██████ dropped by to meet me and to bring a letter from his new therapist. (see file folder)

He wanted to understand why his therapy had to be on a six-month basis. I explained it to him.

He feels very much isolated at present. His mother asked him to leave home. He's mad at God, Church, and mother. He feels so abandoned, wants to invest in therapy but fears such a short term commitment might leave him abandoned again in six months.

He isn't putting his case in the hands of a lawyer (yet) but didn't want to sign the waiver without asking a friend about it.

I felt real sorry for him. He stayed a short time.

My heart really ruled my head in this case!
