

Assistant Pastors Named At Hyde Park, Beacon Churches

The Rev. Raymond P. Hill has been appointed an assistant pastor at the Regina Coeli church, Hyde Park and the Rev. Robert J. Carden has been named an assistant at the Church of St. John the Evangelist, Beacon. It has been made known by Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York of the Catholic church.

Father Hill began his new duties at the Hyde Park church, Sunday, and Father Carden will arrive at the Beacon church Thursday and will assist with the Masses at the church on Sunday.

FATHER HILL, who was ordained last June, has been serving for the summer at the Church of St. Aloysius, Livingston Manor. His home is in the Bronx. At the Hyde Park church, he succeeds the Rev. Edward A. McKaharay, who has been there the last three years, formerly serving in Amenia. He has been transferred to the Church of St. Thomas the Apostle, Manhattan.

Father Carden, a resident of the Bronx, is included in 15 newly ordained priests of the Archdiocese of New York, who recently returned to this country after three months of study in Puerto Rico. He was ordained last June.

Father Carden succeeds the Rev. Peter Raich, who has been transferred to the Church of Sts. John and Paul at Larchmont. He has served the Beacon church the last three years and formerly was in Dover Plains.

The Rev. Francis J. Briedenbach also has been transferred from chaplain at the Harlem Valley State hospital, Wingdale, to the faculty of Ladycliff college, Highland Falls.
