Adamsky, Raymond

Yesterday Father Leo Lambert visited me to say that he was approached by Mr. [REDACTED] and his wife, [REDACTED]. These people reside [REDACTED].

This arrangement was there when Father Adamsky became pastor. This last summer two of the [REDACTED] girls, ages 10 and 12, were over at the rectory a lot. Father was scene giving them piggyback rides on the playground, and they frequently watch TV in his living room with him. Recently, they came to their parents [REDACTED] is a Catholic, [REDACTED] is not. Father Leo Lambert is attempting to validate their marriage and give instructions to [REDACTED]) and told them that Father Adamsky had been kissing them on the mouth repeatedly and on one occasion even forced his kisses on them. The younger girl said that on one occasion he attempted to touch her indecently, and the older girl jumped on Father and both of them ran out the door. Father Lambert showed me a pair of women's panties decorated with suggestive writing which Adamsky had given to one of the girls for her birthday. The parents had given this to Lambert. Father Lambert did not want to bring this matter to the attention of the full Personnel Board and asked me to do something about it. I assured him I would talk to Adamsky and that we would have him evaluated by a psychologist. When Adamsky came to see me, he was somewhat nervous and I suspect he knew what this was all about. He denied categorically that he had forced kisses upon the girls or that he had attempted to touch them. He did admit to giving one of them the panties as a "joke". He said he was aware that the parents knew about this and when they did not object, he thought that everyone was taking this as a big joke. I pointed out to him the seriousness of this matter because he is being accused of child molestation by young girls and their parents. I asked him to see [REDACTED], and he agreed. I sent him there immediately and later spoke to [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] notes that Adamsky has had epileptic seizures over a very long period of time and the drug that he uses to control these seizures is one that has far-ranging side effects. [REDACTED] noted some of the symptoms that Adamsky explained to him probably are due to continuing slight seizures. [REDACTED] also detected a number of personality disorders which need attention. [REDACTED] suggests that we have him thoroughly evaluated at the Wausau Clinic. [REDACTED] and I will meet with Adamsky on Friday to discuss this further.

I met with him and [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] is concerned about some of the neurological and psychological symptoms that he sees in Adamsky and recommends that he receive a thorough evaluation in his condition. I asked Adamsky to enter the Wausau Clinic on January 31 for this type of evaluation. Adamsky said he is willing and that he would cooperate. Later I asked [REDACTED] if there is something we should be doing with regard to the parents of the children that are accusing Adamsky. [REDACTED] feels that I should talk to the parents and offer to have [REDACTED] talk to them or to the girls if this would make them feel better. [REDACTED] does not feel that the girls will be psychologically affected by this incident nor does he feel there is any reason for Adamsky to have to leave St. Kilian's as long as he undergoes evaluation and treatment if indicated.

I called Mr. [REDACTED] to let him know that Father Adamsky is receiving medical help and counseling following the incident that the [REDACTED] reported to Father Leo Lambert. [REDACTED] was very happy to hear this and said that everything seems to be going fine. His wife is still [REDACTED] and Adamsky is treating both of them as though nothing had happened. [REDACTED] is satisfied to leave the matter in our hands.

Yesterday, he and I drove to Wausau, and today he was given the report of his recent evaluation by the Wausau Mental Health Associates. Afterwards, the report was shared with me in his presence by Dr. [REDACTED], psychologist. Basically, the results were as follows:

1. In his spiritual assessment, [REDACTED] OFM Cap. recommended that Father Adamsky get a spiritual director with whom he can work on a regular basis in order to bring about a closer correlation between his vocation and life style. I told Adamsky I would furnish him with a list of recommended spiritual directors in the Archdiocese.
2. The physical assessment of Adamsky showed that everything here is under control. The on-going medication for epilepsy is within the normal limits as are other existing conditions. More attention to exercise is the only thing that is recommended besides, of course, on-going consultation with his doctor in Fond du Lac.
3. The psychological evaluation showed no serious abnormalities. However, it clearly shows that Adamsky does not think in psychological categories. Therefore, he does not think about or realize how he is coming across to others. The episodes that led to this evaluation were the result of Adamsky's failure to understand the normal behavior of young girls. As a young man, Adamsky did not have opportunities for dating or really getting to know women. As a result, there is a lot of immaturity in his reaction toward women. At this point in the interview I recalled how poorly Adamsky had treated a waitress the night before when we had dinner. His bitter criticism of her service, the attitude he showed turned her off and myself as well. Dr. [REDACTED] said that their recommendation was that while

Adamsky does not need psychotherapy for any overt condition, he would greatly benefit from seeing a psychologist perhaps once a month to try to work on seeing things from a psychological standpoint.

Dr. [REDACTED] said that their staff feels that at this time in his life Adamsky is matched to the right assignment. They see no need of him moving because of the incident with the young girls or because of his personal condition. I told [REDACTED] and Adamsky that I had spoken to Mr. [REDACTED] the father of the girls, and that there seems to be no further desire on the parents' part to push the issue any further. They are satisfied that he is receiving counseling. At the end of the interview Adamsky was obviously relieved and said that he was grateful for this experience. He stated that he is willing to follow up with counseling once a month but not more than that. He said he would not return to counseling with [REDACTED] because he does not like people with beards.

On Wednesday, December 20, 1989 I went to the office of social worker, [REDACTED], in the [REDACTED] County Court House in order to meet with [REDACTED] (family name unknown) who alleges that she was sexually abused at the age of ten 25 years ago by a priest currently in active assignment in the Archdiocese. After my explaining the ways in which such issues are presently handled by the Archdiocese, she agreed to give the matter further consideration before revealing the individual's name to me.

