Support for other pro-life efforts within the Diocese:

A. Birthright and other pregnancy centers provide pregnancy testing, material help and referral to appropriate agencies for pregnant women.

B. Bayard House for pregnant women.

C. Delaware Citizens for Life, Delaware Right to Life, Maryland Right to Life (pro-life education/advocacy groups)

D. Delaware Coalition for Life (a pro-life educational group).

There are no centers for bioethical studies and research in the diocese. Note: The Diocese sent a priest (while he was a seminarian) with a civil law background for a summer internship at the National Catholic Bioethics Center. This priest has given testimony at the Delaware Legislature on cloning and other bioethical issues.

(1) Education: Tens of thousands of persons have received pro-life education through The Dialog, homilies, various educational forums, distribution of pro-life material.

(2) Legislation in the last several years: 1) Required Notification of Parents of teens seeking abortions; 2) Official reporting of all abortions to State Office of Vital Statistics (for the first time this will give an accurate picture of the number of abortions in the State of Delaware; and, 3) Health Care Decisions Act, a law limiting the withdrawal of life support to patients with specified medical conditions.

4. Artificial Contraception: Artificial contraception is prevalent in the society and is used only somewhat less by Catholics than by the community at large. It has widespread acceptance and with the exception of the teachings of the Catholic Church, its morality is virtually unquestioned. There is a small group of Catholics who do use natural methods of family planning. These methods are receiving a renewed emphasis in the newly revised marriage preparation process. Recent studies by the USCCB to develop more proactive NFP programs in dioceses are currently under consideration.

B. Description

1. Cultural circumstances

Poverty and low income; unemployment; substandard housing; both parents working; care for elderly parents; inadequate day care; lack of health insurance; no fault divorce; high rate of out of wedlock births.

Legal and Social Policies

1. Welfare
2. Health care for many though not all poor families
3. Reasonably favorable adoption laws

Anti-life activities

1. Strong anti-life advocacy in state legislature
2. State abortion on demand policy
3. Capital punishment

Organization against human life within the diocese

1. Planned Parenthood
2. State Affiliate - National Organization for Women
3. Many other groups organized primarily for other reasons hold pro-choice/pro-abortion positions

2. Pastoral Care of Families

In healthy, wholesome and holy marriages, couples are instructed by movements such as Marriage Encounter, marriage enrichment, and parenting programs conducted by Catholic Charities, various Catholic schools and parishes. Children receive a remote preparation for marriage and family living within their families. In schools and religious education programs, young people receive more formal and professional instructions in marriage and family life. In the year prior to marriage, engaged couples participate in immediate preparation for marriage. This process involves three states (one with professionals, one with priests/deacons, and one with married couples) over the course of one year. Professional and pastoral counseling is available to individuals, couples and families. Support groups exist for widowed and divorced persons as well as for singles.

Special Circumstances: Pastoral

1. Mixed marriage - The priest or deacon is to request and obtain a dispensation from the prescriptions of Canon 1086 from the local ordinary or his delegate before officiating at the wedding of a Catholic and an unbaptized person.

Permission of the local ordinary or his delegate is to be requested and obtained before a priest or deacon officiates at the wedding of either a Catholic and a baptized non-Catholic (cf. Canon 1124), or a Catholic and a former Catholic (cf. Canon 1071.4).

In either of the above circumstances the prescriptions of Canon 1125 regarding the promises are to be observed. Appropriate attention is to be given to the issues involved in marriages between persons of different religious affiliations.

2. Marriage of minors - Before consenting to witness a marriage when at least one of the parties is a minor, a priest or deacon must refer the matter to the local ordinary or his delegate.

3. Marriages when pregnancy is involved - When approached by a couple who is expecting a child, a priest or deacon should follow the general procedures for marriage preparation including procedures for other special circumstances that may apply, e.g., marriage of minors.

4. Marriages after a previous union - When one or both parties, regardless of religious affiliation, have had a prior union, the priest or deacon is to complete Form M-2 and must have proof that the prior union does not constitute an impediment to marriage (cf. Canon 1085). Proof is to be obtained before setting a date to marry and proceeding with marriage preparation. For a deceased spouse, proof consists of a death certificate. For a former living spouse, proof consists of one of the following: 1) a decree nullity from an ecclesiastical tribunal; 2) a declaration of dissolution from the Holy See; or 3) a decree from a diocesan bishop permitting the invocation of the Pauline Privilege when the former spouse is living.

Moreover, permission from the bishop or his delegate must be obtained before proceeding with the marriage of anyone who has incurred obligations arising from a previous union (cf. Canon 1071.3). These obligations include possible financial support of a former partner and/or children and visitation/custody of one's children.

5. Convalidation of marriages - The convalidation of a couple's civilly recognized marriage necessary when at least one party was a Catholic at the time of the non-Catholic ceremony (cf. Canon 1160) is to be preceded by appropriate marriage preparation.

The one-year process is required if the couple has been married less than five years. When the couple has been married longer than five years and their relationship demonstrates the stability, commitment and fidelity characteristic of a matrimonial covenant, the priest or deacon is to determine what kind of preparation best meets the needs of the particular couple and adjust the kind of preparation and duration of the preparation period accordingly.

6. Cohabiting couples - When assessing maturity for marriage of a cohabiting couple who present themselves for marriage in the Church, the priest or deacon should consider their unique characteristics, needs and circumstances. When a couple will not separate, the priest or deacon is to encourage premarital chastity. He is to take great care in addressing the reasons underlying the couple's decision to cohabit before marriage. In addition, he is to focus on the personal and interpersonal issues which have a great potential for being overlooked by a couple who live together before marriage.

3. Activities on the part of the Church or of individuals or groups of Catholics for the defense of the family.

1. Legislation and public policy: lobbying directly for legislation that defends both the rights of individuals and families (e.g., health care, welfare, prohibition of abortion, physician assisted suicide, health care decisions that include family members when patient is incapable of making his/her own decisions, required marriage preparation, divorce adjustment and single parenting classes for those who divorce); assist Catholic groups to organize for the same purpose.

2. Influence on legislation and public opinion.

a) Legislation - some laws have been enacted

- Abortion - federal and state (DE) laws that prevent tax dollars from being used to pay for abortion in most instances, parental notification law enacted (DE).
- Welfare reform - some influence but still concerned about possible outcomes. Still too early to tell. (Maryland and Delaware)
- Health care - more poor children and families are being provided care.
- Health care decisions bill enacted into law - though not perfect, it is a far better bill than the one originally introduced into the Delaware General Assembly. Somewhat less influential on a similar bill in the State of Maryland. Close to enacting a ban on partial abortions in Delaware and at the federal level.
- Education of parents when they divorce (DE). Focus on well-being of children.
- Prohibition of same sex marriages in Delaware.

b) Public Opinion

- The biggest change is in the abortion debate. This change is somewhat favorable and is due to the efforts of many pro-life people most often led by the Catholic Church to have a law banning partial birth abortions banned.

There is a public interest in providing health care for poor pregnant women and poor families but it is not universal. There is a concern both about cost and government control.

There is a growing public concern about widespread divorce and its impact on children but the concern has not become sufficiently critical for any public policy changes.

- Initiative of diocesan agencies for transmitting Church teaching on sexual morality, marriage and respect for life.
  - Bishop: Public statements, preaching, speaking engagements, lobbying.

- Parishes: Homilies, adult education programs, printed materials.
- Schools: Educational programs at elementary and high school levels.
- Religious Education Office: Parish programs.
- The Dialog (diocesan newspaper): Articles and editorials.
- Catholic Charities/Family Life Bureau: Educational programs, lobbying:
- Communications Office: Radio, TV and print media (enables personnel from many of the above-mentioned agencies and offices to appear on or get space in these various media.
- Clergy Education Committee: Education programs.
- Various diocesan agencies sometimes join in projects, i.e., Let's Talk and Let's Keep Talking, human sexuality programs for parents/pre-teens/teens sponsored by Catholic Charities/Family Life Bureau, Religious Education Office and St. Francis Hospital.
- Diocesan lobbyist and Maryland Catholic Conference: Lobby for bills that promote Catholic values and against those that promote values at variance with Catholic values.
- Diocesan Pro-Life Office: Education, coordinating of diocesan pro-life efforts, lobbying.
- Association of Parish Pro-Life Leaders: Education and lobbying.

4. Activities of pro-life organizations and movements in the diocese to:

A) Protect the life of the Unborn.

- Provision of direct assistance to pregnant mothers: medical care (Catholic hospital); pregnancy testing (pregnancy centers); housing (Bayard House, Casa); financial assistance, clothing, food, rent, etc.
- Prayer and fasting, spiritual adoptions
- Lobbying at both the federal and state levels
- Education: School groups, community groups, church groups, etc.

B) Foster the dignity of motherhood

- Blessings of mothers and mother to be
- Health care for pregnant mothers
- Flexible working schedules for mothers in some Catholic facilities
- Conscious efforts to create a respectful environment in Catholic institutions

- C) Promote natural and morally licit methods of regulation of human fertility
- ♦ Natural Family Planning educational programs conducted by the Family Life Bureau
- D) Provide for the spiritual and material assistance for the dying
- ♦ Provide a wide variety of both spiritual and material services for those living and dying with AIDS. (Prayer for and with PWA's, liturgies, spiritual direction, rent assistance, food, transportation, counseling, support groups, etc. by AIDS ministry).
  - ♦ Education of clergy
  - ♦ Provision of pastoral care and celebration of sacraments by priests and hospital chaplains.
  - ♦ Provision of pastoral counseling by priests, deacons and other pastoral ministers.
  - ♦ Provision of direct assistance by Parish Social Concerns Committee and parish outreach offices.

EVANGELIZATION OF CULTURE

XIV. EVANGELIZATION OF CULTURE*A. Statistical Note

There are no associations in the diocese whose primary purpose is the evangelization of culture. Rather, all diocesan offices as well as parishes are called to become increasingly aware of their responsibility through prayer, works and the witness of their lives for the transformation of our society.

B. Description

1. The Diocese of Wilmington is located on the Eastern Seaboard of the United States of America. It was colonized initially by European Americans. The earliest colonists in the 16th century to what is now the State of Delaware sailed up the Delaware Bay. They were Swedes. They were followed by Dutch, French and English. The Eastern Shore of Maryland was initially settled by English Catholic to be succeeded by English Protestants.

At both the beginning and the end of the quinquennium, the dominant culture would be European American representing influences by English, French, Irish, German, Polish, Italian. Hispanic influences the most rapidly growing representing immigrants of Puerto Rico, Mexico, Cuba, Guatemala, El Salvador and the islands of the Caribbean mostly Haiti. There are two Polish national parishes in Wilmington and an Italian national parish. One predominantly Irish parish in the last fifty years has become almost totally Hispanic. These immigrants both old and new have brought a Catholic or at least Christian culture to the area which makes up the northern part of the diocese. Indeed, through the earlier half of the 20th century, the Church has been appreciated for the schools and services to the poor, and its members have been present in many facets of public life.

There are African-Americans in significant numbers. These are Christians who are descendants of African immigrants and slaves freed during the Civil War. In recent years a number have been attracted to the Muslim faith. There are Jewish people, Asians (Koreans, Chinese, Vietnamese, Japanese) though smaller in numbers but influential.

Politically speaking, the leaders of the state and municipalities are largely European Americans though people of other cultures are making inroads into significant positions.

There are some political figures and especially some members of the media who are antagonistic towards the Church and the clergy. The Catholic Church has been the strongest credible voice opposed to sexual immorality and continues to witness to the indissolubility of marriage, the immorality of sex outside of marriage, the immorality of homosexual actions and the sacredness of human life. Some media personnel and some political leaders have branded the Church as intolerable and archaic.

The diocese has responded vigorously to the antagonism with reasoned offenses. The Church is not just condemning the evils of modern society. It's working to aid the poor, the widowed, the young and old, and adults, etc. Marriages are being saved. Young people's lives are being sanctified, sick and homebound people are being visited each day. It should be noted also that there has been positive media coverage of the Church and its activities. The leadership of the Catholic Church is recognized as making valuable contributions in the areas of morality, family life and spirituality. When the diocese issued new marriage guidelines calling for a year of preparation, the local newspaper in Wilmington in an editorial praised the Church for its work to promote healthy family life. Incidentally, the Guidelines received attention nationally with other dioceses requesting copies. Their presence was noted in Ireland and Germany.

2. Even though one might see European American culture as dominant it is no longer as perhaps could be said at one time Christian. Secularism and relativism pervade moral values. There is separation of Church and State so that religion does not get any financial support directly. Many people are un-churched and even hostile to values held by religious people.

There is divorce, single parent families, couples living together outside marriage, pornography, child abuse, lack of respect for human life of the unborn and the elderly. There is alcoholism and drug abuse, active homosexuality with AIDS and the consequences of HIV.

Unemployment in Delaware, according to a recent statistic, is just under 5%. However it can be said that those at the lowest rung of the social ladder are not benefiting by the expanding number of job opportunities. Skilled labor is what is in demand and not unskilled labor. The State of Delaware also had the best economy of the Middle Atlantic States Region because of the automobile, chemistry, and bank service industries.

As regards atheism, it is not organized but definitely many people can be called practical atheists.

The diocese does not have seminaries or institutions of higher learning under its own jurisdiction, but in the schools where seminarians are trained for the diocese the setting is urban. Seminarians are made aware of the problems of society of the day. They are initiated into pastoral work largely among urban families in cities and suburbs. In the summer, placement during the theology years of study they are placed in supervisory experiences in the rural as well as urban life situations. It may also be noted that as the candidates for priesthood seem to be older, they bring with them a broad experience of the cultural life of the United States. Particularly, the permanent deacons in the latest class represent a broad spectrum of the community and include Hispanic and African American members.

3. The age in which we live in the United States promotes materialism and individualism at the expense of respecting compassion for those who lack material power. The diocese tries to nourish and sustain culture among the underprivileged in a variety of ways. The largest group of underprivileged are the Hispanics and the African Americans.

Primary among the efforts at evangelization is the celebration of the liturgy as a central element of the activity of the local church. In the Hispanic community in many parts of the diocese there are priests and sisters (admittedly not enough) who have Mass and provide religious services. Evangelization efforts among the Hispanics are: 3 Hispanic priests, 3 Hispanic deacons, 5 Anglos who are bilingual, 4 Hispanic sisters and 4 Anglo sisters who are bilingual. Catholic Charities also provides in the name of the Church important social service work.

The annual St. Martin DePorres Mass provides an opportunity for people of African American ethnic background through the American style of worship to celebrate their religious and cultural experience and witness it to other groups. The Black Gospel Choir now has European American members. There is also an annual celebration for Native Americans who have been recognized as an object of apostolate activity. A priest was appointed their chaplain.

There are three inner city schools in Wilmington which have large African American (and non-Catholic) and Hispanic enrollments. These schools give educational opportunities to people of other backgrounds that they would not have in the public schools. Tuition assisted programs exist which are funded by private donations, the diocese, and the Commission for Black Catholic Missions Among the Native Americans and the Colored People. In the southern part of the diocese the Church has funded a Latino and Migrant Program, Casa San Francisco, the Seton Center in Princess Anne and more recently the Hispanic Task Force to see what more can be done. Regularly, the diocese still has been unable to attract priestly vocations from the ethnic groups themselves.

4. Recognizing evangelization is the essence of the Church's mission, the diocesan activity seeks to proclaim the Gospel through its parishes, its schools and institutions.

Regrettably, Sunday morning is still the most segregated time in the USA. Various races and cultures worship separately despite the fact that they may work together and go to school together. Housing patterns caused by economic diversity promote this to an extent, but more needs to be done to bring the various groups together.

An interesting program in the northern New Castle area where Wilmington is situated is the Emmanuel Dining Room run by the Ministry of Caring. Churches and synagogues take turns supplying not only food but church members as kitchen help and waiters to serve the poor and homeless in dining rooms that are attractive and well kept. This Ministry now 25 years old is well respected in the community and through a network of offices and institutions, helps the poor and unfortunate of all agencies. There is an employment agency, senior citizen facility, homes for homeless men and women, HIV/AIDS day care centers. The Ministry is served by a core of 6 Capuchin friars and many paid and volunteer lay people.

Because of the influence of the Black Catholic Congress and the Hispanic Pastoral Plan the diocese sees the challenges before us in celebrating the Millennium with renewed efforts at evangelization.

The 29 ecumenical ministerial associations to which parishes belong give Catholics an opportunity to share their faith with others and to work at sharing the faith in action with others of different faiths and ethnic backgrounds. Catholics have also joined with other groups protesting pornography, abortion, drugs and the gay rights agenda. Many are active in Alcoholics Anonymous and drug rehabilitation programs. Through the Rachel Project the Church also reaches out to those who have suffered abortion.

5. Popular religiosity has been described as an important guardian of culture, history and identity. It is not only a vehicle for evangelization in many disparate ethnic communities but also has functions as a forum to preserve what is good and noble in the heritage although admittedly also abetting the resistance to assimilation. Popular expressions of faith are celebrated voluntarily by many people. They are transmitted from generation to generation since they manifest the true identity and cultural soul of the people.

During an average year the following ethnic celebrations can be cited:

January 16	Martin Luther King Day - African American
March 17	St. Patrick's Day - Irish Holy Week & Passover - Christian and Jewish
June	Greek Festival held on grounds of Holy Trinity Orthodox Church St. Hedwig's Festival - Polish St. Anthony's Festival - Italian St. Paul's - Puerto Rican
September	St. Andrew Kim - Korean
October	Octoberfest - German & Christian Columbus Day Festival - Italian
November	Thanksgiving - All American Faiths
December	Posadas - Hispanic Hanukkah - Jewish Christmas - Christian Kwanza - African American

Some of the events started out as secular or purely religious events proper to one group but have taken on ecumenical overtones and are positive forces for good in the community. In celebrating one tradition or identity there are opportunities to bring others of different persuasions or no persuasions together. Rich and poor, the educated and non educated, professional and blue collar, the old and the young mingle together. Other festivities start out secular and have developed religious overtones.

The diocese responds to the needs of the various groups for worship in other languages, i.e. Polish, Korean, Hispanic, Haitian. It recognizes in Hispanic culture religion is part of daily life. If the Catholic Church cannot provide the need they will turn to other churches and unfortunately many have. Yet the church recognizes the poor socio-economic condition of Hispanics and provides opportunities to insure Catholic school education wherever possible. While the diocese has tried to reach out, it realizes it has not been doing enough and there is an Hispanic Task Force with a paid director and advisory board studying how better the Church of Wilmington can minister to its Hispanic brothers and sisters.

For the Catholics of African descent, public displays of religion and popular devotion are very similar to those of non-Catholic African Americans which indeed is the dominant Black Catholic culture. African American spirituality is firmly based on the scriptures. Effective inculturation of the Gospel embraces the four major characters of the black spirituality: the contemplative, holistic, joyful and communitarian. The diocese has sent a representative delegation to the Black Catholic Congress. Twenty two attended the Congress in 2002 in Chicago with the Bishop. They have returned renewed in spirit to evangelize their neighbors. The staffing of the Black Catholic Ministry Office has been expanded to a lay director and an assistance with a goal to recover the lapsed Black Catholics and evangelize the unchurched.

From the title of the event, one can readily see how the ethnic groups that have been here since the turn of the century tried to preserve the tradition of their native lands. Americans of Italian, Polish, German, Irish descent continue to celebrate processions and devotions in behalf of the homeland patrons. The personal parish for the Polish has one Mass each weekend in the native tongue. The Italians have dropped Mass in their tongue. The Germans have an ecumenical service each year during the Octoberfest.

For people growing up in the USA the challenge is whether the practice of devotions or traditions of their ethnic heritage will continue as the children and grandchildren of immigrants adapt more and more to the cultures of the United States.

For the Church the challenge is how to preach the Gospel to the different groups by encouraging religious expressions that are theologically sound and cultural meaningful.

SOCIAL COMMUNICATIONS

XV. SOCIAL COMMUNICATIONS

A. Statistics

1. At the present time, there are no Catholic publishing houses in the Diocese of Wilmington.
2. There are several Catholic book stores in the Diocese of Wilmington as well as non-denominational religious book stores which stock Catholic publishers. Most Catholics in the diocese are also able to purchase Catholic books and products online via the Internet.
3. The diocesan publication, The Dialog, has a weekly circulation of 54,000 households in Delaware and nine counties in the State of Maryland. Some Diocesan offices (Chancery, Liturgy Office, Catholic Charities, Youth Ministry, Parish Social Ministry) produce and distribute monthly or quarterly newsletters. All parishes have weekly parish bulletins.
4. There are no Catholic radio or television stations which operate within the diocese at this time. However; Eternal Word Television Network (EWTN), a Catholic satellite and cable delivered television service, is seen on a total of 10 cable systems in the diocese, systems reaching approximately 323,000 households.
5. There are no centers of formation associated with the Church in the field of communications located in the Diocese of Wilmington.
6. The most widely circulated newspapers and magazines in the diocese include The News Journal (Delaware), The Daily Times (Salisbury), The Star-Democrat (Easton), The Whig (Elkton), Delaware Today (Delaware) plus national publications such as The Wall Street Journal, USA Today, Modern Maturity, Reader's Digest, TV Guide, Better Homes and Gardens.

The most popular publications of religious interest to Catholics are The Dialog (Catholic Newspaper of the Diocese of Wilmington), Catholic Digest, St. Anthony Messenger, National Catholic Reporter, America, Wanderer, Our Sunday Visitor, National Catholic Register.

B. Description

1. The majority of the media in the Diocese of Wilmington has a largely positive general attitude toward the Church despite the extensive coverage of the Church's sexual abuse crisis that was presented in the media from early 2002 until late in 2003. Media outlets based in the diocese continue to respect the local Church due to past and continuing efforts of our Bishops and diocesan officials to deal with sexual abuse issues in a proper and open manner. For example, the most-read daily newspaper in the diocese has praised the Bishop on several occasions for his Review Board appointments and handling of allegations of abuse. The continuing media relations efforts of the Diocese of Wilmington's Office of Communications have also contributed to this attitude.

While the ideological and moral orientation of locally owned and operated broadcast and print media remains strong; the deregulation of and the resulting ownership consolidation in the newspaper and radio industries, have taken control of content out of the hands of local individuals at many media outlets. Content decisions are often made by corporate staffs outside of the diocese that lack knowledge of local community mores.)

Over the past five years, an increasing number of the radio programs heard in the diocese come from outside of the diocese via syndicated shows from New York, Washington, D.C. and elsewhere. This is generally a negative development since these programs are directed at a national audience and ignore market-specific attitudes and needs. While some of these radio programs contain a great deal of sexual content and so-called "adult" language (i.e. Howard Stern) others espouse pro-family values and have an anti-abortion orientation (i.e. Dr. Laura Schlessinger, Sean Hannity, etc.)

Very little television programming originates within the geographic boundaries of the Diocese of Wilmington. Local and regional programming is mostly news and public affairs. Nationally produced broadcast and cable television programming continues to be more sexually explicit in its content and contain language that was unheard on television ten years ago.

The Office of Communications has had a long standing relationship with media throughout the diocese. Our Director of Communications makes frequent visits to the print and electronic media outlets located in the diocese.

The diocese has updated the equipment in its radio broadcast production center in the Chancery Building that has been providing programming to radio stations for many years.

The radio communications efforts began in the diocese in April of 1939 with the production of the Catholic Forum of the Air program; a program that is on the air to this very day. In addition, the Catholic Broadcasters Association was born in the Wilmington diocese in the early 1940's and continued until the early 1970's when it came part of the worldwide UNDA organization, now Signis.

The diocese has always looked for ways to provide the broadcaster with quality programs and distributes two additional radio programs to stations in the diocese; Country Roads and Catholic Radio Weekly. Additionally, the Hispanic Ministry Office and the Ministry to Black Catholics of the diocese each produce weekly radio programs targeted to their audiences.

Over the past several years, the Diocese of Wilmington has established and developed its Internet presence with a robust web site; www.cdow.org. The site includes over 400 pages of information and links to other sites and receives over 30,000 page requests per month.

The Director of Communications serves as the spokesperson for the diocese and assists the media in identification of resource people with additional expertise.

The Communication Office serves as the diocesan office for social communications.

2. The Dialog and the Diocese of Wilmington's Web site are the only Catholic communications media that originate in the diocese.

Bishop Michael Saltarelli, The Dialog's publisher and its editor, assure doctrinal orthodoxy and fair and honest reporting. Its financial stability is that of the diocese and it has a notable influence on the Catholic community since it is mailed each week to every registered Catholic family in the diocese.

Each diocesan department or office is responsible for the content of its own section of the diocesan Web site. Oversight of the homepage and features belongs to the Office of Communications. The Moderator of the Curia supervises the Director of Communications in this and other areas.

3. The diocese is in the process of developing a pastoral plan for communications at this time. We have no specific program for pastoral care for communications professionals. To promote and defend Christian morality in the media, the Diocese of Wilmington participated in the USCCB's Renewing the Mind of the Media campaign in 2001 and 2003.

4. The Catholic Press is actively promoted throughout the Diocese of Wilmington on an ongoing basis. As previously mentioned, all registered parishioners in the parishes of the diocese receive a copy of the diocesan newspaper. Our radio efforts are promoted on the diocesan Web site and in the diocesan newspaper. The Web site is promoted in the paper and on the radio.

Efforts are made to educate young people in our Catholic schools and religious education programs regarding the influence of media in their lives.

Diocesan priests, deacons and seminarians are involved and have been for many years in the communications efforts, especially in radio. A priest hosts our Hispanic Ministry program, a deacon is involved in each weekly Catholic Forum program and priests and seminarians are involved on a regular and reoccurring basis.

B. Description

1. (a) The administration of justice and the violation of human rights.

The legal system in the diocese follows established norms throughout the country based on principles contained in the American constitution. Those accused of crimes are entitled to legal representation. If they cannot afford a private attorney, the state-financed Public Defender's Office provides such representation. In addition, the State Human Relations Division and private groups, such as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the American Civil Liberties Union, and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, have been established to act as "watchdog" groups for perceived violations of civil rights of certain groups.

Race is a central issue in our nation and our communities. Even when we don't give voice to it, it is present — critical, but unspoken. When we do talk about it, it is often at times of crisis, when racial divisions become apparent or racial tensions turn to violence. There are times of national awareness when the country's problems with race transfix all of us.

Questions of racism and race relations touch us every day, in personal ways. Race affects where we live, where we walk, where we shop, the jobs we hold, and how we are educated. In workplaces, schools, and houses of worship, racial and ethnic divisions persist. Misperceptions, stereotyping, fear, and distrust exist in every ethnic group toward members of other ethnic groups.

Race also has a great impact on our public life. In our communities, racial and ethnic divisions prevent us from working together on pressing common concerns such as education, jobs, and crime.

Racism has existed for hundreds of years, clashing with our founding principles of equality and justice. The wars against Native American tribes and later discrimination against native peoples; the enslavement of Africans brought to this country and the oppression of African-Americans after they were freed; the internment of Japanese Americans during World War II; and discrimination against immigrants — all of these and more have been based on the belief that some people are inferior due to the color of their skin.

In few areas are the disparities between races as evident as in our criminal justice system. The following table provides some indication of that disparity.

Incarceration Rates of Adult Males by Race
	Rate per 100,000 of each race
	Black	White	Black/White Ratio (Ranking)
Delaware	6,888	736	9.4 to 1 (19 th highest)
Maryland	3602	353	10.2 to 1 (16 th highest)
USA	4,631	482	9.6 to 1

The unborn, the aged and infirm, and the poor are quite vulnerable to a denial of rights. The unborn have no legal right to life.

Although the U.S. Supreme Court has recently ruled that no constitutional right to assisted suicide exists, there is a strong movement toward legalizing assisted suicide on a state-by-state basis. At this time, Delaware criminalizes doctor-assisted suicide by statute and Maryland by common law. In Maryland, legislation was introduced (but killed in committee) to permit a physician to prescribe a lethal dose of a drug to a patient suffering from an incurable disease or illness that causes substantial physical pain and suffering.

The treatment of immigrants is quite varied. Legal, educated, English-speaking immigrants generally have the work ethic and skills which result in successful assimilation into society. However, there exists in the diocese a growing number of poorly educated immigrants, legal and illegal, mostly from Central America, who lack English language skills. These individuals often find employment in the area's poultry and agricultural industries, working in jobs and under conditions that most locals would not accept. There have been several raids by INS agents on these workplaces in an effort to detain and deport immigrants who are in this country illegally.

In the mid-1990s, Congress passed the largest changes in immigration law and immigrant access to public benefits since the First World War. These changes were overwhelmingly negative for immigrants.

With the release of the 2000 U.S. Census, the presence and influence of immigrants on our national landscape became impossible to deny. For communities throughout the United States, their economic contributions had become increasingly evident, along with the challenges of providing health and human services to a diverse population. Over the past few years, a number of significant legislative and administrative measures at federal and state levels had begun to address these challenges, while legislation to broaden immigration opportunities was being discussed in Congress. Most prominent during the summer of 2001 was the prospect of some kind of general legalization or amnesty for undocumented immigrants living in the U.S.

Since September 11, 2001 however, there has been no further discussion of a legalization program. In fact, the passage and signing of the USAPATRIOT Act of October 26, 2001 sent the pendulum in the opposite direction. Some have called for greater limits on immigration and other internal restrictions of immigrant rights.

(b) Violence toward ethnic minorities and against other social groups

Although race-relations in general can be strained, violent, racist actions and language directed at minority groups are rare, relegated mostly to graffiti and attitudes expressed by alienated youth. The Ku Klux Klan, the group most noted for fomenting racial hatred, is vilified in the press and by nearly all people, and, although it exists, has no influential presence in the diocese.

Minorities who are victims of crimes are generally victimized by other members of the same minority group. This takes the form of assaults, robberies, and burglaries.

(c) Socio-political problems

Welfare

With sweeping legislative action, the federal government, in 1996, dismantled 60 years of federal responsibility for public aid to families with dependent children. The federal Aid to Families with Dependent Children program (AFDC) was eliminated and replaced with the Temporary Assistance to Needy Families program (TANF). Under this new program, responsibilities for public assistance for the poor have been given to the states in the form of federal block grants with strict rules for work requirements, time limits, and stricter eligibility requirements for the most basic of cash and food assistance. Welfare caseloads have declined significantly and more former welfare recipients are working. However poverty persists despite work.

Welfare-to-work efforts create a dilemma. Even though various work scenarios allow working families to rise above official "poverty," the expenses in their frugal budget still exceed income as did the "pre-work" situation from which the family began.

Health care

Nearly one in every six Americans (42.6 million) is without health insurance. Despite the longest economic boom in history, the number of persons without health insurance dipped just 4% in 1999. With the current economic downturn, some states are already cutting back coverage, with Oklahoma mailing out termination letters to Medicaid recipients and North Carolina imposing a freeze on enrollment in the Children's Health Initiative Program.

Compared to other wealthy industrialized nations, the United States health care system provides coverage to the fewest and costs the most. In 1997, health expenditures as a percentage of the gross domestic product ranged from a high of 13.6% in the United States to 6.7% in the United Kingdom. When compared to the other highly industrialized countries in the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, infant mortality rates are the highest and life expectancy rates are the lowest in the U.S.

Market competition has not succeeded in bringing the U.S. health care costs in line with those of other industrialized countries. Market based reform has not expanded health insurance coverage but has rather, directly or indirectly, increased the number of under insured and uninsured Americans. Medical research and education have suffered and medicine's social mission has declined.

In Delaware 11.4% of the state's population lacked health care coverage in the year 2000, compared to 13.4% for the region (Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York). From the mid 1990's to the present, the rate of uninsured in Delaware decreased from 13.6% to 11.4%. This drop in the number of Delawareans without health insurance is credited primarily to the increased coverage of children through the Healthy Children Program initiated in January 1999.

The bulk of the 96,000 uninsured Delawareans are the working poor who do not qualify for Medicaid, are not provided health insurance by their employers, and whose income is insufficient to purchase health care coverage. The profile of the typical uninsured Delawarean: single, white, male, over age 17, working with an income above poverty level.

In Delaware and Maryland there has been an overhaul of the Medicaid program which provides health care coverage for the poor. Medicaid pays for doctor visits, hospital care, laboratory work, prescription drugs, transportation, routine immunizations for children, mental health and substance abuse treatment. The program has been "privatized," that is, contracted to private insurers which agree to provide certain benefits for a stipulated payment. This recent change has been initially positive in that a) all Medicaid recipients have a primary care physician who manages their care and b) the program covers all poor adults with incomes up to 100% of poverty and pregnant women and children up to 185% of poverty. Medicaid benefits continue for two years for those individuals who leave public assistance for employment.

Medicare is the federally sponsored health care program for those over 65. It covers hospital stays, skilled nursing facility care, home health care, hospice care, outpatient medical and surgical services, laboratory services, and certain medical supplies. It does not cover dental care, custodial care, hearing aids, outpatient prescription drugs, routine foot care, routine eye care, routine physical exams unless the individual is enrolled in a Medicare HMO plan. Recently, congress has been debating the inclusion of an outpatient prescription drug benefit in the basic Medicare plan.

Social Security

Social Security is a federal program for retirement security financed by mandatory worker and employer contributions. It is predicted to be solvent until 2025. However, like Medicare, the future of Social Security is in doubt. Those in the workforce who will retire ten or more years from now will receive less from Social Security than they contributed. This will spur proposals for alternative private retirement savings plans and investment options likely to be encouraged through tax incentives.

Taxation

In the U.S. approximately 35% of the average person's income goes toward federal, state, county, local, and school taxes. Despite serious tax inequities resulting from a "flattening" of the tax rates in recent years, there is still significant political support for tax cuts which disproportionately favor the well-off and for lowering the upper tax brackets even further.

(d) Labor and the problem of unemployment, unions, and other workers' organizations.

The unemployment rate in Delaware in May 2003 was 3.4% and in Maryland 4.2%. In January 2002 the rates were 4.7% and 4.9% respectively. There is some belief that the reported rates are skewed to the low end with many individuals giving up on finding employment and so not appearing in official statistics. The largest private industries in Delaware are in the areas of manufacturing, service industries, and financial, real estate, and insurance services. Maryland has a strong economic base in biotechnology, telecommunications, aerospace, and goods distribution.

The largest employers in the Diocese are the State (15,000); MBNA Bank America, the nation's second largest credit card company (10,000); the DuPont Company, an international chemical company (9,900); Christiana Care Health System (7,900); and Dover Air Force Base (7,700). Delaware experienced a net loss of 6,000 jobs in 2002.

