

Catholic Alumni Clubs Slate Conference

Catholic Alumni Clubs of the Pacific Northwest will meet at the Washington Athletic Club this week end for a quarterly regional conference, today announced James T. Hughes, regional vice president of the National Association of Catholic Alumni Clubs.

James Krebsbach, Spokane, will be installed as the new vice president of the region, succeeding Hughes, a member of St. Joseph's parish and a graduate of Seattle U. Krebsbach is a graduate of Washington State University. Other regional officers also will be chosen at the two-day meeting, which will be held Saturday and Sunday.

Dan Wolf, Seattle, will give a report on the recent national convention of the NACAC, which was held last week at French Lick, Indiana.

Officers will be installed at a banquet Saturday evening at the WAC beginning at 6:30 pm.

Howard Bosanko, a member of St. James Cathedral, is in charge of all arrangements for the conference and banquet.

Father Engelbert Axer, SJ of Seattle U., is chaplain of the region, which has clubs in Seattle, Portland and Spokane.

The Catholic Alumni Club Association is a national organization of clubs in major cities throughout the nation for single, Catholic graduates of colleges and universities between the ages of 21 and 35 years.
