

List of Perpetrators

NON-MONETARY UNDERTAKINGS OF THE FAIRBANKS DIOCESE UNDER THE THIRD PLAN OF REORGANIZATION

Updated as of November 16, 2020

List of Admitted, Proven, or Credibly Accused Perpetrators of Sexual Abuse

As agreed to in the Third Plan of Reorganization, the Fairbanks Diocese is posting the names of all known individuals, including priests, religious, lay employees and volunteers whom a complaint of sexual abuse has been filed by one or more individuals. Those listed include Admitted, Proven, or Credibly Accused Perpetrators of Sexual Abuse.

As noted above, the Diocese of Fairbanks agreed as part of its bankruptcy to post on its website for a period of ten years (starting on March 19, 2010) a list of names of known perpetrators. However, the Diocese did not remove the list from the website when the ten years expired. By keeping the list posted, the Diocese sought to continue its efforts to healing and reconciliation, and to prevent sexual abuse from occurring in the Diocese in the future.

Instead of taking the list off the website, the Diocese engaged in a thorough review of its files to determine if any additional names should be added to the list of Admitted, Proven, or Credibly Accused Perpetrators. The Diocese hired Dr. Kathleen McChesney and her firm, Kinsale Management Consulting, to conduct an independent review of Diocesan files. The purpose of the review was to identify clergy and religious men and women who served, or were known to have resided, in the Diocese of Fairbanks and for whom allegations of sexual abuse of minors or vulnerable adults were admitted, established or determined to be credible.

The names of those individuals identified in Dr. McChesney's review were then provided to the Diocesan Review Board who recommended which names should be added to the list. Bishop Chad Zielinski approved all names recommended by the Review Board and they appear in this new listing and are annotated by an asterisk.