Unionization of workers in the diocese is similar to unionization in the United States as a whole. In the USA 14.9% of workers are represented by a union. In Delaware the percentage is 14.6% and in Maryland the percentage is 16.7%. The states with the highest percentage of unionization are New York, Hawaii, Alaska, Michigan, and New Jersey (all between 20 and 27%). The states with the lowest percentage of unionization are North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, and Texas (all under 10%).

(e) The conservation of the environment.

Government agencies, such as the Environmental Protection Agency and state departments of natural resources, and quasi-governmental agencies, such as solid waste authorities, have the major public responsibility for protecting the environment, controlling pollution, and managing waste disposal. There are also voluntary organizations which act as "watchdogs" to monitor government's handling of its responsibilities.

Using its website, Government agencies inform the public of such matters as toxic releases, polluting facilities, the status of superfund sites, pesticide information, and human exposure to environmental chemicals.

Land use planning has become the most important political issue at the county level of government. Building of new housing and commercial developments has outstripped the ability of the transportation, water, and sewer infrastructure to support the growth. There is great public concern and disagreement as to the best means of handling a population growing faster than the national average while maintaining a high quality of life.

In general, during the course of a year, the largest cities in the region, Philadelphia and Baltimore, meet Environmental Protection Agency air quality standards for carbon monoxide, sulfur dioxide, nitrogen dioxide, particulate matter, and lead. Those cities do not meet EPA standards for ozone. Of the six principle pollutants, ozone is the only one in Delaware that does not meet federal air quality standards.

The following table identifies four common environmental causes of health risks and the respective national rankings of Delaware and Maryland: the higher the ranking, the worse the problem.

Health Risk	Delaware	Maryland
Hazardous air pollutants (added cancer risk per 1 million population)	860 (7 th )	870 (6 th )
Chemical releases	10 million pounds (44 th )	44 million pounds (29 th )
Impaired surface water	49% (3 rd )	26% (7 th )
Animal waste	1 million tons (43 rd )	4 million tons (38 th )

(f) Public order and ideological conflicts.

There is generally a high degree of respect for the law enforcement and judicial establishments. While the crime rate in certain areas is high, especially crimes of violence in major cities, there is generally good public order with little open defiance of authority by large segments of the community. Ideological differences are usually handled by means of the electoral process.

The following table shows the rate per 100,000 population and ranking of Delaware and Maryland for crime in general, violent crime, and incarceration of their citizens.

Indicator	Delaware	Maryland
Crime rate/100,000	4,478 (17 th )	4,816 (12 th )
Violent Crime rate/100,000	684 (6 th )	787 (3 rd )
Property crimes /100,000	3,794 (19 th )	4030 (17 th )
Murders/100,000	3 (32 nd )	8 (3 rd )

(g) Conduct of Catholics in public life.

The Church has been able to maintain good communication with those Catholics who hold public office at all levels of government. They do not always support the Church's stand on issues, particularly on abortion. In many other areas of Catholic Social Teaching, Catholic officials are generally supportive.

2. (a) Agencies

The Diocese of Wilmington, having nine counties of the State of Maryland within its borders, belongs to the Maryland Catholic Conference (MCC). This past year the conference focused considerable advocacy attention on efforts to meet basic needs, assist families leaving welfare, attaining quality education for children, improve health care, address the health needs of women and the unborn, oppose the death penalty, address the problems of immigrants, and fight against the expansion of gambling.

During the past legislative session the MCC successfully fought a measure that would have required Catholic clergy to break the seal of confession in child abuse cases. Its advocacy won continuation of energy assistance funding and preservation of particularly important safety-net provisions of state welfare law. In a difficult budget year, state allocations actually increased for community mental health services, services for the developmentally disabled, and assisted living for senior citizens.

The conference also responded to bills permitting unfettered access to abortifacient morning-after pills, disposing of "leftover embryos," eliminating the sexual orientation exemption for faith-based social service organizations, human cloning, and measures to facilitate the movement of immigrants into the societal mainstream.

In Delaware, the diocese has worked on matters such as a 24-hour waiting period for abortions and opposing certain minimum mandatory sentences in favor of education, job training, and substance abuse treatment for prisoners involved with dealing drugs.

(b) Programs

The diocesan Catholic Campaign for Human Development helped support grass roots organizing efforts aimed at the empowerment of poverty groups. A poultry justice alliance, an Hispanic organizing group, and a community development agency promoting a campaign to increase use of tax credit programs by the poor were groups assisted this past year with national and local grants.

(c) Publications

Catholic Charities' Office of Parish Social Ministry publishes a monthly newsletter, Points for Parishes, and sends alerts emanating from the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops to parish social concerns volunteers to keep them informed of important matters of social justice. Catholic Charities also publishes a newsletter entitled Faith.Works.Wonders, which keeps the public informed of social service activities carried out under Diocesan auspices.

3. The primary vehicles which Catholic Charities employs to provide formation of the laity regarding Catholic Social Teaching are educational seminars and Salt and Light Leadership Training. Educational seminars are provided at parishes to RCIA groups, teachers, and others. This past year, there were 30 presentations reaching 364 people. The Salt and Light training conducted by the Office of Parish Social Ministry provides an important foundation in Catholic Social Teaching for parish social concerns leaders. This seven session training, which has been held at numerous sites for over eight years, has been revised and accepted for publication by Ave Maria Press.

4. Catholic Charities has historically joined with other organizations to form housing coalitions, public assistance task forces, special committees on the needs of children, aging advisory councils, pro-life committees, and other bodies to proclaim the rights of the most vulnerable and promote social change. Catholic Charities works cooperatively with governmental authorities on most issues of importance to those in need of service and to our constituencies. Communication between Catholic Charities and state policy-makers is generally good.

DEVELOPMENT

XVII. CHRISTIAN CHARITY AND HUMAN DEVELOPMENT

A. Statistics

B. Description

1. Through its Office of Parish Social Ministry, Catholic Charities has developed a leadership training program called Salt and Light. Based on the 1994 statement of the U.S. Catholic Bishops on building the social concerns ministries of parishes, this program educates participants in Catholic Social Teaching, identifying the scriptural and magisterial foundations of the call to greater concern for God's people. Participants are encouraged to use the major themes and documents of Catholic Social Teaching to appreciate the fullness of the social mission and stimulate the development of appropriate social concerns activities in their parishes. The Salt and Light training manual has been updated to reflect changes in the principles of Catholic Social Teaching - most notably the addition of the seventh principle, "Care for God's Creation." With input from parish social ministry leaders from across the country a revision was produced entitled Becoming a Community of Salt and Light: Formation in Parish Social Ministry. The book will be published by Ave Maria Press and become available to the public in the Fall of 2003.

In addition, the Office conducts presentations throughout the diocese on various aspects of Catholic Social Teaching and social justice. These presentations are offered to adult education classes, RCIA classes, and teachers in parochial schools. Social justice themes are incorporated in the annual Charity and Justice conference which attracts 150-200 participants.

2. Poverty.

The poverty rate in Delaware for the two year period 2000-2001 was 7.6%. The poverty rate in Maryland for the same period was 7.3%. Maryland's rate remained unchanged from the previous two year period, while Delaware's declined 1.8%. The 2003 federal poverty level for a family of three is an annual income of $15,260 or less.

In Delaware in 2001, a family of three receiving only welfare and food stamp benefits was 44% below the federal poverty level. In Maryland, the same family was 38% below the federal poverty level. From December 2001 to June 2002 the number of welfare recipients declined in both states: less than 1% in Delaware and almost 10% in Maryland.

The poverty rate for a female headed household with no spouse present in Delaware is 20.4%. However, 37.1% of female headed households with a child below the age of five are living in poverty. In Delaware, 7.9% of persons 65 and older are living in poverty and 11.9% of Delaware children are living in poverty. In Maryland, the poverty rate for a female headed household with no spouse present is 18.4%. If a child below the age of 5 is present, the percentage in poverty jumps to 32.6%. In Maryland, 8.5% of persons 65 and older are living in poverty and 10.3% of Maryland children are living in poverty.

Income disparity.

During the period from 1990 to 1998, the dollar and percent change in average income for the bottom fifth of Delawareans was -$742 (-4.5%), while the top fifth realized an increase of +$25,228 (+22.8%).

During the longer period from 1980 to 1998, the dollar and percent change in average income for the bottom fifth of Delawareans was +$211 (+1.4%), while, for the top fifth it was +$33,604 (+32.9%) increase.

The share of income held by bottom fifth of Delawareans changed from 7.0% of the total in 1980 to 5.6% in 1996-98. During this same period, the share of income of the top fifth changed from 38.1% (1980) to 44.4% (1998).

Greatly Increasing National Income Inequality

From 1989 to 1997, the average after-tax income of the top one percent of households increased 36 percent, or $180,000 per household. This was six times the average percentage gain the middle fifth of households received. It was 90 times the average dollar gain the middle fifth received.

In 1979, the top one percent of the population received 7.5 percent of the after-tax income in the nation. In 1997, it received 13.6 percent of the income, nearly twice its share in 1979. Among the bottom 40 percent of the population, the story is reversed. This group received a markedly smaller share of the national income in 1997 than in 1979. In fact, in 1979, the bottom 40 percent of the population received nearly two and one half times as much in after-tax income as the top one percent of the population, but by 1997, the top one percent received nearly as much income as the bottom 40 percent. In 1997, the 2.6 million people who made up the top one percent of the population had as much after-tax income as the 100 million Americans with the lowest incomes.

Programs and initiatives to realize the preferential option for the poor.

All the programs operated by Catholic Charities are operated for the benefit of the poor. Certain programs have a special focus to directly assist those in poverty who are facing an economic crisis. These programs include: emergency financial assistance for rent and utility costs, home heating assistance, emergency and supplemental food programs, emergency shelter services, and the provision of free or low-cost clothing and household goods. During the summer growing season, services are extended to the several thousand migrant farm workers who enter the diocese.

Diocesan social ministry also operates through two networks of parish-based services: the St. Vincent de Paul Society and parish outreach. These two networks function with parish volunteers and operate in most parishes. They operate food pantries and clothing closets, provide direct financial assistance, visit shut-ins, and provide special Thanksgiving and Christmas help to the poor.

Also functioning within the diocese are ministries to the poor under the direction of religious orders of men and women. The largest of these is the Ministry of Caring, sponsored by the Capuchin Fathers and Brothers. Their work includes shelters for homeless men and women, a job placement center, a day care center, dining halls, a dental clinic, a mobile health van, and a residence for men with AIDS. They are aided by many hundred volunteers from churches of all denominations who help prepare and serve meals to the poor at the dining halls.

The Benedictine Sisters in Ridgely, MD provide services to the poor on the property of their mother house. Known as St. Martin's Barn and St. Martin's House, services are provided by religious sister and volunteers. Services include emergency food, clothing, and a five unit shelter for homeless mothers and their children.

The Little Sisters of Jesus and Mary have established a multi-service center in Salisbury, MD. They provide emergency and transitional housing services, daily hot meals, food and clothing, emergency financial assistance, help in job-seeking, a child day care center, and an adult education center.

Through the Campaign for Human Development, the diocese seeks to assist the poor to assume greater control over their lives by addressing the structural causes of poverty. By supporting grass roots groups of the poor and marginalized, the diocese helps empower these groups to organize and advocate for changes in laws, public and private policies, and public and private priorities, which have not been supportive of low-income people.

3. In addition to programs intended to address core problems related to poverty, the diocese, through Catholic Charities, runs programs that treat, protect, support, and enrich families and individuals. These programs, which operate for the benefit of persons throughout the diocese, include: residential group care for abused, neglected, and emotionally disturbed children and youth; adoption services; counseling services for families and individuals, including specialized intensive mental health counseling for children; drug and alcohol treatment; immigration and refugee resettlement; family life education; marriage preparation; AIDS ministry; domestic violence counseling; a nutrition program for children in day care homes; after-school and summer enrichment services for children; and adult basic education.

Several collections are taken up annually in parishes to support social justice and human development activities outside the diocese. These include: 1) The Campaign for Human Development, which raises over $85,000 each year, three-fourths of which is sent outside the diocese for national programs. 2) Black and Native American Missions, which raises $45,000 each year, three-fourths of which is sent outside the diocese for national programs; and 3) Catholic Relief Services, which raises $45,000 each year and is used to support the church's international aid effort.

4. Collaboration with civil authorities and with other state agencies, as well as with other churches and religions, in the relief of poverty and in the promotion of human Christian development takes many forms. Many of the services provide by Catholic Charities and other religious groups in the diocese, are funded by means of government grants and contracts. These organizations are recognized for the quality of their work and the positive values, motivation, and ideals they bring to the task. Indeed, government relies on nonprofits, religious groups, and voluntary associations to make up its service delivery network. Collaboration also occurs through participation on numerous committees and task forces (that include representatives from government, churches, and community organizations) which endeavor to assess community needs and conditions and implement human service initiatives.

Assessment of Importance

St. Francis Hospital is the only Catholic Hospital in the State of Delaware. St. Francis is a major force in the Wilmington Community for advocating the needs of the poor and underserved which is evidenced throughout this document.

The St. Francis Care Centers for the elderly at Wilmington and Brackenville are the only Catholic nursing homes in Delaware along with Jeanne Jugan Residence which is conducted by the Little Sisters of the Poor. Beds in these institutions are in constant demand. They are appreciated by the community, both Catholic and non-Catholic.

3. To our knowledge, there is no Catholic or Christian association of nurses, pharmacists, or obstetricians, but there is a Christian Association of Physicians and a Christian Midwives Association. One of St. Francis Hospital's physicians is very active in the Catholic Medical Association in Pennsylvania.

4. St. Francis Hospital has a three-year Family Practice Residency Program affiliated with Temple University and Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine with six students per year and eight faculty members, one of whom is part-time.

St. Francis does not have a nursing school but provides clinical experience for nursing students of Neumann College which is conducted by the Sisters of St. Francis of Philadelphia. In addition, it does the same for the Delaware Skills Center, University of Delaware, Salem Community College, Delaware State University, Delcastle High School, Howard Career Center and Hodson Vocational/Technical School.

B. Description

1. Organizations and their activities

Delaware's only Catholic hospital was founded in 1924 and is licensed for 395 beds. In October 2002, St. Francis launched the region's most comprehensive, state-of-the-art Open Heart program as part of its $20 million, five-year Master Facility Plan. The St. Francis Heart Center provides a full range of cardiac services from expanded cardiac catheterization services to a broad range of treatment options including bypass and other surgery and rehabilitation.

St. Francis is a full-service community hospital with the Emergency Department as part of the Delaware Trauma System; offers the Family Birthplace and considers women's health one of its specialties.

Also part of the healthcare system are the Franciscan Care Centers at Wilmington and in Hockessin. The centers provide long-term care and restorative nursing care, along with rehabilitation services. Community outreach efforts consist of the Center of Hope, a family practice center in Newark, the Tiny Steps prenatal program for low-income pregnant women and the St. Clare Van which provides medical care to the poor.

2. Results and Difficulties

The Catholic Hospital and Homes for the Elderly in the diocese enjoy a tradition of caring and commitment to quality. In 1996 and 1997 St. Francis Hospital has been awarded the Delaware Quality Award. There has been partnering with other organizations of similar values to help meet community health needs. The values of Human Life and Dignity, Holism, Preference for the Poor, and Stewardship continue to be fostered in each of our organizations.

The outreach programs sponsored by the hospital and its charity care program provided $17 million in un-reimbursed charity care. This represents 10% of the hospital's total operating expenses.

3. Pastoral Care of the Sick

Each patient is visited upon admission by one of the priest chaplains. Referrals are then made to the Spiritual Care Department. Each member of the department assumes responsibility for a specific unit. Communion is distributed daily to our Catholic patients.

Mass is celebrated daily. Recitation of the rosary precedes the daily Mass. A prayer service is held each Thursday at noon and religious music is played continuously. The priest chaplains also celebrate liturgy at the long-term care facilities.

There is interaction between parishes and the Spiritual Care Department. The most recent examples related to new HIPAA privileges.

There is an active Ethics Committee that is guided by the Ethical and Religious Directives. Interaction with the system office provides updates on critical ethical issues. Each long-term facility has an ethics sub-committee and ethics consults are provided as needed. Birth and end of life issues are of special concern as pro life is an integral part of our Catholic identity.

Advocacy efforts are significant. Support is again provided by system leadership.

Provision of spiritual care to staff and families is very important.

4. Promotion of Volunteerism

Volunteerism is promoted in the hospital as well as in the nursing homes. The two arms of volunteers serving the hospitals and its patients and staff are the Junior Board Members who are involved primarily in fundraising, and the Director Service Volunteers who provide service directly to patients and staff.

Volunteers are recruited via the Catholic paper and ecumenical church bulletins that alert the community to the various volunteer service positions the hospital offers.

The student volunteer program provides service opportunities to students required to do community/Christian service volunteer hours as part of their academic requirements. Also, students researching the healthcare field as a possible career, also find accommodation in the programs. Retired Sisters, Christian Brothers in the Novitiate and Lay Ministers taking time from their life to serve, also find placement that suit their needs.

The governing board and foundation board are also conduits for local volunteer involvement.

5. Questions Regarding Life, Suffering and Death

The hospital and nursing homes abide by the Ethical and Religious Directives for Healthcare Facilities. All physicians on the hospital's medical staff are made familiar with the directives, receive a copy and agree to abide by them in their service at the hospital, its satellites and outreach programs. Several of these physicians also serve as consultants to make recommendations whenever an ethical-moral question is raised. In addition to working with Diocesan Pro-Life staff, the hospital has worked closely with the Catholic Health Association in opposing assisted suicide or other pertinent legislation such as stem cell research at state and federal levels.

PASTORAL CARE OF MIGRANTS AND ITINERANTS

XIX. PASTORAL CARE OF MIGRANTS AND ITINERANTS*A. Statistics

1. There are at least 4,000 Hispanic seasonal laborers whom migrate to at least 56 migrant laborer sites scattered throughout the Wilmington Diocese. They work in a variety of settings: nurseries, farming, horse-breeding and racehorse grooming, crabbing and poultry processing.
2. There is no significant emigration of the faithful from the diocese to other countries
3. Tourism in the diocese: The diocese is located on a peninsula jutting out into the Atlantic Ocean. Surrounded as it is by water, there are innumerable bays, inlets, rivers which provide vacation homes and resorts during the summer season (June through August). In addition, an increasing number of people because of affluence are continuing to visit vacation homes on weekends in the "shoulder" season of April to June and September to November. Retired people from the large metropolitan areas of Washington, Baltimore (Maryland) and Philadelphia (Pennsylvania) along with Wilmington in the northern part of the diocese, are seeking to settle in the resort areas and now require year-round services not previously needed. Diocesan and parish structures have continued to grow in order to keep pace with this development.

B. Description

1. The fifty-six known migrant laborer camps have been divided into four regions and various pastoral agents have been assigned to coordinate each region. Sacramental, outreach and special needs services have been established at the seven largest camps. In 2003, an extensive needs assessment has begun to assist in developing ministry at the remaining camps.

Most significant challenges have been poverty, lack of education, health care, legal assistance, depression, alcoholism, prostitution and the presence of Evangelicals. The greatest hope lies in the faith-filled response of most of the migrant laborers as well as the commitment of twelve clergy and religious serving migrants and training local parish clergy and lay leaders to welcome the stranger on the move.

I promulgated A Journey Unfolding, our second diocesan plan for Hispanic Ministry (2003-2007), calling our clergy and faithful to continue building Hispanic Ministry in areas of liturgy, community, formation and social action. In this plan, I have emphasized that Hispanic Ministry must be parish based, the pastoral and fiscal responsibility of all pastors not just solely the Diocesan Office of Hispanic Ministry. The responses have been supportive.

2. The Apostleship of the Sea is active at the Port of Wilmington, the See City. The diocese has maintained part-time chaplaincy to Catholic seamen at the port for some years to service seamen who crew the cargo ships bringing crude oil, hard good and fruit, and taking away manufactured goods. The cultural backgrounds of the Catholic seamen are Filipino, Italian, German, Polish. The Chaplain is assisted by lay volunteers. Many services to seamen are also rendered on an ecumenical basis through the Seaman's Center staffed around the clock by volunteers of all faiths.

3. There are no international airports, railway stations or passenger terminals for ocean going vessels in the diocese.

Pacem in Terris, a local ecumenical organization, annually bring Irish youth both Catholic and Protestant from the north of Ireland to the diocese for six weeks of studying, living and working together. Local families host the young people. Our Catholic families through their parish are most supportive of this effort. They witness by word and deed how Catholics and Protestants can live together in peace in the USA. Hopefully, when the young people return, they can bring this message to their brothers and sisters.

4. Because of the insignificant number of those people emigrating to other countries, there is no need to prepare them for this experience. Through the Chancery Office, arrangements are made for those who wish to attend a Papal Audience when they visit Rome. From time to time each year, diocesan priests lead pilgrimages to the sacred sites of Europe and the Middle East.

Parishes maintain 76 sacred buildings in regular use as places of worship of which seven were built before the establishment of the diocese in 1868 and have considerable historic significance. Three other early churches of great historic significance, noted by * above, are not in regular use because of small size or remote location but are maintained by their respective parishes as historic shrines and used on special occasions.

B. Description

1. Conservation efforts. The historic and architecturally significant Sacred Heart Church, built in 1874 to serve German and Polish immigrants to Wilmington, was preserved with all its appointments after the parish closed in 1996, and now operates as an oratory after being transferred to a Franciscan ministry serving the urban poor. The Diocesan Real Estate Committee oversees an inventory of all land and buildings owned by the diocese or individual parishes. The Archivist maintains an inventory, with photographs, of the major diocesan artifacts of historic significance and has custody of objects not in use elsewhere. An inventory of all parish registers has been compiled, and early registers not previously microfilmed were identified and included in the filming completed in 1998. The Archivist provides technical assistance to parishes in developing archives and patrimony preservation programs, which are encouraged but not yet directed. The historic archives of the diocese were moved to a facility providing considerably more space and a larger storage area, which is maintained at optimum temperature and humidity, with sensors monitored on a 24-hour per day basis by a contracted security service. A secure fire-resistant cabinet is available for objects of intrinsic value.

2. Directives and Responsibilities. Parishes have been directed to obtain diocesan approval, through the Chancery Office, before disposing of liturgical objects, art, statuary, or building appurtenances that are no longer in use, to guard against loss of our patrimony. A lay archivist, professionally qualified, works part-time under the immediate supervision of the Vicar General for Pastoral Concerns and the Chancellor. The archivist manages the historical archives and some other inactive records, has custody of historic objects not in active use, and advises diocesan departments and parishes on records management at their request. An interpretive exhibition of some of the documents and artifacts held by the Archives is being prepared. The Archives research room is open to the public one day a week and also by appointment, and there are generally no restrictions on public access to records prior to 1968 except for microfilmed baptismal records after 1930, to which restrictions apply to protect the privacy of living persons. Programs on the care and use of the diocesan patrimony are developed and offered to parishes and agencies in response to requests or opportunities.

3. Attention to architectural and artistic quality. Construction and renovation of churches is planned by qualified professionals and reviewed by the Diocesan Building Committee and Liturgical Commission to assure dignity and suitability in design, and respect for the patrimony exhibited by existing structures and their appurtenances. A major step in preserving the musical patrimony of the diocese has been the organization of a Diocesan Gospel Choir that travels through the diocese to demonstrate the vitality of the African-American musical tradition in worship.

4. Collaboration with civil authorities. Ongoing cooperation over the last 30 years has resulted in nominations of a number of churches by the States of Delaware and Maryland, and their subsequent listing in the National Register of Historic Places. Register listing recognizes their historic, architectural and cultural significance to the larger community, and also offers some protection against ill-considered governmental action, as well as consultation and technical assistance on their continued preservation, and even financial assistance under special circumstances. Churches listed either individually or as significant elements of districts include in Delaware St. Peter Cathedral, St. Anthony, St. Hedwig, and St. Mary of the Immaculate Conception, Wilmington; St. John the Baptist, Newark; St. Joseph, Greenville; St. Joseph, Middletown; and in Maryland St. Francis Xavier, Warwick, and St. Peter, Queenstown.

XXI

FINANCIAL STATE OF THE DIOCESE

XXI. FINANCIAL STATE OF THE DIOCESE*A. Statistics

(See XXIII Supplemental Information)

1. General Economics/Financial Condition of the Diocese

The Diocese has benefited during the last forty or fifty years from generous gifts and bequests from a number of the faithful. Of course, we must continue efforts to cultivate the goodwill of Catholics blessed with sufficient assets to leave a portion of their estates to the Church. The Ordinary Income of the Diocese consists of an assessment imposed on the weekly offerings of the faithful in each parish and upon other regular parish income. In addition, there is an Annual Catholic Appeal conducted each year to supply the Diocesan Bishop with additional funds to underwrite the cost of the Diocese's pastoral, educational, religious and charitable endeavors.

The Diocese is presently engaged in a capital campaign to raise monies for the construction of two elementary schools and an addition to St. Thomas More Academy, one of the two Diocesan high schools. The parish based campaign is hoping to raise $50 million, $30 million for parish use and $20 million for the schools. With the approval of the Congregation for the Clergy, $12.5 million in tax exempt bonds was issued to provide necessary funds to pay for the construction while the campaign pledges are being received.

The generosity of the faithful in the Diocese together with the prudent financial management of reserves should provide adequate funds for Diocesan services in the near term. Review of Diocesan financial needs and planning is an annual exercise with the Diocesan Finance Council.

2. Financial Resources, Patrimony, Contributions, Levees or Taxes

In the imposition of assessment on parishes and other juridic persons, the Presbyterial Council and Finance Council are consulted. Contributions by the faithful to support the Diocese and Church, as well as the Parishes, are reviewed on an annual basis. There are programs in place, under the direction of the Diocesan Development Office, which encourage parishes to review needs annually, and to make those needs known to the faithful, requesting appropriate increases in contributions when needed. An annual stewardship program is strongly encouraged by the Diocesan Bishop in every parish.

3. Assistance lent to other Dioceses and special contributions and offerings

Information regarding assistance to other dioceses and contributions to the Apostolic See (Canon 1271), and the Peter's Pence offering are also contained in the Supplement.

B. Description

1. Diocesan Department of Finance

The Department's purpose is to assist the Bishop, the Diocesan Finance Council and others responsible for the temporalities of the Diocese to fulfill their duties, both current and long range. This is accomplished through the development and implementation of broad financial policy for the Diocese, its parishes and all diocesan institutions, and the supervision of all diocesan and parochial financial functions. The Finance Department provides accounting, investment services, financial analysis and audit support for the Diocese and most subsidiary corporations, and management oversight of parishes. Certain larger subsidiary groups such as St. Mark's High School, Catholic Cemeteries, and Catholic Ministry to the Elderly maintain their own accounting division. Until recently, Catholic Charities had also maintained its own financial staff, however, activities of this office are now consolidated within the Diocesan Department of Finance. The other groups interface with the Diocesan Finance Department, the Department providing oversight through quarterly and annual reports, formal, outside auditing and internal audits. All budgets of all corporations/agencies must be approved by the Vicar General for Administration, the Chief Finance Officer and the Diocesan Budget Committee prior to submission to the Bishop for final action. The Department is responsible to initiate, monitor, and improve standard accounting procedures and other methods of financial control for all diocesan departments, agencies and parishes.

The Finance Department issues quarterly and annual reports on the financial affairs of the Diocese to the Bishop and Finance Council. The office interprets data, developments and conditions for the Bishop and Finance Council.

The Diocesan Finance Department staff participate on committees which approve major expenditures by any diocesan organization and parishes, including new construction. Staff cooperates with the Departmental and Program Heads in the development of annual budgets, and provides fiscal advisory services to the Bishop and the Finance Council, as well as consultative and oversight services to the parishes and other organizations. The Department likewise keeps abreast of tax laws and other legislation of possible financial consequence.

Oversight of the parishes includes: review of annual budgets and annual financial reports; a closer, on-site review (audit) of the parish financial operations on a rotating basis; approval of funding plans for new construction or major renovation; issuing financial policy and regulations; approval of parish investment plans.

With the consolidation of the staff at Catholic Charities, the Finance Department has a staff of ten, all lay persons. They are: The Chief Finance Officer, Catholic Charities' Controller, three Accountants, three Accounting Clerks, Auditor, and Secretary.

The Diocesan Finance Council has been in place since 1983 and functions in accord with the Canons of the Revised Code. Prior to the Code's requirement of a Finance Council, the Diocese of Wilmington had in place (since the mid 1960's), a Finance Committee which had advised the Chief Finance Officer of the Diocese in much the same fashion as the Finance Council advises the Bishop. Membership on the Council is both lay and clergy; the majority of the members are lay persons. Council members number nine. The Council is broken down into several standing committees, including: investment; assessment; audits; and project feasibility.

Diocesan Finance Staff

As mentioned above the staff of the Diocesan Finance Office numbers ten.

The Chief Finance Officer is Joseph P. Corsini, appointed November 4, 1996, by the Most Reverend Bishop. Mr. Corsini is a Certified Public Accountant with extensive experience in accounting, auditing, financial planning and management. His background includes twenty-five years in progressively responsible positions at both corporate and divisional levels. Mr. Corsini is forty-seven years of age, is married and has four children.

The Chief Finance Officer reports to the Vicar General/Moderator of the Curia and interfaces with the Bishop as needed or requested.

Support of the Clergy

A system of benefices does not exist in the Diocese of Wilmington. Clergy in the Diocese are supported by and receive remuneration from the parish or institution to which they are assigned. If they work within the Diocesan Curia, they are compensated by the Diocese. In instances where the local parish or the institution to which a clergyman is assigned cannot generate sufficient funds for the support of the assigned clergy, the Diocese provides. Salary for clergy is reviewed annually by a special committee of the Priests' Council which recommends to the Bishop appropriate salary adjustments. Effective January 1, 2003, a new compensation policy was adopted for priests of the Diocese. While many facets of this new policy remained unchanged from the prior program, several enhancements are noteworthy. Specifically, remuneration now better reflects equity and consistency among all priests, having eliminated as much as possible, disparity in income based upon parish size, location, and number of stole fees. To accomplish this objective, base wage rates were increased, guaranteed Mass stipend amounts were established, and stole fees have become income to the parish. Further, every priest is provided an expense allowance monthly, either by the parish or the institute to which he is assigned. Clergy are also provided health insurance, disability coverage and retirement benefits.

2. Program of Health Care Coverage for Clergy

The Diocese has a special fund entitled the Priests Health, Welfare and Pension Fund which provides for health and pension benefits for retired priests. The Bishop may also draw from this fund in special cases to support priests not retired. Medical and dental insurance is provided for all clergy and should priests become disabled, their needs are cared for and underwritten by the Diocese beyond any health insurance coverage.

As regards criteria used to provide for the just remuneration of the clergy, as noted above, the Priests' Council of the Diocese reviews, through a special committee, the annual salary provided clergy taking into consideration increases in cost of living. Since the 1970's, there exists a set of guidelines which sets forth principles and directives which regulate clergy salaries, provision of adequate living arrangements, directives regulating services to be provided by rectories, medical insurance, retirement benefits, continuing education benefits, sabbaticals, leave time (vacation), and ministerial fees.

It is our belief that the Diocese of Wilmington maintains sufficient reserve funds to meet the various expenditures and known liabilities of the Diocese in accord with Canon 1274. (In the financial reports submitted as attachments, the "common reserve fund" is found in the amounts listed as "general, security and charity funds.") However, the assumption of $12.5 million of long term debt used to finance the school construction projects may place a strain on available assets. This is especially true if investment performance is not favorable.

3. Ecclesiastical Title

Diocesan and parochial properties are in the name of separate, civil corporate entities. All parishes of the Diocese of Wilmington are incorporated separately as are certain institutions such as residences for children, Catholic Cemeteries, facilities for senior citizens, high schools, etc. The Diocese itself is incorporated as the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc., a Corporation Sole, with the Diocesan Bishop as the sole member of the corporation.

Each parish corporation has five members including the Diocesan Bishop, the local Pastor, the Diocesan Chancellor and two lay trustees (the latter in accord with civil law). Officers of the corporation are President and Treasurer. The Pastor of the parish serves in these positions Ex-officio. The third officer is the secretary, normally appointed by the pastor.

Several Diocesan agencies are incorporated separately. Those corporations are listed below. These entities have been created for insurance purposes, hopefully further protecting the patrimony of the Diocese:

Catholic Cemeteries, Inc.	Catholic Charities, Inc.
Catholic Diocese Foundation	Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc.
Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc.	Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc.
Catholic Youth Organization, Inc.	Children's Home, Inc.
Seton Villa, Inc.	Siena Hall, Inc.
Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc. (Holding company for the Diocesan High Schools, St. Mark's and St. Thomas More Academy)

In the accompanying financial statements it is noted that the invested resources of the Local Church are divided among and assigned to various purposes. The origin of most of these funds is gifts given by the Faithful for specific purposes. Thus, the corporations listed, for example, under Catholic Charities, is for the most part, gifts designated by donors for that purpose. The "free and clear" reserves of the Bishop are listed under General Fund, Security Fund and Charity Fund.

There also exists a Catholic Diocese Foundation, established in 1928, distinct from the Diocese, but with the purpose of supporting educational, charitable and religious projects within the Diocese of Wilmington. The Diocesan Bishop is an Ex-officio member of the Board of Trustees of the Catholic Diocese Foundation. The management of the assets and the distribution of grants is at the discretion of the Board of Trustees.

Various properties and assets of the Diocese are held in the various corporations.

XXII

GENERAL ASSESSMENT AND OUTLOOK FOR THE FUTURE

XXII. GENERAL ASSESSMENT AND OUTLOOK FOR THE FUTURE*1. General Assessment

The Diocese of Wilmington is a medium sized diocese in territory encompassing 5,300 square miles. It includes the total State of Delaware (2,000 square miles) and the nine (9) counties of the Eastern Shore of Maryland (Maryland, east of the Chesapeake Bay) (3,300 square miles). The See City is located in Northern New Castle County, the most populace of the 12 counties in the diocese.

The 220,000 Catholics of the Diocese of Wilmington make up a little over 18% of the total population. The bulk of the Catholic population (60%) live in the northern-most county of Delaware, New Castle County.

Of the 57 parishes and 19 missions in the diocese, 33 parishes are in New Castle County. Twelve (12) of these parishes are in the City of Wilmington. Several of the city parishes are experiencing the problems characteristic of parishes in any large city in the country; shrinking congregations, aging facilities and major financial difficulties (including the Cathedral parish).

One of the city parishes services a small African-American community and is staffed by Franciscans (OFM). Several other parishes number a few African-American members. In March 1999 a Task Force on Ministry to Black Catholics began which attempted to identify African-Americans in the diocese. The diocese now has an office for this ministry.

