Woman barred from church or meeting priests

By Mike Konon

Tribune Staff Writer

A San Diego woman today was ordered to stay at least 75 yards away from St. Joseph's Cathedral and two of its priests.

Superior Court Judge J. Perry Langford issued the order preventing REDA from attending any services at the downtown church, posting notices on the property or harassing the priests, the Rev. Rudolph Galindo and the Rev. Joseph Sum.

"I have no authority to deal with organized religion, but I do have authority to deal with pieces of real property. I feel the refusal to allow RED to worship on that particular property is not error," Langford said.

"If I was issuing an order preventing a Moslem from visiting Mecca, or preventing a Jew from visiting the western wall (in Jerusalem), I don't think it would be valid," Langford said. "If in dealing with St. Joseph's we were dealing with a basilica, it might be different. But one can be a Catholic without ever going into St. Joseph's Cathedral."

Langford's order prevents RED from going within 75 yards of the block bounded by Third and Fourth Avenues and Cedar and Beech Streets, harassing and annoying Rev. Galindo or Rev. Sum, telephoning the priests or writing letters to them.

According to C. Joan Scimeca, attorney for the priests and the St. Joseph's Parish Council, harassment of Rev. Galindo by Do has lasted nearly

"She doesn't have the right to post notices on the doors and statues of St. Joseph's," Scimeca replied.

RE attorney, Michael J. Wagner, said that Do had a right to warn other women and that she did believe the seduction took place.

"She has the right to attend the church," Wagner argued. "I don't know how big the church is, but she could worship from the back of the church."

"She does interfere with our services. She has many other churches she can attend," Scimeca said.

According to the court documents RE has posted on church doors handwritten or typed notices referring to Rev. Galindo as "a crook of monies and love" and accusing him of "seducing women to love and give him monies."

"She told me in November that if Rev. Galindo paid her mortgage, she would not ask him for the full $100,000. If he didn't, she would do this," Scimeca said.

Langford's order will prevent R from attending the central area cathedral for at least three years.

Dear Msgr. Callahan:

During the time that Father Rudolph Galindo was a resident at REDACTE in San Antonio, he shared a bank account with Father Peter Vergauwen, a priest of our Diocese, who was also a resident there. REDACTED passed away September 15, 2003. According to the officials at Compass Bank, Father Galindo enjoys survivorship on the account.

Would you please be so kind as to forward the enclosed letter to Father Galindo? I am grateful for your assistance in this matter.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Msgr. Larry J. Droll, Chancellor and Independent Executor of the Estate of Rev. Peter Vergauwen

REDACTED

Fr. Steve,
Msgr. Galindo called this morning. He said that there was an opening at REDACTED that the Sisters would only be able to hold for two days. He wants to start driving there today.
He spoke with Paul the director at the facility where he is now and the director would like a letter faxed to him from the Diocese letting them know that the diocese approved the move. Their fax number is 636-274-5226.
The address and phone number of the place in San Antonio is:
REDACTED

His new address will be the same as above, but Box 62 added above the address. Msgr. Galindo's phone number this morning is REDACTED but he is planning on leaving soon, since he said it takes about 16 hours to drive to San Antonio.
