

The Dallas Morning News

Texas' Leading Newspaper

Dallas, Texas

DallasNews.com

$1.50

Sunday

SEPTEMBER 12, 2004

Reality rules

Think — or hope — reality TV is just a fad? Guess again. ARTS SUNDAY, 1G

SPORTSDAY: Only 10 drivers will compete for NASCAR's championship. Check out who did — and who didn't — make the cut. 1C, 10C

Mostly sunny

High: 92 Low: 70
5-day outlook, 10B

WORLD

Report: Explosion, mushroom-shaped cloud in N. Korea

A South Korean news agency said a large blast occurred Thursday in North Korea. Intelligence suggested the Hermit Kingdom has been planning a nuclear test. 26A

Ivan strengthens

Florida nervously awaits the latest on the Category 5 hurricane's track. 26A

NATION

Remembering 9-11

Three years later, Americans wrestled between paying tribute and everyday life. While memorial crowds were smaller, the grief remained powerfully strong. 12A, 1B

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

MICHAEL AINSWORTH/Staff Photographer

Texas	22
Arkansas	20
TCU	44
SMU	0
New Mexico	27
Texas Tech	24
Texas A&M	31
Wyoming	0
Notre Dame	28
Michigan	20

Complete coverage begins on Page 1CC

ELECTIONS '04

More questions on Guard documents

A former Texas Air National Guard general relied upon by CBS News says he does not believe memos on President Bush are authentic. 6A

INDEX

SECTION A
Texas	4-5
Elections	6-8, 10-11
Nation	13-15
World	23-24, 26, 28-29
World Part II	31-33
SECTION B - Metro
Lottery	2
Obituaries	6-7
Overnight	9
SECTION C - SportsDay
NFL	11-15
SECTION CC - SportsDay II
SECTION D - Business
Market Week	9
SECTION E - Texas Living
High Profile	2
Puzzles	6
Horoscope	7
Vows	8-9
SECTION F - Classified
SECTION G - Arts Sunday
Movies	2-4
Books	10-12
SECTION H - Sunday Reader
Editorials	2
Letters	2-3
SECTION I - Travel
SECTION J - Employment
SECTION L - Homes
SECTION M - Classified/Auto
SECTION N - New Homes

©2004, The Dallas Morning News

LOUIS DeLUCA/Staff Photographer
Bill Parcells' Cowboys open the season at 3:15 p.m. today.

For Parcells, the rush is back

By JEAN-JACQUES TAYLOR
Staff Writer

IRVING — It's been more than 40 years since Dallas Cowboys coach Bill Parcells stood on the sideline at River Dell (N.J.) High School and experienced the adrenaline rush that accompanies the start of football season.

Mr. Parcells said the feeling has never changed.

It's that combination of excitement, anticipation and euphoria that brought Mr. Parcells out of re-irement last year to coach the Cowboys, and it's that feeling he'll have at 3:15 p.m. today, when the Cowboys open the 2004 season against Minnesota.

"What's gonna happen? That's what you want to know," Mr. Parcells said. "That's what you can't wait to see. I'm already thinking about, well, here we are in our first series against Minnesota ... are we going to be moving it? What are they playing on defense? Your mind just races through all those things."

Mr. Parcells led the Cowboys to a 10-6 record and a playoff appearance in his first season. In each of Mr. Parcells' three previous pro head coaching jobs, his teams have improved significantly in his second season.

He makes no predictions for this season. Mr. Parcells simply wants the Cowboys to play to their potential as he perceives it. If they do that, he will be satisfied.

The journey starts today.

SPORTSDAY

Special four-page Cowboys pullout section. 11-14C

■ How the Cowboys let Randy Moss get away. 1C

■ Cowlishaw column: The Cowboys should keep improving under Parcells. 1C

■ At 40, Testaverde is ready to show he's a winner. 11C

RUNAWAY PRIESTS HIDING IN PLAIN SIGHT

In the Shadow of the Vatican

Photos by MONA REEDER/Staff Photographer

The dome of St. Peter's Basilica is recognized by most of the world as the symbol of the Catholic Church. It is also an everyday sight for several priests convicted or accused of molestation who live and work in comfort in Rome.

Accused clerics serving in Rome, heart of the Catholic Church

One in an occasional series

By REESE DUNKLIN
Staff Writer

ROME — Pope John Paul II summoned U.S. cardinals to the Vatican two years ago, at the height of the church's sex abuse crisis, and made a stirring pronouncement.

"People need to know," he stressed to them, "that there is no place in the priesthood and religious life for those who would harm the young."

Yet today, one block from the Vatican, a fugitive priest lives in a church building with rooftop views of St. Peter's Basilica and the pope's apartment. The Rev. Joseph Henn's superiors have let him stay with them, even though they say he has refused their instructions to go back to Phoenix and face charges that he molested three boys.

A short cab ride north, the Rev. Barry Bossa, an ex-con and fugitive, has found similar sanctuary in a leafy neighborhood of sidewalk cafes and low-rise apartments. His religious bosses hastily moved him out of

The Rev. Joseph Henn is a U.S. fugitive wanted on 13 molestation charges. He refuses to return to Phoenix, and his order has let him stay in Rome.

Fallout from the series

After our earlier reports on accused priests' international movements:

■ Samoa deported fugitive cleric Frank Klep, whom Australia then arrested.

■ Costa Rica began investigating Bishop Angel San Casimiro, who let admitted abuser Enrique Vásquez work in the United States.

Visit DallasNews.com to read previous coverage.

See A SYMBOLIC Page 20A

Doctor's dueling personas

Troubled physician an enigma even to those who know her best

By MICHAEL E. YOUNG and LAURIE FOX
Staff Writers

Dr. Elizabeth Rohr lives a life of contradictions.

A physician esteemed by her patients for her tender care, she's now in jail for abusing the horses she collected the way a kid might acquire baseball cards. More charges are pending.

A doting and loving mother, she would leave her children in Southlake in the care of others for a week or more at a time to work emergency room shifts in South Texas. She was indicted last week on charges of fleeing toward Mexico with her five youngest rather than turning them over to their father, her ex-husband, with whom she's waged a bitter custody fight.

Dr. Rohr, serving a one-year sentence at the Denton County Jail on a Wise County conviction for animal cruelty and probation violation, declined repeated requests

See TROUBLED Page 2A

Some want Austin's entertainment district to clean up its act

Street fight

By KAREN BROOKS
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Beer and vodka-laden Jell-O soak into the cracked cobblestones of Sixth Street every weekend, the detritus of more than 30,000 partiers — mostly college kids — who weave in and out of the nightclubs and shot bars that line the legendary street.

Among the nation's most famous bar districts, Sixth Street is the place where a rock band was once arrested for forming an outside conga line after bedtime on a school night and where Jenna Bush was busted for underage drinking at a bar called Cheers — A Shot Bar.

It's a place that some of the grownups in town want to make shinier and a bit better behaved. A powerful group of property owners and developers has set its sights on revamping Sixth Street into a money-making, round-the-clock tourist attraction.

The effort has many Austin residents concerned about the future

See SIXTH Page 18A