There are an estimated 80,000 Hispanics in the diocese consisting of Puerto Ricans and Dominicans who began to arrive in the 1950's and 1960's as well as Mexicans, Guatemaltecos, Salvadorans and Columbians who have immigrated to the diocese over the past ten years. In addition, there are Peruvians, Nicaraguans, Costa Ricans, Ecuadorians, Bolivians and other Hispanics. A great diversity among Hispanics exist: their educational levels, types of employment, variety of city and rural dwellings and forms of religious and cultural expression create a beautiful tapestry.

Franciscan Friars (OFM) serve the Hispanic Ministry Parish, St. Paul's, in the City of Wilmington where there is a very successful elementary school with a large Hispanic population. Four Carmelites of Charity Verduna community from Spain serve the second largest Hispanic Ministry Parish, St. Michael the Archangel in Georgetown, DE. Four Sisters of Charity of Convent Station serve a rural migrant and immigrant population in Westover, MD. One Sister of St. Joseph, one Sister of St. Bridget, one Augustinian priest and one Dominican priest from Peru are the primary pastoral agents of Hispanic Ministry at seven additional parishes.

Six diocesan priests celebrate Spanish Mass assisted by six recently appointed lay Pastoral Associates at eight different parishes. Five diocesan priests and several diocesan seminarians have taken summer time Spanish immersion courses.

The Faithful

The faithful of the diocese are probably typical of most Catholic populations in America in many respects. The fact that so many of our Catholic people live in one county poses a unique challenge to creating real diocesan unity. However, I would quickly add, our experience is that parishes in the more scattered and less populated areas of the diocese respond equally as well (if not better at times) to the Bishop's appeal and to other calls for financial support and varied spiritual and pastoral programs, as the parishes in the more populated part of the diocese. Given the fact that a number of parishes in the less populated areas are smaller, participation in parish life is often at a higher percentage of the membership. Programs for youth seem more attractive to people in these areas also.

At times, one hears the complaint that most of the resources of the diocese are concentrated in the more populated area, but I do not consider this a major problem. Diocesan offices and agencies are quite aware of the need to take special care to offer services and programs in all parts of the diocese. From my very first week here I have referred to the diocese as "the Diocese of Wilmington in Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland".

Most Catholics attending Mass receive Communion. Many lay persons volunteer to serve as lay ministers offering their services as lectors, Ministers of Communion, visitors of the sick and outreach workers. The laity's participation in the life of the parish is also aggressively sought by invitation to serve on parish pastoral and finance councils and other types of parish committees.

While the life of the parish could be described as active, there was a need for development of additional spiritual exercises and devotions. Three parishes, St. Ann and Immaculate Heart of Mary in Wilmington and Holy Cross in Dover set up Perpetual Adoration Eucharistic Chapels. Other examples include: parishes have public recitation of the Rosary either before or after Mass; First Friday and First Saturday devotions; First Friday Eucharistic devotions with exposition and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament accompanied by special prayers for priests and for increased vocations. We have an active diocesan youth ministry office. They have started "Theology on Tap" in four parishes and have five active young adult teams in other parishes around the diocese. These teams organize events and activities such as weekly faith sharing and weekly activities for their area. Some members of these teams will attend a nationally recognized professional team to help them improve the young adult ministry.

The Clergy

There are 119 diocesan clergy. Fourteen (14) are retired; two (2) are in the military and ten (10) are servicing institutions or other church offices outside the Diocese of Wilmington; five (5) are on leave. Of the 88 active priests in the diocese, most are involved in parochial ministry; some are working in specialized fields; seven (7) are chaplains to hospitals, prisons and other institutions; one (1) is a pastoral minister at a secondary school; one (1) are involved in the Neuman Apostolate full time. Ten (10) diocesan priests are attached to some office of the Diocesan Curia. Six (6) of these priests are also pastors of parishes in the diocese.

There are 86 religious priests in the diocese many of whom are involved in school work. Two religious orders of priests operate private secondary schools.

We are fortunate to have a number of Capuchin Friars, both priests and brothers, working among the poor under an umbrella organization known as Ministry of Caring founded by the Capuchin Father, Fr. Ronald Giannone. The ministry began as a shelter for homeless women in the mid 70's and has grown in the number of its services, now providing four shelters for abandoned women, two shelters for homeless men, a home for homeless Aids patients, transitional home for families, transitional housing for women and children, affordable housing for seniors, three soup kitchens or dining rooms, two child care centers, a job placement center, a furniture and clothing distribution center, dental office, Samaritan Outreach and mobile medical van. In addition, the Friars have attracted a host (literally hundreds) of lay volunteers as well as religious women to assist them in their many ministries which are primarily focused in and around the See City.

There are other groups of religious and priests staffing institutions and ministries servicing the poor in other parts of the diocese including the Little Sisters of Jesus and Mary, the Little Sisters of the Poor, the Sisters of Charity of Convent Station and the Carmelites of Charity Verduna communities.

Enthusiasm for the church and priestly life is relatively good among most diocesan priests. The majority of the priests can be counted on to support the various initiatives, programs and efforts of the bishop. At times some priests can be a little difficult and somewhat independent. This usually manifests itself by a less than enthusiastic endorsement of programs or by passive opposition to diocesan staff.

There is a hesitance among some priests to accept parishes which include a school. This creates a real problem when the number of priests are few. Some pastors complain about an abundance of "administrative paperwork". Yet others are learning well the art of delegation and empowerment of the laity by hiring business managers and other lay staff and religious to free themselves of certain types of administrative detail so that their ministries might truly focus more on the pastoral.

I sincerely believe the majority of priests in this diocese want to be effective, good priests. They will respond to a motivating, energetic bishop who is supportive, accessible and who also requires accountability. When accountability is lacking, this impacts negatively upon many who would work hard and re-dedicate themselves to the Lord each day as I believe every priest must.

Diocesan Curia

As regards the Diocesan Curia, I believe it is well organized and adequate to meet the needs of the local church. Few priests are in the Curia, a common experience in many dioceses. However, I do believe we are "thin" in some areas. The Tribunal currently has only one diocesan priest on staff. Only one priest is involved in Catholic Charities as a counselor; no priest works in the Religious Education Office or the Schools Office but there is a priest as Director in the Worship Office.

We have a fully qualified Catholic with wide experience in business and finance as the Chief Financial Officer. He is a diocesan official. In the period of time he has been here he has done much to strengthen the financial accounting and reporting practice of the diocese. The Finance Council is also composed of Catholic laypersons with long years of dedication to the church and its ministry as well as expertise in their respective areas of competence.

Three of the top administrative persons in the Curia, the Vicar General for Administration and Moderator of the Curia, the Vicar General for Pastoral Services and the Chancellor have multiple responsibilities. This is not uncommon in dioceses these days but in this writer's opinion we could be placing the diocese at some risk in the future.

The lay staff in the Curia are dedicated and well prepared for their jobs, particularly those who head departments or offices. Our lay staff truly envision their jobs as ministries.

The Diocese of Wilmington, like so many other dioceses throughout the country, experienced a decline of vocations. During the five years of the quinquennium, our ordinations have averaged three per year in 2000, 2002 and 2003. We currently have sixteen seminarians studying for the priesthood. The local Vocation Office efforts to attract vocations is commendable, however, we need to have our local parish clergy to increase in their encouragement to men to consider the priesthood.

The clergy's orthodoxy and loyalty to the Holy See in my opinion is good. I am aware of little, if any, evidence to the contrary.

Finances

The financial state of the diocese is directed and managed by a competent and well suited Finance Council and finance staff. Over the years the bishops have attempted to build reserves or endowment funds for the many diocesan institutions and ministries.

It is becoming increasingly difficult to finance the operating budget of the diocese from regular income (the Bishop's Appeal, the assessment and special collections). While the Annual Appeal's return has increased each year (nearly doubled in the last 10 years), pastors of many parishes oppose any effort to increase the assessment and the Bishop's Appeal.

The Diocese is presently engaged in a capital campaign to raise monies for the construction of two elementary schools. With the approval of the Congregation for the Clergy, $12.5 million in tax exempt bonds was issued to provide necessary fund to pay for the construction while the campaign pledges are being received.

We do not believe the assessment on parishes is burdensome. The average is 11% in the aggregate on regular ordinary income (the weekly offertory, Christmas and Easter collections and recurring special benefits which support annual budgets [e.g., bazaars]). Tuition income, capital campaigns, special purpose income and investments are not subject to assessment. In addition, we employ a graduated assessment system asking less than 11% (as low as 6%) from parishes with a limited financial base and up to 13% from those parishes blessed with affluent or comfortable income families.

2. Pastoral Planning

The Seven Major Priorities for the Diocese of Wilmington

The seven major priorities for the Diocese of Wilmington that I established early in my time as bishop include:

- 1) Conduct an aggressive campaign throughout the diocese to promote vocations to the priesthood and religious life.
  - 2) Develop and implement a comprehensive pastoral plan for ministry to Hispanic people.
  - 3) Assess diocesan offices and ministries to assure efficiency and effectiveness.
  - 4) Establish new parishes and schools.
  - 5) Explore models of parish ministry, closely examining the role of the clergy and the laity in these models.
  - 6) Evangelize the unchurched and alienated African-American community.
  - 7) Develop and implement a comprehensive plan for ministry on college campuses.
- Let's examine our progress in pursuing these priorities.

1) TO CONDUCT AN AGGRESSIVE CAMPAIGN THROUGHOUT THE DIOCESE TO PROMOTE VOCATIONS TO THE PRIESTHOOD AND RELIGIOUS LIFE

We continue to be committed to cultivating priests who live heroic lives of prayer, sacrifice and virtue in their consecration and mission. Our priests help to model for all young people, and especially those considering a vocation to the priesthood and religious life, a commitment to proclaim the Word of God, to celebrate the sacraments with reverence and care, and to serve the people of God with the self-emptying love of Jesus Christ. We have made significant progress in the past few years. We currently have 16 seminarians studying for the Diocese of Wilmington; at one point recently we had only four. We are working with seven (7) additional men who will enter seminary formation in the Fall of 2003. Our directors of vocations have worked to develop programs that keep vocations to the priesthood in the forefront of the minds of people throughout the diocese. The director of vocations visits sixth and 11th-graders in the Catholic schools throughout the diocese. We have used billboards with the slogans "White Collar Workers Needed" and "Inquire Within," reminding people of the need to look inside oneself prayerfully to discover the call.

Attractive posters featuring our seminarians are placed in our parishes and schools. The "Pass the Word" program invites 11th-grade boys and girls to spend the day with the bishop, the vocation director, sisters and seminarians to discuss vocations and ministry in the church. Our web page – www.priests2be.org – helps to reach our audience.

Many lay people in our diocese dedicate themselves to praying for vocations. Some who suffer difficult physical crosses offer their sufferings in union with Christ crucified for more priests and religious. Some pray before the Blessed Sacrament in our chapels of perpetual Eucharistic adoration. In every vocation story there are prayerful lay people who have encouraged the seminarian or priest. Please continue to pray for and encourage young people to consider the priesthood and religious life.

2) TO DEVELOP AND IMPLEMENT A COMPREHENSIVE PASTORAL PLAN FOR MINISTRY TO HISPANIC PEOPLE

After a diocesan-wide needs assessment, in 1998 a four-year Diocesan Plan for Hispanic Ministry (1998-2002) was developed. On April 29, 2003 I approved a new four-year (2003-2007) Diocesan Plan entitled, "A Journey Unfolding: Pastoral Guidelines for Hispanic Ministry in the Delmarva Peninsula".

Liturgy

The number of parishes offering weekly Spanish Masses doubled from seven to 14. Mass, formation and outreach services were established at four seasonal migrant worker sites. Over 300 were trained to serve as liturgical ministers. Bi-lingual Masses were celebrated at special occasions at nine parishes. Some parishes have begun efforts to transport the faithful to Mass and religious education.

Community

I joined over 1,600 faithful gathered in June of 1998 for the first diocesan Encuentro, the Pentecost of the Hispanic community on a diocesan level. Also, I joined 2,000 faithful in June 2001 for the second Diocesan Encuentro titled "Somos el Cuerpo de Cristo---We are the Body of Christ", emphasizing community between English and Spanish-speaking Catholics paralleling the national Encuentro 2000 in California.

Bishop Ramazzini, from the Diocese of San Marcos, Guatemala, celebrated Masses and confessions and visited 2,000 of his former Guatemalteco parishioners who are migrant laborers in the central region of the diocese. We are currently entering into a sister-diocese relationship with the Diocese of San Marcos. This is a direct response to Pope John Paul II's appeal for greater solidarity between dioceses in North America and South America in his 1999 apostolic exhortation "The Church in America". Each parish with a Spanish Mass celebrates popular feasts such as Our Lady of Guadalupe, Our Lady of Providence, Living Stations of the Cross with outdoor processions through the neighborhood, Mexican Independence Day, Saturday night parish fiestas, dances, picnics and trips.

Neighborhood evangelization projects include home visitation and door-knocking, home rosaries, posadas, Bible studies and summer children camps. At least 10 parishes have appointed Hispanics to their pastoral council. There are two Spanish Catholic weekly radio programs. The diocesan Hispanic bulletin Pueblo de Dios en Marcha was established and is published quarterly.

Formation

Three Hispanic men were ordained permanent deacons in 2002; six are in formation. Four Hispanic seminarians are in formation for priesthood. One Mexican immigrant youth group alumnus has professed simple vows with Missionary Sisters in Washington, DC. Currently several Hispanics are in the inquiry stages into ordained or religious life.

Because of extensive activities of mainline Protestant denominations, Evangelical and Fundamentalist congregations and Jehovah's Witnesses, extensive Catholic formation opportunities have been developed. An estimated 500 Hispanic Catholics took part in courses entitled "Introduction to the Sacred Scripture", "Overview of the Old Testament", and "Fe Y Exilio" offered at local parishes and home bible studies. Over 3,000 Spanish bibles, over 200 cassettes of the bible in Spanish have been distributed or sold.

Eight parishes have established Hispanic Youth and Young Adult Groups (Pastoral Juvenil). Over 125 have received leadership training over 500 have participated in four diocesan Encuentros Juvenil. Over 250 youth attended Jornada weekend retreats hosted by St. Paul, Wilmington. A Diocesan Hispanic Youth and Young Council has been established in 2003.

Thirteen parishes established religious education programs that cater to the special needs of immigrant children. Three parishes offer mission-style religious education at homes and apartment complexes in order to respond to challenges of lack of transportation or remote location from main parish. Over 1000 Hispanic adults received the Sacraments of Initiation after completing RCIA processes offered at parishes and special-case migrant worker sites. Five parishes offer English as a second language programs for adults.

Social Action

Most parishes with Spanish Masses have begun to establish outreach programs. St. Paul parish has begun to form Voces Sin Fronteras aimed at empowering Hispanics to organize, unify their voices and seek just working environments, adequate housing, immigration reform and drivers license accessibility. Immigration services have been strengthened. One religious sister and one lay woman have been appointed to offer counseling in Spanish at two parishes and Catholic Charities.

3) TO ASSESS DIOCESAN OFFICES AND MINISTRIES TO ASSURE EFFICIENCY AND EFFECTIVENESS

The primary purpose of any diocesan office or ministry is to assist and enable the bishop, parishes, and church institutions to fulfill our common mission by providing resources, leadership, direction, service, and support. The common vision of all of our diocesan offices is to assist parishes in particular to become vibrant communities of faith, worship, education, service and evangelization.

Work on this priority began in the fall of 1997 with the hiring of consultants charged with evaluating all aspects of diocesan offices and ministries that impacted in any way their mission, purpose, efficiency and effectiveness. The examination included a review of office structure, lines of authority, reporting, internal and external relationships, budgeting and cost, communications and planning.

Our assessors advised us that in the main our diocesan offices and services did a very good job. However, the consultants did have a number of recommendations: a clear articulation of a common diocesan vision for all services; a review of departmental structure and reporting relationships; improvement of internal and external communications, particularly with the parishes; enhancement of our use of technology in the day-to-day operations; and a tighter planning and budgeting process.

The study's implementation resulted in some changes, but most importantly it offered an opportunity for our diocesan staff to examine closely the services they provide, change what needed changing, refocus, and renew their efforts in light of our common mission.

Major diocesan councils' and committees' purpose and need were carefully examined and modified where required to strengthen leadership and to identify more clearly their role and function.

Our finances are managed and accounted for under the direction of a diocesan chief finance officer. I approved the first lay chief finance officer in late 1996 with the advice, counsel, and full involvement of our diocesan Finance Council. We use professional investment managers and advisers to carefully manage our invested assets. We diligently develop and monitor an annual budget. We are audited by Price Waterhouse Coopers. I was most pleased we were able to forgive debts owed the diocese by parishes and other institutions during the Great Jubilee celebration.

4) TO ESTABLISH NEW PARISHES AND SCHOOLS

In 1868, a 36-year-old priest named Thomas Becker was installed as the first Bishop of the Diocese of Wilmington. Only 15 small churches served the scattered Catholic community on 6,200 square miles of the Delmarva Peninsula. After his first tour of the diocese, Bishop Becker noted that he found "churches and schools, small buildings, old and poverty-stricken". But he also found dedicated clergy and faithful lay people willing to sacrifice to support and build up the new diocesan church.

When I became the eighth bishop of Wilmington 128 years later, a very different scene greeted me. With God's grace and the generosity and hard work of past generations of bishops, priests and laity, the Diocese of Wilmington had grown beyond what Bishop Becker could have imagined.

Catholics numbered over 185,000 in Delaware and the nine counties of Maryland's Eastern Shore which now make up the Diocese of Wilmington. There were 56 parishes and 20 mission churches. Nearly 16,000 children of all ages, races, nationalities and economic status were enrolled in Catholic schools, and over 30 diocesan ministries, agencies, and offices served the Catholic population and community at large.

While the growth in those 128 years had been a great blessing, I faced a number of challenges, not the least of which was coping with that growth. Unfortunately, development in the diocese outpaced planning. As I came to know my new diocese, I recognized that there was a need to establish at least three more parishes and that several parish churches were too small to accommodate their growing numbers. Other churches required repair, expansion or renovation. Several schools and other parish facilities required expansion and/or repair. Additionally, I encountered near demands from literally hundreds of parents throughout the diocese for more Catholic schools. The challenge was how to address these issues in an orderly and effective manner.

We formed a Pastoral Planning Task Force composed of clergy and lay persons to guide the planning process and to make recommendations to me. Consultants were retained to assist in developing both the process as well as the plan. We identified the heaviest growth areas of the diocese and arranged for consultations with pastors and parish pastoral councils to obtain the local perspective. We studied data assembled by the diocesan schools office, state and county planning agencies, and sought the assistance of the Urban Affairs Department of the University of Delaware and its counterpart at the University of Maryland.

Over a period of eight months data was reviewed carefully by the Planning Task Force. Finally in the summer of 1998 a report was presented to me which was in turn reviewed by priests of the diocese in a special meeting held in August. The recommendations of the task force were also presented to our Diocesan Pastoral Council.

As you well know, the plan calls for the establishment of new parishes. The first among them is St. Margaret of Scotland in New Castle County, which was formally set up in May of 1998. We recently accomplished the separation of St. Jude in Lewes from its mother parish, St. Edmond in Rehoboth Beach. We also look to the eventual establishment of St. John Neumann Church as an independent parish in Wicomico County near Ocean City.

While the plan strongly recommends founding new parishes, it also addresses the insufficiency of church buildings and calls for the construction of five new larger churches in existing parishes, two new regional schools to accommodate 600 students each, as well as the expansion of existing parish and school facilities.

A new Catholic cemetery in Sussex County, Gate of Heaven, was opened to service our Catholic population in the southern environs of our diocese. This new cemetery expands the services of Catholic Cemeteries to our two existing Catholic Cemeteries, All Saints on Kirkwood Highway, Wilmington and Cathedral in the City of Wilmington which provide the finest services and facilities to our Catholic people.

5) TO EXPLORE MODELS OF PARISH MINISTRY, CLOSELY EXAMINING THE ROLE OF THE CLERGY AND THE LAITY IN THESE MODELS

We continue to express our commitment to a renewal of our parishes and collaborative ministry in a variety of ways.

The diocesan summit on collaboration, as previously mentioned, helped to review and study models and approaches that could better integrate the ministry of the clergy with the many talents, skills and ministries our lay people bring to the church.

For many years now, we have benefited from the contributions of lay persons who work as school principals, parish business managers, directors of religious education, secretaries and accountants. Our laity helped pioneer the RCIA and new approaches to evangelization and have energized our outreach to the poor.

6) TO EVANGELIZE THE UNCHURCHED AND ALIENATED AFRICAN-AMERICAN COMMUNITY

There is at present no organized Diocesan Program of Evangelization to the unchurched. The Priests' Council studied "Disciples in Mission" for this purpose but rejected it. We had a Ministry Formation Institute which sponsored a pilot project in five parishes using deacon candidates as leaders, but the program did not last after financial and personnel problems caused the closing of the MFI. Parishes are encouraged to have "Come Home for Christmas" programs but even where enthusiastically undertaken they enjoy minimal success because of lack of follow up.

Our most successful program of evangelization is the RCIA program which brings approximately 450 candidates, unbaptized, baptized and fallen away Catholics to the Church each year.

Black Catholic Ministry became more formalized during the quinquennium. A part-time coordinator was hired and a structure was established that resulted in a Black Catholic Gospel Choir obtaining more visibility. Eight hundred Black Catholics are now on a mailing list. St. Joseph on French Street because of its location in the inner city has achieved new stability with Franciscan Friars in charge (the traditional Black Catholic Church for blacks before integration the 1960s). Bishop Saltarelli led a delegation of twenty Black Catholics to the National Black Catholic Congress IX in September 2002 in Chicago. They returned with enthusiasm. Co-Directors (still part-time) were hired to replace the first part-time director. An office is being set up in the basement of the parish of Christ Our King. Increased visibility of the group is evidenced by radio programming in both the north and south of the diocese. Plans are underway to implement the 8 principals of the 2002 Black Catholic Congress to bring the gospel message to the inactive Black Catholics and unchurched members of the Black Community.

7) TO DEVELOP AND IMPLEMENT A COMPREHENSIVE PLAN FOR MINISTRY ON COLLEGE CAMPUSES

The diocese is committed to developing Catholic leaders on our campuses who will one day be articulate and effective witnesses to Catholic principles in their professions, their families and the public square. To accomplish this objective, we are moving ahead on a variety of different fronts.

The diocese purchased property to house the Catholic Campus Ministry at Salisbury (MD) State University. A campus minister serves the students at that campus and connects with the University of Maryland Eastern Shore in Princess Anne.

A deacon coordinates campus ministry at Washington College in Chestertown, MD. There is Sunday evening Mass for students and discussion group opportunities.

Students at Wesley College in Dover will have their own campus liturgy beginning this spring and Catholic Campus Ministry is expanding at Delaware State University in Dover.

In addition to liturgies, bible study, gatherings of students and faculty, speakers and vibrant retreats, the newest program at St. Thomas More Oratory at the University of Delaware is entitled "Conversations: Science and Religion." It helps students and faculty alike to explore the complex bioethical issues of our day from a Catholic perspective.

Many of our college students around the diocese continue to hold top leadership roles in the National Catholic Student Coalition.

- c. Other responses on planning I believe are in the responses to the section marked Appendix A: Challenges and Opportunities in the 90's and Beyond. I might add,

The articulated priorities to date are:

- ♦ Increase in vocations
- ♦ Ministry to Hispanic community
- ♦ Ministry to African-Americans
- ♦ Increased outreach on college campuses
- ♦ Strengthening and expanding schools
- ♦ Development of a Strategic Plan to provide for new parishes.

Supplemental Information

As a result of the significant volume of data necessary to satisfactorily address item XXI A-1, the Financial State of the Diocese - Statistics/General Economic Situation, this supplemental information has been compiled. It contains multiple audited financial statements covering the years 1998 - 2002, and the budget for the present year (Fiscal Year Ending June 30, 2003) for the twelve Diocesan organizations. This information is summarized by section according to the index which follows on the succeeding page. A thirteenth section contains the information specific to item XXI A-3, assistance made to other dioceses and contributions towards the needs of the Apostolic See and the Peter's Pence Offering.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Audit Committee
Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the accompanying balance sheets – modified cash basis of the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Diocese's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

As described in Note 1, these financial statements were prepared on the modified cash basis, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

The Diocese has not adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-for-Profit Organizations," which requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future economic benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. Also, equipment is expensed at the time of purchase that, in our opinion, should be capitalized in order to conform to accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. The effects of not complying with SFAS 93 and of not capitalizing equipment are not reasonably determinable.

In our opinion, except for the effect of not recognizing depreciation expense of long-lived tangible assets and of not capitalizing equipment as discussed in the preceding paragraph, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Diocese as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, on the basis of accounting described in Note 1.

Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2002 and 2001

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) is a not-for-profit corporation having as its objects and purposes the promotion of the teachings of Jesus Christ, as taught and set forth by the Roman Catholic Church throughout the Diocese in the State of Delaware and the nine (9) Counties of the State of Maryland's Eastern Shore and such territory over which the Diocese will have jurisdiction as delegated by proper authority of the Universal Roman Catholic Church.

Basis of Reporting

The Diocese reports using the modified cash basis of accounting, which differs from the accrual basis principally in not recognizing certain pledges and grants and in not establishing accruals for pension liabilities and priests' health and welfare trusts. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with these principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

The accompanying financial statements reflect only the operation of the Diocese. Certain other operating entities have not been combined in the accompanying statements, the more significant of which are as follows:

Affiliated Parishes and Schools
Catholic Cemeteries, Inc.
Catholic Charities, Inc.
Catholic Diocese Foundation
Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc.
Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc.
Catholic Youth Organization, Inc.
Children's Home, Inc.
Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc.
Seton Villa, Inc.
Siena Hall, Inc.

The Diocese acts as a fiduciary for these entities by investing funds in its pooled investment and cash management accounts on behalf of these entities.

Financial Statement Presentation

Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset classifications follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.

Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2002 and 2001

---

- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted. Temporarily restricted net assets are primarily restricted for youth education and related activities, education of men for the priesthood, and the upkeep of specific facilities.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

Contributions

Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose of the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less. The Diocese investments in cash and cash equivalents are interest bearing. At times these amounts may exceed federally insured limits.

Pooled Investments

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statement of activities includes interest, dividends, and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

The Diocese manages an investment pool for its investments and those of its affiliated organizations. The investment pool is held in a custody account at Mellon Trust. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Pledges Receivable

Except for pledges made to the Annual Catholic Appeal and grants made by the Catholic Diocese Foundation, Inc., which are accounted for on a cash basis, unconditional promises to give are reported at fair value as pledges receivable and contributions in the period the promise is received. All pledges are due in one to five years. The Diocese is not the recipient of any conditional pledges.

Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2002 and 2001

Real Estate and Equipment

Real estate consists of buildings and the related land. All real estate acquisitions are capitalized at cost, when purchased, or at fair value at date of gift, when donated. Equipment is expensed at the time of purchase.

Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-for-Profit Organizations," requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. The Diocese has not adopted SFAS 93.

Assets Held for/Due to Affiliates

These assets are owned by the affiliated corporations and invested for the affiliates by the Diocese in the pooled investments.

2. Pooled Investments

The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 was as follows:

	2002	2001

4. Capital Campaign

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 2001, the Diocese initiated a Capital Campaign. Pledges received as part of the Capital Campaign are shared by the Diocese and individual parishes based on a predetermined formula. Pledges are receivable over a period of up to five years. Pledges receivable over the next five years are as follows:

2003	$ 7,351,713
2004	6,754,850
2005	3,203,563
2006	1,550,527
2007	313,168

Allowance for uncollectible pledges	(1,909,201)
Total Capital Campaign pledges receivable	$ 15,994,573
Liability to parishes at June 30, 2002, included in accounts payable and accrued expenses	$ 13,035,824
Diocese pledge revenue for the year ended June 30, 2002	$ 5,666,921

The Capital Campaign will continue in future periods.

5. Related Party Transactions

Certain members of the Diocese's board are also board members of certain affiliated corporations.

The Diocese includes on its balance sheet assets held for/due to affiliated corporations which are reported in restricted net assets. These assets are owned by the affiliated corporations and are included in the financial statements of the Diocese to portray the fiduciary relationship on these assets.

The Diocese received assessments from its parishes in the amount of $3,171,993 and $2,902,869 for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively, and from Catholic Cemeteries in the amount of $120,000 and $114,000, respectively.

During 2002 and 2001, the Catholic Diocese Foundation awarded the Diocese $175,000 and $185,110, respectively. Because the Diocese reports on a modified cash basis, only the cash amounts received of $25,000 and $30,298, respectively, from the Catholic Diocese Foundation were included on the statements of activities of the Diocese.

Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2002 and 2001

During 2002 and 2001, St. Mark's contributed $144,578 and $174,552, respectively, to funds held and administered by the Diocese and Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc.

The Diocese disburses funds on behalf of Catholic Youth Organization, Inc. (CYO) for wages, payroll taxes and health benefits. During the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, the Diocese disbursed a total of $237,220 and $217,160, respectively, on behalf of CYO. Of these balances, amounts still due to the Diocese of approximately $10,715 and $15,407, respectively, are included in other assets for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001.

The Diocese disburses funds on behalf of the Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc. (Press) for wages, payroll taxes, health benefits and other miscellaneous expenses. During the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, the Diocese disbursed a total of $332,289 and $305,567, respectively, on behalf of Press. Of these balances, amounts still due to the Diocese of approximately $55,000 and $53,000, respectively, are included in other assets for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001.

The Diocese disburses funds on behalf of St. Thomas More Academy (St. Thomas) for wages, payroll taxes and health benefits. During the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, the Diocese disbursed a total of $907,333 and $815,939, respectively, on behalf of St. Thomas. Of these balances, amounts still due to the Diocese of approximately $81,000 and $72,000, respectively, are included in other assets for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001.

The Diocese provided funding to related organizations. The more significant funding provided was as follows:

	2002	2001
Press	$ 467,701	$ 425,183
Catholic Charities, Inc.	923,416	845,799
St. Mark's High School	1,207,197	776,940
CYO	129,900	123,504
St. Thomas	508,270	466,880

The Diocese provides administrative services for the Catholic Diocese Foundation, CYO, the Press, and St. Thomas. The Catholic Diocese Foundation was invoiced $10,623 and $10,207 for these services for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively. The Diocese absorbed the cost of the services to CYO, the Press, and St. Thomas since the amounts are not significant.

The Diocese pays all claims and other expenses related to their self-insurance plan, which commenced on July 1, 1998. The self-insurance plan covers health insurance, workers' compensation and automobile insurance, and property and liability insurance. Each affiliated corporation pays the Diocese a premium for their portion of the plan claims and expenses. In 2002 and 2001, the Diocese received approximately $5,000,000 and $3,800,000, respectively, in premium revenue from affiliated corporations. These premiums are invested in an insurance reserve fund, and the Diocese pays all claims out of this fund. In 2002 and 2001, the Diocese paid approximately $5,000,000 and $4,200,000, respectively, in actual claims. Included in accounts payable and accrued expenses is an amount for estimated incurred but not reported claims.

Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2002 and 2001

The Diocese also sponsors a health and welfare trust for priests, which became self-insured effective January 1, 2001. Each affiliated corporation pays the Diocese a premium for their portion of the plan's claims and expenses. The Diocese received approximately $1,200,000 and $1,100,000 in premium revenues from affiliated corporations in the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectfully.

The Diocese provides life insurance and long-term disability for all full-time employees of the Diocese, parishes, and certain affiliated corporations, at no cost to those entities since these amounts were not significant. The Diocese also provides pension for all full-time employees of the Diocese, parishes and certain affiliated corporations. Approximately $75,000 and $59,300 of pension costs were charged to other entities for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively.

The Diocese charged rental fees of $2,136 and $2,052 for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively, to the Catholic Diocese Foundation and rental fees of $22,932 and $22,050 for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively, to the Press. A diocesan-owned building was used by CYO, without charge, since the value was not significant.

6. Pension Plans

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan (the Plan) covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, parishes, and affiliated corporations, except Catholic Charities, which has a separate plan. The Plan benefits are based on a monthly pension equal to 1% of the high five-year average compensation for each year of service. The following table sets forth the Plan's status determined using the measurement dates of January 1, 2002 and 2001:

	2002	2001
Accumulated benefit obligation, including vested benefits of $15,301,980 and $13,485,717	$ 15,862,621	$ 13,987,131
Plan assets at fair value	9,201,254	9,550,328

The more significant actuarial assumptions utilized as of each valuation date are as follows:

Cost method	Aggregate
Interest rate	7.5% per annum
Discount rate	7.5% per annum
Mortality	1984 Uniform Premium Table
Salary progression	4.0% per annum

For the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, $1,000,000 and $750,000, respectively, was funded into the Plan and included as an expense in the statement of activities.

The fair value of Plan assets as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 was $8,912,442 and $9,518,550, respectively. The Plan assets are invested in Domestic Equity and Domestic Bonds.

The Diocese has also established a Revocable Priests Retirement and Welfare Trust to cover the health and retirement cost of the clergy of the Diocese. As of June 30, 2002 and 2001 the fund assets totaled $6,056,671 and $6,989,230, respectively. This balance is included within other investments on the balance sheet.

7. Income Taxes

The Diocese is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

8. Commitments and Contingencies

The Diocese will support the operations of other related entities to the extent that those entities are not financially self-sufficient.

In addition, the Diocese will support the operations of St. Thomas during the first several school years of operation when enrollment levels and corresponding tuition is not expected to cover operating expenses and planned capital expenditures. It is estimated that approximately $3.5 to $4.5 million of Diocesan support will be required for St. Thomas for the years 1998 through 2004. As described in Note 5, during 2002 and 2001, approximately $508,000 and $467,000, respectively, was provided to St. Thomas by the Diocese in the form of contributions. It is expected that further support will be provided by loans or additional contributions from the Diocese.

The Diocese is subject to lawsuits and claims with respect to various matters that arise out of the normal course of its operations. In the opinion of the Diocese's internal and external counsel, considerable uncertainty exists with respect to the outcome of these matters. An estimate of the expected liability for these matters is included in the balance sheet at June 30, 2002. Actual results could differ from this estimate. Management does not anticipate that the ultimate liabilities from these matters will have a material adverse effect on the financial position or liquidity of the Diocese.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Audit Committee
Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the accompanying balance sheets - modified cash basis of the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) as of June 30, 2000 and 1999, and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets and cash flows - modified cash basis for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Diocese's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

As described in Note 1, these financial statements were prepared on the modified cash basis, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

The Diocese has not adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-for-Profit Organizations," which requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future economic benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. Also, equipment is expensed at the time of purchase that, in our opinion, should be capitalized in order to conform to accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. The effects of not complying with SFAS 93 and of not capitalizing equipment are not reasonably determinable.

