Your Excellency:

came to see me in my room at the Hospital this morning about Father Janssen.

received a telephone call yesterday morning from a professor at St. Ambrose College. was coming out of St. Mary's Church after one of the Masses. He noticed Father Janssen near the status which is between the Church and the Rectory. With him were two boys, one a boy and the other 10 year old boy.

I was shocked when he noticed Father Janssen with one hand on boy's head and the other rubbing the front part of the boy's body.

Another witness to the scene was the mother or mother-in-law of who was present. Sister was also around and can probably give the same story.

has said nothing to his ten year old son because he doesn't think the boy realizes what was happening.

said he has been hearing a number of things but that this is the first specific incident that has come to his attention. He is of course deeply involved now that his boy is concerned.

is willing to come and see Your Excellency but he would prefer that I approach Your Excellency.

said he would not be too concerned except that the witness is a professor at St. Ambrose, a level headed man, and therefore an unimpeachable witness.
