Extern Clergy and Religious Order Members Who Served in the Diocese

Members of clergy who have been incardinated in a different diocese (referred to as “extern clergy”) and religious orders may at times reside or be assigned to minister in the Diocese. Such extern clerics and religious order members remain subject at all times to the supervision and authority of the “originating” diocese where they were incardinated or religious order. Accordingly, the below list consists of extern clergy or religious order members who were assigned to minister in, or had another meaningful connection with, the Diocese and who were determined by their respective originating diocese or religious order to have been credibly accused of childhood sexual abuse. Additional inquiries about these clerics should be directed to their originating diocese or religious order.