In our opinion, except for the effect of not recognizing depreciation expense of long-lived tangible assets and of not capitalizing equipment as discussed in the preceding paragraph, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Diocese as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, on the basis of accounting described in Note 1.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) is a not-for-profit corporation having as its objects and purposes the promotion of the teachings of Jesus Christ, as taught and set forth by the Roman Catholic Church throughout the Diocese in the State of Delaware and the nine (9) Counties of the State of Maryland's Eastern Shore and such territory over which the Diocese will have jurisdiction as delegated by proper authority of the Universal Roman Catholic Church. Approximately 35% and 30% of the revenue for the Diocese was generated through income on investments for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively.

Basis of Reporting

The Diocese reports using the modified cash basis of accounting, which differs from the accrual basis principally in not recognizing certain pledges and grants and in not establishing accruals for pension liabilities and priests' health and welfare trusts. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with these principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

The accompanying financial statements reflect only the operation of the Diocese. Certain other operating entities have not been combined in the accompanying statements, the more significant of which are as follows:

- Affiliated Parishes and Schools
- Catholic Cemeteries, Inc.
- Catholic Charities, Inc.
- Catholic Diocese Foundation
- Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc.
- Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc.
- Catholic Youth Organization, Inc.
- Children's Home, Inc.
- Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc.
- Seton Villa, Inc.
- Siena Hall, Inc.

The Diocese acts as a fiduciary for these entities by investing funds in its pooled investment and cash management accounts on behalf of these entities.

Notes to Financial Statements

Financial Statement Presentation

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, Financial Statements of Not-For-Profit Organizations. Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset classifications follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted. Temporarily restricted net assets are primarily restricted for youth education and related activities, education of men for the priesthood, and the upkeep of specific facilities.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

Contributions

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made." Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose of the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions, which are received and expended within the same fiscal year, are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less. The Diocese investments in cash and cash equivalents are interest bearing. At times these amounts may exceed federally insured limits.

Pooled Investments

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statement of activities includes interest, dividends, and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

The Diocese manages an investment pool for its investments and those of its affiliated organizations. The investment pool is held in a custody account at Mellon Trust. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2000 and 1999

---

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Pledges Receivable

Except for pledges made to the Annual Catholic Appeal and grants made by the Catholic Diocese Foundation, Inc., which are accounted for on a cash basis, unconditional promises to give are reported at fair value as pledges receivable and contributions in the period the promise is received. All pledges are due in one to five years. The Diocese is not the recipient of any conditional pledges.

Real Estate and Equipment

Real estate consists of buildings and the related land. All real estate acquisitions are capitalized at cost, when purchased, or at fair value at date of gift, when donated. Equipment is expensed at the time of purchase.

Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-for-Profit Organizations," requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. The Diocese has not adopted SFAS 93.

Assets Held for/Due to Affiliates

These assets are owned by the affiliated corporations and invested for the affiliates by the Diocese in the pooled investments.

2. Pooled Investments

The Diocese invests in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds. The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 was as follows:

	2000	1999
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 2,396,718	$ 1,691,336
Fixed income	17,471,878	14,700,454

	57,160,082	52,548,280
Total pooled investments	$57,160,082	$52,548,280

Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2000 and 1999

The composition of other investments – priests' health and welfare trusts at June 30, 2000 and 1999 was as follows:

	2000	1999
Cash and cash equivalents	$ (98,776)	$ 5,541
Fixed income	2,524,549	2,568,039
Domestic equity	5,521,100	5,607,235
Total other investments	$7,946,873	$8,180,815

The fair value of these investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 2000 and 1999.

Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 consisted of the following:

	2000	1999
Interest and dividends	$1,406,706	$1,295,458
Net appreciation	5,051,747	2,580,744
Pooled investment income	$6,458,453	$3,876,202

The pooled investment income was net of custodial and advisory fees in the amounts of $377,536 and $265,650 for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively.

Other investment income – priests' health and welfare trusts for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 consisted of the following:

	2000	1999
Interest and dividends	$220,957	$ 195,408
Net appreciation	42,220	954,050
Other investment income	$263,177	$1,149,458

June 30, 2000 and 1999

3. Notes Receivable

Notes receivable at June 30, 2000 and 1999 were as follows:

	2000	1999
Korean Catholic Community - interest payable at 2.8% in monthly installments of $948.95 over 15 years, starting June 2000	$ 119,051	-
St. Mark's High School (roof repairs) - payable in annual installments of $40,000 the first year and $45,000 the next eight years beginning December 30, 1997, non-interest bearing	270,000	$ 315,000
St. Anthony of Padua (construct Padua Academy) - payable in annual installments of $25,000 due June 30, non-interest bearing	-	1,636,000
Diocesan guaranteed bank loan to a seminarian	-	26,020
	389,051	1,977,020
Total notes receivable
Allowance for uncollectible receivables	-	(1,008,900)
	$ 389,051	$ 968,120
Total notes receivable, net

During the year ended June 30, 2000, $1,662,020 of notes receivable were forgiven. Of this balance, $1,008,900 had been reserved.

4. Related Party Transactions

Certain members of the Diocese's board are also board members of certain affiliated corporations.

The Diocese includes on its balance sheet assets held for/due to affiliated corporations which are reported as restricted net assets. These assets are owned by the affiliated corporations and are included in the financial statements of the Diocese to portray the fiduciary relationship on these assets.

The Diocese received assessments from its parishes in the amount of $2,833,819 and $2,668,324 for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively, and from Catholic Cemeteries in the amount of $103,617 and $71,250, respectively.

During 2000 and 1999, the Catholic Diocese Foundation awarded the Diocese $218,365 and $319,476, respectively. Because the Diocese reports on a modified cash basis, only the cash amounts received of $64,841 and $32,560, respectively, from the Catholic Diocese Foundation were included on the statements of activities of the Diocese.

During 2000 and 1999, St. Mark's contributed $205,854 and $229,100, respectively, to funds held and administered by the Diocese and Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc.

The Diocese disburses funds on behalf of Catholic Youth Organization, Inc. (CYO) for wages, payroll taxes and health benefits. During the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, the Diocese disbursed a total of $132,889 and $132,521, respectively, on behalf of CYO. Of these balances, amounts still due to the Diocese of approximately $6,700 and $8,000, respectively, are included in other assets for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999.

The Diocese disburses funds on behalf of the Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc. (Press) for wages, payroll taxes, health benefits and other miscellaneous expenses. During the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, the Diocese disbursed a total of $297,630 and $241,253, respectively, on behalf of Press. Of these balances, amounts still due to the Diocese of approximately $47,000 and $49,000, respectively, are included in other assets for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999.

The Diocese disburses funds on behalf of St. Thomas More Academy (St. Thomas) for wages, payroll taxes and health benefits. During the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, the Diocese disbursed a total of $571,881 and $370,335, respectively, on behalf of St. Thomas. Of these balances, amounts still due to the Diocese of approximately $59,000 and $39,000, respectively, are included in other assets for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999.

The Diocese provided funding to related organizations. The more significant funding provided was as follows:

	2000	1999
Press	$ 420,617	$ 390,276
Catholic Charities, Inc.	998,900	940,000
St. Mark's High School	726,440	785,263
CYO	60,000	28,941
St. Thomas	693,500	797,482

The Diocese provides administrative services for the Catholic Diocese Foundation, CYO, the Press, and St. Thomas. The Catholic Diocese Foundation was invoiced $9,671 and $11,776 for these services for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively. The Diocese absorbed the cost of the services to CYO, the Press, and St. Thomas since the amounts are not significant.

The Diocese pays all claims and other expenses related to their self-insurance plan, which commenced on July 1, 1998. The self-insurance plan covers health insurance, workers' compensation and automobile insurance, and property and liability insurance. Each affiliated corporation pays the Diocese a premium for their portion of the plan claims and expenses. In 2000 and 1999, the Diocese received approximately $3,600,000 and $3,300,000, respectively, in premium revenue from affiliated corporations. These premiums are invested in an insurance reserve fund, and the Diocese pays all claims out of this fund. In 2000 and 1999, the Diocese paid approximately $3,400,000 and $2,900,000, respectively, in actual claims. Included in accounts payable and accrued expenses is an amount for estimated incurred but not reported claims.

The Diocese also sponsors a health and welfare trust for priests, which became self-insured effective January 1, 2000. Each affiliated corporation pays the Diocese a premium for their portion of the plan's claims and expenses. In 2000 and 1999, the Diocese received approximately $1,100,000 and $1,000,000, respectively, in premium revenues from affiliated corporations.

Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2000 and 1999

The Diocese provides life insurance and long-term disability for all full-time employees of the Diocese, parishes, and certain affiliated corporations, at no cost to those entities since these amounts were not significant. The Diocese also provides pension for all full-time employees of the Diocese, parishes and certain affiliated corporations. Approximately $49,700 and $44,300 of pension costs were charged to other entities for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively.

The Diocese charged rental fees of $1,956 and $1,872 for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively, to the Catholic Diocese Foundation and rental fees of $20,988 and $21,866 for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively, to the Press. A diocesan-owned building was used by CYO, without charge, since the value was not significant.

5. Pension Plans

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan (the Plan) covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, parishes, and affiliated corporations, except Catholic Charities, which has a separate plan. The Plan benefits are based on a monthly pension equal to 1% of the high five year average compensation for each year of service. The following table sets forth the Plan's status determined using the measurement dates of January 1, 2000 and 1999:

	2000	1999
Accumulated benefit obligation, including vested benefits of $11,963,304 and $10,468,979	$12,377,850	$10,802,635
Plan assets at fair value	10,014,280	8,493,857

The more significant actuarial assumptions utilized as of each valuation date are as follows:

Cost method	Aggregate
Interest rate	7.5% per annum
Mortality	1984 Uniform Premium Table
Salary progression	4.0% per annum

For the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, $1,075,000 and $1,000,000, respectively, was funded into the Plan and included in the statement of activities.

The fair value of Plan assets as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 was $10,036,794 and $9,841,945, respectively.

The Diocese has also established a Revocable Priests Retirement and Welfare Trust to cover the health and retirement cost of the clergy of the Diocese. As of June 30, 2000 and 1999 the fund assets totaled $7,946,873 and $8,180,815, respectively. This balance is included within other investments on the balance sheet.

6. Income Taxes

The Diocese is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

7. Commitments and Contingencies

The Diocese guaranteed a loan of St. Thomas, which had an outstanding balance of $263,500 at June 30, 1999. This loan was paid in full in prior to June 30, 2000.

In addition, the Diocese will support the operations of St. Thomas during the first several school years of operation when enrollment levels and corresponding tuition is not expected to cover operating expenses and planned capital expenditures. It is estimated that approximately $3.5 to $4.5 million of Diocesan support will be required for St. Thomas for the years 2000 through 2004. During 2000 and 1999, approximately $694,000 and $797,000, respectively, was provided to St. Thomas by the Diocese in the form of contributions. It is expected that further support will be provided by loans or additional contributions from the Diocese.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Audit Committee
Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the accompanying balance sheets - modified cash basis of the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 and the related statements of activities and cash flows - modified cash basis for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Diocese's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, which standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

As described in Note 1, these financial statements were prepared on the modified cash basis, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

The Diocese has not adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-for-Profit Organizations," which requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future economic benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. The effect of not complying with SFAS 93 is not reasonably determinable.

In our opinion, except for the effect of not recognizing depreciation expense of long-lived tangible assets as discussed in the preceding paragraph, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Diocese as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, on the basis of reporting described in Note 1.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies:

Nature of Operations:

Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) is a not-for-profit corporation having as its objects and purposes the promotion of the teachings of Jesus Christ, as taught and set forth by the Roman Catholic Church throughout the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington in the State of Delaware and the nine (9) Counties of the State of Maryland's Eastern Shore and such territory over which the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington will have jurisdiction as delegated by proper authority of the Universal Roman Catholic Church. Approximately 50% of the revenue for the Diocese is generated through income on investments.

Basis of Reporting:

The Diocese reports using the modified cash basis of accounting, which differs from the accrual basis principally in not recognizing certain pledges and grants and in not establishing liabilities for pension liabilities. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with these principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

The accompanying financial statements reflect only the operation of the Diocese. Certain other operating entities have not been combined in the accompanying statements, the more significant of which are as follows:

- Affiliated Parishes
- Catholic Cemeteries, Inc.
- Catholic Charities, Inc.
- Catholic Diocese Foundation
- Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc.
- Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc.
- Catholic Youth Organization, Inc.
- Children's Home, Inc.
- Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc.
- Seton Villa, Inc.
- Siena Hall, Inc.

Basis of Reporting, continued:

The Diocese acts as a fiduciary for the above entities by investing funds in its pooled investment and cash management accounts on behalf of the above entities.

Financial Statement Presentation:

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-For-Profit Organizations." Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

Contributions:

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made." Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose of the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions, which are received and expended within the same fiscal year, are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Cash:

At times the Diocese maintains cash balances that may exceed federally insured limits.

Pooled Investments:

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statement of activities of activities includes interest, dividends, and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

The Diocese manages an investment pool for its investments and those of its affiliated organization. The investment pool is held in a custody account at Delaware Trust Capital Management. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

The Diocese utilizes a total return policy to determine the level of support for operations and capital expenditures from pooled investments. The level of support is determined annually.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Pledges Receivable:

Except for pledges made to the Annual Catholic Appeal and grants made by the Catholic Diocese Foundation, Inc., which are accounted for on a cash basis, unconditional promises to give are reported at fair value as pledges receivable and contributions in the period the promise is received. The Diocese is not the recipient of any conditional pledges.

Real Estate:

Real estate consists of buildings and the related land. All acquisitions are capitalized at cost, when purchased, or at fair value at date of gift, when donated.

Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-for-Profit Organizations," requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. The Diocese has not adopted SFAS 93. The effect of not complying with SFAS 93 is not reasonably determinable.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, continued:

Assets Held for/Due to Affiliates:

These assets are owned by the affiliated corporations and invested for the affiliates by the Diocese in the pooled investments.

Reclassifications:

Certain amounts in the 1997 financial statements have been reclassified to conform to the 1998 presentation.

2. Pooled Investments:

The Diocese invests in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds. The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 was as follows:

	1998	1997
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 880,223	$ 640,976
Fixed income	13,962,359	13,333,273
Domestic equity	32,681,579	28,184,969
International equity	2,992,486	2,672,052
Total pooled investments	$ 50,516,647	$ 44,831,270

The fair value of these investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 1998 and 1997.

Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was comprised of the following:

	1998	1997
Interest and dividends	$ 1,338,660	$ 1,255,218
Net appreciation	6,657,806	6,246,578
Pooled investment income	$ 7,996,466	$ 7,501,796

The pooled investment income was net of custodial and advisory fees in the amounts of $310,920 and $274,409 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively.

3. Pledges Receivable:

Pledges receivable as of June 30, 1998 are due as follows:

Amounts due within one year	$ 454,746
Amounts due in one to five years	74,169
	$ 528,915

4. Notes Receivable:

Notes receivable at June 30, 1998 and 1997 were as follows:

	1998	1997
St. Mark's High School (roof repairs) - payable in annual installments of $40,000 the first year and $45,000 the next eight years beginning December 30, 1997, non-interest bearing	$ 360,000	-
St. Anthony of Padua (construct Padua Academy) - payable in annual installments of $200,000 due June 30, non-interest bearing	1,661,000	$ 1,686,000
St. Helena (past due assessment) - payable in ten semi-annual installments of $4,500 plus interest at 3%, beginning June 30, 1993	-	4,500
Holy Family (refinance) - payable in two installments of $12,500 due June 1, 1998 and January 1, 1999, non-interest bearing	12,500	25,000
Total notes receivable	2,033,500	1,715,500
Allowance for uncollectible receivables	(1,008,900)	(1,008,900)
Total notes receivable, net	$ 1,024,600	$ 706,600

5. Related Party Transactions:

Certain members of the Diocese's board are also board members of certain affiliated corporations.

The Diocese includes on its balance sheet assets owned by affiliated corporations which are reported as restricted net assets. These assets are owned by the affiliated corporations and are included in the financial statements of the Diocese to portray the fiduciary relationship on these assets.

5. Related Party Transactions, continued:

The Diocese received assessments from its parishes in the amount of $2,536,150 and $2,380,600 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively, and from Catholic Cemeteries in the amount of $57,000 and $55,000, respectively.

During 1998 and 1997, the Catholic Diocese Foundation awarded the Diocese $467,100 and $1,987,470, respectively. Because the Diocese reports on a modified cash basis, only the cash amounts received from the Catholic Diocese Foundation were included on the statements of activity of the Diocese.

In 1997, the Diocese received $4,424,140 from the Foundation's Education Fund. Of this amount, $3,000,000 represented a pledge receivable as of June 30, 1996 to provide supplements to teachers' salaries at parish and Diocesan elementary and secondary schools.

The Diocese disburses funds on behalf of Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc. for wages, payroll taxes, health benefits, and other expenses. During the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, Press reimbursed the Diocese a total of $215,621 and $213,810, respectively.

The Diocese provided funding to related organizations. The more significant funding was provided as follows:

	1998	1997
Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc.	$ 375,692	$ 400,000
Catholic Charities, Inc.	891,250	1,014,390
St. Mark's High School	252,716	276,036
Catholic Youth Organization	37,399	18,280
St. Thomas More Academy	965,575	-

In addition, the Diocese advanced $400,000 to St. Mark's High School for a roof repair project during 1997. This advance was converted to a note receivable during 1998. The Diocese forgave a $491,000 note receivable from St. Mark's High School in 1997.

The Diocese provides administrative services for the Catholic Diocese Foundation, the Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc., and St. Thomas More Academy, Inc. The Catholic Diocese Foundation was invoiced $12,926 and $23,142 for these services for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively. The Diocese absorbed the cost of the services to the Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc. and St. Thomas More Academy, Inc. since the amounts are not significant.

The Diocese provides life insurance and long-term disability for all full-time employees of the Diocese, parishes, and certain affiliated corporations, at no cost to those entities. These amounts were not significant. The Diocese also provides pension for all full-time employees of the Diocese, parishes and certain affiliated corporations. Pension costs amounted to $1,580,000 and $1,000,000 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively. Of these amounts, approximately $43,600 and $38,600 were charged to other entities for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively.

5. Related Party Transactions, continued:

The Diocese charged rental fees of $1,788 and $1,716 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively, to the Catholic Diocese Foundation and rental fees of $19,244 and $18,480 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively, to the Catholic Press of Wilmington. A diocesan-owned building was used by Catholic Youth Organization, without charge, since the value was not significant.

6. Pension Plans:

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan (the Plan) covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, parishes, and affiliated corporations, except Catholic Charities, which has a separate plan. The Plan benefits are based on a monthly pension equal to 1% of the high five year average compensation for each year of service. The following table sets forth the Plan's status determined using the measurement dates of January 1, 1998 and 1997:

	1998	1997
Accumulated benefit obligation, including vested benefits of $9,212,500 and $8,238,350	$ 9,542,861	$ 8,602,100
Plan assets at fair value	7,826,738	6,872,009

The more significant actuarial assumptions utilized as of each valuation date are as follows:

Cost method	Aggregate
Interest rate	7.5% per annum
Mortality	1984 uniform premium table
Salary progression	4.0% per annum

For the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, $500,000 and $0, respectively, have been funded into the Plan.

The fair value of Plan assets as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 was $8,028,532 and $7,244,549, respectively.

The Diocese has also established a Revocable Priests Retirement and Welfare Trust to cover the health and retirement cost of the clergy of the Diocese. As of June 30, 1998 and 1997 the fund assets totaled $7,396,777 and $6,634,226, respectively. This balance is included within other investments on the balance sheet.

7. Income Taxes:

The Diocese is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

8. Subsequent Event:

The Diocese has renegotiated its policies for property, liability, employee fidelity, and errors and omissions insurance coverage. In that connection, an aggregate deductible in the amount of $200,000 is effective July 1, 1998 for claims made for these types of coverages.

9. Commitments and Contingencies:

The Diocese guaranteed a loan of St. Thomas More Academy, Inc. (St. Thomas), which had an outstanding balance of $527,000 at June 30, 1998.

In addition, the Diocese will support the operations of St. Thomas during the first several school years of operation when enrollment levels and corresponding tuition is not expected to cover operating expenses and planned capital expenditures. It is estimated that approximately $3.5 to $4.5 million of Diocesan support will be required for St. Thomas for the years 1998 through 2004. During 1998, approximately $965,000 was provided to St. Thomas by the Diocese in the form of contributions. It is expected that further support will be provided by loans or additional contributions from the Diocese.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Cemeteries, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheets and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets and cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Catholic Cemeteries, Inc. (Cemeteries) as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. These financial statements are the responsibility of Cemeteries' management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these statements in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies:

Nature of Operations:

Catholic Cemeteries, Inc. (Cemeteries) is an agency of the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) departmental structure. Cemeteries owns and operates Cathedral Cemetery and All Saints Cemetery, both located in Wilmington, Delaware and is developing Gate of Heaven Cemetery in Dagsboro, Delaware.

Basis of Reporting:

Cemeteries reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation:

Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets are those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not yet been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions. As of June 30, 2001 and 2000, there were no permanently restricted net assets.

Contributions:

Noncash contributions are recorded at market value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Description of Funds:

Unrestricted and board designated net assets are available for support of Cemeteries operations. Designated net assets were established by allocating 20% of each lot and crypt sale or future development and 10% of each lot, foundation, and crypt sale in order to provide for the future maintenance and preservation of the cemeteries.

Effective July 1, 2000, the Endowed Care Invested Reserves was broken out into two separate funds. The Cemetery Operating Reserves is used for the eventual development of additional Diocesan cemeteries and other projects relating to the ongoing development of existing Diocesan cemeteries. The Endowed Care Fund is used for regular monthly draws for maintenance of the cemeteries and the remaining payments to CCHS as stated in Note 6.

The income and principal of the Jeandell-Devine Private Mausoleum Trust Fund are temporarily restricted for the care and maintenance of the family mausoleum. This fund is maintained and monitored by the Diocese and is invested in fixed income, domestic equity, and international equity securities.

Cash and Cash Equivalents:

Cash and cash equivalents include all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less. Cemeteries' investments in cash and cash equivalents are interest-bearing. At times these amounts may exceed federally insured limits.

Pooled Investments:

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statement of activities includes interest, dividends, and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

Cemeteries participates with the Diocese and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Mellon Trust. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Other Investments:

Other investments include a certificate of deposit with a maturity date of August 5, 2005.

Inventory of Graves and Crypts:

Inventory of graves and crypts consists of acquired land and cost relating to prepare land for present and future cemetery sites. Inventory is carried at the lower of cost or market, with cost principally determined under the average cost method.

Land, Building, Equipment, and Feature Shrines:

Land, building, equipment, and feature shrines are recorded at cost. Expenditures for major renewals and betterments which extend the useful life of property and equipment are to be capitalized; expenditures for maintenance and repairs are charged to expense as incurred. Depreciation is provided over the estimated useful lives of the assets on a straight-line basis.

Revenue Recognition

Cemeteries records revenues and related cost attributable to pre-need sales of burial rights on cemetery lots and crypts when customer contracts are signed.

Reclassifications

Certain balances in the 2001 statements were reclassified to conform to the 2002 presentation.

2. Pooled Investments:

The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 was as follows:

	2002	2001
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 50,857	$ 50,202
Fixed Income	3,118,442	3,452,261
Domestic equity	5,595,705	6,794,378
International equity	1,631,790	1,716,447
Total	$10,396,794	$12,013,288

The fair value of these investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 2002 and 2001.

Pooled investment income for the year ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 was comprised of the following:

	2002	2001
Interest and dividends	$ 186,649	$ 272,315
Net depreciation	(1,054,456)	(671,331)
Pooled investment loss	(867,807)	$ (399,016)

The pooled investment loss is net of custodial and advisory fees in the amount of $77,024 and $84,206 for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 respectively.

3. Land, Buildings, Equipment, and Feature Shrines:

At June 30, 2002 and 2001, land, buildings, equipment and feature shrines consisted of the following:

	2002	2001
Land	$ 100,000	$ 100,000
Buildings	2,394,799	2,371,669
Construction-in-progress	863,559	799,273
Trucks and equipment	829,276	765,238
Furniture and fixtures	181,161	184,346
Roads & Fence	383,800	381,256
Feature shrines	1,062,624	1,047,744
	5,815,219	5,649,526
Accumulated depreciation	(2,791,548)	(2,551,496)
	$3,023,671	$3,098,030

4. Pension Plan:

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including Cemeteries. The plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined in the plan document. Contributions to the plan from Cemeteries reflect an allocation by the Diocese based on Cemeteries eligible salaries as a percentage of total eligible salaries. The amount of pension expense for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 was $65,729 and $49,233 respectively, and is reflected in operating expenses on the statement of activities.

5. Related Party Transactions:

Certain members of Cemeteries board are also board members of the Diocese, a related entity.

For the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, Cemeteries was allocated $120,000 and $114,000 respectively of general and administrative costs which is reflected in the statements of activities.

The Diocese pays on behalf of Cemeteries, the group term life insurance and long term disability benefits for all full-time employees of Cemeteries. These expenses are not reimbursed or reflected on the financial statements of Cemeteries since the amounts are not significant.

Catholic Cemeteries also performs certain administrative functions for Parish Cemeteries within the Diocese, which it does not own.

6. Commitments and Contingencies

In 1955, the Cathedral Cemetery Company, predecessor of Catholic Cemeteries, Inc., contracted with Delaware Hospital, now known as Christiana Care Health Services (CCHS), for the sale of a plot of land, Old Cathedral Cemetery, located in Wilmington, Delaware. Upon commencement of construction by CCHS during the 1998 fiscal year, buried remains were discovered at the former Old Cathedral Cemetery site. Disinterment by specialists employed by CCHS was completed in 1999, and re-interment by Cemeteries was required. The total cost of these procedures was approximately $2,500,000. In 1999, Cemeteries entered into a commitment with CCHS to share equally in the costs. The agreement stated that Cemeteries will reimburse CCHS $1,250,000 in five equal non-interest bearing installments of $250,000 beginning on June 15, 1999. Cemeteries also agreed to pay CCHS up to $125,000 as a sixth and final payment for additional directly related costs. In 2000, final costs were determined by CCHS and the sixth payment was reduced to approximately $65,000. Payments have been made in 1999, 2000, 2001 and 2002 and the remaining liability has been accrued for in full.

Cemeteries also has noncancellable commitments of approximately $729,945 with several construction companies for the initial development of the Gate of Heaven Cemetery in Dagsboro, Delaware. This work was contracted for in April 2002 and commenced in June 2002.

7. Income Taxes:

Cemeteries is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501 (c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Cemeteries, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheets and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets and cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Catholic Cemeteries, Inc. (Cemeteries) as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. These financial statements are the responsibility of Cemeteries' management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these statements in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed above.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

Catholic Cemeteries, Inc. (Cemeteries) is an agency of the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) departmental structure. Cemeteries owns and operates Cathedral Cemetery and All Saints Cemetery, both located in Wilmington, Delaware.

Basis of Reporting

Cemeteries reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-for-Profit Organizations". Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate categories of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate proceeds is not permanently restricted.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions. As of June 30, 2000 and 1999, there were no permanently restricted net assets.

Contributions

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made". Noncash contributions are recorded at market value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statements of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Description of Funds

Unrestricted and board designated net assets are available for support of Cemeteries' operations. Designated net assets were established by allocating 20% of each lot and crypt sale for future development and 10% of each lot, foundation, and crypt sale to provide for the future maintenance and preservation of the cemeteries.

The income and principal of the Jeandell-Devine Private Mausoleum Trust Fund are temporarily restricted for the care and maintenance of the family mausoleum. This fund is maintained and monitored by the Diocese and is invested in fixed income, domestic equity, and international equity securities.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less. Cemeteries' investments in cash and cash equivalents are interest bearing. At times these amounts may exceed federally insured limits.

Pooled Investments

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statements of activities includes interest, dividends, and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

Cemeteries participates with the Diocese and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Mellon Trust. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Other Investments

Other investments include a certificate of deposit with maturities ranging from November 1999 through the year 2000. As these certificates of deposits mature, the funds are deposited into pooled investments for operations which is maintained and monitored by the Diocese. As of June 30, 2000, other investments include one certificate of deposit with a maturity date of July 28, 2000.

Inventory of Graves and Crypts

Inventory of graves and crypts consist of acquired land and costs relating to preparing land for present and future cemetery sites. Inventory is carried at the lower of cost or market, with cost principally determined under the average cost method.

Land, Buildings, Equipment, and Feature Shrines

Land, buildings, equipment, and feature shrines are recorded at cost. Expenditures for major renewals and betterments which extend the useful life of property and equipment are to be capitalized; expenditures for maintenance and repairs are charged to expense as incurred. Depreciation is provided over the estimated useful lives of the assets on a straight-line basis.

Revenue Recognition

Cemeteries records revenues and related costs attributable to pre-need sales of burial rights on cemetery lots and crypts when customer contracts are signed.

Reclassifications

Certain balances in the 1999 statements were reclassified to conform to the 2000 presentation.

2. Pooled Investments

Cemeteries invests in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds. The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 was as follows:

	2000	1999
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 52,014	$ 11,832
Fixed income	4,242,650	3,608,188
Domestic equity	7,294,165	7,454,248
International equity	2,201,079	1,834,368
	$13,789,908	$12,908,636
Total pooled investments

The fair value of these investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 2000 and 1999.

Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 consisted of the following:

	2000	1999
Interest and dividends	$ 233,616	$365,314
Net appreciation	1,419,156	526,912
	$1,652,772	$892,226
Pooled investment income

The pooled investment income is net of custodial and advisory fees in the amount of $92,897 and $51,067 for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively.

3. Land, Buildings, Equipment and Feature Shrines

At June 30, 2000 and 1999, land, buildings, equipment, and feature shrines consisted of the following:

	2000	1999
Land	$ 110,471	$ 100,000
Buildings	2,311,808	1,922,294
Construction-in-progress	819,525	816,424
Trucks and equipment	702,357	642,836
Furniture and fixtures	160,692	139,399
Roads and fences	326,732	276,232
Feature shrines	1,047,745	1,009,330
	5,479,330	4,906,515
Accumulated depreciation	(2,298,699)	(2,077,472)
	$3,180,631	$2,829,043

4. Pension Plan

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including Cemeteries. The plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined in the Plan document. Contributions to the plan from Cemeteries reflect an allocation by the Diocese based on Cemeteries eligible salaries as a percentage of total eligible salaries. The pension expense for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 was $39,542 and $39,059, respectively, and is reflected on the statements of activities.

5. Related Party Transactions

Certain members of Cemeteries' board are also board members of the Diocese, a related entity.

For the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 the Diocese assessed Cemeteries $103,617 and $71,250, respectively, of general and administrative costs, which is reflected in the statements of activities.

The Diocese pays, on behalf of Cemeteries, the group term life insurance and long-term disability benefits for all full-time employees of Cemeteries. These expenses are not reimbursed or reflected on the financial statements of Cemeteries since the amounts are not significant.

6. Commitments and Contingencies

In 1955, the Cathedral Cemetery Company, predecessor of Catholic Cemeteries, Inc., contracted with Delaware Hospital, now known as Christiana Care Health Services (CCHS), for the sale of a plot of land, Old Cathedral Cemetery, located in Wilmington, Delaware. Upon commencement of construction by CCHS during the 1998 fiscal year, buried remains were discovered at the former Old Cathedral Cemetery site. Disinterment by specialists employed by CCHS was completed in 1999, and re-interment by Cemeteries was required. The total cost of these procedures was approximately $2,500,000. In 1999, Cemeteries entered into a commitment with CCHS to share equally in the costs. The agreement stated that Cemeteries will reimburse CCHS $1,250,000 in five equal non-interest bearing annual installments of $250,000 beginning on June 15, 1999. Cemeteries also agreed to pay CCHS up to $125,000 as a sixth and final payment for additional directly related costs. In 2000, final costs were determined by CCHS and the sixth payment was reduced to approximately $65,000. The first two payments were made in July 2000 and June 1999, and the remaining liability has been accrued for in full.

7. Income Taxes

Cemeteries is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

8. Subsequent Event

In March 2000, the Board approved a resolution to redesignate the ending balance in the Endowed Care Invested Reserves. The $13,789,908 balance in Endowed Care Invested Reserves as of June 30, 2000 will be redesignated into $6,602,265 for Cemetery Operating Reserves and $7,187,643 for the Endowed Care Fund, effective July 1, 2000. The Cemetery Operating Reserves will be used for the eventual development of additional Diocesan cemeteries and other projects related to the ongoing development of existing Diocesan cemeteries. The Endowed Care Fund will be used for regular monthly draws for maintenance of the cemeteries and the remaining payments to CCHS as stated in Note 6.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Cemeteries, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheets and the related statements of activities and cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Catholic Cemeteries, Inc. (Cemeteries) as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. These financial statements are the responsibility of Cemeteries' management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these statements in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed above.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies:

Nature of Operations:

Catholic Cemeteries, Inc. (Cemeteries) owns and operates Cathedral Cemetery and All Saints Cemetery, both located in Wilmington, Delaware.

Basis of Reporting:

Cemeteries reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation:

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-for-Profit Organizations". Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not yet been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate proceeds is not permanently restricted.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

Contributions:

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made". Noncash contributions are recorded at market value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Description of Funds:

Unrestricted and board designated net assets are available for support of Cemeteries' operations. Designated net assets were established by allocating 20% of each lot and crypt sale for future development and 10% of each lot, foundation, and crypt sale to provide for the future maintenance and preservation of the cemeteries.

The Jeandell-Devine Private Mauseleum Trust Fund was established during the year ended June 30, 1997. The income and principal of this fund are temporarily restricted for the care and maintenance of the family mausoleum.

Cash and Cash Equivalents:

Cash and cash equivalents include all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less. At times these amounts may exceed federally insured limits.

Pooled Investments:

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statement of activities includes interest, dividends, and net appreciation. Net appreciation includes realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

Cemeteries participates with the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Delaware Trust Capital Management. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

Cemeteries utilizes a total return policy to determine the level of support for operations and capital expenditures from pooled investments. The level of support is determined annually.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Other Investments:

Other investments included a variety of certificates of deposit with maturities ranging from July 1998 to the year 2000.