I informed him that I would be contacting Father Mogilka at the parish in order to make sure that there no inappropriate relationships had been noted. I stated that [REDACTED] desired a personal meeting and confrontation within two to four months or as soon as she was prepared for it. I said that in view of the lack of more specific information, I would not request an evaluation at this time, but might do so later. On Wednesday, March 7, 1990 I called [REDACTED] in [REDACTED] to report the substance of our conversation and the vague recollection which Ray had of an inappropriate relationship in Grafton. She was content with the process and progress and asked that we stay in touch as she prepared for the meeting.

Having called Mary Kay Balchunas earlier the same day, she stated a concern that Ray might still be involved in some kind of abusive relationships with minors and asked what her future options might be. I rehearsed them all and recalled her desire for a private meeting with Ray and a therapist. [REDACTED] agreed to speak about the matter again with her therapist and again contact our office with possible dates for September or October.

That same day I spoke with Ray in Racine notifying him of the development, asking if he were willing to meet with [REDACTED] in the therapist's office in [REDACTED] and again counseling the contacting of a lawyer to protect his interests and rights. He agreed to await the list of dates and tentatively indicated a willingness to attend such a meeting since he states he does not remember any basis for such an allegation.

On Friday, October 18, 1991 Bishop Sklba accompanied Father Adamsky to the office of therapist, [REDACTED] in [REDACTED] where he was confronted by the serious allegation of sexual abuse by [REDACTED] who was accompanied by Lutheran Pastor [REDACTED] (serving an ELCA congregation in Grafton) and a friend by the name of [REDACTED]. The allegation regarded sexual abuse as a ten year old child in 1963-64 which Father Adamsky denied. As a result of the statements of the Lutheran Pastor regarding practices within the Lutheran denomination, Bishop Sklba contacted Bishop Peter Rogness on Monday, October 21, 1991 to discuss procedures for handling such allegations. After consultation with Attorney Matt Flynn, Bishop Sklba indicated his intention to inform the pastor of St. Joseph Parish in Racine and Father Adamsky himself that no unsupervised contact with children was to be allowed pending further investigation and resolution of this allegation.

Bishop Sklba notified the office that on Friday, October 18, 1991 he joined Ray for a meeting at the [REDACTED] County Court House with [REDACTED] who was supported by her therapist, [REDACTED], a friend by the name of [REDACTED] and another woman by the name of [REDACTED] and a pastor associated with an ELCA congregation in the Grafton area. In response to four pages of explicit accusation regarding events which allegedly occurred in 1963-64, Ray denied all charges. I subsequently spoke with Attorney Matt Flynn to review the matter, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] I also spoke with Bishop Peter Rogness in view of the Lutheran Pastor's assertion that such an accusation would result in a removal from the ministry in the Lutheran Church. Peter Rogness explained his practice in a telephone call on Monday, October 21, 1991 and indicated he would not automatically move in such a direction given the circumstances of this particular allegation.

Bishop Sklba also reported that he spoke with Father Richard Stoffel, Pastor of St. Joseph Parish in Racine, on Monday, November 4, 1991 in order to repeat the formal notice of the allegation to the parish. On that occasion it was decided that Father Adamsky would not be present in any religious education or day school classroom without the constant supervision of the teachers, that he would leave at least five minutes before the dismissal of all classes in order to be separated from the turmoil which often accompanies dismissal for lunch or home, that an adult would be assigned to acolyte duties at weekday masses and that the services of Father Erv Mogilka would be utilized for children's confessions.

Bishop Sklba later reported that he had spoken with Father Stoffel on Monday, November 18, 1991 and learned that a very brief explanation would be given to Father Mogilka regarding the request for help for the confessions and that Racine Attorney Mark Nielson had been retained by Father Adamsky to protect his own interests. Bishop Sklba noted that he had received a formal letter from Father Stoffel on Friday, November 15, 1991 carefully documenting all the steps taken to provide ample supervision on the part of the parish (also signed by Father Adamsky on November 11, 1991). Father Stoffel also requested that Bishop Sklba contact the parish school principal, Mr. Cooper, regarding some ambiguous expressions of concern on the part of parents approximately a year and a half previously. Father Stoffel took the occasion of a telephone conversation to ask if the parish could be reduced to a single priest assignment in the changes scheduled for June, 1992.

When asked to identify various groups in the Church and to identify and to describe the differences between the two priests, it was very clear that these young women did not feel comfortable with Ray because of his rough physical contact with them over the years when they were in Grade school at the Parish. Rick stated that this was an independent verification of the issues raised by the Principal in my conversation before Christmas. We agreed that all things considered Ray's six year term of office should be allowed to be concluded and I informed Tom Trepanier of that decision. On Friday, April 24, 1992 Bishop Sklba and I met with Ray in my office. Ray's term at St. Joseph's in Racine ends this June. There is a potential lawsuit regarding allegations against Ray and other evidence of previous reports of inappropriate conduct with minors. Ray does not acknowledge the seriousness of the allegations on his part, but realizes the need for restricted ministry and is very open to an assignment where no youth work would be involved. He said he is uncomfortable working with young people anyway. He did not show much emotion and didn't seem enthused about any area of ministry. he did say he was looking forward to retiring at 65. He will be 62 this summer. He was asked to make an appointment with one of the psychologists whose names we gave him and to let us know so that we could send his previous evaluation from Psychology Associates of Wausau. We also spoke about a spiritual director and encouraged him to consider establishing such a relationship. He was open to nursing home ministry if a place was available.
