

WELCOMED TO BEAUFORT

Father Creston J. Tawes, new curate at St. Peter's Catholic Church, was welcomed to the city Sunday at a reception held in the Pius the X Religious Center.

St. Peter's Curate Welcomed Here During Reception

Parishioners of St. Peter's Catholic Church welcomed their new curate, Father Creston J. Tawes, to Beaufort Sunday with a reception at the Pius the X Religious Center.

Father Tawes bestowed his First Blessing upon each guest as they were presented to him by the pastor, the Rev. Ronald P. Anderson.

Among the honored guests were the new curate's parents and sisters, and the Rev. John A. Simonin.

Members of the Altar Society and the Sodality presided over a beautifully appointed refreshment table.

A native of Charleston, Father Tawes was ordained in that city on May 16, 1959. He is a graduate of St. Charles College, Catonsville, Md., and was educated for the priesthood at St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, Md.

His early education was received in Charleston, where he attended Sacred Heart Parochial School and Bishop England High School.