Inventory of Graves and Crypts:

Inventory of graves and crypts consist of acquired land and costs relating to preparing land for present and future cemetery sites. Inventory is carried at the lower of cost or market, with cost principally determined under the average cost method.

Land, Buildings, Equipment, and Feature Shrines:

Land, buildings, equipment, and feature shrines are recorded at cost. Expenditures for major renewals and betterments which extend the useful life of property and equipment are to be capitalized; expenditures for maintenance and repairs are charged to expense as incurred. Depreciation is provided over the estimated useful lives of the assets on a straight-line basis.

2. Pooled Investments:

Cemeteries invests in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds. The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 was as follows:

	1998	1997
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 143,297	$ 88,473
Fixed income	3,035,793	2,887,848
Domestic equity	8,746,909	7,511,280
International equity	1,026,212	908,520
	$ 12,952,211	$ 11,396,121

2. Pooled Investments, continued:

The fair value of investments in Cemeteries was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 1998 and 1997.

Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was comprised of the following:

	1998	1997
Interest and dividends	$ 303,936	$ 301,932
Net appreciation	1,726,053	1,755,426
	$ 2,029,989	$ 2,057,358

The pooled investment income is net of custodial and advisory fees in the amount of $79,857 and $73,457 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively.

3. Land, Buildings, Equipment and Feature Shrines:

At June 30, 1998 and 1997, land, buildings, equipment, and feature shrines consisted of the following:

	1998	1997
Land	$ 100,000	$ 100,000
Buildings	1,838,064	1,781,313
Construction-in-progress	1,022,153	1,075,766
Trucks and equipment	581,133	476,349
Furniture and fixtures	119,834	112,602
Roads and fences	270,452	211,098
Feature shrines	1,011,381	995,958
	4,943,017	4,753,086
Accumulated depreciation	(1,890,912)	(1,713,698)

4. Pension Plan:

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including Cemeteries. The plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined. Contributions to the plan from Cemeteries reflect an allocation by the Diocese based on Cemeteries eligible salaries as a percentage of total eligible salaries. The pension expense for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was $32,912 and $29,920, respectively, and is reflected on the statements of activities.

5. Related Party Transactions:

Certain members of Cemeteries' board are also board members of the Diocese, a related entity.

For the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, the Diocese assessed Cemeteries $57,000 and $55,000, respectively, of general and administrative costs.

The Diocese pays on behalf of Cemeteries, the group term life insurance and long-term disability benefits for all full-time employees of Cemeteries. These expenses are not reimbursed or reflected on the financial statements of Cemeteries since the amounts are not significant.

6. Income Taxes:

Cemeteries is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

7. Subsequent Event:

In 1955, the Cathedral Cemetery Company, predecessor of Catholic Cemeteries, Inc., contracted with Delaware Hospital, now known as Christiana Care Health Services (CCHS), for the sale of a plot of land, Old Cathedral Cemetery, located in Wilmington, Delaware. Upon commencement of construction by CCHS during the 1998 fiscal year, buried remains were discovered at the former Old Cathedral Cemetery site. Disinterment by specialists employed by CCHS is in progress and re-interment will be required. CCHS has requested Cemeteries to share equally in the costs; however, the ultimate total cost has not been determined and is not presently estimable by Cemeteries. In the opinion of management and counsel, any additional liability, in excess of the amount recorded by Cemeteries, will not have a material adverse effect on the financial position or results of operations of Cemeteries.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Diocese Foundation
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the accompanying balance sheets of the Catholic Diocese Foundation (the Foundation) as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Foundation's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The Foundation has not adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-for-Profit Organizations," which requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future economic benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. Also, equipment is expensed at the time of purchase that, in our opinion, should be capitalized in order to conform to accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. The effects of not complying with SFAS 93 and of not capitalizing equipment are not reasonably determinable.

In our opinion, except for the effect of not recognizing depreciation expense of long-lived tangible assets and of not capitalizing equipment as discussed in the preceding paragraph, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Foundation as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Our audits were made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The supplemental schedules of grants payable as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 are presented for purposes of additional analysis and are not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

The Catholic Diocese Foundation (the Foundation) was established in 1928 for the promotion of Catholic Religion, Catholic Education, and charity in the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington. The Foundation assists parishes in becoming established, aids in their expansion, and funds programs of education and charity. Generally, a substantial portion of the revenue for the Foundation is generated through income on investments.

Basis of Reporting

The Foundation reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation

Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset classifications follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

Unrestricted funds have been designated to the Development and special funds to be used for the development of new ministries and facilities and as a reserve fund, respectively.

Contributions

Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose of the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statements of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Catholic Diocese Foundation
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2002 and 2001

Pooled Investments

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statements of activities includes interest, dividends, and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

The Foundation participates with the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Mellon Trust. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Notes Receivable

Balances include receivables to be repaid by parishes at the Bishop's discretion as well as receivables with definitive repayment terms. Certain notes receivable maintained by the Foundation in fiscal years 2002 and 2001 were non-interest bearing.

Real Estate

Real estate consists of buildings and land. All acquisitions are capitalized at cost, when purchased, or at fair value at date of gift, when donated. The properties were acquired with the intent that they would be used for future Diocesan needs.

Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-for-Profit Organizations," requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. The Foundation has not adopted SFAS 93. Also, equipment is expensed at the time of purchase that should be capitalized in order to conform to generally accepted accounting principles. The effects of not complying with SFAS 93 and of not capitalizing equipment are not reasonably determinable.

Grants Payable

Grants payable are unconditional promises to give that have been expensed in the period pledged.

2. Pooled Investments

The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 was as follows:

	2002	2001
Cash and cash equivalents	$ (443,303)	$ (470,584)
Fixed income	13,704,966	14,779,685
Domestic equity	24,628,947	29,049,726
International equity	7,167,233	7,336,692
Total pooled investments	$45,057,843	$50,695,519

The fair value of these investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 2002 and 2001.

Catholic Diocese Foundation
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2002 and 2001

Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 consisted of the following:

	2002	2001
Interest and dividends	$ 790,774	$ 1,074,531
Net depreciation	(4,478,291)	(2,567,278)
Pooled investment loss	$ (3,687,517)	$ (1,492,747)

The pooled investment loss was net of custodial and advisory fees in the amounts of $331,315 and $336,699 for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively.

3. Notes Receivable

Notes receivable at June 30, 2002 and 2001 were as follows:

	2002	2001
The following receivables, principally land grants, are to be repaid at the Bishop's discretion and are non-interest bearing:
St. Margaret Scotland	$ 28,000	$ 28,000
The following receivables have payment terms as stated below:
St. Catherine of Siena (construction) - payable in 16 semiannual installments of $6,250 beginning in June 1995, non-interest bearing	6,250	25,000
St. Joseph on the Brandywine (Cemetery) - interest is 3% for 10 years, due October 1. Principal payments should begin October 1, 2004 in the amount of $25,000 per year	125,000	125,000
St. Luke's and St. Andrew's (building acquisition) - payable in 180 monthly payments of $1,906 with 6% interest, beginning September 1998	262,948	285,820
St. Patrick (parking lot) - payable in 15 annual installments of $10,000 beginning in December 1994, non-interest bearing	55,000	65,000
St. Francis de Sales (property acquisition) - annual interest only for five years until January 2001, then payable in 30 semiannual installments of $5,834 plus interest at 3%	157,498	169,165
St. Elizabeth Ann Seton (capital improvements) - payable in 10 annual installments of $20,000, beginning July 2004, non-interest bearing	200,000	200,000
St. Patrick (capital improvement) - due November 2003, non-interest bearing	25,000	25,000
Total notes receivable	$ 859,696	$ 922,985

4. Rental Income

The Foundation has rental agreements with tenants who rent houses and farmland owned by the Foundation. The terms of the rental agreements vary from property to property. Total rental income for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 was $20,605 and $10,430, respectively.

5. Related Party Transactions

Certain members of the Foundation's board are also board members of certain affiliated corporations.

The Foundation rents office space from the Diocese. Total rental expense for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 was $2,136 and $2,052, respectively. In addition, the Diocese provides administrative services for the Foundation. Employees are paid by the Diocese and all related payroll costs are reimbursed by the Foundation. Total labor expense including payroll taxes for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 was $10,623 and $10,207, respectively, and is included as accounting and administrative expenses in the statements of activities.

The Foundation awarded grants to the following related organizations:

	2002	2001
Parishes	$ 1,112,000	$ 626,400
Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc.	175,000	185,110
St. Mark's High School	50,000	80,000
St. Francis Hospital	25,000	750,000

In 2001, the Foundation awarded a land grant at book value to Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc. for $1,073,092.

Grants payable to related parties as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 amounted to $425,000 and $505,000, respectively.

Certain buildings owned by the Foundation are used by Catholic Charities, Inc. without charge. The estimated fair value of the contributed facilities usage is not significant.

6. Income Taxes

The Foundation is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Diocese Foundation
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the accompanying balance sheets of the Catholic Diocese Foundation (the Foundation) as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Foundation's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes accessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The Foundation has not adopted Statement for Financial Accounting Standards No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-for-Profit Organizations," which requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future economic benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. Also, equipment is expensed at the time of purchase that, in our opinion, should be capitalized in order to conform to accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. The effects of not complying with SFAS 93 and of not capitalizing equipment are not reasonably determinable.

In our opinion, except for the effect of not recognizing depreciation expense of long-lived tangible assets and of not capitalizing equipment as discussed in the preceding paragraph, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Foundation as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Diocese Foundation
Wilmington, Delaware

Our audits were made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The supplemental schedules of grants payable as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 are presented for purposes of additional analysis and are not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

The Catholic Diocese Foundation (the Foundation) was established in 1928 for the promotion of Catholic Religion, Catholic Education, and charity in the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington. The Foundation assists parishes in becoming established, aids in their expansion, and funds programs of education and charity. A substantial portion of the revenue for the Foundation is generated through income on investments. Catholic

Basis of Reporting

The Foundation reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-For-Profit Organizations." Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

Contributions

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made." Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose of the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statements of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions, which are received and expended within the same fiscal year, are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Pooled Investments

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statements of activities includes interest, dividends, and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

Catholic Diocese Foundation
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2000 and 1999

The Foundation participates with the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Mellon Trust. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Notes Receivable

Balances include receivables to be repaid by parishes at the Bishop's discretion as well as receivables with definitive repayment terms. Certain notes receivable maintained by the Foundation in 1999 were non-interest bearing. In 2000, these notes receivable were forgiven.

Real Estate

Real estate consists of buildings and land. All acquisitions are capitalized at cost, when purchased, or at fair value at date of gift, when donated. The properties were acquired with the intent that they would be used for future Diocesan needs.

Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-for-Profit Organizations," requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. The Foundation has not adopted SFAS 93. Also, equipment is expensed at the time of purchase that, in our opinion, should be capitalized in order to conform to generally accepted accounting principles. The effects of not complying with SFAS 93 and of not capitalizing equipment are not reasonably determinable.

Grants Payable

Grants payable are unconditional promises to give that have been expensed in the period pledged.

2. Pooled Investments

The Foundation invests in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds. The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 was as follows:

	2000	1999
Cash and cash equivalents	$ (464,424)	$ (336,504)
Fixed income	17,086,294	14,205,063	31 07
Domestic equity	29,118,943	29,147,131	33 12
International equity	8,937,028	7,325,806	16 90
	8,937,028	7,325,806
Total pooled investments	$54,677,841	$50,341,496

The fair value of these investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 2000 and 1999.

Catholic Diocese Foundation
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2000 and 1999

Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 consisted of the following:

4. Rental Income

The Foundation has rental agreements with tenants who rent houses and farmland owned by the Foundation. The terms of the rental agreements vary from property to property. Total rental income for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 was $70,000 and $6,550, respectively.

5. Related Party Transactions

Certain members of the Foundation's board are also board members of certain affiliated corporations.

The Foundation rents office space from the Diocese. Total rental expense for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 was $1,956 and $1,872, respectively. In addition, the Diocese provides administrative services for the Foundation. Employees are paid by the Diocese and all related payroll costs are reimbursed by the Foundation. Total labor expense including payroll taxes for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 was $9,671 and $11,776, respectively, and is included as accounting and administrative expenses in the statements of activities.

The Foundation awarded grants to the following related organizations:

	2000	1999
Parishes	$1,252,138	$1,019,953
Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc.	218,365	319,476

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Diocese Foundation
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the accompanying balance sheets of the Catholic Diocese Foundation (the Foundation) as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 and the related statements of activities and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Foundation's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The Foundation has not adopted Statement for Financial Accounting Standards No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-for-Profit Organizations," which requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future economic benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. The effect of not complying with SFAS 93 is not reasonably determinable.

In our opinion, except for the effect of not recognizing depreciation expense of long-lived tangible assets as discussed in the preceding paragraph, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Foundation as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

Our audits were made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The supplemental schedules of grants payable as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 are presented for purposes of additional analysis and are not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements, and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies:

Nature of Operations:

The Catholic Diocese Foundation (the Foundation) was established in 1928 for the promotion of Catholic Religion, Catholic Education, and charity in the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington. The Foundation assists parishes in getting established, aids in their expansion, and funds programs of education and charity. A substantial portion of the revenue for the Foundation is generated through income on investments.

Basis of Reporting:

The Foundation reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation:

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-For-Profit Organizations." Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

Contributions:

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made." Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose of the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions, which are received and expended within the same fiscal year, are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Pooled Investments:

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statement of activities includes interest, dividends, and net appreciation. Net appreciation includes realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

The Foundation participates with the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Delaware Trust Capital Management. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

The Foundation utilizes a total return policy to determine the level of support for operations and capital expenditures from pooled investments. The level of support is determined annually.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Notes Receivable:

Many notes receivable maintained by the Foundation are non-interest bearing. These balances include receivables to be repaid at the Bishop's discretion as well as receivables with definitive repayment terms.

Real Estate:

Real estate consists of buildings and land. All acquisitions are capitalized at cost, when purchased, or at fair value at date of gift, when donated. The properties were acquired with the intent that they would be used for future Diocesan needs.

Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-for-Profit Organizations," requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. The Foundation has not adopted SFAS 93. The effect of not complying with SFAS 93 is not reasonably determinable.

Grants Payable:

Grants payable are unconditional promises to give that have been expensed in the period pledged.

2. Pooled Investments:

The Foundation invests in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds. The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 was as follows:

	1998	1997
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 2,478,585	$ (14,897)
Fixed income	10,926,023	9,832,246
Domestic equity	30,671,157	25,139,402

Total pooled investments	$ 52,424,159	$ 42,179,907

The fair value of these investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 1998 and 1997.

Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was comprised of the following:

	1998	1997
Interest and dividends	$ 1,087,018	$ 1,176,848
Net appreciation	6,577,975	6,767,926
Pooled investment income	$ 7,664,993	$ 7,944,774

2. Pooled Investments, continued:

The pooled investment income was net of custodial and advisory fees in the amounts of $305,104 and $270,043 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively.

3. Notes Receivable:

Total notes receivable	$ 1,879,106	$ 1,564,050

4. Rental Income:

The Foundation has rental agreement with tenants who rent houses and farmland owned by the Foundation. The terms of the rental agreements vary from property to property. Total rental income for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was $5,900 and $8,926, respectively.

5. Related Party Transactions:

Certain members of the Foundation's board are also board members of certain affiliated corporations.

The Foundation rents office space from the Diocese. Total rental expense for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was $1,788 and $1,716, respectively. In addition, the Diocese provides administrative services for the Foundation. Employees are paid by the Diocese and all related payroll costs are reimbursed by the Foundation. Total labor expense including payroll taxes for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was $12,926 and $23,142, respectively, and is included as accounting and administrative expenses in the statement of activities.

The Foundation awarded grants to the following related organizations:

	1998	1997
Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc.	$ 467,100	$ 1,987,470
St. Mark's High School, Inc.	60,000	55,500
St. Thomas More Academy, Inc.	400,000	-
Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc.	-	7,000

During 1997, the Foundation transferred $4,424,140 to the Diocese's Education Fund. Of this amount, $3,000,000 represented a grant payable as of June 30, 1996 to provide supplements to teachers' salaries at parish and Diocesan elementary and secondary schools.

Grants payable to related parties as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 amounted to $1,012,570 and $1,018,171, respectively, as detailed in the supplemental schedules of grants payable.

Certain buildings owned by the Foundation are used by Catholic Charities, Inc. without charge. The estimated fair value of the contributed facilities usage is not significant.

6. Commitments:

On September 19, 1996, the Board approved a non-interest bearing loan up to $200,000 to St. Elizabeth Ann Seton from the Development Fund. Repayment terms begin in the sixth year after the loan is disbursed. This loan was disbursed on July 23, 1998.

7. Income Taxes:

The Foundation is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheets and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets and cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc. (the Ministry) HUD Project No. 032-EH002 as of June 30, 2002 and 2001, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Ministry's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these statements in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial statements contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated August 9, 2002 on our consideration of the Ministry's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards and should be read in conjunction with this report in considering the results of our audit.

The accompanying schedule of expenditures of federal awards is presented for the purposes of additional analysis as required by U. S. Office of Management and Budget Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments and Non-Profit Organizations, and is not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc. (the Ministry) was incorporated in the State of Delaware on January 6, 1978. The Ministry owns and operates the Marydale Retirement Community, a HUD subsidized housing project for low income elderly and handicapped individuals. The site on which the project is located was a gift from the Catholic Diocese Foundation. Construction was completed and occupancy of the apartments began on November 28, 1980.

Basis of Reporting

The Ministry reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation

Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset classifications follows:

Unrestricted Net Assets include assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.

Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include replacement reserves and residual receipts that are temporarily restricted based on the terms of the Ministry's agreement with the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions. There are no permanently restricted net assets at June 30, 2002 and 2001.

Investments

Investments are stated at market value. Investment income on the statement of activities includes interest and dividends.

Building and Improvements and Equipment

Building and improvements and equipment are recorded at historical cost or fair market value at the date of donation, less accumulated depreciation. Expenditures for major renewals and betterments which extend the useful lives of property and equipment are capitalized; expenditures for maintenance and repairs are charged to expense as incurred. Depreciation is provided over the estimated useful lives of the assets, ranging from 5 years to 40 years, on a straight-line basis.

Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2002 and 2001

---

Long-lived assets to be held and used are reviewed for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the related carrying amounts may not be recoverable. Management does not believe that there are any impairments as of June 30, 2002 or 2001.

Contributed Services

The Ministry receives services from unpaid volunteers in organizing activities for residents of the community. The value of these contributed services is not reflected in the financial statements since the services provided by the volunteers do not require specialized skills and would not be purchased by the Ministry if the volunteer services were not available.

Reclassifications

Certain balances in the 2001 statements have been reclassified to conform to the 2002 presentation.

2. Investments

The Ministry, under terms of its agreement with HUD, has established accounts to segregate tenant security deposits, replacement reserves and residual receipts. These accounts comprise the investment amounts on the balance sheet. The funds, which are invested in money market accounts, are not available for current use without approval of HUD and, accordingly, have been classified as temporarily restricted assets.

The composition of investments as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 was as follows:

	2002	2001
Tenant security deposits	$ 28,399	$ 29,950
Replacement reserves	205,188	60,158
Residual receipts	94,686	299,908
	$ 328,273	$ 390,016

Replacement Reserves

The Ministry is required by HUD to deposit $1,695 monthly into a restricted account. These funds are to be used only to fund extraordinary repair and maintenance items or to replace capital items.

Residual Receipts

The Ministry is also required by HUD to deposit any residual receipts at year-end into a restricted account. Any disbursements from this account must be approved by HUD. These funds are held in a custody account at Mellon Trust, which is managed by The Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese).

3. Mortgage Payable

Significantly, all building and improvements are subject to a mortgage. The outstanding mortgage payable balance at June 30, 2002 and 2001 was $2,443,008 and $2,499,247, respectively. Payments are due in monthly installments of $20,472, including interest at 7.625%, due in August, 2022. The following are maturities of the mortgage payable for each of the next five years and in aggregate:

2003	$ 61,573
2004	66,436
2005	71,682
2006	77,343
2007	80,451
Thereafter	2,085,523

The interest expense on this mortgage during the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 was $187,910 and $192,774, respectively.

4. Pension Plan

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including the Ministry. The Plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined. Contributions to the Plan from the Ministry reflect an allocation by the Diocese based on Ministry eligible salaries as a percentage of total eligible salaries. The pension expense for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 was $6,423 and $7,525, respectively, and is reflected in general and administrative expenses in the statement of activities.

5. Related Party Transactions

Certain members of the Ministry's Board of Directors are also members of the Finance Council of the Diocese.

The Diocese pays, on behalf of the Ministry, the group term life insurance and long-term disability benefits. These expenses are not reimbursed or reflected on the financial statements of the Ministry due to their immateriality.

As of June 30, 2002, the Ministry accrued approximately $8,939 related to pension expense payable and $3,000 accounts payable to the Diocese. This amount is included in accounts payable and accrued expenses on the balance sheet.

6. Income Taxes

The Ministry is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) for the Internal Revenue Code.

The accompanying Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards presents the activities in the federal assistance programs of the Ministry. All financial awards received directly from federal agencies are included on the schedule. The information in this schedule is presented in accordance with the requirements of OMB Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations.

2. Basis of Accounting

The accompanying Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards has been prepared on the accrual basis of accounting. Management believes all federal awards considered necessary for a fair presentation in accordance with Government Auditing Standards have been included.

3. Relationship to Basic Financial Statements

Federal expenditures as reported on the Schedule of Expenditures of Federal awards agree to expenditures reported on the Statement of Activities.

Report of Independent Accountants on Compliance and on Internal Control over Financial Reporting
Based on an Audit of Financial Statements Performed in Accordance with *Government Auditing Standards

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the financial statements of Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc. (the Ministry) as of and for the year ended June 30, 2002, and have issued our report thereon dated August 9, 2002. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the Ministry's financial statements are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit and, accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards.

Internal Control over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit, we considered the Ministry's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control over financial reporting that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses. However, we noted other matters involving the internal control over financial reporting, which we have reported to management of the Ministry in a separate letter dated August 9, 2002.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the Ministry's board of directors, federal awarding agencies and pass-through entities and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.

Report of Independent Accountants on Compliance with Requirements Applicable to Each Major Program and Internal Control over Compliance in Accordance with OMB Circular A-133

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

Compliance

We have audited the compliance of Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc. (the Ministry) with the types of compliance requirements described in the U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133 Compliance Supplement that are applicable to its major federal program for the year ended June 30, 2002. The Ministry's major federal program is identified in the Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards – Federal Program Detail in the Schedule of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development Real Estate Assessment Center – Electronic Submission. Compliance with the requirements of laws, regulations, contracts and grants applicable to its major federal program is the responsibility of the Ministry's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the Ministry's compliance based on our audit.

We conducted our audit of compliance in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America; the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States; and OMB Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations. Those standards and OMB Circular A-133 require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether noncompliance with the types of compliance requirements referred to above that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program occurred. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence about the Ministry's compliance with those requirements and performing such other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion. Our audit does not provide a legal determination on the Ministry's compliance with those requirements.

In our opinion, the Ministry complied, in all material respects, with the requirements referred to above that are applicable to its major federal program for the year ended June 30, 2002.

Internal Control over Compliance

The management of the Ministry is responsible for establishing and maintaining effective internal control over compliance with requirements of laws, regulations, contracts and grants applicable to federal programs. In planning and performing our audit, we considered the Ministry's internal control over compliance with requirements that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on compliance and to test and report on internal control over compliance in accordance with OMB Circular A-133.

Our consideration of the internal control over compliance would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that noncompliance with applicable requirements of laws, regulations, contracts and grants that would be material in relation to a major federal program being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over compliance and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the Ministry's board of directors, federal awarding agencies and pass-through entities and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.

Independent Auditor's Report

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheets and the related statements of activities and cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc. (the Ministry) HUD Project No. 032-EH002 as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 and the results of their operations and cash flows for the years then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Ministry's management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these statements in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed above.

Our audits were conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The supplementary data listed in the table of contents is presented for the purpose of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements of the Ministry. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the financial statements taken as a whole.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued reports dated August 7, 1998 on our consideration of the Ministry's internal controls, on the Ministry's compliance with specific requirements applicable to affirmative fair housing, and on the Ministry's compliance with specific requirements applicable to major HUD programs.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies:

Nature of Operations:

Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc. (the Ministry) was incorporated in the State of Delaware on January 6, 1978. The Ministry owns and operates the Marydale Retirement Community, a HUD subsidized housing project for low income elderly and handicapped individuals. The site on which the project is located was a gift from the Catholic Diocese Foundation. Construction was completed and occupancy of the apartments began on November 28, 1980.

Basis of Reporting:

The Ministry reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation:

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-for-Profit Organizations." Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

Unrestricted Net Assets are those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.

Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and trust activity and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted.

Financial Statement Presentation, continued:

Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

Investments:

Investments are stated at cost, which approximates market value. Investment income on the statement of activities includes interest, net of consulting and custodial costs.

Building and Improvements and Equipment:

Building and improvements and equipment are recorded at cost. Expenditures for major renewals and betterments which extend the useful lives of property and equipment are to be capitalized; expenditures for maintenance and repairs are charged to expense as incurred. Depreciation is provided over the estimated useful lives of the assets on a straight-line basis.

Long-lived assets to be held and used are reviewed for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the related carrying amounts may not be recoverable. Management does not believe that there are any material impairments as of June 30, 1998 or 1997.

Contributed Services:

The Ministry receives services from unpaid volunteers in organizing activities for residents of the community. The value of these contributed services is not reflected in the financial statements since the services provided by the volunteers do not require specialized skills and would not be purchased by the Ministry if the volunteer services were not available.

2. Investments:

The Ministry, under terms of its agreement with the Department of Housing and Urban Development, has established accounts to segregate tenant security deposits, replacement reserves and residual receipts. These accounts comprise the investment amounts on the balance sheet. The funds, which are invested in money market accounts, are not available for current use without approval of HUD and, accordingly, have been classified as temporarily restricted assets.

2. Investments, continued:

The composition of investments as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 was as follows:

	1998	1997
Tenant security deposits	$ 24,299	$ 24,473
Replacement reserves	39,434	45,675
Residual receipts	317,945	365,806
	$ 381,678	$ 435,954

Tenant Security Deposits:

The Ministry collects a security deposit on each unit. These funds are maintained in an account separate from that used for general project operations.

Replacement Reserves:

The Ministry is required by HUD to deposit $1,695 monthly into a restricted account. These funds are to be used only to fund extraordinary repairment and maintenance items or the replacement of capital items.

Residual Receipts:

The Ministry is also required by HUD to deposit any residual receipts at year-end into a restricted account. Any disbursements from this account must be approved by HUD.

These funds are held in a custody account at Delaware Trust Capital Management, which is managed by The Catholic Diocese of Wilmington (the "Diocese").

3. Mortgage Payable:

The outstanding mortgage payable balances at June 30, 1998 and 1997 were $2,646,586 and $2,688,692, respectively. Payments are due in monthly installments of $20,472 including interest at 7.625%, due in August 2022. Following are maturities of the mortgage payable for each of the next five years and in aggregate:

1999	$ 45,431
2000	49,018
2001	52,890
2002	57,066
2003	61,573
2004 and thereafter	2,380,608

The interest expense on this mortgage during the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was $203,294 and $206,395, respectively.

4. Pension Plan:

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including the Ministry. The Plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined. Contributions to the Plan from the Ministry reflect an allocation by the Diocese based on Ministry eligible salaries as a percentage of total eligible salaries. The pension expense for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was $5,300 and $5,200, respectively, and is reflected in general and administrative expenses in the statement of activities. The 1998 amount includes $3,700 for the lay employees and $1,600 for the religious employees. The 1997 amount includes $3,600 for the lay employees and $1,600 for the religious employees.

5. Related Party Transactions:

Certain members of the Ministry's Board of Directors are also members of the Finance Council of the Diocese.

The Diocese pays, on behalf of the Ministry, the group term life insurance and long-term disability benefits. These expenses are not reimbursed or reflected on the financial statements of the Ministry.

6. Income Taxes:

The Ministry is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) for the Internal Revenue Code.

Independent Auditor's Report on Internal Controls

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the financial statements of Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc. (the Ministry) HUD Project No. 032-EH002 as of and for the year ended June 30, 1998, and have issued our report thereon dated August 7, 1998. We have also audited the Ministry's compliance with requirements applicable to HUD-assisted programs and have issued our reports thereon dated August 7, 1998.

We have conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the "Consolidated Audit Guide for Audits of HUD Programs" (the Guide), issued by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, Office of the Inspector General. Those standards and the Guide require that we plan and perform the audits to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement and about whether the Ministry complied with laws and regulations, noncompliance with which would be material to a HUD-assisted program.

In planning and performing our audits, we obtained an understanding of the design of relevant internal controls and determined whether they had been placed in operation, and we assessed control risk in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinions on the financial statements of the Ministry and on its compliance with specific requirements applicable to its major HUD-assisted programs and to report on internal controls in accordance with the provisions of the Guide and not to provide any assurance on internal controls.

The management of the Ministry is responsible for establishing and maintaining internal controls. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of internal controls. The objectives of internal controls are to provide management with reasonable, but not absolute, assurance that assets are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit the preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and that HUD-assisted programs are managed in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. Because of inherent limitations in any internal controls, errors, irregularities or instances of noncompliance may nevertheless occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation to future periods is subject to the risk that procedures may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of the design and operation of policies and procedures may deteriorate.

We performed tests of controls, as required by the Guide, to evaluate the effectiveness of the design and operation of internal controls that we considered relevant to preventing or detecting material noncompliance with specific requirements applicable to the Ministry's HUD-assisted programs. Our procedures were less in scope than would be necessary to render an opinion on internal control policy and procedures. Accordingly, we do not express such an opinion.

A material weakness is a reportable condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that errors or irregularities in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited or that noncompliance with laws and regulations that would be material to a HUD-assisted program may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions.

Our consideration of internal controls would not necessarily disclose all matters in internal controls that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses as defined above. We noted no matters involving the internal control structure and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses as disclosed above.

We also noted other matters involving internal controls and their operations that we have reported to the management of the Ministry in a separation communication dated August 7, 1998.

This report is intended for the information of management and the Department of Housing and Urban Development. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Independent Auditor's Report on Compliance with Specific Requirements Applicable to Fair Housing and Non-Discrimination

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the financial statements of Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc. (the Ministry) HUD Project No. 032-EH002 as of and for the year ended June 30, 1998, and have issued our report thereon dated August 7, 1998.

We have applied procedures to test the Ministry's compliance with Fair Housing and Non-Discrimination requirements applicable to its HUD-assisted programs, for the year ended June 30, 1998.

Our procedures were limited to the applicable compliance requirement described in the "Consolidated Audit Guide for Audits of HUD Programs" issued by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, Office of Inspector General. Our procedures were substantially less in scope than an audit, the objective of which would be the expression of an opinion on the Ministry's compliance with the Fair Housing and Non-Discrimination requirements. Accordingly, we do not express such an opinion.

The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported herein under the Guide.

This report is intended for the information of management and the Department of Housing and Urban Development. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Independent Auditor's Report on Compliance with Specific Requirements Applicable to Major HUD Programs

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the financial statements of Catholic Ministry to the Elderly, Inc. (the Ministry) HUD Project No. 032-EH002 as of and for the year ended June 30, 1998 and have issued our report thereon dated August 7, 1998. In addition, we have audited the Ministry's compliance with the specific program requirements governing

- Management, maintenance, and replacement reserve
- Federal financial reports
- Application, eligibility and re-examination of tenants
- Security deposits
- Mortgage status
- Residual receipts
- Cash receipts and disbursements that are applicable to each of its major HUD-assisted programs, for the year ended June 30, 1998. The management of the Ministry is responsible for compliance with those requirements. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on compliance with those requirements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit of compliance in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the "Consolidated Audit Guide for Audits of HUD Programs" (the Guide) issued by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, Office of Inspector General. Those standards and the Guide require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether material noncompliance with the requirements referred to above occurred. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence about the Ministry's compliance with those requirements. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the Ministry complied, in all material respects, with the requirements described above that are applicable to each of its major HUD-assisted programs for the year ended June 30, 1998.

This report is intended for the information of management and the Department of Housing and Urban Development. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Youth Organization, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheets and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets and cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Catholic Youth Organization, Inc. (CYO) at June 30, 2002 and 2001 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. These financial statements are the responsibility of CYO's management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these statements in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

Our audits were made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The supplemental schedule of administrative expenses for the year ended June 30, 2002 with comparative totals for the year ended June 30, 2001 is presented for the purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

Catholic Youth Organization, Inc. (CYO) is part of the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese). CYO's purpose is to provide a variety of educational, social, recreational, and spiritual activities for youth between the ages of nine and nineteen to contribute to the development of mature men and women who reflect in their lives the values of the gospel. While CYO's primary purpose is to serve Catholic youth, the organization's services are available to any youth, regardless of religious affiliation.

CYO's approach to Christian formation emphasizes the involvement of youth in locally organized programs. Assistance by CYO is provided to the parish groups in the following ways:

- Organizational planning for parish programs
- Leadership training for youth
- Adult training in youth work and athletics
- Consultation and program planning with parish personnel
- Direct administration of Diocesan-wide activities in recreational, social, spiritual and community services areas

Effective July 1, 2000, the financial statements of CYO, Inc. include the activities of the Youth Ministry Office. These activities were previously included in the financial statements of the Diocese of Wilmington. These additional services focus on non-athletic activities consistent with the nature of operations described above.

Basis of Reporting

CYO reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation

Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset classifications follows:

Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.

Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted.

Catholic Youth Organization, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2002 and 2001

---

Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

All net assets of CYO are unrestricted as of June 30, 2002. CYO had assets which were temporarily restricted as of June 30, 2000, which were utilized for the purpose imposed by the donor during the fiscal year ended June 30, 2001.

Contributions

Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Pooled Investments

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statement of activities includes interest, dividends, and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

CYO participates with the Diocese and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Mellon Trust. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Furniture and Equipment

Furniture and equipment are recorded at cost. CYO records depreciation using the straight-line method. Furniture is depreciated over an estimated useful life of five years, while equipment is depreciated over an estimated useful life of five to seven years. At June 30, 2002 and 2001, all furniture and equipment is fully depreciated.

Contributed Services and Facilities

CYO records the fair value of contributed services which would ordinarily be purchased from individuals with specialized skills. Services from other non-specialized volunteers are not reflected in the financial statements of CYO.

Catholic Youth Organization, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2002 and 2001

---

CYO also records in revenues and expenses the difference between the estimated fair value of donated facilities usage costs and amounts paid for their use.

Reclassifications

Certain balances in the 2001 statements have been reclassified to conform to the 2002 presentation.

2. Pooled Investments

The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 was as follows:

	2002	2001
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 621	$ 607
Fixed income	51,998	55,672
Domestic equity	93,379	110,722

4. Pension Plan

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including CYO. The plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined in the Plan documents. Contributions to the plan from CYO reflect an allocation by the Diocese based on CYO's eligible salaries as a percentage of total eligible salaries. The pension expense for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 was approximately $13,100 and $7,900, respectively, and is reflected in management and general expenses on the statement of activities.

5. Related Party Transactions

Certain members of CYO's board are also board members of the Diocese, a related entity.

For the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, the Diocese provided funding in the amount of $129,900 and $123,504, respectively, to support the operations of CYO.

CYO reimburses the Diocese for wages, payroll taxes, and health benefits the Diocese disburses on behalf of CYO. For the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, these expenses totaled $237,220 and $217,160, respectively. Of these balances, unpaid amounts of approximately $10,700 and $15,400, respectively, are included in accounts payable and accrued expenses for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001.

The Diocese pays, on behalf of CYO, the group term life insurance and long-term disability benefits for all full-time employees of CYO. The Diocese also provides administrative services for CYO. These expenses are not reimbursed or reflected on the financial statements of CYO since the amounts are not significant.

CYO and Youth Ministry, an office of the Diocese, both utilize and maintain a building owned by the Diocese. The agreement between CYO, Youth Ministry and the Diocese is for an indefinite period of time with no charge for rental fees. The estimated fair value of the contributed facilities usage is not significant.

CYO receives donations from Diocesan parishes for usage of facilities and playing fields for athletic programs. The estimated fair value of the cost of athletic facilities, net of amounts disbursed, was $350,000 and $325,000 for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively, and is reflected on the statements of activities.

6. Income Taxes

CYO is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Youth Organization, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheets and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets and cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Catholic Youth Organization, Inc. (CYO) at June 30, 2000 and 1999 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. These financial statements are the responsibility of CYO's management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these statements in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed above.

Our audits were made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The supplemental schedule of functional expenses for the year ended June 30, 2000 with comparative totals for the year ended June 30, 1999 is presented for the purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

Catholic Youth Organization, Inc. (CYO) is part of the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese). CYO's purpose is to provide a variety of educational, social, recreational, and spiritual activities for youth between the ages of nine and nineteen to contribute to the development of mature men and women who reflect in their lives the values of the gospel. While CYO's primary purpose is to serve Catholic youth, the organization's services are available to any youth, regardless of religious affiliation.

CYO's approach to Christian formation emphasizes the involvement of youth in locally organized programs. Assistance by CYO is provided to the parish groups in the following ways:

- Organizational planning for parish programs
- Leadership training for youth
- Adult training in youth work and athletics
- Consultation and program planning with parish personnel
- Direct administration of Diocesan-wide activities in recreational, social, spiritual and community services areas

Basis of Reporting

CYO reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-for-Profit Organizations." Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

All net assets of CYO are either unrestricted or temporarily restricted as of June 30, 2000 and 1999.

Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2000 and 1999

---

Contributions

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made." Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Pooled Investments

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statement of activities includes interest, dividends, and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

CYO participates with the Diocese and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Mellon Trust. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Furniture and Equipment

Furniture and equipment are recorded at cost. CYO records depreciation using the straight-line method. Furniture is depreciated over an estimated useful life of five years, while equipment is depreciated over an estimated useful life of five to seven years.

Contributed Services and Facilities

CYO records the fair value of contributed services which would ordinarily be purchased from individuals with specialized skills. Services from other non-specialized volunteers are not reflected in the financial statements of CYO. The value of these donated volunteer services for athletic and other youth programs approximated $640,000 and $467,000 for the years ended 2000 and 1999, respectively.

CYO also records in revenues and expenses the difference between the estimated fair value of donated facilities usage costs and amounts paid for their use.

Reclassifications

Certain balances in the 1999 statements have been reclassified to conform to the 2000 presentation.

Catholic Youth Organization, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2000 and 1999

2. Pooled Investments

CYO invests in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds. The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 was as follows:

	2000	1999
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 15,553	$ 420
Fixed income	79,207	63,439
Domestic equity	135,223	129,990
International equity	41,392	32,676
Total pooled investments	$271,375	$226,525

The fair value of these investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 2000 and 1999.

Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 consisted of the following:

	2000	1999
Interest and dividends	$ 4,402	$ 6,589
Net appreciation	25,448	8,133
Pooled investment income	$29,850	$14,722

The pooled investment income was net of custodial and advisory fees in the amount of $1,646 and $864 for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively.

3. Furniture and Equipment

At June 30, 2000 and 1999, furniture and equipment consisted of the following:

	2000	1999
Office equipment and furniture	$30,419	$30,419
Computer equipment	18,040	18,040
Improvements	2,065	2,065

4. Pension Plan

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including CYO. The plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined in the Plan documents. Contributions to the plan from CYO reflect an allocation by the Diocese based on CYO's eligible salaries as a percentage of total eligible salaries. The pension expense for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 was approximately $7,700 and $5,300, respectively, and is reflected in management and general expenses on the statement of activities.

5. Related Party Transactions

Certain members of CYO's board are also board members of the Diocese, a related entity.

For the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, the Diocese provided funding in the amount of $60,000 and $28,941, respectively, to support the operations of CYO.

CYO reimburses the Diocese for wages, payroll taxes, and health benefits the Diocese disburses on behalf of CYO. For the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, these expenses totaled $132,889 and $132,521, respectively. Of these balances, unpaid amounts of approximately $6,700 and $8,000, respectively, are included in accounts payable and accrued expenses for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999.

The Diocese pays, on behalf of CYO, the group term life insurance and long-term disability benefits for all full-time employees of CYO. The Diocese also provides administrative services for CYO. These expenses are not reimbursed or reflected on the financial statements of CYO since the amounts are not significant.

CYO and Youth Ministry, an office of the Diocese, both utilize and maintain a building owned by the Diocese. The agreement between CYO, Youth Ministry and the Diocese is for an indefinite period of time with no charge for rental fees. The estimated fair value of the contributed facilities usage is not significant.

CYO receives donations from Diocesan parishes for usage of facilities and playing fields for athletic programs. The estimated fair value of the cost of athletic facilities, net of amounts disbursed, was $446,000 and $280,000 for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively, and is reflected on the statements of activities.

6. Income Taxes

CYO is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

7. Subsequent Event

Effective July 1, 2000, CYO was renamed Catholic Youth Ministries, Inc. to reflect the merging of activities of CYO and Youth Ministry.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Youth Organization, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheets and the related statements of activities and cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Catholic Youth Organization, Inc. (CYO) as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. These financial statements are the responsibility of CYO's management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these statements in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed above.

Our audits were made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The supplemental schedule of functional expenses for the year ended June 30, 1998 with comparative totals for the year ended June 30, 1997 is presented for the purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies:

Nature of Operations:

Catholic Youth Organization, Inc. (CYO) is part of the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese), a part of the Roman Catholic Church. CYO's purpose is to provide a variety of educational, social, recreational, and spiritual activities for youth between the ages of nine to nineteen to contribute to the development of mature men and women who reflect in their lives the values of the gospel. While CYO's primary purpose is to serve Catholic youth, the organization's services are available to any youth, regardless of religious affiliation.

CYO's approach to Christian formation emphasizes the involvement of youth in locally organized programs. Assistance by CYO is provided to the parish groups in the following ways:

- Organizational planning for parish programs
- Leadership training for youth
- Adult training in youth work and athletics
- Consultation and program planning with parish personnel
- Direct administration of Diocesan-wide activities in recreational, social, spiritual and community services areas

Basis of Reporting:

CYO reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation:

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-for-Profit Organizations." Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

All net assets of CYO are unrestricted as of June 30, 1998 and 1997, with some having been designated by the Board for particular uses.

Contributions

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made." Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Pooled Investments:

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statement of activities includes interest, dividends, and net appreciation. Net appreciation includes realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

CYO participates with the Diocese and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Delaware Trust Capital Management. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

CYO utilizes a total return policy to determine the level of support for operations and capital expenditures from pooled investments. The level of support is determined annually.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Furniture and Equipment:

Furniture and equipment are recorded at cost. CYO records depreciation using the straight-line method. Furniture is depreciated over an estimated useful life of five years, while equipment is depreciated over an estimated useful life of five to seven years.

Contributed Services and Facilities:

CYO records the fair value of contributed services which would ordinarily be purchased from individuals with specialized skills. In 1998, these services included marketing and computer programming services.

Services from other non-specialized volunteers are not reflected in the financial statements of CYO. The value of these donated volunteer services for athletic and other youth programs approximated $265,000 and $240,000 for the years ended 1998 and 1997, respectively.

CYO also records in revenues and expenses, the difference between the estimated fair value of donated facilities usage costs and amounts expended for their use.

Reclassifications:

Certain amounts in the 1997 statements have been reclassified to conform to the 1998 presentation.

Notes to Financial Statements, Continued

2. Pooled Investments:

CYO invests in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds. The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 was as follows:

	1998	1997
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 393	$ 400
Fixed income	51,550	46,507
Domestic equity	130,462	88,324
International equity	9,398	7,977
Total	$ 191,803	$ 143,208

The fair value of these investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 1998 and 1997:

Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was comprised of the following:

	1998	1997
Interest and dividends	$ 4,625	$ 4,255
Net appreciation	23,970	20,634
Pooled investment income	$ 28,595	$ 24,889

The pooled investment income was net of custodial and advisory fees in the amount of $1,107 and $921 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively.

3. Furniture and Equipment:

At June 30, 1998 and 1997, furniture and equipment consisted of the following:

	1998	1997
Office equipment and furniture	$ 30,419	$ 30,419
Computer equipment	18,040	16,540
Improvements	2,065	2,065
Accumulated depreciation	50,524 (41,762)	49,024 (39,379)
	$ 8,762	$ 9,645

4. Pension Plan:

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including CYO. The plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined. Contributions to the plan from CYO reflect an allocation by the Diocese based on CYO eligible salaries as a percentage of total eligible salaries. The pension expense for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was $6,972 and $5,075, respectively and is reflected in management and general expenses on the statement of activities.

5. Related Party Transactions:

Certain members of CYO's board are also board members of the Diocese, a related entity.

The Diocese pays, on behalf of CYO, the group term life insurance and long-term disability benefits for all full-time employees of CYO. These expenses are not reimbursed or reflected on the financial statements of CYO since the amounts are not significant.

CYO and Youth Ministry, an office of the Diocese, both utilize and maintain a building owned by the Diocese. The agreement between CYO, Youth Ministry and the Diocese is for an indefinite period of time with no charge for rental fees. The estimated fair value of the contributed facilities usage is not significant.

CYO receives donations from Diocesan parishes for usage of facilities and playing fields for athletic programs. The estimated fair value of the cost of athletic facilities, net of amounts disbursed, was $261,000 and $154,000 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively, and is reflected on the statements of activities.

6. Income Taxes:

CYO is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Saint Mark's High School
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the accompanying balance sheets of Saint Mark's High School (St. Mark's) as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets, functional expenses and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of Saint Mark's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

Saint Mark's has not adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-for-Profit Organizations," which requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future economic benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. Also, certain equipment is expensed at the time of purchase that, in our opinion, should be capitalized in order to conform to accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. If buildings and building improvements were depreciated and certain equipment were capitalized, land, buildings and building improvements and net assets would be decreased by approximately $4,675,000 and $4,471,000 at June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively. Additionally, changes in net assets would decrease by approximately $20,000 and $86,000 for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively.

In our opinion, except for the effect of not recognizing depreciation expense of long-lived tangible assets and of not capitalizing equipment as discussed in the preceding paragraph, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Saint Mark's as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

Saint Mark's High School (Saint Mark's) was established by the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) to foster Catholic education, which is a creative and living process which seeks to develop the individual wholly and fully. Saint Mark's is committed to creating the finest Catholic and Christian leaders by cultivating each student spiritually, socially, intellectually, and physically. Based upon the principles and values of the Gospels and traditions of Catholic doctrine, the Saint Mark's program offers opportunities for religious formation and practice, a curriculum of academic excellence and a wide variety of extra- and co-curricular activities.

These statements present the operating results of Saint Mark's, which is an operating segment of the Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc.

Basis of Reporting

Saint Mark's reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation

Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset classifications follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met, and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions. As of June 30, 2002 and 2001 there were no permanently restricted net assets.

Contributions

Noncash contributions are recorded at fair market value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less and a no-penalty certificate of deposit that is convertible on demand. Saint Mark's investments in cash and cash equivalents are interest-bearing. At times, these amounts may exceed federally insured limits.

Investments

Investments are stated at fair value. Investment income on the statement of activities includes interest and dividends and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

Saint Mark's participates with the Diocese and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Mellon Trust. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income, equity securities, and mutual funds.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Saint Mark's also invests in bank certificates of deposit (CD's) with maturities greater than 90 days, but less than one year.

Pledges Receivable

Unconditional promises to give cash and other assets are reported at fair value as pledges receivable and contributions in the period the promise is received. Unconditional promises that are expected to be collected in future years are recorded at the net present value of their estimated future cash flows. The discounts on those amounts are computed using risk-free interest rates applicable to the years in which the promises are received. Amortization of the discounts is included in contribution revenue. Conditional promises are not included as support until the conditions are substantially met.

Land, Buildings, and Improvements

Land, buildings, and certain land and building improvements are capitalized based on historical cost. All other long-lived assets are expensed at the time of purchase (except assets utilized pursuant to a capitalized lease – see footnote 5).

Accrued Liabilities - Faculty Contracts Payable

Saint Mark's Professional Employee Contracts for faculty are for the ten-month period from August 20, 2001 through June 20, 2002 and August 20, 2000 through June 20, 2001, respectively. Many faculty voluntarily elect to receive their payment for services over twelve months, rather than ten. At year-end, Saint Mark's records a liability for earned but unpaid faculty compensation including the related payroll taxes. As of June 30, 2002 and 2001, Saint Mark's had accrued liabilities-faculty contracts payable of $754,580 and $697,637, respectively.

Deferred Income

Deferred income of Saint Mark's represents tuition, fees, bus deposits, math & science camp fees, certain donations and grants received in advance for the fiscal 2002 – 2003 and 2001 – 2002 school years.

Vacation

Saint Mark's recognizes the cost of vested vacation pay as earned by employees.

Contributed Services

Saint Mark's receives services from unpaid volunteers in organizing activities for students and various Saint Mark's programs. The value of these contributed services is not reflected in the accompanying financial statements since the services provided by the volunteers do not require specialized skills and would not be purchased by Saint Mark's if the volunteer services were not available.

Description of Program and Supporting Services

The following program and supporting services are included in the accompanying financial statements:

Academic programs. Provide quality secondary education based on a core curriculum and a broad spectrum of electives which enables students to recognize and challenge their individual abilities; foster knowledge; stimulate interest; facilitate a dynamic, creative curriculum that motivates students to think critically, analyze data and draw conclusions; provide pastoral care program and religious education as an integral part of student's education; instill a distinctive Catholic atmosphere of lived Gospel values and principles and the traditions of Catholicism; include facilities, classrooms, and laboratories with the technology and equipment needed to educate for future learning and life.

Auxiliary programs. Includes the operations of the bus program, cafeteria, vending machines, parking, convent, facility rental and commission from bookstore sales.

Student activities. Includes all extracurricular activities such as proms, dances, graduation expenses, athletic contests, theater productions, and retreat expenses.

Saint Mark's High School
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2002 and 2001

Expense Allocation

The costs of providing various programs and other activities have been summarized on a functional basis in the Statements of Activities and in the Statements of Functional Expenses. Accordingly, certain costs have been allocated among the programs and supporting services benefited.

Reclassifications

Certain balances in the 2001 statements have been reclassified to conform to the 2002 presentation.

2. Concentration of Credit Risk

The financial instruments that are exposed to concentrations of credit risk consist primarily of cash equivalents. The cash equivalents are high-quality, short-term securities placed with institutions with high credit ratings. Saint Mark's has accounts with Citizens Bank, PNC Bank, and Wilmington Trust. At times these accounts may exceed federally insured limits.

3. Tuition Receivable

At June 30, 2002 and 2001, tuition receivable consisted of the following:

	2002	2001
Tuition receivable	$ 174,969	$ 160,545
Less: Allowance for uncollectibles	(112,000)	(112,000)
	$ 62,969	$ 48,545

During 2002, Saint Mark's wrote off $11,453 in aged receivable balances, which had been fully reserved. This write-off did not impact the Statement of Activities and Changes in Net Assets.

4. Investments

The composition of investments as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 was as follows:

	2002	2001
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 55,682	$ 5,449
Fixed income	233,987	193,997
Domestic equity	411,792	379,218
International equity	120,583	96,011
Subtotal pooled investments	822,044	674,675
Bank certificates of deposit	301,000	-
Total investments	$ 1,123,044	$ 674,675

Saint Mark's High School
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2002 and 2001

The fair value of these investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 2002 and 2001.

Investment income for the year ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 consisted of the following:

	2002	2001
Interest and dividends	$ 11,903	$ 11,531
Net (depreciation)	(64,534)	(19,861)
Pooled investment income	(52,631)	(8,330)
Bank CD interest	1,000	-
Total investment income	$ (51,631)	$ (8,330)

The pooled investment income is net of custodial and advisory fees in the amount of $4,877 and $3,382 in 2002 and 2001, respectively.

5. Land, Buildings, and Improvements

Saint Mark's building and the land upon which it sits are owned by the Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc., of which Saint Mark's is an operating segment. In lieu of rental expense, Saint Mark's is responsible for all annual repairs, maintenance and capital expenditures.

In 2002 Saint Mark's leased 120 Apple laptop computers for all faculty to use in their jobs. The lease is accounted for as a capital lease. The laptops were placed into service in the 2002-2003 school year. Saint Mark's expects to depreciate them over two years.

At June 30, 2002 and 2001, land, buildings, and improvements consisted of the following:

	2002	2001
Land and improvements	$ 783,500	$ 783,500
Building and improvements	9,641,105	9,641,105
Leased computers	224,160	-
	$10,648,765	$10,424,605

Saint Mark's High School
Notes to Financial Statements

6. Deferred Income

At June 30, 2002 and 2001 deferred income consisted of the following:

	2002	2001
Tuition fees, and bus	$1,153,133	$1,245,796
Math & science camp/ other	6,900	9,700
Development	8,290	26,622
	$1,168,323	$1,282,118

7. Third-Party Funds

Third-party funds represent money held and accounted for by the finance office of Saint Mark's for the benefit of various organizations and clubs.

As of June 30, 2002 and 2001 these funds were the property of the following:

	2002	2001
Athletics Association Fund	$31,251	$18,792
Band Boosters Fund	9,859	8,740
Chorus Fund	4,534	5,314
Class Reunion Fund	-	(1,100)
Field Trip Fund	-	8,971
Student Activities Fund	24,913	25,438
	$70,557	$66,156

8. Refundable Advances

The State of Delaware transportation grant is classified as an agency or "pass through" transaction. Accordingly, Saint Mark's does not record revenue or expense from this program. The activity in the refundable advance account is reported as follows:

	2002	2001
Refundable advances, beginning of year	$226,549	$231,306
Grant awards received	211,116	205,714
Grant expenditures	(210,095)	(210,471)
Refundable advances, end of year	$227,570	$226,549

9. Note Payable

The Diocese advanced $400,000 to Saint Mark's for improvement to its roof. This loan is in the form of a note payable, and is non-interest bearing with remaining repayment terms of $45,000 per year through 2005. The balance as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 was $180,000 and $225,000, respectively.

10. Leases

In 2002 Saint Mark's signed a $224,160 non-interest lease with GE Capital for 120 Apple laptop computers. The contract calls for two annual payments of $112,040, due December 2002 and 2003. The lease liability is classified in notes payable.

Saint Mark's leases copiers under operating leases expiring in various years through January 2004. Rental expense for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 was $62,853 and $45,366, respectively.

Future minimum rental payments at June 30, 2002, under agreements classified as operating leases with noncancelable terms in excess of one year, are as follows:

2003	$ 57,483
2004	28,741
Total	$ 86,224

11. Pension Plans

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including Saint Mark's. The Plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined in the Plan document. The Diocese incurred expense on behalf of Saint Mark's of approximately $391,000 and $346,000 for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively. Saint Mark's does not reimburse the Diocese for this cost. Accordingly, Saint Mark's recorded this transaction as public support-Diocesan contributions and an increase in benefit expense.

Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2002 and 2001

12. Related Party Transactions

Certain members of Saint Mark's board are also board members of the Diocese, a related entity.

Saint Mark's receives contributions and grants from the Diocese and the Catholic Diocese Foundation. These entities are related to Saint Mark's through common control. A summary of the contributions and grants received from these entities for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 is as follows:

	2002	2001
Revenue and support - Diocesan contributions:
Catholic Diocese of Wilmington:
Annual Catholic Appeal	$ 188,000	$ 188,000
Saint Mark's Educational Trust - financial aid	70,000	-

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc.
St. Mark's High School
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the accompanying balance sheets of St. Mark's High School (St. Mark's) as of June 30, 2000 and 1999, and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets, functional expenses, and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of St. Mark's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

Except as discussed in the following paragraph, we conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

St. Mark's has not adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-for-Profit Organizations," which requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future economic benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. Also, certain equipment is expensed at the time of purchase that, in our opinion, should be capitalized in order to conform to generally accepted accounting principles. If buildings and building improvements were depreciated and certain equipment were capitalized, land, buildings and building improvements and net assets would be decreased by approximately $4,557,000 and $4,724,000 at June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively. Additionally, changes in net assets would decrease by approximately $167,000 and $224,000 for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively.

In our opinion, except for the effect of not recognizing depreciation expense of buildings and building improvements and of not capitalizing certain equipment as discussed in the preceding paragraph, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of St. Mark's as of June 30, 2000 and 1999, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

Notes to Financial Statements

June 30, 2000 and 1999

---

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

St. Mark's High School (St. Mark's) was established by the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) to foster Catholic education, which is a creative and living process which seeks to develop the individual wholly and fully. St. Mark's is committed to creating the finest Catholic and Christian leaders by cultivating each student spiritually, socially, intellectually, and physically. Based upon the principles and values of the Gospels and traditions of Catholic doctrine, the St. Mark's program offers opportunities for religious formation and practice, a curriculum of academic excellence and a wide variety of extra- and co-curricular activities.

These statements present the operating results of St. Mark's, which is an operating segment of the Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc., which is owned by the Diocese.

Basis of Reporting

St. Mark's reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-For-Profit Organizations." Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met, and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted. As of June 30, 1999 there were no temporarily restricted net assets.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions. As of June 30, 2000 and 1999 there were no permanently restricted net assets.

Contributions

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made." Noncash contributions are recorded at fair market value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less and a no-penalty certificate of deposit that is convertible on demand. St. Mark's investments in cash and cash equivalents are interest-bearing. At times, these amounts may exceed federally insured limits.

Investments

Investments are stated at fair value. Investment income on the statement of activities includes interest and dividends and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

St. Mark's participates with the Diocese and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Mellon Trust. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income, equity securities, and mutual funds.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Pledges Receivable

Unconditional promises to give cash and other assets are reported at fair value as pledges receivable and contributions in the period the promise is received. Unconditional promises that are expected to be collected in future years are recorded at the net present value of their estimated future cash flows. The discounts on those amounts are computed using risk-free interest rates applicable to the years in which the promises are received. Amortization of the discounts is included in contribution revenue. Conditional promises are not included as support until the conditions are substantially met.

Land, Buildings, and Improvements

Land, buildings, and certain land and building improvements are capitalized based on historical cost. All other long-lived assets are expensed at the time of purchase.

Accrued Liabilities - Faculty Contracts Payable

St. Mark's Professional Employee Contracts for faculty are for the ten-month period from August 20, 1999 through June 20, 2000 and August 20, 1998 through June 20, 1999, respectively. Many faculty voluntarily elect to receive their payment for services over twelve months, rather than ten. At year-end, St. Mark's records a liability for earned but unpaid faculty compensation including the related payroll taxes. As of June 30, 2000 and 1999, St. Mark's had accrued liabilities-faculty contracts payable of $641,157 and $622,765, respectively.

Deferred Income

Deferred income of St. Mark's represents tuition, fees, bus deposits and grants received in advance for the fiscal 2000 - 2001 and 1999 - 2000 school years.

Vacation

St. Mark's recognized the cost of vested vacation pay as earned by employees.

Contributed Services

St. Mark's receives services from unpaid volunteers in organizing activities for students and various St. Mark's programs. The value of these contributed services is not reflected in the accompanying financial statements since the services provided by the volunteers do not require specialized skills and would not be purchased by St. Mark's if the volunteer services were not available.

Description of Program and Supporting Services

The following program and supporting services are included in the accompanying financial statements:

Academic programs. Provide quality secondary education based on a core curriculum and a broad spectrum of electives which enables students to recognize and challenge their individual abilities; foster knowledge; stimulate interest; facilitate a dynamic, creative curriculum that motivates students to think critically, analyze data and draw conclusions; provide pastoral care program and religious education as an integral part of student's education; instill a distinctive Catholic atmosphere of lived Gospel values and principles and the traditions of Catholicism; include facilities, classrooms, and laboratories with the technology and equipment needed to educate for future learning and life.

Auxiliary programs. Includes the operations of the bus program, cafeteria, vending machines, parking, convent, magazine drive, facility rental and commission from bookstore sales.

Student activities. Includes all extracurricular activities such as proms, dances, graduation expenses, athletic contests, theater productions, and retreat expenses.

Expense Allocation

The costs of providing various programs and other activities have been summarized on a functional basis in the Statements of Activities and in the Statements of Functional Expenses. Accordingly, certain costs have been allocated among the programs and supporting services benefited.

Reclassifications

Certain balance in 1999 statements have been reclassified to conform to the 2000 presentation.

2. Concentration of Credit Risk

The financial instruments that are exposed to concentrations of credit risk consist primarily of cash equivalents. The cash equivalents are high-quality, short-term securities placed with an institution with high credit ratings. Accordingly, at June 30, 2000 and 1999, St. Mark's had cash of $1,093,361 and $1,730,821, respectively, deposited with PNC Bank.

Student Activities Fund	16,524	-
	$ 77,076	$ 60,138

9. Refundable Advances

The State of Delaware transportation grant is classified as an agency or "pass through" transaction. Accordingly, St. Mark's does not record revenue or expense from this program. The activity in the refundable advance account is reported as follows:

	2000	1999
Refundable advances, beginning of year	$ 220,066	$ 214,931
Grant awards received	211,561	197,162
Grant expenditures	(200,321)	(192,027)
Refundable advances, end of year	$ 231,306	$ 220,066

10. Note Payable

The Diocese advanced $400,000 to St. Mark's for improvement to its roof. This loan is in the form of a note payable, and is non-interest bearing with remaining repayment terms of $45,000 per year through 2005. The balance as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 was $270,000 and $315,000, respectively.

11. Leases

St. Mark's leases copiers under operating leases expiring in various years through March 2001. Rental expense for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 was $28,401 and $29,975, respectively.

Minimum future rental payment under non-cancelable operating leases is $16,505 for the year ending June 30, 2001.

12. Pension Plans

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including St. Mark's. The Plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined in the Plan document. The Diocese incurred expense on behalf of St. Mark's of approximately $310,000 and $300,000 for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively. St. Mark's does not reimburse the Diocese for this cost. Accordingly, St. Mark's recorded this transaction as public support-Diocesan contributions and an increase in benefit expense.

13. Related Party Transactions

Certain members of St. Mark's board are also board members of the Diocese, a related entity.

St. Mark's receives contributions and grants from the Diocese and the Catholic Diocese Foundation. These entities are related to St. Mark's through common control. A summary of the contributions and grants received from these entities for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 is as follows:

	2000	1999
Revenue and support - Diocesan contributions:
Catholic Diocese of Wilmington:

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc.
St. Mark's High School
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the accompanying balance sheets of St. Mark's High School (St. Mark's) as of June 30, 1998 and 1997, and the related statements of activities, functional expenses, and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of St. Mark's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

Except as discussed in the following paragraphs, we conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

We were unable to satisfy ourselves as to the cost of sales for the year ended June 30, 1997 in the amount of $537,799, as we were not present at the physical inventory. St. Mark's records do not permit the application of other auditing procedures to bookstore inventory.

In addition, due to the nature of the cash receipts process at the bookstore, we were unable to satisfy ourselves as to the completeness of bookstore sales for the year ended June 30, 1997 in the amount of $624,720.

St. Mark's does not record depreciation on buildings and building improvements included in land, buildings and building improvements in the accompanying balance sheets that, in our opinion, should be recorded in order to conform to generally accepted accounting principles. Also, certain equipment has been expensed at the time of purchase that, in our opinion, should be capitalized in order to conform to generally accepted accounting principles. If buildings and building improvements were depreciated and certain equipment were capitalized, land, buildings and building improvements and net assets would be decreased by approximately $5,347,000 and $4,428,000 at June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively. Additionally, changes in net assets would decrease by approximately $152,000 and increase by approximately $429,000 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively.

In our opinion, except for the effects of such adjustments, if any, as might have been determined to be necessary had we been able to verify the quantity of bookstore inventory on hand or apply other auditing procedures to satisfy ourselves as to the inventory quantity, and the completeness of bookstore sales, and except for the effects of not recording depreciation on buildings and building improvements and not capitalizing certain equipment, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of St. Mark's as of June 30, 1998 and 1997, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies:

Nature of Operations:

St. Mark's High School (St. Mark's) was established by the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) to foster Catholic education, which is a creative and living process which seeks to develop the individual wholly and fully. St. Mark's is committed to creating the finest Catholic and Christian leaders by cultivating each student spiritually, socially, intellectually, and physically. Based upon the principles and values of the Gospels and traditions of Catholic doctrine, the St. Mark's program offers opportunities for religious formation and practice, a curriculum of academic excellence and a wide variety of extra- and co-curricular activities.

These statements present the operating results of St. Mark's, which is an operating segment of the Diocese of Wilmington School, Inc.

Basis of Reporting:

St. Mark's reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation:

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-For-Profit Organizations." Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets are those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.

Financial Statement Presentation, continued:

- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met, and most activity and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

Contributions:

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made." Noncash contributions are recorded at fair market value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions, which are received and expended within the same fiscal year, are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Cash and Cash Equivalents:

Cash and cash equivalents include all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less. St. Mark's investments in cash and cash equivalent are interest-bearing. At times, these amounts may exceed federally insured limits.

Pledges Receivable:

Unconditional promises to give cash and other assets are reported at fair value as pledges receivable and contributions in the period the promise is received. Unconditional promises that are expected to be collected in future years are recorded at the net present value of their estimates future cash flows. The discounts on those amounts are computed using risk-free interest rates applicable to the years in which the promises are received. Amortization of the discounts is included in contribution revenue. Conditional promises are not included as support until the conditions are substantially met. St. Mark's is not the recipient of any conditional pledges.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, continued:

Land, Building, and Improvements:

Land, buildings, and certain land and building improvements are capitalized based on historical cost. All other long-lived assets are expensed at the time of purchase.

Statement of Financial Accounting Standard No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-For-Profit Organizations," requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. St. Mark's has not adopted SFAS 93.

Accrued Liabilities - Faculty Contracts Payable:

St. Mark's Professional Employee Contracts for faculty are for the ten-month period from August 20, 1997 through June 20, 1998 and August 20, 1996 through June 20, 1997, respectively. Many faculty voluntarily elect to receive their payment for services over twelve months, rather than ten. At year-end, St. Mark's records a liability for earned but unpaid faculty compensation including the related payroll taxes.

Deferred Income:

Deferred income of St. Mark's represents tuition and fees received in advance for the fiscal 1998 - 1999 and 1997 - 1998 school years, respectively.

Contributed Services:

St. Mark's receives services from unpaid volunteers in organizing activities for students and various St. Mark's programs. The value of these contributed services is not reflected in the accompanying financial statements since the services provided by the volunteers do not require specialized skills and would not be purchased by St. Mark's if the volunteer services were not available.

Description of Program and Supporting Services:

The following program and supporting services are included in the accompanying financial statements:

Academic programs - Provide quality secondary education based on a core curriculum and a broad spectrum of electives which enables students to recognize and challenge their individual abilities; foster knowledge; stimulate interest; facilitate a dynamic, creative curriculum that motivates students to think critically, analyze data and draw conclusions; provide pastoral care program and religious education as an integral part of student's education; instill a distinctive Catholic atmosphere of lived Gospel values and principles and the traditions of Catholicism; include facilities, classrooms, and laboratories with the technology and equipment needed to educate for future learning and life.

Description of Program and Supporting Services, continued:

Auxiliary programs - Includes the operations of the cafeteria, vending machines, parking, convent and the bookstore (for 1997 only).

Student activities - Includes all extracurricular activities such as proms, dances, graduation expenses, athletic contests, theater productions, and retreat expenses.

Expense Allocation:

The costs of providing various programs and other activities have been summarized on a functional basis in the Statements of Activities and in the Statements of Functional Expenses. Accordingly, certain costs have been allocated among the programs and supporting services benefited.

2. Concentration of Credit Risk:

The financial instruments that are exposed to concentrations of credit risk consist primarily of cash equivalents. The cash equivalents are high-quality, short-term securities placed with an institution with high credit ratings. Accordingly, at June 30, 1998 and 1997, St. Mark's had cash of $930,815 and $517,884, respectively, deposited with PNC Bank.

3. Tuition Receivable:

At June 30, 1998 and 1997, tuition receivable consisted of the following:

	1998	1997
Tuition receivable	$ 646,314	$ 623,002
Less: Allowance for uncollectibles	(525,000)	(471,000)
	$ 121,314	$ 152,002

4. Pledges Receivable:

At June 30, 1998 and 1997, pledges receivable consisted of the following unconditional promises to give:

	1998	1997
Capital campaign	$ 105,863	$ 50,705
Less: Allowance for uncollectibles	(11,661)	(12,261)
	$ 94,202	$ 38,444

One to three years	52,525	22,261
Total	$ 105,863	$ 50,705

5. Land, Buildings, and Improvements:

St. Mark's building and the land upon which it sits are owned by the Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc., of which St. Mark's is an operating segment. In lieu of rental expense, St. Mark's is responsible for all annual repairs, maintenance and capital expenditures.

At June 30, 1998 and 1997, land, buildings, and improvements consisted of the following:

	1998	1997
Land and improvements	$ 783,500	$ 783,500
Building and improvements	9,641,105	9,627,604
	$ 10,424,605	$ 10,411,104

6. Deferred Income:

At June 30, 1998 and 1997 deferred income consisted of the following:

	1998	1997
Tuition and fees	$ 653,926	$ 347,251
Summer/other Remedial Program	12,550	2,325
Bus contracts	43,359	          
	$ 709,835	$ 349,576

7. Third-Party Funds:

Third-party funds represent money held and accounted for by the finance office of St. Mark' for the benefit of various organizations and clubs.

As of June 30, 1998 and 1997 these funds were the property of the following:

	1998	1997
Yearbook Fund	$ 10,898	$ 10,127
Athletics Association Fund	13,587	7,266
Band Boosters Fund	6,890	11,896
Advance Placement Fund	6,467	5,324

Field Trip Fund	1,740	1,328
Science Fund		131
	$ 50,038	$ 45,802

8. Refundable Advances:

State funding is classified as refundable advances until expended for the purpose of the grants since they are conditional promises to give. When the conditions of the grants are met, the grant becomes unconditional and is recognized as revenue. The activity in the refundable advance account is reported as follows:

	1998	1997
Refundable advances, beginning of year	$ 204,250	$ 18,988
Grant awards received	206,936	377,175

Refund issued	(5,489)
	$ 214,931	$ 204,250

9. Notes Payable:

During the year ended June 30, 1997, an advance from the Diocese, a related party, in the amount of $491,000 was forgiven and recorded as an increase to net assets in the statement of activities.

Also, during the year ended June 30, 1997, the Diocese advanced $400,000 to St. Mark's for improvement to its roof. This loan is in the form of a note payable, and is non-interest bearing with repayment terms of $40,000 in 1997 and $45,000 per year for 8 years (1998 - 2005). The balance as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 was $360,000 and $400,000, respectively. In addition, notes payable also includes notes on three copiers, totaling $0 and $40,823, as of June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively, for which the copiers are collateral for the notes.

10. Leases:

St. Mark's leases eight copiers under operating leases expiring in various years through March 1999. Rental expense for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was $26,791 and $10,529, respectively.

Minimum future rental payment under non-cancelable operating leases are as follows:

1999	$ 29,603
2000	27,547
2001	16,505
Total	$ 73,655

11. Pension Plans:

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including St. Mark's. The Plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined in the Plan document. The Diocese incurred pension expense on behalf of St. Mark's of approximately $254,000 and $240,000 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively. St. Mark's does not reimburse the Diocese for this cost. As a result, no expenses related to this plan have been reflected in the accompanying financial statements of St. Mark's.

The Diocese has also established a revocable Priests' Retirement and Welfare Trust to cover the health and retirement cost of the clergy of the Diocese. St. Mark's High School makes a contribution to this Trust for the benefit of the priest employed by the School. The contribution for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was $850 and $650, respectively. St. Mark's also contributed $9,600 and $12,160, respectively, to religious orders towards the retirement of religious women (i.e. nuns) working at St. Mark's.

12. Related Party Transactions:

Certain members of St. Mark's board are also board members of the Diocese, a related entity.

St. Mark's receives contributions and grants from the Diocese and the Catholic Diocese Foundation. These entities are related to St. Mark's through common control. A summary of the contributions and grants received from these entities for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 is as follows:

	1998	1997
Revenue and support - Diocesan contributions:
Catholic Diocese of Wilmington:
Capital campaign	$ 7,600	$ 71,065
Annual Catholic appeal	175,000	171,600
St. Mark's reserve fund	24,400
Scholarships	40,836	14,271
Vision scholarships	2,300	12,300
Catholic Diocese Foundation:
Capital projects	56,239	43,260
	$ 306,375	$ 312,496

The Diocese also paid St. Mark's convent rent of $2,580 and $4,800, respectively, which St. Mark's reports as auxiliary program revenue.

St. Mark's reimburses the Diocese for certain expenses the Diocese pays on its behalf. These expenses consist of computer maintenance contracts and clergy health insurance and clergy pension plan contributions.

The Diocese provides and absorbs the full cost of life insurance, long-term disability, pension benefits, and Blood Bank dues for all full-time employees of St. Mark's. The cost of these benefits amounted to approximately $300,000 and $283,000 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively.

For the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, St. Mark's contributed $180,000 and $167,800, respectively, to the "St. Mark's High School Capital Replacement Fund." This fund is held and administered by the Diocese. St. Mark's has received contributions from the fund on an annual basis in varying amounts.

During the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, St. Mark's made contributions of $124,168 and $25,000, respectively, to the "St. Mark's High School Long Range Plan Operating Reserve Fund." This fund is held and administered by the Diocese.

During the year ended June 30, 1998, St. Mark's made a contribution of $32,475 to the "St. Mark's Educational Trust." This fund is held and administered by the Diocese.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Trustees and Board of Directors
Catholic Charities, Inc. and Related Entities
Wilmington, Delaware

In our opinion, the accompanying combined balance sheets and the related combined statements of activities, functional expenses and of cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Catholic Charities, Inc. and Related Entities (Charities) at June 30, 2002 and 2001, and the changes in their net assets and their cash flows for each of the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. These financial statements are the responsibility of Charities' management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these statements in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which require that we plan and perform the audits to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

Our audits were conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the combined financial statements taken as a whole. The combining information is presented for purposes of additional analysis of the combined financial statements rather than to present the financial position and results of operations of the individual companies. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the financial position and results of operations of the individual companies. However, the combining information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audits of the combined financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the combined financial statements taken as a whole.

I. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

Catholic Charities, Inc. (Charities, Inc.) is an affiliate corporation of the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese). Charities, Inc. is a not-for-profit organization whose mission is to address human suffering and promote and restore the well being of people and society by providing, as a primary focus, caring service to persons in need, bringing together community members to become informed about and to take action on critical social issues, and advocate publicly for social policies which enhance human dignity and safeguard basic human rights. Charities, Inc. is the recipient of numerous government grants and contracts which are used to support certain major programs.

The related entities of Charities, Inc. provide residential group care for school-aged children in a neighborhood atmosphere. The related entities are reimbursed by the government at a predetermined rate.

During the year ended June 30, 2001, Children's Home began operating the pre-adolescent boys program. The expenses incurred for this program for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 were $620,301 and $369,994, respectively. These expenses are included on the combined statement of activities under Children's Home, Inc. This program is reimbursed by a government contract. This revenue is included on the combined statement of activities under Government Grants and Contracts.

Basis of Reporting

The combined financial statements include the accounts of Catholic Charities, Inc. and its related entities, Seton Villa, Inc., Siena Hall, Inc., and Children's Home, Inc. (Charities). Intercompany transactions and balances have been eliminated in combination.

Charities reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates. Certain reclassifications have been made to prior year amounts to conform with current year classifications.

The costs of providing the various programs and other activities of Catholic Charities and related entities are presented on a functional basis in the Statement of Activities. Accordingly, certain costs have been allocated. These allocations are presented in the Statement of Functional Expenses.

Financial Statement Presentation

Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset classifications follows:

Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.

Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts whose use has been limited by donors to a specific time period and purpose and whose restrictions have not been met.

Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

All net assets are either unrestricted or temporarily restricted as of June 30, 2002 and 2001.

Contributions

Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statements of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

An allocation of $579,705 has been received by Charities, Inc. from the United Way of Delaware and is included in the Combined Statements of Activities under United Ways. The funds received were used, as stipulated by the United Way of Delaware, for the following programs: Counseling, Substance Abuse, AIDS Ministry, Casa San Francisco, Crisis Alleviation and Immigration.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less. Charities' investments in cash and cash equivalents are interest bearing. At times, these amounts may exceed federally insured limits.

Assets Whose Use Is Limited

Assets whose use is limited includes funds received by Charities from government agencies. These amounts represent funds to be distributed to individuals as "direct assistance" pursuant to program requirements as determined by the government, and are not available for use by Charities in current operations.

Funds of Others

Charities collects and distributes funds for the benefit of others in conjunction with the administration of certain government funded programs. Charities' sole responsibility with regard to these funds is in the capacity of acting as an agent.

Pooled Investments

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statements of activities includes interest, dividends, and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

Catholic Charities, Inc. and Related Entities
Notes to Combined Financial Statements
June 30, 2002 and 2001

Charities participates with the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Mellon Trust. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income, equity securities and mutual funds.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the combined financial statements.

Vacation

Charities recognizes the cost of vested vacation pay as earned by employees.

Contributed Services and Goods

Charities receives services from unpaid volunteers. The value of these contributed services is not reflected in the financial statements since the services provided by the volunteers do not require specialized skills and would not be purchased if volunteer services were not available.

Charities receives donations for its thrift shop. Due to the difficulty in valuing donations, the fair value of the donations is recognized upon sale by the thrift shop.

2. Pooled Investments

The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 was as follows:

	2002	2001
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 188,848	$ 171,805
Fixed income	3,801,466	4,106,541
Domestic equity	6,794,996	8,077,870
International equity	1,985,713	2,039,493
Total pooled investments	$12,771,023	$14,395,709

The fair value of these investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 2002 and 2001.

Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 consisted of the following:

	2002	2001
Interest and dividends	$ 315,816	$ 404,876
Net appreciation (depreciation)	(1,421,939)	(790,916)
Pooled investment income (loss)	$ (1,106,123)	$ (386,040)

The pooled investment income was net of custodial and advisory fees in the amount of $91,270 and $95,375 for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively.

June 30, 2002 and 2001

3. Land, Building, and Equipment and Depreciation

Land, building and equipment are stated at historical cost or fair value at the date of donation, less accumulated depreciation. Depreciation is calculated on the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets. Land, building, and equipment and accumulated depreciation as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 were as follows:

	2002	2001
Land	$ 339,432	$ 339,432
Building and improvements	5,033,405	4,933,302
Furniture and equipment	1,250,871	1,192,260

	7,155,956	7,023,942
Accumulated depreciation	(3,899,151)	(3,674,517)
	$ 3,256,805	$ 3,349,425

4. Pension Plan

Charities sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan (the Plan) that covers substantially all employees who qualify as to length of employment. The Plan benefits are based on 1¼% of the final average earnings multiplied by the total years of eligible participation as defined in the Plan document. Contributions to the Plan are intended to provide not only for benefits attributed to service to date, but also for those expected to be earned in the future.

The changes in benefit obligations and plan assets for the plan for 2002 and 2001 are as follows:

	2002	2001
Components of net periodic pension (benefit) cost:
Service cost	$ 176,783	$ 192,315
Interest cost	181,847	168,516
Return on plan assets	(282,858)	(320,175)

---

Charities utilizes and maintains several buildings owned by the Catholic Diocese Foundation (the Foundation). The agreement between the Foundation and Charities is for an indefinite period of time with no charge for rental fees. The estimated fair value of the contributed facilities usage is not significant and has not been recorded.

8. Income Taxes

Charities is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Trustees and Board of Directors
Catholic Charities, Inc. and Related Entities

In our opinion, the accompanying combined balance sheets and the related combined statements of activities, functional expenses and of cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Catholic Charities, Inc. and Related Entities (Charities) at June 30, 2000 and 1999, and the changes in their net assets and their cash flows for each of the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. These financial statements are the responsibility of Charities' management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these statements in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which require that we plan and perform the audits to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed above.

Our audits were conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the combined financial statements taken as a whole. The combining information is presented for purposes of additional analysis of the combined financial statements rather than to present the financial position and results of operations of the individual companies. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the financial position and results of operations of the individual companies. However, the combining information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audits of the combined financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the combined financial statements taken as a whole.

Notes to Combined Financial Statements

June 30, 2000 and 1999

---

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

Catholic Charities, Inc. is a not-for-profit organization whose mission is to address human suffering and promote and restore the well being of people and society by providing, as a primary focus, caring service to persons in need, bringing together community members to become informed about and to take action on critical social issues, and advocate publicly for social policies which enhance human dignity and safeguard basic human rights. Charities, Inc. is the recipient of numerous government grants and contracts which are used to support certain major programs.

The related entities of Charities, Inc. provide residential group care for school-aged children in a neighborhood atmosphere. The related entities are reimbursed by the government at a predetermined rate based on the number of children served, plus a portion of related administrative expenses.

Basis of Reporting

The combined financial statements include the accounts of Catholic Charities, Inc. and its related entities, Seton Villa, Inc., Siena Hall, Inc., and Children's Home, Inc. (Charities). Intercompany transactions and balances have been eliminated in combination.

Charities reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates. Certain reclassifications have been made to prior year amounts to conform with current year classifications.

Financial Statement Presentation

The combined financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, Financial Statements of Not-for-Profit Organizations. Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

Unrestricted Net Assets are those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.

Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts whose use has been limited by donors to a specific time period and purpose and whose restrictions have not been met.

Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

All net assets are either unrestricted or temporarily restricted as of June 30, 2000 and 1999.

Contributions

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made". Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statements of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less.

Assets Whose Use Is Limited

Assets whose use is limited includes funds received by Charities from government agencies. These amounts represent funds to be distributed to individuals as "direct assistance" pursuant to program requirements as determined by the government, and are not available for use by Charities in current operations.

Funds of Others

Charities collects and distributes funds for the benefit of others in conjunction with the administration of certain government funded programs. Charities' sole responsibility with regard to these funds is in the capacity of acting as an agent.

Pooled Investments

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statements of activities includes interest, dividends, and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

Charities participates with the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Mellon Trust. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income, equity securities and mutual funds.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the combined financial statements.

Vacation

Charities recognizes the cost of vested vacation pay as earned by employees.

Catholic Charities, Inc. and Related Entities
Notes to Combined Financial Statements
June 30, 2000 and 1999

Contributed Services and Goods

Charities receives services from unpaid volunteers. The value of these contributed services is not reflected in the financial statements since the services provided by the volunteers do not require specialized skills and would not be purchased if volunteer services were not available.

Charities receives donations for its thrift shop. Due to the difficulty in valuing donations, the fair value of the donations is recognized upon sale by the thrift shop.

2. Concentration of Credit Risk

Charities maintains virtually all of its cash balances in one regional financial institution. A substantial portion of these balances in excess of FDIC limits is invested in an overnight repurchase agreement instrument. Charities believes it is not exposed to any significant credit risk by this arrangement.

3. Pooled Investments

The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 was as follows:

	2000	1999
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 19,960	$ 52,550
Fixed income	4,824,832	4,023,698
Domestic equity	8,274,482	8,266,807
International equity	2,522,547	2,062,734
Total pooled investments	$15,641,821	$14,405,789

The fair value of these investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 2000 and 1999.

Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 consisted of the following:

	2000	1999
Interest and dividends	$ 261,525	$ 451,380
Net appreciation	1,602,761	549,530
Pooled investment income	$1,864,286	$1,000,910

The pooled investment income was net of custodial and advisory fees in the amount of $50,999 and $55,549 for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively.

Notes to Combined Financial Statements
June 30, 2000 and 1999

4. Land, Building, and Equipment and Depreciation

Land, building and equipment are stated at historical cost or fair value at the date of donation, less accumulated depreciation. Depreciation is calculated on the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets. Land, building, and equipment and accumulated depreciation as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 were as follows:

	2000	1999
Land	$ 339,432	$ 339,432
Building and improvements	4,782,765	4,763,338
Furniture and equipment	1,152,103	1,087,100
Vehicles	542,970	558,459
	6,817,270	6,748,329
Accumulated depreciation	(3,370,458)	(3,035,588)
	$ 3,446,812	$ 3,712,741

5. Pension Plan

Charities sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan (the Plan) that covers substantially all employees who qualify as to length of employment. The Plan benefits are based on 1¼% of the final average earnings multiplied by the total years of eligible participation as defined in the Plan document. Contributions to the Plan are intended to provide not only for benefits attributed to service to date, but also for those expected to be earned in the future.

The changes in benefit obligations and plan assets for the plan for 2000 and 1999 are as follows:

	2000	1999
Components of net periodic pension (benefit) cost:
Service cost	$ 179,734	$ 183,825
Interest cost	169,790	178,815

Notes to Combined Financial Statements
June 30, 2000 and 1999

The weighted-average discount rate used in determining the actuarial present value of the projected benefit obligation was 7.0% for 2000 and 1999. The average rate of increase in future compensation levels used in determining the actuarial present value of the projected benefit obligation was 4.0% for 2000 and 5.0% for 1999. The expected long-term rate of return on assets was 7.0% for 2000 and 10.4% for 1999. For the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, Charities contributed $17,675 and $67,636, respectively, to the Plan.

Effective for the year ended June 30, 2000, Plan assets consist principally of mutual funds and fixed income investments with Mellon Trust, the custodian.

6. Grants Received for Benefit of Others

For the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, Charities recorded $4,035,950 and $3,108,299, respectively, in grant receipts that were subsequently disbursed as direct assistance to individuals under the following programs:

	2000	1999
Child and Adult Care Food Program	$1,023,832	$1,038,955
Energy Assistance	2,955,811	2,003,897
Foster Care	56,307	65,447
	$4,035,950	$3,108,299

7. Leases

Charities leases various facilities and equipment on a year-to-year and extended basis. All leases are classified as operating leases and expire over the next five years. Total rental expenses for all operating leases was $216,310 and $211,764 for 2000 and 1999, respectively. Minimum future rental payments required under non-cancelable operating leases are summarized as follows:

8. Related Party Transactions

Members of the Board of Trustees are also officers of the Diocese.

During the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, Charities received approximately $999,000 and $940,000, respectively, from the Diocese.

Charities utilizes and maintains several buildings owned by the Catholic Diocese Foundation (the Foundation). The agreement between the Foundation and Charities is for an indefinite period of time with no charge for rental fees. The estimated fair value of the contributed facilities usage is not significant and not recorded.

9. Income Taxes

To the Board of Trustees and
Board of Directors of
Catholic Charities, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the accompanying balance sheets of Catholic Charities, Inc. as of June 30, 1998 and 1997, and the related statements of activities, functional expenses and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of Catholic Charities, Inc.'s management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Catholic Charities, Inc. as of June 30, 1998 and 1997, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated September 18, 1998 on our consideration of Catholic Charities, Inc.'s internal control over financial reporting and our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grants.

Our audit was performed for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements of Catholic Charities, Inc. taken as a whole. The accompanying schedule of expenditures of federal awards is presented for purposes of additional analysis as required by U.S. Office of Management and Budget Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, and is not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies:

Nature of Operations:

Catholic Charities, Inc. (Catholic Charities) is a not-for-profit organization whose mission is to address human suffering and promote and restore the well being of people and society by providing, as a primary focus, caring service to persons in need, bringing together community members to become informed about and to take action on critical social issues, and advocate publicly for social policies which enhance human dignity and safeguard basic human rights. Catholic Charities is the recipient of numerous government grants and contracts which are used to support certain major programs. Given the uncertainty surrounding government funding of the Energy Assistance and Child and Adult Care Food Program, it is possible that support of these two programs may be reduced or discontinued.

Basis of Reporting:

Catholic Charities reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation:

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-for-Profit Organizations". Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets are those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts whose use has been limited by donors to a specific time period and purpose and whose restrictions have not been met.

Financial Statement Presentation, continued:

- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

All net assets are either unrestricted or temporarily restricted as of June 30, 1998 and 1997.

Contributions:

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made". Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Cash and Cash Equivalents:

Cash and cash equivalents include all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less.

Assets Whose Use is Limited:

Assets whose use is limited includes funds received by Catholic Charities from government agencies. These amounts represent funds to be distributed to individuals as "direct assistance" pursuant to program requirements as determined by the government, and are not available for use by Catholic Charities in current operations.

Assets Held for Related Organization:

Assets held for related organization consists of amounts held by Catholic Charities on behalf of a related organization which Catholic Charities administers and manages for that organization. These amounts are not available for use by Catholic Charities in current operations.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, continued:

Funds of Others:

Catholic Charities collects and distributes funds for the benefit of others in conjunction with the administration of certain government funded programs. Catholic Charities sole responsibility with regard to these funds is in the capacity of acting as an agent.

Pooled Investments:

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statements of activities includes interest, dividends, and net appreciation. Net appreciation includes realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

Catholic Charities participates with the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Delaware Trust Capital Management. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

Catholic Charities utilizes a total return policy to determine the level of support for operations and capital expenditures from pooled investments. The level of support is determined annually.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Vacation:

Catholic Charities recognizes the cost of vested vacation pay as earned by employees.

Contributed Services:

Catholic Charities receives services from non-specialized volunteers, which amounts are not recorded in these financial statements.

Catholic Charities records in revenues and expenses, the difference between the estimated fair value of donated facilities usage costs and amounts expended for their use.

2. Concentration of Credit Risk:

Catholic Charities maintains virtually all of its cash balances in one regional financial institution. A substantial portion of these balances in excess of FDIC limits is invested in an overnight repurchase agreement instrument. The Organization believes it is not exposed to any significant credit risk by this arrangement.

3. Pooled Investments:

Catholic Charities invests in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds. The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 was as follows:

	1998	1997
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 21,290	$ 14,783
Fixed income	689,146	643,224
Domestic equity	1,538,702	1,302,034
International equity	158,455	139,528
Total	$ 2,407,593	$ 2,099,569

The fair value of these investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 1998 and 1997.

Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was comprised of the following:

	1998	1997
Interest and dividends	$ 62,006	$ 61,445
Net appreciation	317,356	316,998
Pooled investment income	$ 379,362	$ 378,443

The pooled investment income was net of custodial and advisory fees in the amount of $14,806 and $13,787 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively.

	2,930,689	2,792,262
Accumulated depreciation	(767,672)	(661,809)
	$ 2,163,017	$ 2,130,453

5. Pension Plan:

Catholic Charities sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan (the Plan) that covers substantially all employees who qualify as to length of employment. The Plan benefits are based on 1¼% of the final average earnings multiplied by the total years of eligible participation as defined in the Plan document. Contributions to the Plan are intended to provide not only for benefits attributed to service to date, but also for those expected to be earned in the future.

8. Related Party Transactions:

Members of the Board of Trustees and Board of Directors of Catholic Charities are also members of the Boards of Seton Villa, Inc., Siena Hall, Inc., and Children's Home, Inc.

Two members of the Board of Trustees are also officers of the Diocese.

During the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, Catholic Charities received approximately $891,000 and $852,000 from the Diocese.

Catholic Charities is reimbursed by Seton Villa, Inc., Siena Hall, Inc., and Children's Home, Inc. for various administration and support activities rendered on their behalf. Reimbursements from these related organizations is reflected as a reduction in management and general expenses on the Statement of Functional Expenses.

Catholic Charities utilizes and maintains several buildings owned by the Catholic Diocese Foundation (Foundation). The agreement between the Foundation and Catholic Charities is for an indefinite period of time with no charge for rental fees. The estimated fair value of the contributed facilities usage is not significant.

9. Income Taxes:

Catholic Charities is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

10. Recently Issued Financial Standards:

In February 1998, the Financial Accounting Standards Board issued Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 132, "Employers' Disclosures about Pensions and other Postretirement Benefits." (SFAS 132), which reduces employers' disclosures about pension and other postretirement benefits. The effective date for implementation of SFAS 132 is for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 1997. Catholic Charities did not elect for early implementation of SFAS 132.

Note to Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards for the year ended June 30, 1998

1. Basis of Presentation:

The accompanying schedule of expenditures of federal awards includes the federal grant activity of Catholic Charities, Inc. and is presented on the accrual basis of accounting. The information in this schedule is presented in accordance with the requirements of OMB Circular A-133, "Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations." Therefore, some amounts presented in this schedule may differ from amounts presented in, or used in the preparation of the basic financial statements.

Report on Compliance and on Internal Control over Financial Reporting Based on an Audit of Financial Statements Performed in Accordance with Government Auditing Standards

To the Board of Trustees and
Board of Directors of
Catholic Charities, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the financial statements of Catholic Charities, Inc. as of and for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated September 18, 1998. We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance:

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether Catholic Charities, Inc.'s financial statements are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit and, accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards.

Internal Control over Financial Reporting:

In planning and performing our audit, we considered Catholic Charities, Inc.'s internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control over financial reporting that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses. However, we noted other matters involving the internal control over financial reporting, which we have reported to management of Catholic Charities, Inc. in a separate letter dated October 20, 1998.

This report is intended for the information of the Board of Trustees and Board of Directors, management and federal awarding agencies. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Report on Compliance With Requirements Applicable to Each Major Program and on Internal Control over Compliance in Accordance with OMB Circular A-133

To the Board of Trustees and
Board of Directors of
Catholic Charities, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

Compliance:

We have audited the compliance of Catholic Charities, Inc. with the types of compliance requirements described in the U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133 Compliance Supplement that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the year ended June 30, 1998. Catholic Charities, Inc.'s major federal programs are identified in the summary of auditor's results section of the accompanying schedule of findings and questioned costs. Compliance with the requirements of laws, regulations, contracts and grants applicable to each of its major federal programs is the responsibility of Catholic Charities, Inc.'s management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on Catholic Charities, Inc.'s compliance based on our audit.

We conducted our audit of compliance in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards; the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States; and OMB Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations. Those standards and OMB Circular A-133 require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether noncompliance with the types of compliance requirements referred to above that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program occurred. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence about Catholic Charities, Inc.'s compliance with those requirements and performing such other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion. Our audit does not provide a legal determination on Catholic Charities, Inc.'s compliance with those requirements.

In our opinion, Catholic Charities, Inc. complied, in all material respects, with the requirements referred to above that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the year ended June 30, 1998.

Internal Control over Compliance:

The management of Catholic Charities, Inc. is responsible for establishing and maintaining effective internal control over compliance with requirements of laws, regulations, contracts and grants applicable to federal programs. In planning and performing our audit, we considered Catholic Charities, Inc.'s internal control over compliance with requirements that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on compliance and to test and report on internal control over compliance in accordance with OMB Circular A-133.

Our consideration of the internal control over compliance would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that noncompliance with applicable requirements of laws, regulations, contracts and grants that would be material in relation to a major federal program being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over compliance and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses.

This report is intended for the information of the Board of Trustees and Board of Directors, management and federal awarding agencies. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheets and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets and cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc. (the Press) at June 30, 2002 and 2001 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Press' management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these statements in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

Our audits were made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The supplemental schedule of administrative expenses for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc. (the Press) is an affiliate corporation of the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese). The Press publishes The Dialog, a Catholic information newspaper circulated to parishioners of churches in Delaware and the eastern shore of Maryland, and a Catholic Directory. A significant portion of its funding is derived from the Diocese.

Basis of Reporting

The Press reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation

Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset classifications follows:

Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.

Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted.

Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

All net assets of the Press are unrestricted as of June 30, 2002 and 2001.

Revenue Recognition

Advertising revenue is recognized when the papers and directories are distributed.

Computer Equipment

Computer equipment is recorded at cost. The Press records depreciation using the straight-line method. Computer equipment is depreciated over an estimated useful life of five years. At June 30, 2002 and 2001, all computer equipment is fully depreciated.

2. Pension Plan

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including the Press. The plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined in the Plan documents. Contributions to the plan for the Press' proportionate cost, which amounted to approximately $19,400 and $16,700 for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively, were provided entirely by the Diocese. No expenses related to this plan have been reflected in the financial statements of the Press since the amounts are not significant.

3. Related Party Transactions

Certain members of the Press' board are also board members of the Diocese, a related entity.

For the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, the Diocese provided funding in the amount of $467,701 and $425,183, respectively, to support the operations of the Press.

The Press reimburses the Diocese for wages, payroll taxes, health benefits, and expenses the Diocese disburses on behalf of the Press. For the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, these expenses totaled $332,289 and $305,567, respectively. Of these balances, unpaid amounts of approximately $55,000 and $53,000, respectively, are included in accounts payable and accrued expenses as of the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001.

The Diocese provides an office area for the Press. Rent expense charged for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 was $22,932 and $22,050, respectively, which is included in operating expenses on the statements of activities.

The Diocese pays, on behalf of the Press, the group term life insurance, long-term disability and pension benefits for all full time employees of the Press. The Diocese also provides administrative services for the Press. These expenses are not reimbursed or reflected on the financial statements of the Press since the amounts are not significant.

4. Income Taxes

The Press is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) for the Internal Revenue Code.

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheets and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets and cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc. (the Press) at June 30, 2000 and 1999 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Press' management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these statements in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed above.

Our audits were made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The supplemental schedule of operating expenses for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc. (the Press) is an affiliate corporation of the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese). The Press publishes The Dialog, a Catholic information newspaper circulated to parishioners of churches in Delaware and the eastern shore of Maryland, and a Catholic Directory. A significant portion of its funding is derived from the Diocese.

Basis of Reporting

The Press reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-for-Profit Organizations." Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.

Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted.

Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

All net assets of the Press are unrestricted as of June 30, 2000 and 1999.

Management Agreement

The Press had an agreement with the Cathedral Foundation/Baltimore Review for the management of the Press. The management fee for the year ended June 30, 1999 was approximately $38,000. This agreement terminated July 1, 1999.

Revenue Recognition

Advertising revenue is recognized when the papers and directories are distributed.

June 30, 2000 and 1999

---

Computer Equipment

Computer equipment is recorded at cost. The Press records depreciation using the straight-line method. Computer equipment is depreciated over an estimated useful life of five years.

2. Pension Plan

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including the Press. The plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined in the Plan documents. Contributions to the plan for the Press' proportionate cost, which amounted to approximately $13,800 and $10,850 for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively, were provided entirely by the Diocese. No expenses related to this plan have been reflected in the financial statements of the Press since the amounts are not significant.

3. Related Party Transactions

Certain members of the Press' board are also board members of the Diocese, a related entity.

For the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, the Diocese provided funding in the amount of $420,617 and $390,276, respectively, to support the operations of the Press.

The Press reimburses the Diocese for wages, payroll taxes, health benefits, and expenses the Diocese disburses on behalf of the Press. For the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, these expenses totaled $297,630 and $241,253, respectively. Of these balances, unpaid amounts of approximately $47,000 and $49,000, respectively, are included in accounts payable and accrued expenses as of the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999.

The Diocese provides an office area for the Press. Rent expense charged for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 was $20,988 and $21,866, respectively, which is included in operating expenses on the statements of activities.

The Diocese pays, on behalf of the Press, the group term life insurance, long-term disability and pension benefits for all full time employees of the Press. The Diocese also provides administrative services for the Press. These expenses are not reimbursed or reflected on the financial statements of the Press since the amounts are not significant.

4. Income Taxes

The Press is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) for the Internal Revenue Code.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheet and the related statements of activities and cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Catholic Press of Wilmington, Inc. (the Press) at June 30, 1998 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Press's management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit of these statements in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed above.

Our audit was made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The supplemental schedule of operating expenses for the year ended June 30, 1998 is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information for the year ended June 30, 1998 has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Trustees and Board of Directors
Children's Home, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheets and the related statements of revenue and functional expenses and of cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Children's Home, Inc. at June 30, 1998 and 1997, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for each of the two years in the period ended June 30, 1998, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Children's Home, Inc.'s management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these statements in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed above.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies:

Nature of Operations:

Children's Home, Inc. (Children's Home), located in Wilmington, Delaware, is a not-for-profit organization providing residential group care for school-aged children offering intensive treatment and supervision in a family-like atmosphere. Children's Home is the recipient of numerous government contracts and grants which are used to support its operations.

Basis of Reporting:

Children's Home reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation:

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-for-Profit Organizations". Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets are those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts whose use has been limited by donors to a specific time period and purpose and whose restrictions have not been met.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

All net assets of Children's Home are either unrestricted or temporarily restricted as of June 30, 1998 and 1997.

Contributions:

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made". Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Cash and Cash Equivalents:

Cash and cash equivalents include all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less.

Pooled Investments:

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statement of revenue and functional expenses includes interest, dividends, and net appreciation. Net appreciation includes realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

Children's Home participates with the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Delaware Trust Capital Management. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

Children's Home utilizes a total return policy to determine the level of support for operations and capital expenditures from pooled investments. The level of support is determined annually.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Vacation:

Children's Home recognizes the cost of vested vacation pay as earned by employees.

Contributed Services:

Children's Home receives services from non-specialized volunteers, which amounts are not recorded in these financial statements.

Children's Home records in revenues and expenses, the difference between the estimated fair value of donated facilities usage costs and amounts expended for their use.

2. Pledges Receivable:

At June 30, 1997, pledges receivable of $250,000 were substantially due within one year and entirely consist of unconditional promises to give. The pledges receivable are restricted to paying for capital additions and improvements and are included in temporarily restricted net assets. Unconditional promises to give are reported at fair values as pledges receivable and contributions in the period the promise is received. Children's Home is not the recipient of any conditional pledges.

3. Pooled Investments:

Children's Home invests in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds. The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 was as follows:

	1998	1997
Cash and cash equivalents	$ (32,818)	$ 35,846
Fixed income	1,209,250	1,145,975
Domestic equity	2,800,658	2,397,271
International equity	322,828	285,994
Total	$ 4,299,918	$ 3,865,086

The fair value of investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 1998 and 1997.

Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was comprised of the following:

	1998	1997
Interest and dividends	$ 110,924	$ 113,589
Net appreciation	558,993	572,370
Pooled investment income	$ 669,917	$ 685,959

The pooled investment income was net of custodial and advisory fees in the amount of $27,027 and $25,237 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively.

4. Land, Building, and Equipment and Depreciation:

Land, building and equipment are stated at historical cost or fair value at the date of donation, less accumulated depreciation. Depreciation is calculated on the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets. Land, building, and equipment and accumulated depreciation as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 were as follows:

	1998	1997
Land	$ 7,169	$ 7,169
Building and improvements	1,464,992	1,185,303
Furniture and equipment	201,136	127,452
Vehicles	105,649	95,170
	1,778,946	1,415,094
Accumulated depreciation	(899,968)	(830,500)
	$ 878,978	$ 584,594

5. Pension Plan:

Children's Home participates in a noncontributory benefit pension plan with Catholic Charities, Inc. The plan covers substantially all employees of Children's Home who qualify as to length of employment. The plan benefits are based on 1¼% of the final average earnings multiplied by the total years of eligible participation as defined in the plan document. Contributions to the plan are intended to provide not only for benefits attributed to service to date, but also for those expected to be earned in the future.

The following represents the status and activity for Children's Home's portion of the plan:

	1998	1997
Prepaid pension cost	$ 7,169	$ 10,011
Net periodic pension cost	7,240	5,621

For the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, Children's Home contributed $0 and $13,930, respectively, to the plan.

6. Related Party Transactions:

Certain members of the Board of Trustees of Children's Home are also members of the Boards of Catholic Charities, Inc., Siena Hall, Inc., and Seton Villa, Inc. Additionally, certain officers of the Diocese serve as members of Children's Home's Board.

Children's Home reimburses Catholic Charities, Inc. and Siena Hall, Inc. for various administration and support activities. Reimbursements are reflected in management and general expenses in the statement of revenue and functional expenses.

7. Income Taxes:

Children's Home is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Trustees and Board of Directors
Seton Villa, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheets and the related statements of revenue and functional expenses and of cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Seton Villa, Inc. at June 30, 1998 and 1997, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for each of the two years in the period ended June 30, 1998, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. These financial statements are the responsibility of Seton Villa, Inc.'s management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these statements in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed above.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies:

Nature of Operations:

Seton Villa, Inc. (Seton Villa), located in Wilmington, Delaware, is a not-for-profit organization providing residential group care for school-aged children offering intensive treatment and supervision in a family-like atmosphere. Seton Villa is the recipient of numerous government contracts which are used to support its operations.

Basis of Reporting:

Seton Villa reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation:

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-for-Profit Organizations". Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets are those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts whose use has been limited by donors to a specific time period and purpose and whose restrictions have not been met.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

All net assets are either unrestricted or temporarily restricted as of June 30, 1998 and 1997.

Contributions:

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made". Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Cash and Cash Equivalents:

Cash and cash equivalents include all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less.

Assets Whose Use is Limited:

Assets whose use is limited includes a certificate of deposit purchased with a donor contribution. Donor restrictions require that the contribution and related earnings be used to support a wide range of services directly related to the education of girls at Seton Villa. This amount is included in temporarily restricted net assets at June 30, 1998 and 1997.

Pooled Investments:

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statement of revenue and functional expenses includes interest, dividends, and net appreciation. Net appreciation includes realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

Seton Villa participates with the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Delaware Trust Capital Management. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

Seton Villa utilizes a total return policy to determine the level of support for operations and capital expenditures from pooled investments. The level of support is determined annually.

Pooled Investments, continued:

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Vacation:

Seton Villa recognizes the cost of vested vacation pay as earned by employees.

Contributed Services:

Seton Villa receives services from non-specialized volunteers, which amounts are not recorded in these financial statements.

Seton Villa records in revenues and expenses, the difference between the estimated fair value of donated facilities usage costs and amounts expended for their use.

2. Pooled Investments:

Seton Villa invests in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds. The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 was as follows:

	1998	1997
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 46,096	$ 54,790
Fixed income	1,091,330	1,023,050
Domestic equity	2,506,834	2,126,895
International equity	330,979	290,568
Total	$ 3,975,239	$ 3,495,303

The fair value of investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 1998 and 1997.

2. Pooled Investments, continued:

Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was comprised of the following:

	1998	1997
Interest and dividends	$ 101,318	$ 100,711
Net appreciation	527,586	522,838
Pooled investment income	$ 628,904	$ 623,549

The pooled investment income was net of custodial and advisory fees in the amount of $24,403 and $22,590 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively.

3. Land, Building, and Equipment and Depreciation:

Land, building and equipment are stated at historical cost or fair value at the date of donation, less accumulated depreciation. Depreciation is calculated on the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets. Land, building, and equipment and accumulated depreciation as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 were as follows:

	1998	1997
Land	$ 31,247	$ 31,247
Building and improvements	557,625	553,235
Furniture and equipment	116,340	110,876
Vehicles	50,120	50,120
	755,332	745,478
Accumulated depreciation	(360,139)	(336,366)
	$ 395,193	$ 409,112

4. Pension Plan:

Seton Villa participates in a noncontributory benefit pension plan with Catholic Charities, Inc. The plan covers substantially all employees of Seton Villa who qualify as to length of employment. The plan benefits are based on 1¼% of the final average earnings multiplied by the total years of eligible participation as defined in the plan document. Contributions to the plan are intended to provide not only for benefits attributed to service to date, but also for those expected to be earned in the future.

4. Pension Plan, continued:

The following represents the status and activity for Seton Villa's portion of the plan:

	1998		1997
Prepaid pension cost	$ 15,619	$	21,812
Net periodic pension cost	9,414		7,309

For the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, Seton Villa contributed $0 and $18,115, respectively, to the plan.

5. Related Party Transactions:

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Trustees and Board of Directors
Siena Hall, Inc.
Wilmington, Delaware

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheets and the related statements of revenue and functional expenses and of cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Siena Hall, Inc. at June 30, 1998 and 1997, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for each of the two years in the period ended June 30, 1998, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. These financial statements are the responsibility of Siena Hall, Inc.'s management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these statements in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for the opinion expressed above.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies:

Nature of Operations:

Siena Hall, Inc. (Siena Hall), located in Wilmington, Delaware, is a not-for-profit organization providing residential group care for school-aged children offering intensive treatment and supervision in a family-like atmosphere. Siena Hall is the recipient of numerous government contracts which are used to support its operations.

Basis of Reporting:

Siena Hall reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation:

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-for-Profit Organizations". Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets are those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts whose use has been limited by donors to a specific time period and purpose and whose restrictions have not been met.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions.

All net assets are unrestricted as of June 30, 1998 and 1997.

Contributions:

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made". Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Cash and Cash Equivalents:

Cash and cash equivalents include all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less.

Pooled Investments:

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statement of revenue and functional expenses includes interest, dividends, and net appreciation. Net appreciation includes realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

Siena Hall participates with the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Delaware Trust Capital Management. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

Siena Hall utilizes a total return policy to determine the level of support for operations and capital expenditures from pooled investments. The level of support is determined annually.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Vacation:

Siena Hall recognizes the cost of vested vacation pay as earned by employees.

Contributed Services:

Siena Hall receives services from non-specialized volunteers, which amounts are not recorded in these financial statements.

Siena Hall records in revenues and expenses, the difference between the estimated fair value of donated facilities usage costs and amounts expended for their use.

2. Pooled Investments:

Siena Hall invests in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds. The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 was as follows:

	1998	1997
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 79,183	$ 50,918
Fixed income	978,750	926,604
Domestic equity	2,182,601	1,869,219
International equity	288,899	256,082
Total	$ 3,529,433	$ 3,102,823

The fair value of investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 1998 and 1997.

Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997 was comprised of the following:

	1998	1997
Interest and dividends	$ 91,048	$ 90,339
Net appreciation	466,736	461,333
Pooled investment income	$ 557,784	$ 551,672

The pooled investment income was net of custodial and advisory fees in the amount of $21,531 and $20,073 for the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, respectively.

3. Land, Building, and Equipment and Depreciation:

Land, building and equipment are stated at historical cost or fair value at the date of donation, less accumulated depreciation. Depreciation is calculated on the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets. Land, building, and equipment and accumulated depreciation as of June 30, 1998 and 1997 were as follows:

	1998	1997
Land	$ 20,000	$ 20,000
Building and improvements	670,127	672,850
Furniture and equipment	179,247	160,440
Vehicles	57,722	57,722
	927,096	911,012
Accumulated depreciation	(640,084)	(600,021)
	$ 287,012	$ 310,991

4. Pension Plan:

Siena Hall participates in a noncontributory benefit pension plan with Catholic Charities, Inc. The plan covers substantially all employees of Siena Hall who qualify as to length of employment. The plan benefits are based on 1¼% of the final average earnings multiplied by the total years of eligible participation as defined in the plan document. Contributions to the plan are intended to provide not only for benefits attributed to service to date but also for those expected to be earned in the future.

The following represents the status and activity for Siena Hall's portion of the plan:

	1998	1997
Prepaid pension cost	$ 37,622	$ 52,539
Net periodic pension cost	11,430	8,875

For the years ended June 30, 1998 and 1997, Siena Hall contributed $0 and $21,995, respectively, to the plan.

5. Related Party Transactions:

Certain members of the Board of Trustees of Siena Hall are also members of the Boards of Catholic Charities, Inc., Seton Villa, Inc., and Children's Home, Inc. Additionally, certain officers of the Diocese serve as members of Siena Hall's Board.

Siena Hall reimburses Catholic Charities, Inc. for various administration and support activities. These reimbursements are reflected in management and general expenses in the statement of revenue and functional expenses.

Siena Hall is reimbursed by Children's Home, Inc. for various administration and support activities. These reimbursements are reflected as a reduction of program expenses in the statement of revenue and functional expenses.

6. Income Taxes:

Siena Hall is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc.
St. Thomas More Academy
Wilmington, Delaware

We have audited the accompanying balance sheets of the St. Thomas More Academy (St. Thomas) as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets, functional expenses and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of St. Thomas' management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

St. Thomas has not adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-for-Profit Organizations," which requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future economic benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. Also, certain equipment is expensed at the time of purchase that, in our opinion, should be capitalized in order to conform to accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. If buildings and building improvements were depreciated and certain equipment were capitalized, land, buildings and building improvements and net assets would be decreased by approximately $181,000 and $284,000 at June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively. Additionally, changes in net assets would decrease by approximately $103,000 and $26,000 for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively.

In our opinion, except for the effect of not recognizing depreciation expense of long-lived tangible assets and of not capitalizing equipment as discussed in the preceding paragraph, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of St. Thomas as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

St. Thomas More Academy (St. Thomas) fosters Catholic education, which is a creative and living process which seeks to develop the individual wholly and fully. St. Thomas is committed to creating the finest Catholic and Christian leaders by cultivating each student spiritually, socially, intellectually, and physically. Based upon the principles and values of the Gospels and traditions of Catholic doctrine, St. Thomas offers opportunities for religious formation and practice, with a curriculum of academic excellence and a variety of extra- and co-curricular activities. On October 16, 1997, pursuant to an Agreement of Merger between St. Thomas and the Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc. (Schools), Schools acquired all assets and assumed all liabilities of St. Thomas and became responsible for St. Thomas' Board of Directors and management of its daily activities. It is expected that the first several school years at St. Thomas will result in losses from operations because enrollment levels and corresponding tuition revenue is not expected to cover operating expenses and planned capital expenditures. It is estimated that approximately $3.5 million to $4.5 million of support will be required for the years 1998 through 2004. As a result, the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) has agreed to support the operations of St. Thomas during that time by providing the necessary capital requirements through loans and/or contributions.

These statements present the operating results of St. Thomas, which is an operating segment of the Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc.

Basis of Reporting

St. Thomas reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation

Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset classifications follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions. All net assets of St. Thomas are either unrestricted or temporarily restricted as of June 30, 2002 and 2001.

June 30, 2002 and 2001

---

Contributions

Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Pledges Receivable

Unconditional promises to give cash and other assets are reported at fair value as pledges receivable and contributions in the period the promise is received. Conditional promises are not included as support until the conditions are substantially met (see Note 9).

Land, Building, and Improvements

Land, buildings, and certain land and building improvements are capitalized based on historical cost. All other long-lived assets are expensed at the time of purchase.

Deferred Income

Deferred income of St. Thomas represents tuition and program fees received in advance for the upcoming school years.

Pooled Investments

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statements of activities includes interest, dividends, and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

St. Thomas participates with the Diocese and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Mellon Trust. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Contributed Services

St. Thomas receives services from unpaid volunteers in organizing activities for students and various school programs. The value of these contributed services is not reflected in the accompanying financial statements since the services provided by the volunteers do not require specialized skills and would not be purchased by St. Thomas if the volunteer services were not available.

Description of Program and Supporting Services

The following program and supporting services are included in the accompanying financial statements.

Academic programs - Provide quality secondary education based on a curriculum which enables students to recognize and challenge their individual abilities; foster knowledge; stimulate interest; facilitate a dynamic, creative curriculum that motivates students to think critically, analyze data and draw conclusions; provide pastoral care program and religious education as an integral part of student's education; instill a distinctive Catholic atmosphere of lived Gospel values and principles and the traditions of Catholicism; include facilities, classrooms, and laboratories with the technology and equipment needed to educate for future learning and life.

Student activities - Includes all extracurricular activities such as proms, dances, athletic contests, theater productions, and retreat expenses.

Expense Allocation

The cost of providing various programs and other activities have been summarized on a functional basis in the statements of activities and in the statements of functional expenses. Accordingly, certain costs have been allocated among the programs and supporting services benefited.

2. Pledges Receivable

At June 30, 2002 and 2001, pledges receivable consisted of the following unconditional promises to give:

	2002	2001
Initial campaign	$ 16,453	$ 17,443
Gymnasium campaign	37,900	68,236
Less: Allowance for uncollectibles	(23,828)	(11,321)
	$ 30,525	$ 74,358
Amount due in:
Less than one year	46,553	62,149
One to five years	7,800	23,530
Total	$ 54,353	$ 85,679

3. Pooled Investments

The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 2002 and 2001 was as follows:

	2002	2001
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 22,609	$ 277
Fixed income	31,117	26,768
Domestic equity	54,616	52,441
International equity	16,024	13,155
Total pooled investments	$124,366	$92,641

St. Thomas More Academy
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2002 and 2001

The fair value of these investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 2002. Pooled investment income for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 consisted of the following:

	2002	2001
Interest and dividends	$ 1,698	$ 1,520
Net appreciation	(9,068)	(684)
Total pooled investments	$ (7,370)	$ 836

The pooled investment income is net of custodial and advisory fees in the amount of $650 and $349 for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively.

These investments are temporarily restricted for the following purposes:

	2002	2001
Scholarships	$ 87,373	$ 65,105
Tuition assistance - ongoing	29,500	24,335
Tuition assistance	-	3,201
Total pooled investments	$ 116,873	$ 92,641

4. Land, Buildings, and Improvements

St. Thomas' building and the land upon which it sits are owned by the Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc., of which St. Thomas is an operating segment. In lieu of rental expenses, St. Thomas is responsible for all annual repairs, maintenance and capital expenditures.

At June 30, 2002 and 2001 land, buildings, and improvements consisted of the following:

	2002	2001
Land	$ 567,100	$ 567,100
Building and improvements	2,866,879	2,866,879
	$3,433,979	$3,433,979

During the year ended June 30, 2001, Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc., on behalf of St. Thomas, acquired land adjacent to the current St. Thomas property for cash payment of $122,100 and forgiveness of a note receivable to St. Thomas of $31,000.

5. Deferred Income

At June 30, 2002 and 2001, deferred income consisted of the following:

	2002	2001
Tuition, fees and bus	$ 53,596	$ 20,929
Brick program	8,400	8,400
	$ 61,996	$ 29,329

6. Pension Plans

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including St. Thomas. The Plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined in the Plan document. Contributions to the Plan for St. Thomas' proportionate cost, which amounted to approximately $54,000 and $51,000 for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively, were provided entirely by the Diocese. As a result, no expenses related to this plan have been reflected in the accompanying financial statements of St. Thomas. The impact of not reflecting these amounts in the financial statements of St. Thomas was not significant.

7. Related Party Transactions

St. Thomas receives contributions and grants from the Diocese and the Catholic Diocese Foundation. These entities are related to St. Thomas through common control. A summary of the contributions and grants received from these entities for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001 is as follows:

	2002	2001
Revenue and support - Diocesan contributions:
Catholic Diocese of Wilmington:
Budget subsidy	$ 508,270	$ 466,880

The Diocese provides and absorbs the full cost of accounting services, life insurance, long-term disability, and Blood Bank dues for all full-time employees of St. Thomas. These expenses are not reimbursed or reflected on the financial statements of St. Thomas since the amounts are not significant.

St. Thomas reimburses the Diocese for wages, payroll taxes, health benefits, and other expenses the Diocese disburses on behalf of St. Thomas. For the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, these expenses totaled $907,333 and $815,939, respectively. Of these balances, unpaid amounts of $81,054 and $72,387, respectively, are included in accounts payable and accrued expenses for the years ended June 30, 2002 and 2001, respectively.

A member of the Board of Directors of St. Thomas is related to an entity providing general contracting services during the construction phase of St. Thomas' buildings and improvements.

8. Income Taxes

Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc., of which St. Thomas is an operating segment, is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

9. Promises to Contribute

During 1997, St. Thomas had received a $200,000 conditional pledge. This contribution will be recorded when the conditions have been substantially met.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc.
St. Thomas More Academy
Dover, Delaware

We have audited the accompanying balance sheets of St. Thomas More Academy (St. Thomas) as of June 30, 2000 and 1999, and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets, functional expenses, and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of St. Thomas' management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

Except as discussed in the following paragraph, we conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

St. Thomas has not adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 93, (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-For-Profit Organization," which requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future economic benefit of their long-lived tangible assets. Also, equipment is expensed at the time of purchase that, in our opinion, should be capitalized in order to conform to accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. If buildings and building improvements were depreciated, and equipment were capitalized and depreciated, land, buildings and building improvements and net assets would be increased by approximately $310,000 and $353,000 at June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively. Additionally, changes in net assets would increase by approximately $43,000 and $310,000 for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively.

In our opinion, except for the effect of not recording depreciation expense of buildings and building improvements and of not capitalizing and depreciating equipment as discussed in the preceding paragraph, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of St. Thomas as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

St. Thomas More Academy (St. Thomas) fosters Catholic education, which is a creative and living process which seeks to develop the individual wholly and fully. St. Thomas is committed to creating the finest Catholic and Christian leaders by cultivating each student spiritually, socially, intellectually, and physically. Based upon the principles and values of the Gospels and traditions of Catholic doctrine, St. Thomas offers opportunities for religious formation and practice, with a curriculum of academic excellence and a variety of extra- and co-curricular activities. On October 16, 1997, pursuant to an Agreement of Merger between St. Thomas and the Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc. (Schools), Schools acquired all assets and assumed all liabilities of St. Thomas and became responsible for St. Thomas' Board of Directors and management of its daily activities. It is expected that the first several school years at St. Thomas will result in losses from operations because enrollment levels and corresponding tuition revenue is not expected to cover operating expenses and planned capital expenditures. It is estimated that approximately $3.5 million to $4.5 million of support will be required for the years 1998 through 2004. As a result, the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) has agreed to support the operations of St. Thomas during that time by providing the necessary capital requirements through loans and/or contributions.

These statements present the operating results of St. Thomas, which is an operating segment of the Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc.

Basis of Reporting

St. Thomas reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-For-Profit Organizations." Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset classifications follows:

- Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.
- Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted.
- Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions. All net assets of St. Thomas are either unrestricted or temporarily restricted as of June 30, 2000 and 1999.

Contributions

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made." Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions. Donor restricted contributions which are received and expended within the same fiscal year are reported as unrestricted revenues.

Pledges Receivable

Unconditional promises to give cash and other assets are reported at fair value as pledges receivable and contributions in the period the promise is received. Conditional promises are not included as support until the conditions are substantially met (see Note 10).

Land, Building, and Improvements

Land, buildings, and certain land and building improvements are capitalized based on historical cost. All other long-lived assets are expensed at the time of purchase.

Deferred Income

Deferred income of St. Thomas represents tuition and program fees received in advance for the upcoming school years.

Pooled Investments

Pooled investments are stated at fair value. Pooled investment income on the statements of activities includes interest, dividends, and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of consulting and custodial costs.

St. Thomas participates with the Diocese and other affiliated organizations in an investment pool which is held in a custody account at Mellon Trust. The pool is invested in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds.

The investment pool is exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit risk. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the market value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in risks in the near term could materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Contributed Services

St. Thomas receives services from unpaid volunteers in organizing activities for students and various school programs. The value of these contributed services is not reflected in the accompanying financial statements since the services provided by the volunteers do not require specialized skills and would not be purchased by St. Thomas if the volunteer services were not available.

Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2000 and 1999

Description of Program and Supporting Services

The following program and supporting services are included in the accompanying financial statements.

Academic programs - Provide quality secondary education based on a curriculum which enables students to recognize and challenge their individual abilities; foster knowledge; stimulate interest; facilitate a dynamic, creative curriculum that motivates students to think critically, analyze data and draw conclusions; provide pastoral care program and religious education as an integral part of student's education; instill a distinctive Catholic atmosphere of lived Gospel values and principles and the traditions of Catholicism; include facilities, classrooms, and laboratories with the technology and equipment needed to educate for future learning and life.

Student activities - Includes all extracurricular activities such as proms, dances, athletic contests, theater productions, and retreat expenses.

Expense Allocation

The cost of providing various programs and other activities have been summarized on a functional basis in the statements of activities and in the statements of functional expenses. Accordingly, certain costs have been allocated among the programs and supporting services benefited.

Reclassifications

Certain amounts have in the 1999 statements been reclassified to conform to the 2000 presentation.

2. Pledges Receivable

At June 30, 2000 and 1999, pledges receivable consisted of the following unconditional promises to give:

	2000	1999
Initial campaign	$ 22,493	$ 54,843
Gymnasium campaign	129,331	211,516
Less: Allowance for uncollectibles	(10,623)	(26,701)
	$ 141,201	$ 239,658
Amount due in:
Less than one year	107,069	148,246
One to five years	44,755	118,113
	$ 151,824	$ 266,359
Total

June 30, 2000 and 1999

3. Pooled Investments

St. Thomas invests in a combination of fixed income and equity securities and mutual funds. The composition of pooled investments as of June 30, 2000 was as follows:

Cash and cash equivalents	$ 7,804
Fixed income	13,444
Domestic equity	19,541
International equity	6,171
Total pooled investments	$46,960

The fair value of these investments was determined based on quoted market prices at June 30, 2000.

Pooled investment income for the year ended June 30, 2000 consisted of the following:

Interest and dividends	$ 375
Net appreciation	(165)
Total pooled investments	$ 210

The pooled investment income is net of custodial and advisory fees in the amount of $83 for the year ended June 30, 2000.

These investments are temporarily restricted for the following purposes:

Scholarships	$23,059
Tuition assistance - 2001 school year	16,116
Tuition assistance	7,785
Total pooled investments	$46,960

4. Land, Buildings, and Improvements

St. Thomas' building and the land upon which it sits are owned by the Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc., of which St. Thomas is an operating segment. In lieu of rental expenses, St. Thomas is responsible for all annual repairs, maintenance and capital expenditures.

At June 30, 2000 and 1999 land, buildings, and improvements consisted of the following:

	2000	1999
Land	$ 414,000	$ 414,000
Building and improvements	2,866,879	2,866,879

Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2000 and 1999

5. Deferred Income

At June 30, 2000 and 1999, deferred income consisted of the following:

	2000	1999
Tuition, fees and bus	$ 28,920	$ 27,506
Grants	1,923	4,190
Brick program	8,400	8,400
	$ 39,243	$ 40,096

6. Note Payable

St. Thomas has an uncollateralized term loan with PNC Bank. The loan, which is guaranteed by the Diocese, has repayment terms including quarterly interest payments at a rate of 6.75%, with one-half of the principal, $263,500, due June 30, 1999 and the remaining balance due on June 30, 2000. The balance as of June 30, 2000 and 1999 was $0 and $263,500, respectively.

7. Pension Plans

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including St. Thomas. The Plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined in the Plan document. Contributions to the Plan for St. Thomas' proportionate cost, which amounted to approximately $26,000 and $24,000 for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively, were provided entirely by the Diocese. As a result, no expenses related to this plan have been reflected in the accompanying financial statements of St. Thomas. The impact of not reflecting these amounts in the financial statements of St. Thomas was not significant.

8. Related Party Transactions

St. Thomas' receives contributions and grants from the Diocese and the Catholic Diocese Foundation. These entities are related to St. Thomas through common control. A summary of the contributions and grants received from these entities for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999 is as follows:

	2000	1999
Revenue and support - Diocesan contributions:
Catholic Diocese of Wilmington:
Budget subsidy	$ 430,000	$ 565,482
Support for note payable	263,500	232,000
	$ 693,500	$ 797,482

The Diocese provides and absorbs the full cost of accounting services, life insurance, long-term disability, and Blood Bank dues for all full-time employees of St. Thomas. These expenses are not reimbursed or reflected on the financial statements of St. Thomas since the amounts are not significant.

June 30, 2000 and 1999

---

St. Thomas reimburses the Diocese for wages, payroll taxes, health benefits, and other expenses the Diocese disburses on behalf of St. Thomas. For the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, these expenses totaled $571,881 and $370,335, respectively. Of these balances, unpaid amounts of $58,651 and $38,473, respectively, are included in accounts payable and accrued expenses for the years ended June 30, 2000 and 1999, respectively.

A member of the Board of Directors of St. Thomas is related to an entity providing general contracting services during the construction phase of St. Thomas' buildings and improvements.

9. Income Taxes

Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc., of which St. Thomas is an operating segment, is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

10. Promises to Contribute

During 1997, St. Thomas had received a $200,000 conditional pledge. This contribution will be recorded when the conditions have been substantially met.

Report of Independent Accountants

To the Board of Directors
Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc.
St. Thomas More Academy
Dover, Delaware

We have audited the accompanying balance sheets of St. Thomas More Academy (St. Thomas) as of June 30, 1999 and 1998, and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets, functional expenses, and cash flows for the year ended June 30, 1999 and for the period October 16, 1997 (date of contribution of net assets) to June 30, 1998. These financial statements are the responsibility of St. Thomas' management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

St. Thomas does not record depreciation on buildings and building improvements that, in our opinion, should be recorded in order to conform to generally accepted accounting principles. Also, equipment is expensed at the time of purchase that, in our opinion, should be capitalized in order to conform to generally accepted accounting principles. If buildings and building improvements were depreciated and equipment were capitalized and depreciated, land, buildings and building improvements and net assets would be increased by approximately $353,000 and $43,000 at June 30, 1999 and 1998. Additionally, changes in net assets would increase by approximately $310,000 and $43,000 for the year end June 30, 1999 and period October 16, 1997 (date of contribution of net assets) to June 30, 1998.

In our opinion, except for the effects of not recording depreciation on buildings and building improvements and not capitalizing and depreciating equipment, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of St. Thomas as of June 30, 1999 and 1998, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the year ended June 30, 1999 and period October 16, 1997 (date of contribution of net assets) to June 30, 1998, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies:

Contribution of Net Assets and Nature of Operations:

On October 16, 1997, pursuant to an Agreement of Merger between St. Thomas More Academy (St. Thomas) and the Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc. (Schools), Schools acquired all assets and assumed all liabilities of St. Thomas and became responsible for appointing St. Thomas' Board of Directors and management of its daily activities. St. Thomas' assets acquired by Schools exceeded its liabilities by $1,973,209. This amount has been reflected as a contribution in the accompanying statement of activities and is comprised of the following:

Assets:
Cash	$ 29,622
Pledges receivable, general	197,993
Pledge receivable, Catholic Diocese Foundation	400,000
Other assets	12,600
Land, buildings, and improvements	1,968,880
Total assets acquired	2,609,095
Liabilities:
Accounts payable and accrued expenses	108,886
Note payable	527,000
Total liabilities assumed	635,886
Net assets contributed	$ 1,973,209

St. Thomas fosters Catholic education, which is a creative and living process which seeks to develop the individual wholly and fully. St. Thomas is committed to creating the finest Catholic and Christian leaders by cultivating each student spiritually, socially, intellectually, and physically. Based upon the principles and values of the Gospels and traditions of Catholic doctrine, St. Thomas offers opportunities for religious formation and practice, with a curriculum of academic excellence and a variety of extra- and co-curricular activities. As of June 30, 1998, St. Thomas facilities were still in the preparation phase for the 1998-1999 opening school year. Opening school year classes began on September 2, 1998. It is expected that the first several school years at St. Thomas will result in losses from operations because enrollment levels and corresponding tuition revenue is not expected to cover operating expenses and planned capital expenditures. It is estimated that approximately $3.5 million to $4.5 million of support will be required for the years 1998 through 2004. As a result, the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington, Inc. (the Diocese) has agreed to support the operations of St. Thomas during that time by providing the necessary capital requirements through loans and/or contributions.

These statements present the operating results of St. Thomas, which is an operating segment of the Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc.

Basis of Reporting:

St. Thomas reports using the accrual basis of accounting. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Financial Statement Presentation:

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 117, "Financial Statements of Not-For-Profit Organizations." Resources are reported for accounting purposes into separate classes of net assets based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. A description of the three net asset categories follows:

Unrestricted Net Assets include those assets that are available for the support of operations and whose use is not externally restricted, although their use may be limited by other factors such as by contract or board designation.

Temporarily Restricted Net Assets include gifts for which donor imposed restrictions have not been met and pledges receivable for which the ultimate purpose of the proceeds is not permanently restricted. As of June 30, 1999 and 1998 there were no temporarily restricted net assets.

Permanently Restricted Net Assets include gifts, trusts, and pledges which require by donor restriction that the corpus be invested in perpetuity and only the income be made available for operations in accordance with donor restrictions. As of June 30, 1999 and 1998 there were no permanently restricted net assets.

Contributions:

Contributions are recognized as revenue in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 116, "Accounting for Contributions Received and Contributions Made." Noncash contributions are recorded at fair value on the date of donation. Contributions of cash and other non-capital assets are reported as temporarily restricted operating revenue if the contributions are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or the purpose for the restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activities as net assets released from restrictions.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, continued:

Cash and Cash Equivalents:

Cash and cash equivalents include all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less. At June 30, 1999 and 1998, St. Thomas' did not have any cash equivalents.

Pledges Receivable:

Unconditional promises to give cash and other assets are reported at fair value as pledges receivable and contributions in the period the promise is received. Unconditional promises that are expected to be collected in future years are recorded at the net present value of their estimated future cash flows. The discounts on those amounts are computed using risk-free interest rates applicable to the years in which the promises are received. Amortization of the discounts is included in contribution revenue. Conditional promises are not included as support until the conditions are substantially met.

Land, Building, and Improvements:

Land, buildings, and certain land and building improvements are capitalized based on historical cost. All other long-lived assets are expensed at the time of purchase.

Statement of Financial Accounting Standard No. 93 (SFAS 93), "Recognition of Depreciation by Not-For-Profit Organizations," requires not-for-profit organizations to recognize depreciation as a cost of using up the future benefits of their long-lived tangible assets. St. Thomas has not adopted SFAS 93.

Deferred Income:

Deferred income of St. Thomas represents tuition and fees received in advance for the fiscal 1999-2000 school year.

Contributed Services:

St. Thomas receives services from unpaid volunteers in organizing activities for students and various St. Thomas' programs. The value of these contributed services is not reflected in the accompanying financial statements since the services provided by the volunteers do not require specialized skills and would not be purchased by St. Thomas if the volunteer services were not available.

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, continued:

Description of Program and Supporting Services:

The following program and supporting services are included in the accompanying financial statements.

Academic programs - Provide quality secondary education based on a curriculum which enables students to recognize and challenge their individual abilities; foster knowledge; stimulate interest; facilitate a dynamic, creative curriculum that motivates students to think critically, analyze data and draw conclusions; provide pastoral care program and religious education as an integral part of student's education; instill a distinctive Catholic atmosphere of lived Gospel values and principles and the traditions of Catholicism; include facilities, classrooms, and laboratories with the technology and equipment needed to educate for future learning and life.

Student activities - Includes all extracurricular activities such as proms, dances, athletic contests, theater productions, and retreat expenses.

Expense Allocation:

The cost of providing various programs and other activities have been summarized on a functional basis in the statement of activities and in the statement of functional expenses. Accordingly, certain costs have been allocated among the programs and supporting services benefited.

Reclassifications:

Certain amounts in the 1998 statements have been reclassified to conform to the 1999 presentation.

2. Concentration of Credit Risk:

The financial instrument that is exposed to concentrations of credit risk consist primarily of cash. The cash is deposited with an institution with high credit ratings. Accordingly, at June 30, 1999 and 1998, St. Thomas had cash of $300,754 and $413,536, respectively, deposited with FirstUnion. These amounts exceed federally insured limits.

5. Deferred Income:

At June 30, 1999 and 1998, deferred income consisted of the following:

	1999	1998
Tuition, fees and bus	$ 27,506	-
Grants	4,190	-
	$ 31,696	-

6. Note Payable:

St. Thomas has an agreement with PNC Bank that provided for an uncollateralized construction line of credit up to $650,000. On February 5, 1998, the amount outstanding, $527,000, was converted into a term loan. The loan repayment terms are quarterly interest payments at a rate of 6.75%, with one-half of the principal, $263,500, due June 30, 1999 and the remaining balance maturing on June 30, 2000. The balance as of June 30, 1999 and 1998 was $263,500 and $527,000, respectively.

The note is guaranteed by the Diocese.

7. Pension Plans:

The Diocese sponsors a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering all full-time lay employees of the Diocese, including St. Thomas. The Plan calls for benefits to be paid to eligible employees at retirement based on compensation, as defined in the Plan document. Contributions to the Plan for St. Thomas proportionate cost are provided entirely by the Diocese. As a result, no expenses related to this plan have been reflected in the accompanying financial statements of St. Thomas. The impact of not reflecting these amounts in the financial statements of St. Thomas was not significant.

8. Related Party Transactions:

St. Thomas' receives contributions and grants from the Diocese and the Catholic Diocese Foundation. These entities are related to St. Thomas through common control. A summary of the contributions and grants received from these entities for the year ended June 30, 1999 and 1998 is as follows:

	1999	1998
Revenue and support – Diocesan contributions:
Catholic Diocese of Wilmington:
Start up operations	$ 565,482	$ 858,950
Initial campaign	232,000	106,625
	$ 797,482	$ 965,575

The Diocese provides and absorbs the full cost of accounting services, life insurance, long-term disability, and Blood Bank dues for all full-time employees of St. Thomas.

A member of the Board of Directors of St. Thomas is related to an entity providing general contracting services during the construction phase of St. Thomas' buildings and improvements.

St. Thomas reimburses the Diocese for wages, payroll taxes, health benefits, and other expenses the Diocese disburses on behalf of St. Thomas. For the years ending June 30, 1999 and 1998, these expenses totaled $376,548 and $219,461, respectively. Of these balances, unpaid amounts of $38,473 and $0, respectively, are included in accounts payable and accrued expenses for the years ended June 30, 1999 and 1998.

During fiscal 1998, St. Thomas received a cash payment from the Catholic Diocese Foundation on a $400,000 pledge receivable which was included in the net assets contributed on October 16, 1997 (See Note 1).

9. Income Taxes:

Diocese of Wilmington Schools, Inc., of which St. Thomas is an operating segment, is a not-for-profit corporation which has been granted exempt status from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

10. Promises to Contribute:

During 1997, St. Thomas had received a $200,000 conditional pledge. This contribution will be recorded when the conditions have been substantially met.
